Petition drive in the works to repeal city address change

by L. Scott Swanson

A group of people unhappy with the proposed new numbering system for addresses in the City of Charlevoix are working toward a petition drive which would put the matter before city voters. Last week, a group of petitioners submitted a petition request to the city clerk's office and then later withdrew it and are now revising it.

The affidavit of petitioners originally was submitted on behalf of Kenneth Wright, Margaret E. Wilson, Susan LeButt, Mary Eveleigh and Perry Smith. LeButt and Eveleigh later dropped from the list and petitioners pulled the affidavit and are revising it.

Colleen Wright, Kenneth Wright's wife, and Smith said that although the affidavit has currently been withdrawn, the effort is not dead, it's simply on hold and being revised.

The affidavit seeks to require that any city address change program that is implemented after Jan. 1, 1996 and involves more than 25 percent of the properties in Charlevoix be approved at an election by city voters.

In November, the city council approved a proposal by city police chief Dennis Halverson that would change the addresses of virtually every building within the city. The new system, which Halverson maintains will make homes and businesses easier to locate in emergency situations, would have buildings numbered on a 0-50-90 system within blocks. A home numbered 300 would be the first house on the 300 block. A home numbered 350 would be in the middle of the 300 block. A home numbered 390 would be the last house on the 300 block. Under the present system, houses are numbered on a 0-2-4 system within blocks. In other words, the first house on the 300 block is number 300, the next house is 302, the next is 304.

If the affidavit is resubmitted and approved, the city clerk in conjunction with the city attorney will draft language for the ballot issue. The petitioners would then circulate petitions in an attempt to get the signatures of 200 registered city voters. If the petition drive is successful, the issue will be put on a ballot at an election sometime within the next year.

Colleen Wright said the group has been working with an attorney and she doesn't feel it will be difficult to get the signatures of 200 people.

Smith said he feels the issue should come to the people for a vote. He said he just can't see why the entire address system for the city has to be changed when there are many streets where there currently are no problems.

The early snow this winter may have caused problems elsewhere, but it's been a blessing for Mount McSauba and local skiers. Many skiers took advantage of extended hours at Mount McSauba last week. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

County still looking to hire a new equalization director

By Laurie Lounsbury

Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners Chairman Don Smith tried to wrap up 1995 so that no loose ends of county business would drag into 1996. But he just couldn't do it.

There was one piece of unfinished business that the commissioners had to carry over into the new year. They still haven't hired a new director for the equalization department. "I'm really disappointed that they haven't made a determination yet," said Carla Spencer, interim director.

On June 1 of 1995, former director Joan Blanchard retired from the equalization director position. Former assistant director Spencer stepped in as interim director while the commissioners posted the job. That was half a year ago.

"It just kind of fell through the cracks," said commissioner Richie Gillespie, explaining why the job hasn't been filled yet. Gillespie, who serves on the building and grounds committee, is waiting to interview Spencer along with a few other applicants.

The personnel committee already interviewed Spencer and several other candidates. Their recommendation is to hire Spencer. Commission chairman Don Smith, who serves on the personnel committee, tried to resolve the hiring issue Dec. 27 at the last commissioner meeting of the year. "This has taken way too long," Smith said. A straw poll showed that Smith, Carl Price, and Howard Hosler supported Spencer for the job, with Jim Behling supporting another candidate. Gillespie and Phil Johnson want the county board to interview all the candidates, including Spencer.

Johnson and Gillespie, representing the building and grounds committee, asked to interview the candidates because computer needs are going to be an issue with the position. Gillespie is pushing hard to get all county departments working on the new IBM AS 400 mainframe computer. Several departments, including equalization, maintain that the AS 400 can't perform functions they need. "The AS 400 can't do graphics. It can't show a bar graph," Spencer said. "I just don't want the county to take a giant step backwards with computers."

The building and grounds committee is planning to interview four candidates at their Jan. 4 meeting. "We'll have a decision by January 10," Johnson said.

In other business, the commissioners approved the 1996 budget, which has an increase of 6.4 percent over the 1995 budget. The biggest increase came from 911 operating costs, at $165,000. The county commissioners agreed to have the county fund 911 operational costs for the first two years. Then a public vote will determine how 911 will be funded. The cost burden will probably revert to the taxpayers.

The fiscal year of 1995 ended with a few deficits for the county. The jail had a $30,000 deficit, mostly because it was fully booked the entire year. Jail employee

1995: The year in review

by L. Scott Swanson

We'll not gush over it or whine about it. We'll simply take a brief look back at some of the events that made Charlevoix what it was in 1995. And just to make things interesting, this year in conjunction with our look back at 1995 we decided to at the same tlme to take a look back at 1975. It's interesting to see how many things have changed in 20 years and also how many things haven't really changed that much.

January 1995

The Charlevoix City Council debated when to and when not to take bids on purchasing services and goods. After reviewing the current policy, council members determined that it contains appropriate checks and balances.

At the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce's annual meeting, Dr. Gilbert Saltonstall was named Citizen of the Year. Saltonstall, who died later in the year, was something of a medical pioneer in Charlevoix and was instrumental in the development of Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Others honored at the Chamber meeting included: Mary Helen Riggle, Ambassador to the Year; and Edith Gilbert, President's Award.

linking Charlevoix and East Jordan. The objective of the effort is to ultimately link Charlevoix with the Jordan Valley snowmobile trail system and bring snowmobilers to Charlevoix and increase winter tourist revenue.

A public meeting was called to determine whether or not Club 77, now the Charlevoix Teen Center, had a future. The gathering place for Charlevoix teens was short of revenue and direction and near closing. Later in 1995, the program got back on its feet financially, hired a new director and currently is much more stable.

A strange murder trial took place in Charlevoix Circuit Court. Daniel Puroll, 29, of Boyne City was found guilty of killing 81-year-old Clark Lee Washburn of East Jordan. Puroll was sentenced to 27-50 years in prison.

Many Charlevoix people began logging on to the information superhighway. Using computers and modems, Charlevoix people began linking up to either private computer networks or to the Internet.

January 1975

The city council approved to the establishment of a housing commission, a decision that eventually led to the construction of the Pine River Place senior citizen housing complex on West Garfield.

E.D. Pat Hawley retired after 36 years with the Charlevoix County State Bank.

The Economic Development Authority chose not to back a study which might have led to putting a bridge across Lake Charlevoix near Ironton.

A big wind storm knocked down trees throughout town as well as a sign at the Village Milkhouse and blew out a large window at the Dahlquist Variety Store.

Area farmers said milk contaminated by PBB was being sold in Michigan.

The city council discussed establishing a city charter commission.

The possibility of the City of Charlevoix and Charlevoix Township merging was discussed.

February 1995

The Department of Natural Resources hosted a series of meetings throughout the state to discuss deer baiting. Feeding deer has become a fairly large business in the state of Michigan. After the hearings, the DNR decided to continue to allow the practice.

Ray Wood was one of several senior citizens who kept busy during the winter of 1995 by bowling in the senior citizens' bowling league.

In early January 1995, it was so warm that Rosie Radle and other young people were still out rollerblading.

While educational finance reform may have cut property taxes in exchange for higher sales taxes, a side effect was the addition of several new property tax terms. As if terms like "millage" and "SEV" weren't complicated enough, finance reform added terms like "Tentative Taxable Value" a.k.a. "TTV," and "foundation grants" and "enhancement millage."

Charlevoix, like other school systems, declared themselves reform minded and hired a consultant to work with the school system to improve school quality.

The 1995 Mount McSauba Snow Challenge took place on one of the bitterest, coldest weekends of the winter. Despite the harsh weather, a good crowd of people turned out for the competitions and the fireworks.

After a rope was strung across Bridge Park to show where the sight-line would actually be when the proposed Bridge Park building was completed, the Downtown Development Authority worked with engineers to lower the building and improve the sight line.

Liz Grunch and Jerry Duhart were crowned 1995 Winter Homecoming queen and king at Charlevoix High School.

Kami Boyer placed first in the girls' slalom and giant slalom races and Robbie Bunting placed first in the boys' giant slalom at the high school conference ski race.

The city council voted to pursue a federal transportation grant to fund the purchase and demolition of the Parkside building to create additional park space.

February 1975

Longtime high school band director Clarence Odmark retired.

A television public broadcast station was proposed for northern Michigan.

Harold Thomure was crowned king, Lois McLaughlin queen, Debbie Holiday princess and Bob Shores prince at the Charlevoix Winter Mardi Gras celebration.

Charlevoix schools considered lay-offs in the face of financial difficulties.

Charlevoix City Police arrested a 17-year-old in connection with the armed robbery of a 90-year-old Charlevoix man. The youth was convicted of entering the elderly man's home and holding a knife to his throat. The man gave the robber his billfold which contained $6.

The Charlevoix High School varsity volleyball team rallied from a 14-10 deficit in the final game to beat Elk Rapids and win the 1995 District Volleyball championship.

Consumers Power Company discussed their decommissioning plan for the Big Rock Point nuclear power plant.

The city council began reviewing a proposed $12.1 million city budget. The council initially rejected the proposed budget, but later accepted it at a special meeting.

By a vote of 871 to 584, Charlevoix school district voters rejected a school request for $2.1 million over three years to fund facility repairs and technology purchases.

For the last edition of the Charlevoix Courier prior to April 1, the Courier's crack investigative reporting team uncovered a story of a huge, city-wide party involving everyone who doesn't leave town and go somewhere warm during spring

OPINIONS

Editor's notes

Some things you might be seeing in 1996

While much of the rest of this week's Courier looks back at 1995, here we'd like to take a look ahead to 1996. Given that we have no clairvoyants on the Courier staff, the best we can do is speculate. The following items aren't offered as anything definite. They're just a few things that should be fun to keep an eye on in the coming year.

In city politics the proposed address change and numbering system is almost certainly going to be one of the hotter items of discussion for at least the next few months. Currently, a group of people is attempting to get together a petition drive to put the matter to a vote of the people. If the matter goes to an election, unless something changes between now and that election, the bet here is that people turn down the new system. That bet is based not on the number of calls and letters we're getting at the Courier office, but on the wide range of people those calls and letters are coming from. Complaints about the proposed change aren't coming from just the people who usually complain about changes. Our office is getting calls from people who usually go along with almost whatever changes are proposed by city hall.

Some city construction projects which will be interesting to watch in 1996 are the Bridge Park project, softball field project and Park Avenue parking lot.

The Bridge Park project is scheduled to be pretty much completed by early summer. Given terrible construction conditions we had this past fall and early winter, completing the project on time is going to be a challenge. Whether the general populace of Charlevoix likes the project when it's completed remains to be seen. When it's completed, the people who supported it all along are going to say it's the best thing since sliced bread while the people who opposed it are going to say it wasn't worth the money. A lot of people are undecided and will make up their minds once they see the finished product. One aspect of the project which almost everyone will grow to like is the underbridge walkway on the south side. That's going to make crossing the street on that side of the bridge much more convenient and make a stroll along the harbor and out onto the south pier much more inviting.

Even though it's geographically several blocks removed, the softball field renovation has been in the shadow of the Bridge Park project. In a way, that's too bad. It's a nice project. It's been well thought out and hundreds of people will enjoy the new complex once it's completed.

Early in 1995 the DDA purchased a piece of property on Park Avenue. Their intention is to build a parking lot there. One of the key questions they face is whether to tear down a house on the site and use the whole lot for parking or to leave the house and build a smaller parking lot. There are people who feel strongly both ways. It should be an interesting debate.

Another issue which should resurface soon at city council meetings is what to do about the downtown traffic flow. Early in 1995, the city asked the Michigan Department of Transportation to study traffic flows and consider the possibility of making portions of Bridge and State Streets one-way streets. The report from MDOT was supposed to come back in November of 1995, but the subject hasn't come up in recent council meetings. Some time in 1996, it probably will be discussed.

The Charlevoix school system will continue to face challenges in adopting to school finance reform. The new finance system places more control of the purse strings in the hands of the state. And it's always tough to figure out what the folks in Lansing are going to do next.

Charlevoix schools will also continue to discuss replacement of the old middle school building. Don't be surprised to see that debate get lively. The school board and administration has probably created a headache for themselves. A facility committee made up of school personnel and citizens (And yes, the writer of this editorial was one of those citizens.) met for about two years and came up with a proposal to build a new grade 6-8 middle school to replace the current middle school. That proposal went to the school board and instead of taking that to the voters, the school board now has put that proposal and two others up for discussion. The other two proposals are building a new 5-8 middle school or building a new high school and making the current high school a 5-8 middle school. Incidentally, both of the other proposals were discussed by the committee before they settled on the proposed new 6-8 middle school. Now the school's trying to form another committee to choose between the three proposals and then whatever proposal they come up with will go to the voters.

Aside from which proposal makes more sense, the tactical error the board and administration may have committed by putting three proposals on the table, rather than just running with one and seeing if it flew, is they've now given everybody an opportunity to pick up sides and argue for a long time. That's something this community is prone to do anyway, even without encouragement.

Over at the county building, the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners will probably continue to be Charlevoix's least efficient unit of local government. Perhaps that will change if a county administrator is hired. Don't count on that happening, but it is likely to be discussed again in 1996.

Two construction projects that the county should be wrapping up in 1996 will be the county building renovation and the construction of a parking lot on Mason Street.

Regarding Charlevoix's business environment, the city of Charlevoix's industrial park is essentially full. For the first half of the decade, that's been one of the biggest economic success stories in this community. The city is now looking for additional industrial park property. The purchase of that property is going to play an important role in continued success in bringing added industry and jobs to Charlevoix.

These are just a few things to watch for in Charlevoix. No doubt, they won't be the only things to happen. A town as contentious and active as Charlevoix is bound to be a bit unpredictable. But that's part of the fun.

Rev. Emerson M. Fredrick

The Rev. Emerson M. Fredrick, retired minister of the United Brethren in Christ Church, 87, of Charlevoix, died Dec. 26, 1995, at Northern Michigan Hospital.

His funeral was Friday, Dec. 29, at the Community Church of God in Charlevoix. The Rev. Bruce Hamilton officiated, assisted by pastor Bruce Strine, of the Banner United Brethren at Byron Center, and grandson of the deceased. Burial will be in Brookside Cemetery in Charlevoix.

He was born Sept. 26, 1908, at Liberty Center, Ohio, the son of Daniel and Eugenia (Clapp) Fredrick. His father was a minister and the family moved a great deal during his childhood. He attended several schools and at age 16, he committed to the ministry with his father. He spent a few years leading singing for revivals and then became a full-time minister.

He attended Huntington College in Huntington, Ind. and later graduated from the former Tri-State Bible Institute of Hillsdale. He joined the annual conference of the North Ohio Conference in 1932, now named Michindoh Conference.

On Dec. 26, 1930, he married Grace Rhoades. She preceded him in death. On Sept. 4, 1952, he married Madelene Jensen.

He was ordained in 1939, serving pastorates in Indiana and Michigan for 41 years. His last pastorate was in Montgomery, Mich. where he retired after 11 years of service. He moved to Charlevoix in 1976.

Survivors include his wife, Madelene; a son, the Rev. Donol Paul Fredrick and his wife, Shirley, of Dayton, Ohio; a daughter, Phyllis Strine and her husband, the Rev. Franklin Strine of Markle, Ind.; three step-sons, Robert Jensen and his wife, Shelda, of Osceola, Ind., Larry Lee Jensen and his wife, Carol, of Lakeville, Ind. and James R. Jensen and his wife, Barbara, of Charlevoix; 14 grandchildren; 22 great-grandchildren; three sisters, Mrs. Frank (Lovelle) Kartje of Milan, Mrs. Mary Sayler of Berlin Heights, Ohio and Mrs. Orville (Isabelle) Pursel of Archbold, Ohio; and many friends.

Memorial contributions may be made to the church mission board of choice. Envelopes will be available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

John M. Hallahan

John M. Hallahan, 80, of Beaver Island, formerly of Chicago, Ill., died Dec. 24, 1995, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

A memorial service will be announced at a later date. Interment will be in Holy Cross Cemetery, Beaver Island. Funeral arrangements were handled by Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Mr. Hallahan was born on March 28, 1915, in Chicago, Ill., the son of James D. and Frances (O'Mara) Hallahan. He was raised in Chicago and graduated from St. Francis De Sales High School in Chicago. He lived in Chicago until 1955 and moved to LaGrange, Ill. from 1955 to 1980. He moved to Beaver Island in 1980 and had lived there ever since.

On Dec. 7, 1937, he married Ruth Scheunemann in Valpariso, Ind. He worked for U.S.S. Corporation on steam boats on the Great Lakes from 1932 to 1945, was a port captain of Chicago Towing Co. from 1955 to 1963, and was captain for the Great Lakes Towing Co. from 1963 to 1980.

He invented carbon lubricators for wheel flanges on locomotives for his own company White Hall Co. in Chicago, Ill. He contracted to Grand Trunk Railroad from 1948 to 1952.

He made the first attempt on the Illinois River at hauling oil by barge using the river and barge canal systems in Chicago.

He is survived by his wife, Ruth; two daughters, Eileen Perry and her husband, Ron, of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Jacquelyn Martin and her husband, Ernie, of Beaver Island; a son, John C. Hallahan and his wife, Sandra, of Beaver Island; four grandchildren, three great-grandchildren, and a brother, Cornelius Hallahan of Chicago, Ill.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Diabetes Association.

Velma A. Weeden

Velma A. Weeden, 77, of Charlevoix, died Dec. 28, 1995, at Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey.

Funeral was held at 3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 31, at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Larry Grooters of the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix officiated. Burial took place in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mrs. Weeden was born Feb. 18, 1918, in Charlevoix, the daughter of Floyd and Tillie (Painter) Rice. She was raised in Charlevoix.

On March 30, 1936, she married Ira Weeden, and the couple moved to the Detroit area in the early 1940s.

He preceded her in death on Nov. 17, 1976.

In 1979, Mrs. Weeden moved back to Charlevoix where she had lived since.

She was a member of the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix, and enjoyed crocheting.

Survivors include a daughter, Irene Miller and her husband, James A., of Macomb Township; a son, John Weeden and his wife, Mildred, of Sterling Heights; six grandchildren; one great-grandchild; a brother, Emerson Rice and his wife, Sylvia, of Clawson; and a special friend, Otto "Mike" Yemmans, of Charlevoix.

Arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Word from Coast Guard brass in 1995 was that the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Acacia will remain stationed in Charlevoix, at least for the next few years.

BUSINESS

A review of Charlevoix County's 1995 operations

By Laurie Lounsbury

Like football players at the Rose Bowl, the county commissioners started the 1995 new year with a quarterback sneak. Open meetings set aside, the commissioners passed a letter around to sign among themselves, asking for the resignation of road commissioner Bob Herrmann. Board chairman Don Smith gathered the signatures and delivered the letter to Herrmann.

Herrmann chose to play hard ball, refusing to resign from his position of road commissioner.

It took an official hearing to get Herrmann ousted from his position, which occurred at the end of February. Herrmann was booted from office based on charges, which he disputed, that he used road commission equipment and employees to install a private culvert.

But the problems ran deeper than that. Road commission employees were displeased with road manager Larry Hamlin. Herrmann was Hamlin's strongest supporter on the road board. After Herrmann was ousted, the county commissioners appointed Bill Korthase to serve the rest of Herrmann's term. In May, county road manager Larry Hamlin resigned under pressure. But he received a nice parting gift, a $30,682 severance package. Fred Welch was appointed to the position of road manager.

It was the winter of their discontent at the county building during the first few months of 1995. County employees had voted for a worker's union the year before, but were still working without a contract 13 months later. In April, county workers re-voted on joining a union, and this time the union went down in defeat after 16 months of bargaining.

Castle Farms started working to qualify for a DNR grant. Their first step was to get the support of Marion Township. But it was too little, too late. The township and the castle missed the deadline for the DNR grant application.

In May, long-time District Court Judge Harvey Varnum retired. Varnum died shortly after his retirement.

A county wage and position study by Plante and Moran was completed in May. The study showed that Charlevoix county is the only county in 11 northern counties to pay retirement benefits to former county commissioners. Four former commissioners receive benefits worth $6,000 a year. The Plante Moran study also showed Charlevoix wages were generally a little lower than other counties, significantly lower for certain jobs. The Plante Moran consultant also recommended the county consider getting a county manager. The consultant, Jim Shrier, noted that there was a communications problem between workers and the commissioners and that a manager of some sort could help with the communication problem.

Equalization Director Joan Blanchard retired in June 1, after 30 years of service to the county. Carla Spencer was appointed as interim director.

On June 24, Castle Farms missed their deadline to make a payment of $229,000 to the Riebel Family trust.

The massive courthouse renovation and addition project started on July 19.

In early August, former prosecutor Richard May was appointed to serve out the rest of Harvey Varnum's term as district judge. Former assistant prosecutor Mary Beth Kur moved up to the position of prosecutor.

In September, the Reibel Family Trust got a judgement of possession against the Castle Farms Inc. The castle supporters were given three months to come up with the full amount due, nearly one million dollars, to redeem the castle.

In October, with $7 million excess dollars in a delinquent tax fund, the county commissioners voted to raise taxes by 5.6 percent.

While other county workers voted against their decision to form a union, the court workers chose to join a union.

On Dec. 18, Castle Farms Incorporated missed their last chance to purchase the property from the Reibels.

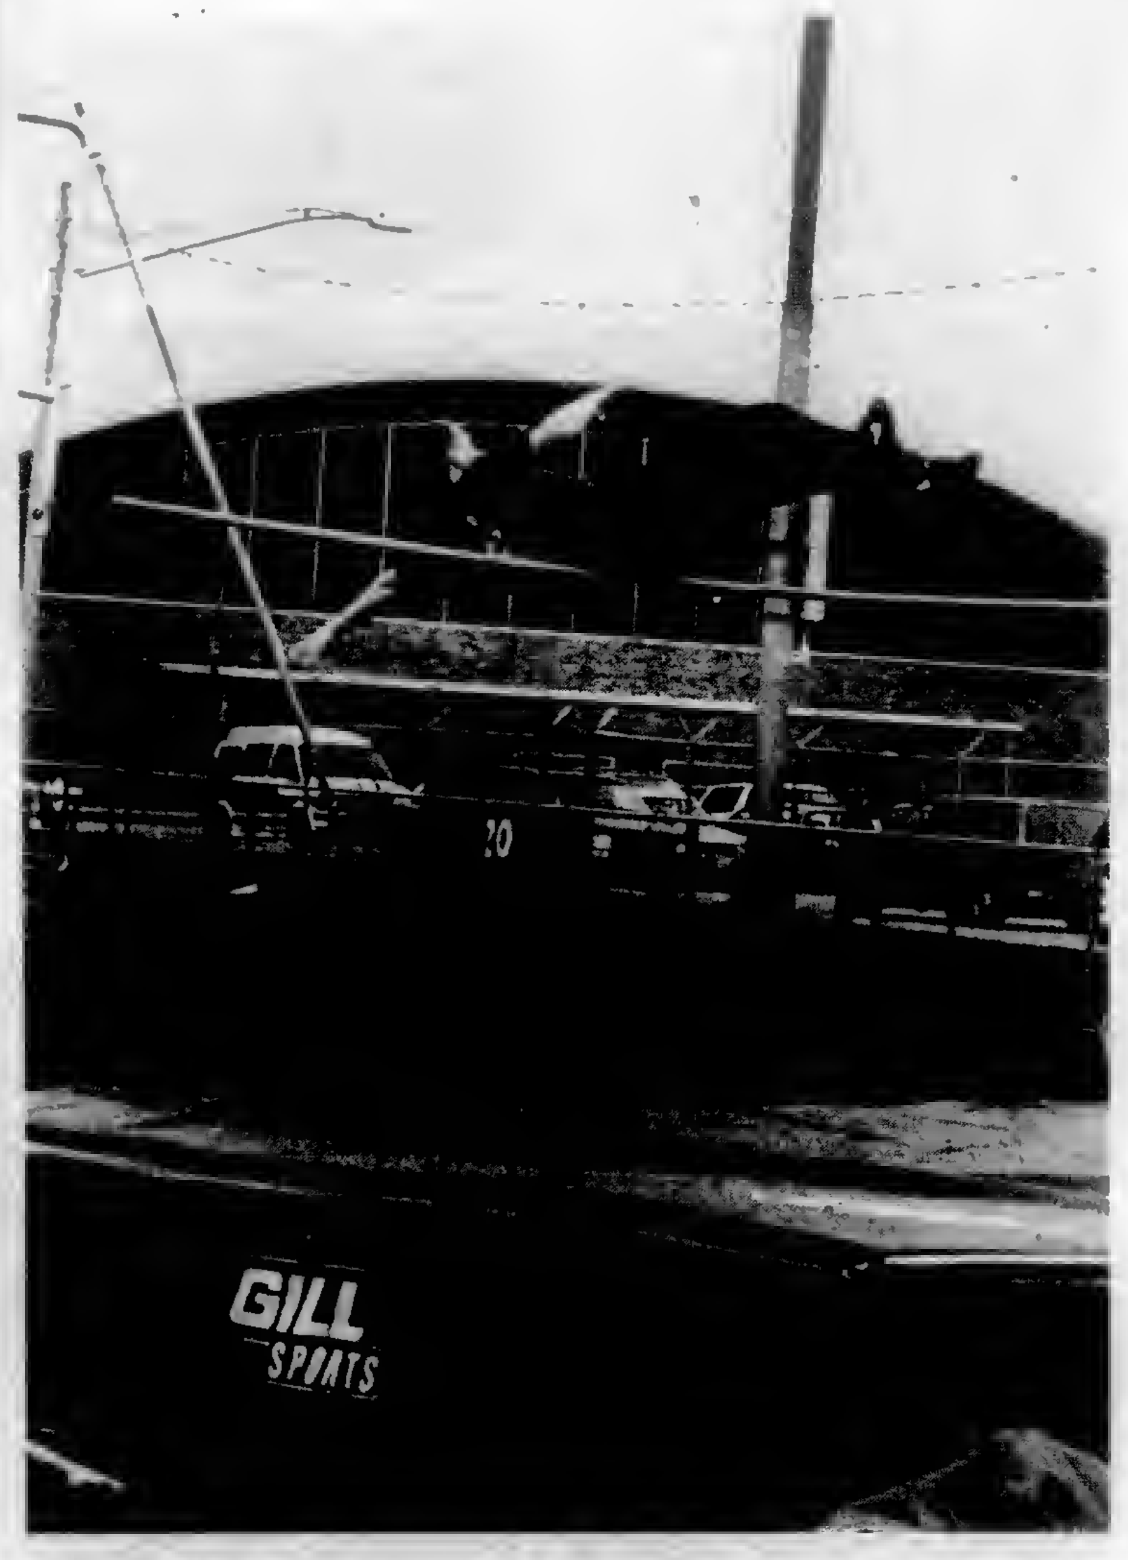
1995: A good year for sports in Charlevoix

One of Charlevoix's biggest sports stories of 1995 was the success of the Charlevoix High School girls' cross country team. The team, which has no seniors, placed second at both the regional and state meets. The team was also named Academic All State as all seven members have grade point averages of 3.6 or higher on a 4-point scale. Team members are: (front from left) Rachel Newcomb, Kelly McFarlin, Tricia Hodge, (back row) Monica Browe, Chelsea Gorkiewicz, Candice Vandergriff and Jessa VanGuilder.

These young softball players appeared to be plotting some secret strategy on the field during the summer of 1995.

Charlevoix's varsity girls' basketball team successfully defended their conference and league titles from the previous year and upset an undefeated team ranked third in the state in the regional opener, prior to falling in the regional finals.



Middle school students got their first exposure to track and field, including some high altitude pole vaulting.

After all was said and done in city softball league play in 1995, a major renovation project began at the softball complex. The renovation is scheduled to be done by this coming spring so that players can start the season on refurbished fields.

SPORTS

Nearly 200 fourth through eighth grade girls competed in the Charlevoix winter recreation basketball program in 1995. The 1996 program begins this Saturday.

Rod Richardson of Charlevoix was one of the hunters who was selected in a lottery system for the 1995 elk hunt. He killed a 350 pound elk northeast of Atlanta, Michigan.

Try-outs scheduled for AAU

Try-outs for an AAU girls basketball team for girls ages 15 and under will take place from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m., Sunday, Jan. 7 at the Charlevoix Middle School gym. For additional information, contact Larry Potter at 547-6846.

Renumbering to be addressed again

by L. Scott Swanson

A proposal to change the address system within the City of Charlevoix continues to be controversial and will be discussed again at the Monday, Jan. 15 city council meeting.

In December, the city council decided to go forward with a plan to update street names and change the system for establishing addresses within the city of Charlevoix. Changing the system would require changing the address of virtually every business and home within the city.

Proponents of the change, including police chief Dennis Halverson and mayor Josh Barnes, argue that the change to a grid based system will bring a sense of rhyme and reason to city addresses and improve the ability of police and rescue units to quickly locate buildings in responding to emergencies.

Opponents of the change, including first ward council member Bob Timms and former mayor Ken Staley, contend that while correcting a few problem areas is all well and good, changing the entire system and the addresses of virtually everyone in the city is overkill and the headaches it will cause far outweigh the benefits.

At the Jan. 2 council meeting, council members voted to temporarily delay implementation of the plan pending a review of the system by the mayor and city staff members. Following that review, Barnes is now recommending that the council implement the program.

There are currently two petition drives which have been initiated by opponents of the renumbering plan. An advisory petition being circulated by Timms and others will be presented to the council at the Jan. 15 meeting. Timms said the purpose of the advisory petition is simply to show council members that opposition to the plan is not coming just from a few people, but is widespread. Timms said he thinks the number of names on the advisory petition will be in the hundreds and would be higher, if several people who oppose the plan weren't out of town for the winter.

A second petition is not yet being circulated, but is in the works. A group of people including Staley and Byron Wright have filed with the city clerk an affidavit to initiate a petition drive which if successful would require the issue to be put on a ballot in a city election. The affidavit requests that any system which changes more than 25 percent of city addresses be approved by a vote of the people.

In a press release issued Sunday, Barnes argues that allegations that Charlevoix is moving into uncharted ground with the new system are false. Other cities renumbering during the past several decades have used systems similar to the one proposed and not a 2, 4, 6, 8, system such as the one currently in place in Charlevoix. Opponents argue that no other communities in northern Michigan are switching to systems similar to what is being proposed.

Responding to charges that advances in location technology make the change to a new system unnecessary, Barnes counters that just the opposite is true. In order to function effectively new technology requires the new address system.

Barnes maintains that the costs for businesses and homes to change addresses have been greatly exaggerated. There's a timetable built in to allow people to use up stationery etc. Opponents argue that requiring every home and business in town to change stationery, drivers' licenses, magazine subscriptions, insurance papers etc. is going to be a major nuisance.

Barnes also questions whether the petition for an election carries any authority since the issue being addressed is administrative rather than legislative. He says that on that question time will tell.

Bern Cannan

"I think we've got some concrete blockheads who are resisting change. If you're going to do it, (renumber) let's do it right the first time. Otherwise the city will be tinkering with it all the time."

Greg Bryan

"I can see how it has some positive aspects, but I don't know if they need to redo everything. Probably 30 years from now it will be all right."

Katrina Swanson sorts herself out of the pile-up which marked the conclusion of a sled run at the sledding hill off the side of Mount McSauba. The sledding hill is next to the entrance to North Point Beach. It's steep and a run all the way from the top isn't for the faint of heart, but there's fun to be had.

Charlevoix man joins elite Air Force pararescue unit

by L. Scott Swanson

For the past two and a-half years Josh Martin of Charlevoix has been jumping from planes, being ejected from boats underwater, climbing mountains, working with weapons and explosives and learning medical procedures. Martin recently completed training to become part of the U.S. Air Force's elite pararescue unit.

Just how elite is the unit? Out of approximately 385,000 people in the Air Force, there are only 240 in pararescue. Martin said that of every 120 Air Force entrants expressing interest in the program, only six are chosen for the initial training. Of the 120 people who began the initial training session, only 20 were chosen to continue. Of those 20, ten went into pararescue and the other ten went into a similar, but different unit. Of the ten who went into the final training, only seven ultimately made it into the pararescue unit. Martin said that during the past two and a-half years, he's only met one other person from Michigan who was in pararescue.

The pararescue training is rigorous. Martin said that in one swimming drill, trainees were passing out in the pool. Some of the other trainees who were waiting in line for their turn at the drill decided they'd seen enough and walked away. Martin stayed for the entire program.

For six months prior to entering the Air Force in September of 1993, Martin got himself ready by running, lifting weights and swimming. In basic training, he talked the physical training officer into doing extra work with him so he wouldn't get out of shape prior to beginning pararescue work.

The mission of the pararescue unit is "to rescue down and/or injured air crew members in hostile, austere, non-permissive environments." Missions can take pararescue units behind enemy lines, into the middle of the sea or up on the side of a mountain.

Martin, a 1992 Charlevoix High School graduate, says that given the potential challenges of mission, in training, even more than physical fitness, "the biggest thing they're looking for is (for trainees) not to panic."

During training, there were several opportunities to panic. Martin said the underwater things, which included being cooped up in a capsule full of water prior to being ejected below the service from a ship didn't bother him. And even when a bullet ricocheted during a training exercise and put a piece of shrapnel in the side of his head, he took that in stride - as much as possible.

The one thing that briefly left him wondering was being 12,000 feet in the air and jumping out of an airplane for the first time. He says the first time he stood in a plane looking down at clouds while preparing to jump, that kind of bothered him. But he jumped and got over his reservations.

"The first time skydiving bothered me," he said. "Now, it's just a good time."

During the past two and a-half years, Martin has trained at several military bases including: Lackland in San Antonio, Texas; Fort Benning in Columbus, Georgia; Fairchild in Spokane, Washington; the Naval Air Station in Key West, Florida; Fort Bragg in Fayetteville, North Carolina; Mirimar Naval Base in San Diego, California; and Kirtland Air Force Base in Albequrque, New Mexico.

In New Mexico he received six months of intensive medical training to become a paramedic. In addition to class work, he rode with an ambulance crew and worked in a hospital. During training, he helped deliver children and sutured wounds.

Martin officially graduated from pararescue training Dec. 20. Following a month's leave in Charlevoix, he will be stationed in Cocoa Beach, Florida. While he will be stationed in Cocoa Beach, he also anticipates being assigned to rotations of duty in places such as Saudi Arabia and Kuwait and training exercises in Norway, Ecuador and elsewhere.

In the spring, he will be marrying Elsa Conlan of Charlevoix.

Martin's Air Force recruiter was Staff Sgt. Jeff Butler out of Petoskey. Martin has maintained contact with Butler throughout his training, letting him know what he was doing all along the way. "If people want to go in, Sgt. Butler knows what's involved. He didn't mislead me. He told me exactly the way it is," Martin said.

Butler says he's proud and pleased at Martin's accomplishments. "It's just really rare for people from Michigan to make this," Butler said.

Josh Martin stands in front of one of the Air Force helicopters he trained in to become part of the Air Force pararescue unit.

Charter school plans hit snag

by Laurie Lounsbury

It came as a surprise to the charter school board that they would not receive a charter from Grand Valley State University. The Charlevoix charter school, called Northwest Academy, was rushing to open its doors on January 22. Organizers thought all systems were a go.

The staff at Grand Valley State University highly recommended Northwest Academy for charter, but the advisory board said otherwise. The advisory board at Grand Valley recommended that the university limit its charter activities to the three neighboring counties.

"It came as a big surprise to us," Gerald Chase, the academy's chairman said. "It had nothing to do with our qualifications. It was internal politics," he added.

The school is not without options. Several other universities have expressed interest in chartering the Charlevoix school. At this point, the school plans to postpone their opening until September. For funding reasons, it will benefit the school to wait until the start of a new school year and have their enrollment numbers up higher than they would be with a mid-year opening.

Natural area continues to grow

Additional 60 acres purchased

The St. Clair Lake-Six Mile Lake Natural Area continues to grow thanks to a major leadership pledge. The Little Traverse and Grand Traverse Regional Land Conservancies have purchased a critical 60-acre parcel bringing the total protected area to 145 acres.

The diverse habitats on the property have regional significance with a rare bottomland forest community straddling more than 2,000 feet of frontage on St. Clair Creek. With an additional 2,000 feet of pristine shoreline on the navigable Sinclair River, the acquisition represents a major milestone in efforts to preserve this sensitive and ecologically significant area.

With development pressures increasing, properties adjacent to the existing natural area have become a priority for protection by the two Conservancies. The groups have now acquired four separate parcels within this fragile ecosystem, including the Lawmaster, Skow Family and South Arm Township Preserves.

According to Tom Bailey, Executive Director of the Little Traverse Conservancy, "by preserving key tracts that comprise the headwaters of the Chain of Lakes system (Torch, Elk, Clam), we can help to protect the water quality of the lakes downstream and have a positive impact on the entire watershed and fishery. We are delighted to be working in partnership with the Regional conservancy on this exciting project."

Half of the funds necessary to cover the acquisition have been provided through a generous gift from Tad and Brenda Malpass of East Jordan in cooperation with the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. "The Charlevoix County Community Foundation is pleased that we can help channel donors' money to meet community needs" said Bob Tambellini, the Foundation Executive Director.

Jo Anne Beemon, Chairman of the Six Mile Lake Natural Area Steering Committee, is working with the Regional Conservancy to launch a fund-raising campaign to raise the balance of $25,000 needed to complete the purchase. Beemon indicated that she is counting on the community to match the Malpass family's generosity.

"We are grateful to Tad and Brenda Malpass for their leadership role in creating this fabulous opportunity for our community to preserve one of Northern Michigan's most beautiful places," Beemon said. She added "When the public sees the beauty of this area and the importance of the habitat protection, they give and give generously."

The Six Mile Lake Steering Committee will be working to raise the remaining funds through special events, field trips and other educational activities. All of these will be designed to highlight the natural features of this unique area which has already been visited by hundreds of local school children and dozens of civic groups.

The Grand Traverse Regional Land Conservancy will be accepting donations for the project through a restricted fund. If you would like more information, please contact them at (616) 929-7911.

The St. Clair Lake/Six Mile Lake Natural Area near Ellsworth has purchased an additional 60 acres of wetlands, bringing the total natural area to 145 acres.

Jury finds doctor guilty of gross indecency

by Laurie Lounsbury

In a case that pitted one man's word against another, the word of a deputy sheriff ultimately swayed a jury to convict a downstate man of gross indecency. Dr. Neil Juan Farkas, 43, of West Bloomfield, was convicted of gross indecency, a felony punishable by up to five years in prison. Farkas could also lose his license to practice medicine.

Farkas had been staying in his Charlevoix condominium last May 27 when he was arrested for domestic violence. He was taken to the county jail by the city police. While serving time that night in the observation cell, he allegedly performed oral sex on another inmate, Henry Orth, 35, of Howell.

Deputy Sheriff Charles Vondra testified last Thursday that he witnessed the act from his position at the dispatch room. "I was shocked to see that going on. I'd never seen anything like that," Vondra said on the witness stand.

When Farkas took the stand, he maintained that he never committed the act. Farkas said he was simply trying to help Orth with his pants and keep him steady while he attempted to go to the bathroom. Farkas' attorney, Marjory Cohen, asked Farkas if, as a doctor, he knew of any health reasons that would prevent him from performing the act in question. "I have three babies at home, I would never do anything to jeopardize my family or myself."

At that point in his testimony, Farkas broke down and cried.

There were basically two elements to the trial. Whether or not the observation cell at the jail is a public place, and whether or not Farkas actually committed the oral sex act.

Judge Richard Pajtas told prosecutor Mary Beth Kur and defense attorney Cohen that it was his opinion the observation cell was a public place. It is designed for observation by county employees and sheriffs, and they are part of the public Pajtas reasoned. Pajtas issued his opinion without the jury present.

Farkas's guilt or innocence hinged largely on the credibility of the two witnesses, himself and deputy Vondra.

The jury deliberated for six and a half hours Friday before returning a guilty verdict. On more than one occasion, the jury asked to see the video of deputy Vondra's testimony. "I am very, very pleased with the verdict," Kur said. "The jury gave a careful and thorough review to all the evidence and came up with a just verdict."

Farkas will be sentenced Feb. 2 in the Charlevoix County Circuit Court.

Editorial

Is a new address system really necessary in Charlevoix?

L. Scott Swanson

After listening to the debate for weeks...

After fielding numerous phone calls and letters...

After seeing presentations with flip charts and computers...

After picking random addresses and driving around to see just how easy or difficult it is to find places in this town...

After all that, the conclusion arrived at here on the proposed address renumbering system for the city of Charlevoix is that it is a logical, well-conceived and well-designed system that, at this time, the city of Charlevoix just doesn't need.

At the Jan. 15 city council meeting, the city council should move forward with changing street names where needed, but put the proposed renumbering system on hold. If, at some time in the future, growth within the city merits taking it off the shelf, we'll do that, but for now it's just not a change worth making. Given that there's a much simpler solution, the problems outweigh the benefits.

At first blush, you might think it's incongruous to say that the proposed system is logical and well-designed, but shouldn't be adopted. But if you analyze the situation, it's not incongruous. It's exactly the case.

The proposed system would base Charlevoix city addresses on a grid with Memorial Bridge serving as a zero point. Rather than buildings being numbered on a 2, 4, 6, 8 system, blocks would be numbered on a proportional 100 system with one end of the block being zero and the other end of the block being 100 or 95 and the middle of the block being 50.

The proposed system is not without merit. It offers an easy way of quickly getting a general idea of where, within any particular block, a home is located. If Charlevoix addresses were on a grid system, there are computer programs which would allow you to type in an address and bring up on a screen a map of a three-block area including that location.

If Charlevoix was an expansive city encompassing mile after mile of geography and thousands of businesses and homes, the benefits of the new address system would be wonderful. But Charlevoix is not an expansive city encompassing mile after mile of geography and thousands of businesses and homes. Charlevoix is a small town in northern Michigan. We fit within a few square miles. Most kindergartners can count to a number higher than the total number of streets in this town. If you're a resident of Charlevoix, even if you don't work in a job where you need to know where all the streets are, chances are you do. Beyond that, you probably not only know the names of the adults who occupy the houses on those streets, you more than likely know the names of their kids and dogs. That is the reality of living in a small town.

If you have any doubts about the ease of finding places in this town, take this test. Randomly pick an address and get in your car and go try to find it. If that house has its address number displayed, as it should, clearly on the front, chances are you're not going to have any problem finding it. If the address isn't clearly displayed, then the occupants of that house choose to accept the risk of a delayed emergency response.

The proposed address system is a nice system which would do a lot of wonderful things in a large metropolitan area. But in a small town such as Charlevoix, it's just not necessary. Rather than going through a lot of unnecessary hassle that would come with changing nearly every address in town, we should simply correct a few problem areas and encourage everyone to prominently display their current house or business number.

People who leave for the sunny south in January, often ask, "What do you DO in Charlevoix during the winter?"

We amuse ourselves, as did the jestful founders of the new Charlevoix Country Club, who literally "cooked up" a Turn-the-Tables Holiday Dinner Party?

The printed Staff Party Menu warned guests of things to come. "About 6:45, Zoup de Jour. About 7:30, Ontray. About 8:30 Salad arrives." And in super-collosal print, guests are urged to Tip Generously!

Seventy delicious dinners were prepared and served to the employees and their guests by the grateful club founders and their spouses. The sumptuous meal was prepared under the trained eye of Tom Thomas, with the assistance of wife Kris, Janna Winn and Rick Lobenherz. Much to everyone's amusement, Tom designed and wore a chef's toque that was twice as high as the standard version.

All agreed the food tasted delicious — but the service? Ah, that's another story.

During the cocktail hour, Wendy Waha, Dining Room Manager, asked yachtsman/waiter, Charlie Winn, "Would you mind getting me a cocktail?" to which he teasingly replied with a straight face, "Yes, I would. The bar is right over there!"

When taking dinner orders, each diner was cheerfully invited to choose anything he or she desired — lobster, flaming desserts, etc, yet everyone was served the same standard prepared menu: a savory creamed chicken soup, beef tenderloin flanked by veal and loin medallions, napped with green peppercorn madeira sauce, a mixed wild green salad topped with fresh pairs, red grapes, pecans and crumbled blue cheese. Apple crumble dessert, with creme anglaise and warm caramel sauce completed the Turn-the-Tables meal.

Waiter/realtor, Dick Georgi served the coffee and later complained, "The trays were heavy and the job a lot harder than I expected. I didn't get much to eat. No soup, no salad, only a piece of leftover meat off a plate in the kitchen!"

Other servers were Kathryn Lobenherz, Lizette Frahm, Trish and Archie Wright. They were all given beepers in case one was needed in the kitchen. The beepers vibrated and so startled the inexperienced servers, that trays were dropped and glasses smashed, much to the chagrin of the staff and the amusement of the diners. Hostess/guest Joan Graves laughed as she recalled waiters pouring wine into water glasses and filling wine glasses with water.

Not only were there obvious mishaps, but servers were openly admonished for serving the soup incorrectly. For instance, some diners were given soup bowls, others had soup served to them in tea cups, and no one was given a soup spoon. Not until everyone was finished with the soup course did, server/entrepreneur, John Hisey come racing through the dining room offering proper soup spoons to the diners.

Even tho' many pranks were played during the evening, by all reports, a jubilant time was had by all, and a new tradition was born this year at the Charlevoix Country Club.

Letters to the editor

Don't change address system

Editor,

The protest in Charlevoix over renaming streets and changing address numbers should be supported by everyone. For whatever it is worth, I would like to add my own objections. I am a summer resident and a tax payer.

When the 911 issue came to a vote, were the address and name changes mentioned on the ballot? Evidently no. And, is the current system now in use by emergency personnel and the post office really broken? Evidently no.

And, as a final thought, shouldn't we each care about those street names and numbers that have proudly proclaimed an identity of many years? Yes, yes, yes.

It seems excessive to inconvenience everyone to fix a few "problem" areas.

C'mon, Charlevoix, stand up and be heard. Next thing you know, City Council will be telling us what color to paint our houses.

Sincerely,
Jeanne McCarthy

Petition status clarified

Editor,

The article in last week's "Courier," regarding the citizen petition which opposes the proposed city-wide address change, stated that two of the original petitioners had left the committee. I would like to explain why.

One of those two people will be out of town much of the time the petition committee will be active; and the other reconsidered her participation after realizing previous time commitments would prevent her from being fully active in the committee's efforts. Both are still supportive of the purpose of the petition; they were simply unable to be original signers.

The petition has been resubmitted with two new petitioners. It will be available for signatures later this month.

I encourage city residents to call their councilmen to express their feelings on the issue.

Sincerely,
Colleen Wright

New address system is unnecessary

Editor,

My wife and I, and many other concerned citizens, have been going door to door gathering citizen signatures on advisory petitions. The purpose is to prove to Charlevoix City Council that the vast majority (95 percent) of the citizens reject the proposed new street address system. This new system is NOT necessary for the implementation of 911 emergency dispatch! The Petoskey News Review, "Editorial Board," presumes to be superior to the citizens of Charlevoix. In the Friday, Jan. 5, 1996, Our View, they want us to swallow the ridiculous "50 in the middle of the block" system that does not exist in any other developed city in the state of Michigan. One petition signer quipped, "They managed to institute 911 in Detroit without this assinine "Plan!" I don't think the editor of the PNR understood what was meant by a "learning trip." Like all jobs, apprentices must learn what is to be done and where they are going on a continuing basis (continuing education). Postal workers don't seem to have a problem finding addresses. The $500,000 estimated cost of renumbering includes materials and labor for City Hall, County Building, Post office, Health Dept., Sheriff Dept., School system, all businesses, all residences, banks and offices. This is an unnecessary, nonproductive cost caused by a bureaucratic whim!

Robert N. Timms

P.S. The woman who couldn't get pizza delivery would have gotten much better service if she had large, legible numbers on the front of her house. This advice applies to all homes and businesses in Charlevoix.

(Editor's note: Some larger cities in the state of Michigan do have forms of a grid based proportional 100 location system.)

Books were an important part of Christmas Project

Editor,

Now that the 1995 Charlevoix Community Christmas Project and countless bags of groceries and numerous gifts have all been wrapped up and delivered, I thought it might be time to send along some public thank yous.

As a teacher of literature for 30 years and an avid reader, myself, I think there is no better gift for a child at any time of year than a book. All children should be encouraged to read, and we can set that example for them by reading ourselves, reading to them, and buying books for them.

This is the fourth year that I've worked on the Christmas Project, and I kept thinking that somehow we should provide books for the children who receive our gifts. Then in 1994, Mary Jane Barnwell of the Charlevoix Bookshop called me to discuss the "Book Angel Project," and that was just what we needed to kind of "top off" the Giving Tree gifts.

Last year Mary Jane and her customers purchased 158 books for the Christmas Project. This year, with fewer children on our list, she and her customers again donated over 100 books!

I know other bookstores in the area had their own projects with which I am not familiar, but I am informed about Mary Jane's.

So ... a big THANK YOU to all of the people who purchased books and acted as "book angels" this year and also to Mary Jane at the Charlevoix Bookshop for making this program possible. Included in this thank you should be Melanie Morrison's Girl Scout troop who wrapped these books - beautifully, I might add - and delivered them to my house.

Happy 1996 to all of you who participated.

Sincerely,
Rosemary Horton

Drayton - Bailey

Bridget and David Bailey

Bridget Danielle Drayton and David Richard Bailey were joined in marriage, November 11 in the East Jordan Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses.

The bride is the daughter of Karen and Ross Drayton of Charlevoix. The groom is the son of Wendy and Richard Bailey of Midland.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Dave Courser gave a wedding talk.

The bride wore a full length, white satin, wedding gown with a ten-foot long, cathedral train. She carried silk flowers of white, black, and deep purple roses with ivy.

Maid of honor was Carrie Montel. Bridesmaids were Leah Berry, Tracey Grose, Camille Martin, Tasha Drayton, and junior bridesmaid, Lisa Bailey. They wore straight, hunter green crepe sleeveless dresses with long black gloves. They carried silk flower arm bouquets to match the bride's flowers.

Flower girl was Haley Wagner. She wore a white satin, floor length dress with ruffles down the back.

Best man was Don Bailey.

Groomsmen were Scott Zienert, Greg Bailey, Joe Dannenberg, and Rick Bailey.

Ushers were Josh Kris, Darren Drayton, Jeff Zienert, and Jacob Jimenez.

Ring bearer was Zach Bailey.

A reception following the wedding was hosted by the bride and groom's parents at the Boyne Mountain Civic Center.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at a Boyne Mountain Condominium, where they grilled steaks.

The newlyweds took a one week Caribbean cruise aboard the Carnival Cruise Line.

They are making their home in Midland.

Paul - Zee

Roger Zee & Lorraine Paul

Mr. and Mrs. Cass Russell of Charlevoix and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Zee of Monroe, Wisconsin, are announcing the engagement of their daughter and son, Lorraine Paul and Roger Zee. The bride-elect is the daughter of Donna Russell and the late Jerry Paul of Charlevoix.

The bride-elect has a master's degree in reading. She is employed as a teacher of emotionally disturbed children in Lancaster, WI.

Her fiance has a master's degree in secondary school counseling. He is a technical education teacher at Darlington Middle and High Schools. He is also a captain in the Wisconsin Army National Guard.

The couple will be married in a July 10 wedding in Hawaii.

Fund established for Island Medical Center

For years, the small medical center so vital to Beaver Islanders' good health has had to struggle to maintain its own financial well-being. Now, a new fund with the Charlevoix County Community Foundation will help bolster the center's day-to-day operations and provide for its long-term needs.

The Beaver Island Medical Center fund has been established by the center's Board of Directors, led by Dr. Phil Lange who serves as chairman, and other Island residents who are longtime supporters of the clinic. Part of the fund's assets will be placed in a general account earmarked for immediate and ongoing expenses; the balance will be invested in a permanent endowment to provide interest income for years to come.

"The Beaver Island Medical Center is critical to our isolated community," explains Dr. Lange. "This fund will help ensure our financial stability and our ability to care for Island residents, resorters, and visitors — well into the future."

The Medical Center, which was established originally as a two-bed hospital in 1955, has survived many transitions as changing state and federal funding, healthcare regulations, health insurance benefits and reimbursement policies, and politics placed new demands on the tine clinic. Through it all, Beaver Islanders have continued to give their time and money to make sure health services are available. Currently, the Center offers medical, dental, and psychological care through a variety of contractual arrangements with nearby healthcare providers, and a full-time physician's assistant.

In setting up the new fund, Beaver Island Medical Center directors looked at special tax advantages and lower administrative and investment costs offered by the Community Foundation. "By establishing our fund within the Community Foundation, we can provide our donors with attractive tax incentives and assurance that their contributions will be carefully managed," Dr. Lange says, "While we turn our attention to the important work of running our medical center." Lange and medical center directors will advise the community Foundation in matters related to the fund, and help decide how income from the fund is used.

A number of contributions have already been made to the Beaver Island Medical Center Fund, and supporters hope that Islanders and others will consider gifts in honor of family and loved ones, or to celebrate special events. Donations are fully tax deductible and can be made in care of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, with a notation to the Beaver Island Medical Center Fund.

The Community Foundation is a charitable organization established by a group of Charlevoix County residents in 1992. The Foundation receives contributions and manages special funds on behalf of many local nonprofit organizations. Foundation assets are pooled and invested in a permanent endowment, and the income generated is used to fund a variety of worthy programs and projects. A board of trustees, made up of residents from throughout the county, oversees the Foundation's activities. Beaver Island residents Skip McDounough and Joe Reed currently serve as trustees.

More information about the Community Foundation and the new Beaver Island Medical Center Fund is available by calling the Foundation office, 616/536-2440, or by writing the Foundation c/o PO Box 718, East Jordan MI 49727.

Campbell - Clayton

Lee Ann Campbell and John P. Clayton were united in marriage, August 5 at the Evangelical Free Church in Gaylord.

The bride is the daughter of Ruth Ann and Howard Campbell of Charlevoix. The groom is the son of Pat and Jack Clayton of West Branch.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. James Austin of Big Rapids, friend of the bride's family.

Music during the ceremony was provided by Carol Kerby, friend of the groom's family. Vocals were performed by Sara Rauch, friend of the bride. Scripture readings were delivered by Jack Clayton, father of the groom, and Rev. Bruce Hamilton of Charlevoix, pastor of the bride's family.

Matron of honor was Amy Petrous. Bridesmaids were Donna Brownell, sister of the bride, Holly Clayton, sister of the groom, Lisa Keczmer, Heather Hendges, and Joelene Kramer. Junior bridesmaid was Jessica Campbell and flower girl was Sarah Stiff, both nieces of the bride.

Best man was Terry Turkelson. Groomsmen were Rusty Clayton, brother of the groom, Anthony Jenkins, Rob Mulkey, Noel Kurtz, and Brad St. Aubin. Junior groomsman was Robby DeMatio, cousin of the groom. Ringbearer was Michael Stiff, nephew of the bride. Ushers were Matt Campbell, Jason Stiff, nephews of the bride, and Matt Miller.

A reception following the wedding was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Gaylord.

The wedding couple took a honeymoon cruise to the Bahamas after a three night stay in Disney World. They are making their home in Gladwin.

Mildred V. Dunbar

Mildred V. Dunbar, 88, of Mount Pleasant and formerly of Charlevoix died Dec. 27 at Central Michigan Community Hospital in Mount Pleasant. Her funeral was Dec. 29 at the Helms Funeral Home in Mount Pleasant.

Mrs. Dunbar was born March 6, 1907 in Chicago, Illinois to Roland and Anna (Krulick) Farmer. She graduated from Charlevoix High School, then went to County normal school for one year and taught at a rural school in Charlevoix for four years. She later attended Western Michigan University, graduating in 1934. She then taught school in Lansing until she married in 1935.

She married Widsor S. Dunbar, Aug. 17, 1935. Following their marriage, they made their home in Mount Pleasant. They also had a summer home in Elk Rapids.

Mrs. Dunbar was active with the Isabella County Safety Council and with the Michigan State Safety Commission. She also loved to garden and grow flowers. She was a member of the Faculty Dames at Central Michigan University and also belonged to the Clare Rock Club and the Nature Conservancy in Elk Rapids.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by: two sons, Larry W. Dunbar and his wife Mary Ann of Elk Rapids; Richard J. Dunbar and his wife Ona Lou of Gaylord; two brothers, Alexander Farmer of Dimondale; and Richard J. Farmer of Charlevoix; and six grandchildren and numerous nieces and nephews. She was preceded in death by her parents and a brother.

Funeral arrangements were handled by the Helms Funeral Home in Mount Pleasant.

Charles E. Smith

Former Charlevoix resident Charles E. Smith, 71, of Beaverton, Ore., died Dec. 16, 1995.

Services were held Wednesday, Dec. 20, at Bethel Congregational United Church of Christ in Beaverton, Ore.

Mr. Smith was born Nov. 2, 1924, in Petoskey, the son of Cecil and Rose (Stradlebaur) Smith. He graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1943, then from Olivet College.

He served in the U.S. Army during World War II.

Mr. Smith worked for the U.S. Veterans Administration as a personnel director in Portland, Ore., retiring in 1980.

In 1954, he married Rose Brimberry and she survives.

Mr. Smith is also survived by three sons, Mark of Portland, Ore., Randy of Goldendale, Wash., and Chris of Twin Falls, Idaho; one daughter, Susan Pearson, of Seattle, Wash.; three grandchildren; and a brother, Robert, of St. Cloud, Fla.

Memorial contributions are suggested to the Beaverton Elks Scholarship Foundation, and can be sent in care of Pegg-Paxson and Springer Chapel, 4675 South West Watson St., Beaverton, Ore. 97005.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

There's a commercial that has been making the rounds right now that makes fun of New Year's resolutions. You know about those little things. We decide we want to make changes in our lives over one thing or another and then a week or two into the new year we get tired or we slip back into the old routines.

Well, you need to pray for me. I've made a New Year's resolution and at least so far, I've been able to stick with it. I'm one of those folks who has vowed to walk at least a mile every day. I found a treadmill on sale and brought it home. I even went so far as to put it down in the all too easily forgotten basement that many houses have. So it takes a deliberate effort to go "down" the stairs to get on it.

Every morning, when my son gets up to get his shower for school, I sleepily pull myself down the hall and get going. The first few minutes are kind of a rude awakening as my brain is suddenly forced to take inventory and make sure everything is present. But after almost two weeks now, it is getting easier. In fact, on this particular morning, I managed to break the twenty minute mark for my mile. I've decided though that for now, the time is my goal rather than the distance. If I can get consistent at making a mile in twenty minutes and get more comfortable doing it, then I'll look at doing more.

There is little argument in health circles about the benefits of exercise. In fact I hope my doctor will be impressed at least a little should he read this. But if exercising our physical bodies really is so important, why don't more people understand that the health of your spirits goes hand in hand with your bodies?

If the new year has you in the mood to try new things in other areas, why not consider trying something new for your spirits too? Have you ever read the Bible all the way through? January would be a great time to begin at Genesis and get started. If you don't feel you're quite up to taking such a big bite, then begin at Matthew and try the New Testament on for size. Revelation holds a marvelous ending for persistent readers.

It doesn't take a "trained professional" to pray. You might be amazed at how close you can get to God if you will simply begin talking to Him. Talk with Him in the same fashion you and I would be talking if we were to meet. Prayer does more than change things. Prayer changes people. Ten minutes a day would revolutionize your outlook on life.

Then there is the church. One of the biggest things about making a change in your life is having a "support system" to encourage you to stick with it. There is no better "support system" available than the family of God to help you stick with the changes you want to make in your spirit. Pray for me in my walking and I'll be praying for you in whatever new things God might have you do.

(Rev. Bruce Hamilton is pastor of the Charlevoix Community Church of God. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Hamilton and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

The Good Cents Savings Bank recently opened at the Charlevoix Elementary School. The bank is an educational project which is a cooperative effort between the school and FMB Northwestern Bank. The purpose is to provide a realistic environment for students to practice math skills and learn about banking, savings accounts and the value of money. In its first day, there were over 50 transactions, more than $800 in deposits and all of the windows balanced. The bank is open twice a month during the school year. FMB donated $1 for every student who wanted to open an account. Currently there are more than 200 accounts for students in grades one through five. Students are advised to bring deposits in envelopes and need a note from their parents to make a withdrawal.

YOUTH

It's a matter of science

Charlevoix Elementary School's Michigan Educational Achievement Program (MEAP) test science scores have improved steadily during the past three years. Eighty-five percent of Charlevoix fifth graders were in the top level of science achievement on the 1994 test. Fourteen percent were in the second level, one percent in the third level and none in the bottom level.

Hands-on science experiences have become available to elementary students in the science resource room. This method of instruction promotes problem solving, discovery learning and concrete learning experiences. Students learn to use the tools of science - microscopes, scales, thermometers, rulers etc., to aid in learning to use the scientific process.

The Charlevoix Elementary School faculty has added to their expertise in science through many years of experience, graduate programs from SEE-North, Char-Em Inservices, MEAP Science Training, the Michigan State University Science Project and numerous university classes.

Part of the elementary school science program includes learning real life science skills through a series of field trips. Among the places students have visited are: Glen's Market; Matchett Sheep Farm; Consumer's Power Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant; Medusa Cement Company; the U.S. Coast Guard station; Little Traverse Conservancy; Raven Hill Discovery Center; Oleson's Food Store; Sturgeon River Pottery; Boss Dairy Farm; Industrial Magnetics Incorporated; Advance Electrical; Burnett Foods; AuSable Institute; Beaver Island; Charlevoix Area Hospital; Brumm's Studio; and Friske Orchards.

Lindsey Carland heats up chemicals to prove that atoms that are heated move faster, making hot chemicals turn color faster than cool chemicals.

The sky visits CMS

Monday, Dec. 18, Charlevoix eighth grade science students were introduced to their astronomy unit with a visit to, or perhaps more accurately from, a planetarium.

Two counselor/instructors from the YMCA Hayo-Went-Ha Camps brought a Starlab domed tent planetarium to the Charlevoix Middle School. Inside was a projector that lit up the dome "sky." The instructors talked about the main constellations, how to find them and the Greek myths behind their names.

Parents who have an eighth grade student should now be able to take them outside on a clear night in January and February and have them find Orion and some of the other constellations.

The name Norwood taken from book title

by NANCY RITSEMA, Norwood Historical Society

Early settlers had a vision for the community of Norwood and carefully chose a name for the place to reflect their expectations. Henry Ward Beecher's book "Norwood or Village Life in New England" had just been published in 1867. When the village on the bluff overlooking Lake Michigan at the foot of Grand Traverse Bay was platted in 1868, Norwood, taken from the title of Beecher's book, was its name. A copy of the book is still in the possession of a pioneer descendant living in the village today.

These European and American settlers were not the first men and women to come to Norwood however, nor the first to give it a name.

Four thousand years ago the Hopewell Mound Builders inhabited the Grand Traverse Bay area. Later the powerful Ottawa and Chippewa Indian nations appeared. No permanent Native American settlement was located in what is now Norwood, but we do know that small family communities lived here and that this was once the site of an Indian garden and an Indian chert mine.

The Indian gardens consisted of large cleared areas used for raising corn, pumpkins, beans and other vegetables. Wild fruit including apple trees planted from seeds supplied by early Jesuit missionaries was also cultivated. One early pioneer account identifies extensive Indian gardens on the high land behind present-day Norwood. The gardens were covered by dense grass and there was an apple orchard still bearing fruit.

Mr. S.E. Wait writes that his father, learning of the abandoned garden at Norwood, determined in the spring of 1852 to bring some of the fruit trees from Norwood to Old Mission peninsula where they lived. The schooner Madeline in Bower's Harbor was hired for the task. "There being no dock at the place (Norwood) she was obliged to anchor out some distance while the trees were brought on with the yawl. They were set out on our farm, grew finely, and are now the oldest trees on the peninsula."

The Grand Traverse Bay area was called flint country by Native Americans. Along this shore of Lake Michigan could be found outcroppings of chert or horn-stone, impure forms of flint. Where the outcropping was abundant, the Indians designated the spot Pe-wa-na-go-ing meaning "Flinty Point."

Ernest Harris, who as a boy came with his family to Norwood's shores in 1866, in later years wrote his recollections of this Indian landmark. "This point north of Norwood, where I as a bare-footed boy journeyed many many times had a deep excavation back from the shore where in ancient times the Indians had dug out the flints for their arrow and axe heads. And we as youngsters were given to understand that it was an old Indian fort."

The chert found near the lake shore was used by Native Americans for cutting and scraping tools, for spear and arrow points, and probably for hoe and spade-like digging tools useful in their Indian gardens.

By heating pieces of chert in the fire and then laying a piece of wet wood on the hot stone a layer of the chert was loosened. These layers were then chipped into tools and spear and arrow points. A pouch of "blanks," unfinished arrowheads, could be carried on journeys and perfected as the carrier needed them.

A legend of the Native American prophet Ne-naw-bo-zhoo evolved from the peculiarities of this area's geologic deposits. The legend relates how hard flint rock came to be deposited along the east shoreline of Grand Traverse Bay near Norwood.

Chief Mack-e-te-be-nessy, Andrew J. Blackbird, recorded this legend in the book he wrote in 1887, "History of the Ottawa and Chippewa Indians of Michigan." This absorbing history has been reprinted and is available in local bookstores.

"So the legend says that wherever we find a pile of hard flints lying on the face of the earth, that is where Ne-naw-bo-zhoo overtook his brother monster, and struck him with his tremendous war-club.

"At last he vanquished him on the east shore of Grand Traverse Bay, Michigan, near the place ... called Pe-wa-na-go-ing by the Ottawa and Chippewa Indians."

For centuries a variety of people have come to these northern Michigan lakeshores, first in canoes and later in schooners. They have named the area Pe-wa-na-go-ing, Flinty Point, and Norwood. And they have given us their legends and their stories of the past which enrich and enlarge the history of this small community at the foot of Grand Traverse Bay.

Land to be protected by Conservancy

By Laurie Lounsbury

It's a funny thing. People living in the woods don't want a view of the highway. But people driving on the highway definitely want a view of the woods.

Both of these desires were satisfied when Richard Lobenherz, founder of the Charlevoix Country Club, formed a partnership with the Little Traverse Conservancy. By signing a contract with the conservancy, almost a mile of highway frontage along U.S. 31 will be under the care of the conservancy.

While the country club will still maintain ownership of the property, the partnership agreement between the club and the conservancy will control the use of the 94 acre parcel forever. It means there will never be homes, a strip mall, or apartments lining the highway north of the country club. "Conservation easements are voluntary partnership agreements with a landowner and the conservancy," Tom Bailey, chairman of the conservancy said, adding, "We give people alternatives, not ultimatums."

Lobenherz is hoping other landowners along U.S. 31 between Charlevoix and Petoskey will follow suit. "The opportunity will never be greater than it is now to enhance this," Lobenherz said. Lobenherz was referring to the fact that there are still large pieces of land along the highway owned by one individual. In ten to 20 years, these large parcels may be broken up into small units of property.

When landowners form partnerships with the Little Traverse Conservancy, it does not mean the land may never be used again. It just means the land will be used in a method that is compatible with the conservancy's goals. The conservancy has two interests in property. One is to protect wetlands, and the other is to protect scenic land for the public. Some of the country club property along the highway will be used for an equestrian center, which is in keeping with land use guidelines in the conservancy."An equestrian center means horses in a pastoral setting. That is just the sort of land use we like to see," Bailey said.

Rik Lobenherz watches as Tom Bailey, director of the Little Traverse Conservancy, signs a partnership agreement between the conservancy and the Charlevoix Country Club.

Turnovers hurt basketball team

Charlevoix's varsity basketball team fell to 0-6 on the season with a 63-48 loss at Traverse City St. Francis Friday evening. The Rayders failed to take care of the ball and turned the ball over 15 times in the game with several of the turnovers leading to quick and easy St. Francis baskets.

Charlevoix kept the game close early, trailing only 15-13 at the end of the first quarter.

In the second quarter the wheels fell off of the Rayder offense and Charlevoix mustered only four points for the quarter. At halftime, the Rayders found themselves trailing 27-17.

In the third quarter the Rayders were outscored 20-12 and entered the final quarter behind 47-29. In the final quarter the Rayders outscored St. Francis 19-16, but it was too little, too late.

George McClellan and David Manker led the Rayder offense, each getting 14 points and six rebounds.

Charlevoix lost the junior varsity game 58-55.

Volleyball team places fourth

Charlevoix's varsity volleyball team placed fourth among 10 teams at the Petoskey-Dominoes Volleyball Invitational Saturday. Rayder senior Theresa Johnson had 16 kills and was named to the All Tournament team.

The Rayders qualified for the semi-finals by going 6-2 in preliminary pool play. Charlevoix swept Harbor Springs 15-4, 15-6 and St. Ignace 15-6, 15-5 before splitting with Sault Ste. Marie 15-11, 14-16 and splitting with Inland Lakes 5-15, 15-12. In the semi-finals the Rayders lost to Petoskey 15-10, 15-17, 15-4 and then lost to Inland Lakes in the consolation game 15-10, 15-10.

Liz Kelly, Jenni Swenor and Lyndsay Blechel were the Rayders' top servers. Kelly had nine kills. Lisa Wheat eight and Emily Murray seven. Johnson, Blechel, Aprille Pischner and Kelly were Charlevoix's top defenders.

Charlevoix now has an extended break and will host Kalkaska, Jan. 18.

Wrestling team improving

Reinhart and Haggard place first at Elk Rapids

Led by first place finishes by Ron Haggard and Bruce Reinhart, Charlevoix's high school wrestling team placed fifth among 12 teams at the Elk Rapids Invitational Tournament Saturday. Traverse City won the tournament.

Haggard pinned all three of his opponents at 171 pounds and ran his season record to 11-2 on the season. "Basically, he didn't have any problems," Rayder coach Phil Christ said of Haggard's day on the mat.

Reinhart, wrestling in the heavyweight division, pinned his first two opponents in the first period and beat a Mancelona wrestler 5-2 in the finals. The win in the finals avenged an earlier season loss to the Mancelona wrestler.

James Pop and Eric King each placed third in their divisions. Both wrestlers lost in the semi finals, but came back later in the day to beat the opponent who had earlier beaten them. Pop, a freshman, wrestled at 135 pounds and won his first high school medal. King, a 130 pound sophomore, now has a season record of 8-1.

Other Charlevoix wrestlers picking up at least one win on the day were Robert Torres, Rob Reiter and Jerry Borths.

Christ said Torres, a freshman wrestling at 112 pounds, joined the team about two weeks ago with no previous wrestling experience. After four matches, he's 2-2. "He's doing real well," Christ said. "He's beating experienced wrestlers."

Borths, a freshman wrestling as a back-up in the heavyweight division, got his first pin.

Earlier in the week, Charlevoix was shut out by Whittemore-Prescott. Christ said of Saturday's performance at Elk Rapids, "We wrestled a lot better than we did last Thursday. We didn't wrestle well (against Whittemore-Prescott). They (the Charlevoix wrestlers) weren't there mentally. Here, they were.

Snowmobile club forming

Development of a snowmobile trail from Charlevoix to East Jordan is well underway, and the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce has given approval to the Snowmobile Trail Committee to identify the concerns of the business community as well as snowmobile enthusiasts from Charlevoix.

An organizations meeting will take place Thursday, Jan. 11, at 7 p.m. at the Charlevoix City Hall Council Room. The goal of this meeting is to recruit people who are interested in starting a club, to oversee the development of this new trail, and to gain the support of the Charlevoix business community as well as the general public.

Participation in this formation process is crucial. Your input is needed. If you have any questions please call John at 547-2848.

With sledding and skiing at Mount McSauba and a new skating rink at the high school, there is no shortage of outdoor activities in Charlevoix during the winter months.

obituaries

Florence Faith Britton

Florence Faith Britton, 91, of Charlevoix, died Jan. 6, 1996, at Grandvue Medical Care Facility in East Jordan.

Funeral will be 1 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 10, at the DeGraaf Funeral Home in Wyoming, Mich. Burial will take place in Rest Lawn Cemetery, Grand Rapids.

Mrs. Britton was born June 24, 1904, in Grand Rapids, the daughter of William and Mary (Olish) Pearl. She was raised in Grand Rapids, where she graduated from Union High School. She then attended Kalamazoo Normal College.

On July 13, 1930, she married Glenn B. Britton in Grand Rapids. He preceded her in death on Feb. 13, 1991.

Mrs. Britton lived in Trenton from 1945-62, as well as in many Michigan towns as the wife of a Methodist pastor. She moved to Charlevoix in 1979.

Mrs. Britton was a member of the Barnard United Methodist Church in Charlevoix, and St. Paul United Methodist Church in Grand Rapids.

Survivors include her daughter, Marcia Trimper and her husband, Don, of Charlevoix; daughter-in-law, Sally Britton, of Cass City; nine grandchildren; and 13 great-grandchildren. In addition to her husband, Mrs. Britton was preceded in death by her son, Robert Glenn, in November 1994; and by two sisters and one brother.

Memorial contributions are suggested to the Grandvue Medical Care Facility in East Jordan. Envelopes for memorials are available at the DeGraaf Funeral Home in Wyoming, Mich. Envelopes are also available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix, where local arrangements were made.

Gladys Mort

Gladys Mort, 91, of Crystal River, Fla., died Dec. 30, 1995, at Life Care Center in Lecanto, Fla.

Funeral will be 10:30 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 11, at the Wilder-Fountains Funeral Home, 4890 S. Suncoast Blvd. Homosassa Springs, Fla. The Rev. Ron Thomas will officiate. Burial will take place in North Meadow Lawn Memorial Gardens in Newport Richey, Fla.

Mrs. Mort was born Nov. 24, 1904, in Trent, S.D., the daughter of Edward and Edith (Wheatley) Younker.

She and her husband, Arthur "A.C." Mort, lived in the Charlevoix area from 1946-78, when they moved to Florida. Mrs. Mort worked as a registered nurse at Charlevoix Area Hospital for 25 years. She was a member of Charlevoix Chapter No. 72 Order of the Eastern Star, and had served as worthy matron.

The couple moved to Crystal River, Fla., from New Port Richey, Fla., 10 years ago. Mrs. Mort was preceded in death by her husband, A.C., on June 8, 1994.

Survivors include five sons, Donald Mort of Winchester, Va., Jack Mort of Charlevoix, Keith Mort of Crystal River, Fla., James Mort of Holyoak, Colo., and Charles Mort of Midland, Ga.; one daughter, Patricia Denemy, of Stanton; one brother, Wilbur Younker, of Burton; 18 grandchildren; and 22 great-grandchildren. In addition to her husband, Mrs. Mort was preceded in death by three brothers.

Memorial contributions may be directed to Charlevoix Area Hospital.

obituaries

Kenneth L. Archambault

Kenneth L. Archambault, 60, of Charlevoix, died Jan. 5, 1996, at Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey.

His funeral was Tuesday, Jan. 9, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix. The Rev Thomas Neis officiated. Burial will take place in St. Mary's Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mr. Archambault was born Oct. 30, 1935, in Marinette, Wis., the son of Clement and Naomi (Harper) Archambault. He was raised in Peshtigo, Wis., and graduated from Peshtigo High School.

On Jan. 31, 1967, he married Yvonne M. Boeckman, and she survives. They moved to Charlevoix in 1967.

Mr. Archambault worked for the Medusa Portland Cement Co. for more than 30 years. Prior to that, he had worked for eight years at the Badger Paper Mill in Peshtigo, Wis.

He was a member of the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club, the National Rifle Association, and Union Local 480 United Cement Lime and Gypsum Workers International.

He enjoyed the outdoors and hunting. Mr. Archambault worked in oils, painting scenery and wildlife.

Survivors include his wife, Yvonne M.; three sons, Jon Archambault of Charlevoix, Scott Archambault Barnes and his wife, Linda, of Menominee, Wis., and Jeffrey Thuss of Denver, Colo.; four daughters and their spouses, Debora and Jim Ackley of Manitowoc, Wis., Mary and Matt McClanaghan of Charlevoix, Jodi and David Clark of Lansing, and Linda and Mark Pederson of Green Bay, Wis.; seven grandchildren; one sister, Sharon Schounard and her husband, Jim, of Marinette, Wis.; and several aunts and uncles. Mr. Archambault was preceded in death by his son, Kevin Kenneth Archambault, in February 1971.

Memorial contributions may be directed to the family of Ken Archambault. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Council reverses decision, addresses will not change

by L. Scott Swanson

Back in November the city council said they guessed they'd change everybody's addresses. Hundreds of city residents advised council members to guess again.

At Monday evening's city council meeting, by a 5-1 vote, the city council heeded the public outcry and reversed the November action, deciding not to go forward with a proposal to change the address system within the city.

The meeting opened with former mayor Ken Staley presenting the council a petition containing the names of 661 people who opposed the proposed address change. Staley said the signatures were indicative of the wishes of the public. He said the signatures were gathered within 13 days and with a little more time, there might have been twice as many.

"Please do not ignore these individuals," Staley said, adding that to ignore them might contribute to people's disillusionment with government on all levels.

> "(Government has) no business fostering on people what the people don't want."

> Second ward council member Gabe Campbell explaining his motion to scrap the city renumbering proposal.

Byron Wright, another member of the petition group, said people were trying to inform the council that they don't want the proposed change. Wright said that in circulating the petition, petitioners had test marketed the proposed address change and it became clear that people simply aren't buying it.

Perry Smith, another petitioner, was unable to be present for the discussion, but sent a letter with his wife, Billie. In the letter, he wrote of the address change proposal, "...it is imminently plain, the taxpayers studied it and overwhelmingly rejected it."

Following the petition presentation, second ward council member Gabe Campbell made a motion to scrap the renumbering project. He

Local snowmobile club being formed

by L. Scott Swanson

In the world of snowmobiling, Charlevoix has always been just off the end of the trail. However, work toward establishing a trail linking Charlevoix to East Jordan and a lengthy snowmobile trail system is well along and a local snowmobile club is forming to oversee completion of the project.

Last year the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce hired Chris Georgi to work on establishing a snow-said that local government has "no business fostering on people what the people don't want."

First ward council member Bob Timms, who has been one of the most vocal opponents of the renumbering proposal, said that even though some large downstate cities may have a number system similar to the one proposed, those cities have a lot of things that Charlevoix doesn't want. He said people are upset about city government messing with their personal house numbers. He also noted that the renumbering system is not necessary for the implementation of a 9-1-1 emergency telephone service.

Third ward council member Bruce Reid was the only council member to continue to vote in support of the change. He said he felt the council was wasting time bantering the issue back and forth. He added that he felt the council had voted on the matter once and should stick to their original decision.

Second ward council member Butch Russell, first ward council member Don Meggison and third ward council member Jackie Cross had all voted in favor of renumbering in November, but changed their position Monday evening and voted to reconsider the matter and scrap the renumbering proposal.

Russell said he feels the renumbering proposal is a good plan and he still supports it, but he said the people of the community have made it clear that they don't want it. "If they don't want it, I don't want it," he said.

Also on the council agenda was a proposal to rename a street. Renaming streets had been a portion of the address proposal that, compared to the renumbering plan, had drawn only mild objections and a significant amount of support. The council chose not to deal with street renaming Monday evening and to delay the issue until a later unspecified date.

Approximately 50 people were in the council meeting during discussion of the renumbering issue. After the council vote on the issue, dozens of them left the meeting.

At the end of the meeting the issue resurfaced briefly during the miscellaneous business and public comments portion of the agenda.

Polle Verwys, a resident of the second ward, said she wanted to compliment the council for reconsidering the address proposal, but also to compliment the city staff members who had spent long hours developing the proposal.

Gayle Gennett, a resident of the first ward, said she was disappointed that the council had changed their earlier position since she had already changed some of her stationery and professional credentials to reflect her new address.

Reid and mayor Josh Barnes continued to voice support for the renumbering proposal and express dismay about its demise.

"What we did tonight is an injustice to our constituents," Reid said.

"I think we have listened to the people and have therefore put them in worse jeopardy," Barnes said. Barnes said that at some time in the past there had been an instance on the north side where an ambulance couldn't find a home and the patient they were after ended up dying.

> "What we did tonight is an injustice to our constituents,"
> Third ward council member Bruce Reid voicing his opinion on the council decision to abandon the new address proposal.

Former council member Bob Gill said he hadn't intended to say anything, but that since the issue had been resurrected again at the end of the meeting, he would. He said that as he had advised the council at earlier meetings, the 9-1-1 system will work with the current address system. As far as people being at a greater risk without the new numbering system, he said that's just a scare tactic which he's not buying.

Russell suggested that at some time in the near future the council consider some type of an ordinance which would require house numbers to be clearly posted.

Sheriff advises people to keep snow out of the road

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's office would like to remind citizens that it is unlawful to plow snow into or across any roadway or highway in the State of Michigan.

MCL 257.677a states: A person shall not deposit, or cause to be deposited, snow, ice or slush on any roadway or highway.

Some citizens are plowing snow across the roadway to get rid of it, leaving ridges, and large snow chunks in the roadway causing a hazard to motor vehicles. When these ridges are hit, a motor vehicle can easily loose control and cause an accident and possible cause injury.

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's office shall be enforcing this law either by warning or by citation.

Library hosts children's hour

Group wants to raise $120,000 for new playground equipment

Current equipment more than 25 years old

A committee of elementary school parents is spearheading an effort to raise $120,000 to purchase new playground equipment for the elementary school. The playground committee is affiliated with the Charlevoix Elementary School Parent Teacher Organization which recognized the playground equipment problem two years ago and has been looking at possible ways to correct it.

Committee members looked at several different types of playground equipment before settling on a line made by DP & Hoffman out of Lansing. Although the equipment isn't the least costly on the market, it's designed to be fun, safe, handicap accessible, durable, easy to maintain and environmentally friendly.

The equipment is designed to allow kids to romp and burn off the energy that comes with being kids, but it also encourages them to interact with each other. The equipment is also designed to keep children safe and cushion falls. Portions of the equipment are made of recycled plastic that looks like wood, but doesn't give children slivers. Other portions of the equipment have a beefed up aluminum core with a 100-year warranty. Maintenance will be limited to occasionally touching up scratches or tightening bolts.

Most of the current playground equipment was transferred up from the middle school to the elementary school 25 years ago. The newest play equipment on the playground is more than 10 years old.

The Charlevoix elementary school playground is divided into two sections, one for the older children and one for the younger children. The playground plan will purchase a play unit for each section.

Robyn Blosh is chairing the committee. Brenda Bryan and Bonnie Withrow are in charge of fundraising. Carol Madison is in charge of design and Barney Way is in charge of installation.

To date the committee has raised approximately $10,000. They are working with the school board to see if the board will budget approximately $40,000 toward the project.

Elementary children and their families have been saving supermarket and Spartan receipts for the project. The committee is also working on a board game called Charlevoixopoly. The game will have spaces which will be sold to Charlevoix area businesses. Some of the spaces have already been sold. The game itself will be sold in local stores. Committee members hope to sell 750 games at $20 apiece.

The committee members will also be writing grant applications. Once funds are raised, volunteers will be needed to help install the equipment. Committee members hope to raise the money and have the equipment installed in time for the beginning of the 1995-97 school year.

The former co-operative nursery had approximately $4,500 left over when it disbanded and donated the money to the project. That $4,500 will purchase a play fire truck which will be the first portion of the project and will be in place for children to play on this coming spring.

Anyone interested in helping with the project or making a contribution may contact the committee at either 547-5516 or 547-0365.

...snowmobile club forming in Charlevoix mobile trail between Charlevoix and East Jordan. A proposed route has been developed and the next step is to secure the necessary landowner leases to make the trail a reality.

The Chamber is now looking to turn over the project to a local snowmobile club. Last Thursday evening (Jan. 11) a meeting chaired by local snowmobiler John Fiedorek took place at city hall to get the group off the ground. Approximately 15 Charlevoix snowmobilers attended the meeting.

Fiedorek said that much of the Charlevoix to East Jordan trail will be on seasonal roads and runs on an unofficial trail that people already use. Portions of the trail will cross sections of private land. In order for that to happen, the snowmobile club will need to secure lease agreements from approximately 13 property owners. Money is available from the state which will provide liability insurance for the trail. Currently, the Chamber of Commerce has agreed to pick up the initial insurance cost to get the project off the ground. Fiedorek said Georgi has already contacted most of the property owners.

The Chamber of Commerce has long supported establishment of a trail to bring more tourists and accompanying tourist revenue to Charlevoix during the winter months. Currently, a lengthy snowmobile trail system passes through East Jordan, but not through Charlevoix. While some Charlevoix riders do travel to East Jordan by snowmobile, there is no formal trail between the two communities. The chamber and Charlevoix business people are hoping to draw snowmobilers to Charlevoix to bring winter business to the communities motels, restaurants, bars and retail shops.

"I think Charlevoix has missed the boat on this for way too many years," Fiedorek said.

The timetable for action is to form a club, establish a board, have more discussion with the Department of Natural Resources, secure permits and refine the trail path between now and next fall. By next winter the trail should be ready for travel.

Some of the people attending the meeting, briefly discussed if and how snowmobiles would be able to travel within the city limits. Fiedorek said that's a matter that will have to be addressed, but should be addressed in the future. For the time being, the challenge is establishing a trail to get from point A to point B. He said that in regard to the issue of responsible riding, be it in town or elsewhere, that would be something the club would encourage.

The group will meet again at 7 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 25 at City Hall. Between now and Jan. 25, people who attended the Jan. 11 meeting will be recruiting additional members and reviewing by-laws from other area snowmobile clubs.

Editor's Notes

No new addresses, Martin Luther King and the city budget

L. Scott Swanson

Just a couple of closing comments on the city renumbering issue.

Bob Timms, Butch Russell, Don Meggison, Jackie Cross and Gabe Campbell, the five council members who voted to scrap the renumbering plan, made the right call. They deserve credit for being willing to respond to the desires of their constituents.

The opposition to renumbering was overwhelming. Had the council not heeded the will of the people, there were people bantering about the prospect of a recall effort. And that's always a political bloodbath. In recent months, this town has been doing a fairly good job of conducting local politics with an air of civility. A big recall fight was the last thing we needed.

Third ward council member Bruce Reid, who steadfastly maintained that the city should go forward with the renumbering system argued that the council should not make a practice of vacillating on votes to appease a vocal minority. While that's true and a valid point to consider, it misses the mark on this particular issue. The people complaining weren't a vocal minority. They were a vast majority. One of the most impressive aspects of this whole issue was the wide cross section of people united in their opposition to the renumbering proposal. People who never before seemed to agree on anything lined up side by side on this one.

Second ward resident Polle Verwys made a nice gesture during public comments when she complimented not only the council members who rejected the proposal, but the staff members who had spent long hours looking into the matter.

Although the majority of the community didn't feel the benefits of the proposal outweighed the drawbacks, that doesn't mean the proposal was completely without merit. The portion of the proposal which called for renaming streets where the present names don't make sense enjoyed widespread support. The council should take up the renaming of those streets again in the near future.

Russell also suggested that the council consider some type of ordinance requiring numbers to be placed on houses. That suggestion also should be followed up.

Once again state employees took the day off Monday to celebrate Martin Luther King's birthday. Aside from the issue of state employee vacations, you have to wonder if, over the years, the celebration of Martin Luther King's birthday will evolve into something different than it is today. Currently, the event often seems to simply provide a platform for people, both black and white, who wish to continue to fight the struggles of the past. In failing to acknowledge this country's progress in race relations, these people continue to see issues along racial lines. Rather than seeing the United States as united and realizing that many of society's problems affect people of all races, they continue spouting the same old them versus us speeches. The conflict between that and King's dream of a nation where people are judged not by the color of their skin, but by the content of their character should be obvious.

The city's proposed 1996-97 budget was introduced Monday evening. Council members will begin deliberating on the budget in earnest at a Jan. 22 budget work session.

One item the council should look long and hard at is a proposed 4.5 percent increase in electrical rates. Utility rates have been going up at levels exceeding inflation with disturbing regularity in the past few years. Before adopting the budget, the council should take a critical look at the proposed increases and what will be funded by the proposed increases.

On the bright side, the council shouldn't have a difficult time figuring out what those increases, as proposed, would fund. Why? Because the people who draft the city budget (Primarily city manager Mike Wiesner and city treasurer Rick Brandi, but with input and assistance from other city staff members.) do an excellent job of laying out proposed capital improvement projects in the city budget. Whether you agree or disagree with the city's planned capital expenditures, at least they're right there in black and white, and presented in a format that's easy to follow.

Governor summarizes state efforts of 1995

by Governor John Engler

When 1995 began, Michigan residents were enjoying the strongest economy in decades. Our goal then was to continue the prosperity, so that the Renaissance under way in the Great Lakes State could be built on and the quality of life improved on for all. One year later, we can look back and say, without a doubt, that we have accomplished this. We met our goals in 1995.

The most obvious evidence of this is the remarkable performance of Michigan's economy. Despite pessimistic economic forecasts by experts, 1995 went on to become one of our most successful years ever. The story is best told by our achievements:

The state's budget surplus topped the $1 billion mark this year - a vast improvement from the $1.8 billion deficit Michigan faced in 1991. Our unemployment rate hit a record low in October at 4.4 percent and our annual rate reached a 30-year low. Michigan's credit rating was upgraded to its highest level in 15 years. Thanks in part to the introduction of the Michigan Employment Growth Authority, which produced 8,000 jobs, our state continues to create jobs at twice the national average.

In Lansing, we've taken vigorous steps to spur an even better business climate. Last year, that included establishing the Office of Regulatory Reform, which works to reduce bureaucratic red tape, and converting the Accident Fund to the private sector, which was the largest privatization by any state in the nation.

We've also cut taxes — nine times in 1995 — bringing the total number of tax cuts in the state over the last five years to 21. Elimination or reduction of the intangibles tax, the income tax, the unemployment insurance tax, the single business tax and others resulted in savings of more than $1.2 billion last year. Income tax savings alone averaged $151 per taxpayer.

Another way Michigan is saving money, and improving the lives of residents, is through welfare reform. Our program, "To Strengthen Michigan Families," has saved taxpayers more than $100 million since 1992 and is turning lives around. In 1995, the AFDC average monthly caseload declined to 186,484 at one point — the lowest figure since 1974. In comparison to the national average of eight percent, nearly 31 percent of AFDC recipients in Michigan are working and earning income.

Last year, we passed bellwether welfare laws that require recipients to work at least 20 hours a week or take action to find a job within 60 days. If they do not, they lose their benefits. The legislation also prepares Michigan to implement federal block grants and keeps the Great Lakes State in the lead on national welfare reform.

In education, the School Code was rewritten to encourage innovation and excellence in our local schools. It lengthens the school year by 10 days, allows for the creation of more charter schools, creates more opportunities for individuals to teach and establishes a strong model core curriculum. Through these changes and others that increase choice and competition, we are moving closer to providing the world-class education that our children deserve.

Efforts against crime in Michigan were bolstered in 1995 with the passage of laws that fight organized crime; establish an information clearinghouse to help locate missing children; provide investigative subpoena power for prosecutors; increase penalties for underage drinkers and expand prison capacity.

There were more highlights for Michigan last year. Among them were legal reforms that will reduce frivolous lawsuits and outrageous jury verdicts; a rewrite of the Mental Health Code increasing accountability and patient rights; and the establishment of the Michigan Information Network, which connects state agencies, schools and libraries on the Internet.

We have set new standards as a state in 1995. Our examples of reforming welfare, balancing the budget and cutting taxes have been cited in Washington, D.C., and have helped steer our nation in a promising new direction. Michigan's Renaissance is becoming America's Renaissance, and the people of this state have every reason to be proud.

Letters to the editor

Sheriff commends drivers

Editor,

This recognition of drivers in Charlevoix County is long overdue. During the past few months, I have had several opportunities to respond code three to accidents on critical emergencies using overhead lights and sirens and I'm very pleased and impressed to note that ninety-nine percent of all drivers, when they observed an emergency vehicle approaching, will immediately pull over to the shoulder of the roadway and give the emergency vehicle more room to respond to the emergency in a safer manner, and in a more timely fashion.

I've heard other law enforcement officials complain about drivers in their counties not giving way to emergency vehicles and I'm always proud to report that drivers in Charlevoix County are very sensitive about emergency vehicles and comply with the law, consequently making our job much easier.

Addresses shouldn't be changed

Editor,

I am against the proposed new street address system.

My first argument is somewhat self serving, I admit. I live in a neighborhood of turn-of-the-century homes and cottages, many of which are affectionately nicknamed for their historic house numbers. I would hate to see these numbers unnecessarily changed.

Secondly, my husband and I own Midwest International which has been located at 105 Stover Road since 1974. Midwest does business throughout the United States and in 40 countries. Our customer contact list numbers in the thousands. To have to advise all of them of our change of address (the post office will only honor the current address for six months) will be time consuming, non-productive and costly.

Please reconsider the city-wide plan. Rather make house and mailbox numbers available at city hall and promote a campaign to ensure that street addresses on all residences and businesses throughout the city are clearly marked.

Sincerely,
Mary Pair

School band program deserves praise

Editor and Community of Charlevoix,

I realize that this is a little late, but with the holidays and all, I just didn't get around to writing. But, I felt that it was something that needed to be acknowledged to the whole community.

THANK YOU to Mr. Raph Rittenhouse and the Charlevoix High School band for giving our community such a wonderful Christmas Concert. When I was in Charlevoix High School so many years ago, I was in the band under the direction of Mr. Odmark and it was a highlight of my years in High School. There was a discipline, a pride, an excitement, and an excellence that was part the the band program at Charlevoix in those years that I haven't seen until now. The Middle School bands showed promise and the High School band showed excellence.

So again, I just want to say thank you to Mr. Rittenhouse and the band for bringing that excitement and excellence back into the band program at C.H.S.

Sincerely,
Jan Boss

Pool needs to be supported

Editor,

I decided to become involved with the Charlevoix Community Pool for several personal, yet universal reasons. My family and particularly my children were the driving force for a couple of different reasons, the first of these being the importance of water safety. We all know how fortunate we are to be able to live in such a beautiful community as Charlevoix, with all the natural amenities, surrounded by water, but we have swimming instruction totally dependent on the weather; "Is the water too cold?", "Is it going to rain?", "Is it too windy and cold?" The Charlevoix Recreation Department does an incredible job of helping our children, but sometimes there are forces which can't be dealt with. The Charlevoix Community Pool would eliminate those problems.

Another issue with the children of our community concerns our budding young adults. We are frequently concerned with what activities they are pursuing, or what they are doing to fill their time. What a perfect activity to get them involved with, they can have fun, get some exercise and be with friends. They could volunteer, or begin an intramural swim team or league. The possibilities are endless!

I recently had major surgery on my hip which has impacted my life in ways I never dreamed possible, I like to think of these as blessings in disguise. Swimming will become an important part of my recovery as well as a low impact form of exercise that I can continue throughout my life. Before my surgery it was one of the few sports that I could participate in with little to no pain.

In closing, "The Pool That Charlevoix Built" is a reality. A reality that continues to need everyone's support. The Charlevoix Community Pool is a vision that has become more than a dream. Please help with a donation to this viable, needed project.

Sincerely,
Kris Rundblad

FAMILY

Marshall - Lum

Mr. & Mrs. Daniel Lum

A fireplace decorated for Christmas was the setting for the wedding of Traci Marie Marshall and Daniel J. Lum, Dec. 31. The wedding took place at Alexander's Restaurant in Charlevoix with ten guests in attendance.

The bride is the daughter of Pat and Jon Marshall of Charlevoix. The groom is the son of Janet and Joe Lum of Jonesville.

The double ring rites were performed by Janet Potter, Charlevoix County magistrate.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her father. She wore a fitted, ivory crepe, full length gown with a pleated back. The bodice had ivory rauching and off the shoulder capped sleeves. She carried an arm bouquet of star gazer lilies, bridal roses, cedar and holly.

Music at the ceremony was the traditional wedding march.

Matron of honor was the bride's mother, Pat Marshall.

Special guest at the wedding was Yao Peng, a foreign exchange student from China. She wore a mauve cocktail dress with rhinestone buttons. Her bouquet was silk white and mauve carnations with a satin ribbon and pearl streamers.

Best man was Jon Lum, brother of the groom.

For the reception, the wedding party joined the New Year's Eve party at the Grey Gables. The wedding cake was made by Kelley Romano of the Grey Gables.

A rehearsal dinner was held at the bride's parents' home, Dec. 30.

The couple will take a wedding trip to Hawaii next fall after a reception to be held at the bride's parents' home, Aug. 24.

The couple plans to make their home in Novi.

The groom works for Michigan Caterpillar. The bride is starting a new job with Simkins and Simkins, Attorneys at Law.

Student financial aid deadline approaches

If you have a child who is college-bound, February 15 could be the most important day of the year. That is the day the Free Application for Federal Student aid (FAFSA) is due to establish eligibility for government scholarships, grants or loans. FAFSA is the U.S. Department of Education form required for all federal financial aid programs, and also by the State of Michigan for state-funded financial aid programs.

Evan Montague, director of financial aid at Albion College, said that beyond deadlines for application, there are many things you need to remember if your child is to be considered for college financial aid. Montague offers the following tips on filing financial aid paperwork:

-Read the instructions. Many mistakes are made by not following the directions completely. also, be careful to include all information asked for. If forms are submitted without proper information, and without complete information, the forms cannot be processed.

-Make sure all the numbers are right. Double check Social Security numbers. Often students, or their parents, have entered the wrong social security number, or transposed numbers, on financial aid applications.

-Records you will need.

-Copies of both the parents' and student's 1995 U.S. income tax returns (IRS form 1040, 1040A or 1040EZ).

-1995 state and local income tax returns, W-2 forms and other records of money earned in 1995.

-Records of untaxed income, such as welfare, Social Security, AFDC or ADC and veterans benefits.

-Current bank statements.

-Current mortgage information, business and farm records.

-Records of stocks, bonds and other investments.

-Student's driver's license and Social Security card.

-Promissory notes or loan disclosure statements.

-Additional forms. Some colleges and universities require additional forms, such as the College Scholarship Service's Financial Aid Form, to determine eligibility for campus-based aid. Some forms also require a filing fee. Be sure to check with the college you plan to attend for information on the forms you will need to complete.

-Make copies. Make copies and keep a file of all forms you fill out, essays (if required) and keep a record of all correspondence with the college you plan to attend and the people you have contacted there. If your file is misplaced or lost at any point in the application process, you have another quickly at hand to take its place.

-File by the deadline. Financial aid application forms may be submitted any time after January 1. If the completed form is not postmarked by February 15, you may miss out on many financial aid opportunities for the upcoming year.

-Sophomores, juniors and seniors must re-file every year. All financial aid is considered on a year-to-year basis. If you plan to return in the fall, and you need financial aid, be sure to re-file.

-For more information, contact the college or university you plan to attend.

Johnson named chairman of county commissioners

by Laurie Lounsbury

Don Smith voluntarily gave up the chairmanship of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners. Boyne City's Phil Johnson was unanimously selected the new chairman of the board. Johnson moved up from his position as vice chairman. Carl Price will be vice chairman.

Smith served as chairman for the last five years. He's been on the board of commissioners for seven terms, nearly 14 years. "I have a lot of family concerns that need my time right now. I'm better off without the stress of being chairman," Smith said. The commissioners all face re-election this year. Smith said he didn't know if he would run for re-election. "I have until May 1 to decide," he said.

The first order of business in the new year was to appoint an equalization director. Carla Spencer was given the appointment. Spencer was formerly the assistant director, and has served as interim director for the last six months.

One of the first projects Johnson wants to tackle is writing a job description for a potential new position, personnel director/board secretary. "I'd like to get that done this month," Johnson said. Johnson, Jim Behling, and Rich Gillespie will work on a job description and salary for the position.

The board approved a new position in the sheriff's department, a jail administrator. The jail is fully occupied almost 100 percent of the time. Funding for the jail comes from the state, but the money isn't delivered unless the paperwork is submitted. Sheriff Lasater said that the position of jail administrator will pay for itself with the collection of state revenues that haven't been collected in past years.

The board is still witholding a $4,000 payment to Plante and Moran, the consulting firm that did a wage and position study last year. Some of the commissioners felt that the study didn't include what was requested by them. "All we got was a bunch of boilerplate fluff," Gillespie said of the study. Gillespie said he had asked for statutory job descriptions for each department. The Plante and Moran consultant, Jim Shrier, said that the information is readily available in a book titled Michigan Statutes Annotated. "Why would they want to pay us to give them information they can get in a book for $39.95?" Shrier asked.

The commissioners decided not to pay Plante and Moran the balance due of $4,000. "They'll probably sue us for non-payment, but I wouldn't pay them voluntarily," Smith said.

Timber management advice offered

The Charlevoix office of MSU Extension is sponsoring a workshop on management and marketing of hardwood timber. The workshop will be from 9:30 a.m. to noon, Feb. 3 in the Boyne City Hall.

Landowners attending this workshop will learn about:

-Sustainable management of their forest.

-Timber harvesting practices which improve forest production and other uses.

-How to sell timber and receive fair market value while at the same time protecting their long term interest.

-Who to contact for professional forestry assistance.

This workshop will be conducted by MSU Extension Forestry Specialists along with other natural resource agencies.

Cost of the workshop shall be $7.50. If you would like more information or would like to attend, please call the Charlevoix County MSU Extension office at 616-582-65232.

Sign up deadline is Wednesday, Jan. 31.

Jackie Hayes joins Vacation Properties Network

If you're in the market to buy or sell property in and around the Charlevoix area, Jackie Hayes is the person to see. Jackie just renewed her Real Estate license and recently joined the Vacation Properties Network staff, where she'll specialize in residential and resort property. As a longtime Charlevoix resident, Jackie brings a wealth of knowledge, keen judgment, and local insight to her sales position ... and she's well-connected to the greater Charlevoix community.

Prior to joining Vacation Properties Network, Jackie worked for an environmental law firm, substitute taught in our public school system, and raised two children. She continues to teach C.C.D. classes at St. Mary's and is active in many civic organizations. Jackie's husband, Roy Hayes, is a Charlevoix attorney and her son, Roy C. Hayes III, is in practice with him. Their daughter, Amy, will soon graduate from Notre Dame Law School.

Phyllis McKenzie

Phyllis McKenzie, 61, of Charlevoix, died Jan. 11, 1996, at Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey.

There will be no services or visitation.

Mrs. McKenzie was born Sept. 26, 1934, in Wayne, Mich., the daughter of John and Isabelle Springer.

On April 18, 1953, she married Peter H. McKenzie in Wayne.

They moved to Northern Michigan 25 years ago from Wayne, and have spent the last 17 years in Charlevoix.

Mrs. McKenzie worked in the delicatessen at Glen's in Charlevoix for the past three years.

Survivors include her husband, Peter, of Charlevoix; two sons, Steve and his wife, Lori, of East Jordan, and Michael and his wife, Martha, of East Jordan; one daughter, Penny Ann McKenzie, of Boyne City; six grandchildren; four sisters, Marie Seltzer of St. Clair Shores, Virginia Harris of Garden City, Doris Bishop and her husband, Don, of Plymouth, and Alice Disney and her husband, Jack, of Sunnydale, Calif.; one brother, Jack Springer, of California; and her mother, Isabelle Springer, of Wayne.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to Hospice of Little Traverse Bay. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix, or may be sent directly to Hospice of Little Traverse Bay, 416 Connable Ave., Petoskey, Mich. 49770.

Robert Olson

Robert L. Olson, 73, of Charlevoix, died Jan. 12, 1996, at Bortz Health Care of Petoskey.

Funeral was held Jan. 15, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Rev. Robert V. Warren, pastor of Parr Memorial Baptist Church in Petoskey, will officiate. Burial will be in Barnard Cemetery.

Mr. Olson was born Oct. 23, 1922, in Hastings, N.D., the son of Edwin and Josephine (Erickson) Olson. He moved to the Detroit area as a young boy.

He served in the U.S. Navy in the Pacific Theater during World War II.

On April 24, 1948, he married Agnes D. Dvoracek in Detroit. Mr. Olson worked for the Excello Corp., in Detroit for 18 years.

The couple moved to Charlevoix in 1960, and Mrs. Olson preceded him in death on July 23, 1994.

Mr. Olson worked as a house painter in Northern Michigan for 30 years.

He was a member of the V.F.W. Post No. 1153, and the Bible Baptist Church in Charlevoix.

Survivors include three daughters and their spouses, Karen and David Dickinson of Charlevoix, Sharon and William Repper of Flushing, and Candace and Daniel Armstrong of Euless, Texas; two sons, Robert E. Olson of Charlevoix, and Edwin Olson of Alpena; 10 grandchildren; one brother, Lynn Olson and his wife, Gerry, of Plymouth; and by two sisters, LuWayne Smith and her husband, Howard, of Detroit, and Eldia Loren and her husband, O.J., of Gig Harbor, Wash.

Memorial contributions may be directed to the family of Robert L. Olson for a purpose to be determined a later date.

Foundation helps youth programs

The year 1995 ended on a high note for several area nonprofit organizations selected to receive grants from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation's Youth Fund. A Youth Advisory Committee, made up of student representatives from each high school in the county, reviewed grant requests from a number of local agencies before deciding which programs to support. A total of $15,925 will be distributed to nine projects that benefit children and families in the area.

Programs chosen for funding, and their grant amounts, are:

- Top of Michigan Trails Council, $2,500. To support the development of a 127-mile system of recreational trails in Charlevoix, Emmet, and Cheboygan counties.
- Jordan River Arts Council, $1,400. To underwrite production of three stage plays during the fifth annual Children's Theatre Festival this year.
- City of Charlevoix, $2,000. To the city police department for D.A.R.E., a substance abuse prevention program directed toward elementary school students.
- Raven Hill Discovery Center, $1,375. Toward the purchase of high-tech laser equipment that will expand the center's hands-on science programming for kids.
- Charlevoix County MSU Extension, $2,350. To purchase a soccer goal set for the county's popular 4-H soccer program.
- Charlevoix County MSU Extension, $1,500. Toward the completion of the county's only official ice hockey rink, located in Boyne City.
- Charlevoix Teen Center, Inc. $3,000. To help fund a part-time staff person who will develop and coordinate wholesome activities for your people.
- East Jordan Public Schools, $1,500. To install a special stage-lighting system in the high school auditorium for use by community groups, the Jordan River Arts Council, and school programs.
- Boyne City Middle School, Ms. Susan Martin's 8th grade class, $300. To help fund a field trip to Sleeping Bear Dunes, where students will study geological formations. This is the first grant awarded by the Foundation's youth group under its new mini-grant program. The program encourages eighth grade students to write and submit their own grant applications for special school-related projects.

With the addition of these new grants, the Foundation's youth committee has awarded more than $36,000 to support various community efforts — $22,625 in 1995 alone. All money for the grants comes from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation Youth Fund — a special endowment earmarked for programs that benefit young people. Thanks to the generosity of local contributors, and matching dollars from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation, the fund has grown to over $700,000 in just three years. Only interest income from the fund is used to make grants, so the endowment will continue to grow and serve as a permanent savings account to enrich and improve the lives of area children for generations to come.

Before making grant decisions, the Youth Advisory Committee studies local programs and learns about local needs by surveying peers, parents, and teachers. Members of the group include Erin McDonough, Kendra Wojan, and Darryl Mooney from Beaver Island; Jenny Patton and Lindsay Blackall from Boyne Falls; Alana Simonsen, Charity Hoover, and Joe Richter from Boyne City; Rachel Newcomb and Nicholas Bogart from Charlevoix; April Bergmann, Larry MacEachern, Kevin McNeil, and Anna Salinas from East Jordan; and Derik David, Shena Walker, and Diana Hanrahan from Porter Creek School.

More information about the Charlevoix County Community Foundation and its Youth Fund is available by calling the Foundation office, 616/536-2440, or writing PO Box 718, East Jordan, Michigan, 49727.

NOW PLAYING

During the month of December precipitation was above average on the Lake Superior basin and below average on the Lakes Michigan-Huron, Erie and Ontario basins. For the year to date, precipitation is about 4 percent above average for the entire Great Lakes basin. The net supply of water to Lake Superior was above average in December, while the supplies to Lakes Michigan-Huron, Erie and Ontario were below average.

In comparison to their long-term (1918-1994) averages, the December monthly mean water level of Lake Superior was 1 inch below average, the level of Lakes Michigan-Huron, Lakes St. Clair, Erie and Ontario were 1, 4, 4, and 5 inches above average respectively. Shoreline residents are cautioned to be alert whenever adverse weather conditions exist, as these could cause rapid short-term rises in water levels. Should the lakes approach critically high levels, further information and advice will be provided by the Corps of Engineers.

A more detailed summary of Lakes Michigan-Huron water levels follows:

Lakes Michigan-Huron at the end of December were at elevation 578.67 feet (176.38 meters) above the mean water level at Rimouski, Quebec, or about 14 inches (38 cm.) above Chart Datum. The December monthly mean level of 578.77 feet (176.41 meters) was about 1 inch (2 cm.) above the long-term average for December. The lakes were about 33 inches (85 cm.) below the all-time high December monthly mean level, which was recorded in 1986. The forecast shows that the January monthly mean level of Lakes Michigan-Huron will be about 2 inches (4 cm.) below what it was at Mid-December. The lakes are expected to complete their seasonal decline in February. The water level in Mid-June 1996 is expected to be about 1 inch (3 cm.) above the long-term average for that month, or about 1 inch (2 cm.) below what it was at the same time in 1995.

School board postpones technology decision

by Laurie Lounsbury

Technology will play a big role in the future of Charlevoix schools, but planning for technology is almost as complex and confusing as the technology itself. The Charlevoix school board is considering their options to plan for technology.

At Monday evening's school board meeting, superintendent Dr. Roberta Jackson presented the board with a proposal for a technology study, to be done by an outside consulting firm. "The study will tell us what we have now, and what we need in the future," Jackson said. The projected cost of the study is between $2,600 and $3,000.

The proposal was met with questions from several board members. "What is the end result - that we have a document?" board member Allen Telgenhof asked. Telgenhof served on a school board in Clio, which went through similar changes in technology. Telgenhof said that in Clio, the board hired a technology director, whose first task was to do a technology assessment similar to the one proposed by the consultants.

Board member Sulane Hamilton said that a technology director position is in the school budget for the 1997-98 school year. "Can we wait and see if the budget committee can bring in the technology director a year early?" Hamilton asked.

The urgency for a technology study stems from the desire to get the school system on line with the Internet. "Internet is the greatest educational resource available today, particularly for kids living in a rural environment like Charlevoix. It connects us to the world," said Scott Mays, high school computer teacher.

Before Charlevoix students can start surfing the 'net, someone needs to figure out the most efficient way to network the school's computers together and hook up to the Internet.

The board postponed any action on the technology consulting proposal until they learn more about technology needs. A technology work session is scheduled for the next board meeting, February 5.

9-1-1 start-up date set back to May

by Laurie Lounsbury

The 9-1-1 director Gordy Neihardt doesn't like the word "delay." He said using the word delay implies that there is a problem with the 9-1-1 plans. Call it what you want, but 9-1-1 won't be operational by the end of March, as previously projected.

According to Neihardt, plans are still going smoothly, but a 9-1-1 start-up date of March 31 is no longer a possibility. The tentative new start-up time is May 1, and even that date may be overly optimistic. "There are a lot of pieces that make this up, like spokes of a wheel, and you need to have them all in place in order to turn the wheel," Neihardt said.

The revised start-up date is due in part to the lengthy process of getting FCC approval for three new microwave receivers. The microwaves will be installed on the Petoskey water tower. Hiring employees, planning the ten-week training session around the arrival of new 9-1-1 equipment, and building the dispatch center in bad weather have also taken longer than originally anticipated.

The 12 new employees have been hired, and will be starting their new jobs between Feb. 1 and Feb. 15. Employees are a balanced mix of Charlevoix, Emmet, and Cheboygan County residents.

Is renumbering in different cities slowing down the process? Not according to Neihardt. Other cities in the three county plan have done moderate renumbering and street name changes as needed, but nothing of the magnitude of the proposed Charlevoix renumbering. "I've worked in other counties that did total renumbering, and they were glad they cleaned it up once and for all," Neihardt said.

Charlevoix's struggles with the renumbering issue won't affect the 9-1-1 service. "It doesn't stop our implementation of 9-1-1," Neihardt said.

New business changes oil in ten minutes

by Laurie Lounsbury

You can get your oil changed, filters replaced, interior vacuumed, silicone sprayed on creaky doors, and you can get it done in ten minutes, without an appointment. That's the promise Aaron Moffat makes to his customers at his new business, Northern Express. Northern Express is a Valvoline ten-minute oil change business on M-66.

Moffat got the idea for his new business when he got frustrated trying to get his oil changed quickly in Charlevoix. Moffat, like many people today, was always too busy to schedule an appointment for an oil change, then sit around and wait for the job to get done.

Moffat offers his customers more than just a quick oil change. After your first visit, Moffat logs your car, mileage, and license plate number into his computer. He keeps a maintenance record for the customers and sends out reminder notices when you're due for another oil change. And if you decide to sell your car, Moffat will provide you with a computer print-out of your car's maintenance history. "It's all very service oriented, getting in and out quickly so you can be on your way," Moffat said.

Moffat said he gets his focus on customer service from his career as a chef. He's worked as a chef for the last 16 years, and still cooks at the Grey Gables on weekends. "I think I can do this job well because I'm so customer oriented from the food service business," Moffat said.

Northern Express has been open for two weeks, with hours from nine to six on weekdays and ten to four on Saturdays. Tuesday is ladies day, when women get three dollars off the $22.95 price of an oil change. Wednesday is seniors day, offering the same discount to senior citizens.

Aaron Moffat, manager and owner of Northern Express, a new oil change business on M-66, stands between his employees Jason Brookins, left, and Shawn VanVolkenburg, right.

Basketball team loses

A slow start doomed the Charlevoix varsity basketball team and led to a 68-51 loss at Elk Rapids Jan. 9. The Rayders fell behind 23-7 in the first quarter and never recovered.

Charlevoix got its offense back in order in the second quarter and outscored Elk Rapids 18-15 to trail 38-25 at halftime. But the Rayders came out stale in the third quarter and fell behind 54-35 by the end of the third quarter.

Although the loss dropped the Rayders' season record to 0-7, there were some positive signs. Charlevoix doesn't have any particularly tall players this season and if the Rayders are to erase that ugly circle in the win column, somebody's going to have to stake a claim to the paint and play big and ugly rather than small and pretty. Against the Elks, Charlevoix's George McClellan got close enough to the glass to pick up 11 rebounds to go with 18 points. David Manker also had six rebounds. Even with the rebounds, Charlevoix did not go to the free throw line at all in the game. That statistic usually indicates that the offense is getting the vast majority of its shots from the perimeter rather than close to the basket.

Mark Boss had 16 points for the Rayders while Josh Miller and Matt Mosoryak each had five assists.

Elk Rapids also won the junior varsity game, 68-51 despite 14 points apiece from Matt McClellan and Josh Holecheck.

It's a long run to Boston

Local runners (from left) Paul Gelderblom, Mel Vance, Christie Vogelheim, Vicki Voisin and Bud Boss, along with Tom Harbaugh (not shown) will be among 25,000 runners participating in the 100th running of the Boston Marathon this coming April. The Boston Marathon is the world's most prestigious marathon race. All of the Charlevoix runners have previously participated in marathons, but in the coming weeks will begin zeroing in their training for the 26.2 mile romp in Boston. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

Local runners train for 100th running of the Boston Marathon

Six Charlevoix runners will be among 25,000 runners competing in the 100th running of the Boston Marathon, April 15. Bud Boss, Christie Vogelheim, Mel Vance, Paul Gelderblom, Vicki Voisin and Tom Harbaugh of Charlevoix recently began their final months of training for the world's oldest and best known marathon.

Three of the Charlevoix runners have participated in the 26.2 mile race in previous years, but for the other three the race will be a new adventure.

All of the runners have been running and are already in good physical condition, but now will begin zeroing in on an April 15 date in Boston in the training programs. Each runner has their own training program, but the Charlevoix runners say they run between 40 and 70 miles each week to train for the race.

Normally, runners have to meet certain qualifying times to qualify for the Boston Marathon. Those times vary according to a runners age and gender. For example, men between the ages of 18 and 34 have to run a qualifying marathon in less the three hours and 10 minutes to qualify for Boston. Women between the ages of 18 and 34 must run a qualifying marathon in 3:40 or less to qualify. At age 35 and every five years after that, the qualifying time increases by five minutes.

This year, the Boston Athletic Association which administers the race, is not only accepting runners with qualifying times, but in honor of the 100th race is expanding the field to 25,000 through a lottery system.

All of the Charlevoix runners had the necessary qualifying times and didn't need to go through the lottery system.

Grants available for inland fisheries

The Department of Natural Resources is inviting conservation-related groups, individuals, and local units of government to apply for grants under the Inland Fisheries Cooperative Grants Program. Proposals for projects to improve inland fisheries are due Feb. 1.

Grant applications are available from any DNR District Office and are due in DNR District Offices by Feb. 1. The grants will be awarded on Oct. 1.

The goal of this program is to foster understanding, participation and commitment by citizens and communities, in cooperation with the DNR Fisheries Division, toward the improvement of inland fishing opportunities in Michigan and appreciation of the state's fisheries resources.

Established by the Legislature in 1986, the Inland Fisheries Cooperative Grants Program is administered by the DNR Fisheries Division and operates with an annual appropriation of $200,000. Individual grants up to $20,000 are awarded by the DNR to those qualifying groups of citizens who meet specific project criteria and can match the grant amount, either financially or with in-kind services.

Various types of inland fisheries-related projects are eligible. A high priority will be placed on projects which address angling and habitat enhancement to promote fish production in inland lakes and streams.

Examples of eligible projects include construction of spawning reefs, fishing piers, sediment traps in conjunction with erosion control, and fish cover structures, as well as projects featuring innovative lake and stream habitat enhancement.

The DNR recommends that applicants work closely with their district fisheries biologist from the very start of the proposal-writing and application process in order to help identify key areas where inland fisheries improvements are most needed.

Grant applications are available from any DNR district office, but an application must be submitted to the district fisheries biologist for the area where the project will be located.

Doing business without promoting is like working in the dark—nobody knows how to find you when they need you.

City begins budget review

by L. Scott Swanson

Charlevoix's city council began reviewing the proposed 1996-97 city budget Monday evening. The budget proposes revenues of $11.59 million and expenditures of $11.56 million.

The proposed budget is down approximately $400,000 from the current year, primarily due to less spending on the Downtown Development Authority's (DDA) Bridge Park project.

Despite spending less on Bridge Park this year than last year, capital expenditures (i.e. building and construction projects) still account for approximately $3.7 million of expenditures.

Property tax rates for city residents will remain nearly unchanged although the millage rate will be down slightly, from 13.386 mills to 13.336 mills, due to a decrease in debt retirement millage from 1.05 to 1 mill. A mill is $1 for every $1,000 of a home's taxable value.

Although property taxes will be down, utility rates, recreation rates and parking fine charges will be up.

Electric rates will be raised by 4.5 percent, sewer rates by 3.5 percent and water rates by 2.5 percent.

Asked by councilman Butch Russell why electric rates are increasing, city treasurer Rick Brandi explained that the rate increase will allow the electric fund cash reserve to increase by approximately $260,000. The larger reserve is needed to comply with provisions for a bond the city is paying off.

One busts, the other rescues you

by Laurie Lounsbury

Spook has a nose for drugs. Gypsy is more of a people pooch. If you're hiding marijuana, Spook will find it. If your hunting husband gets lost in the woods, Gypsy will rescue him. It's kind of a good cop, bad cop routine.

These two "cops" are the newest additions to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department. Spook and Gypsy are trained sniffing and tracking dogs, working under the tutelage of deputy sheriff Rex Behling.

The tracking dog program is a pet project for Sheriff George Lasater and Behling. The dogs belong to Behling, who has put in over 250 hours of training time with Spook and Gypsy. Lasater has been able to fund the program entirely with donations from the public. "It will continue to be funded that way, but right now we're in the hole," Lasater said.

Gypsy is a two-year-old German Shepard, trained for tracking lost people. Her carefree, puppy days of chasing squirrels are already over. Gypsy is trained to ignore distractions of other animals or children and stick to the business of tracking a lost person.

Scott and Tina Elzinga of Boyne City help Behling with the training process. On cold, blustery days, Elzinga will go hide in the woods for an hour and let Gypsy track him down. Gypsy also needs to have very good manners. Obedience training is a major part of her work. "She needs to be able to find lost children, and then not scare them away when she finds them," Behling explained. Gypsy readily demonstrates her good manners with a gentle nudge to a visitor's hand, followed by a friendly lick.

Spook's training is another story. The nine-year-old, part lab, part golden retriever is naturally well-mannered from early training. Spook was Behling's pet long before he became a police dog. Behling had to undo all of Spook's good manners when he trained the dog for sniffing out controlled substances. "We had to teach him it's okay to jump on couches and dining room tables when he's looking for drugs," Behling said. So instead of wearing two hats, Spook wears two collars. When he's wearing his dope collar, he knows it's okay to jump on furniture and sniff out illegal substances. At other times, he wears a different collar that lets him know he should behave himself.

The dog tracking program is already in demand by different law enforcement agencies. State police troopers have called Behling and his dogs to situations where they had probable cause to believe there were drugs in a car, but they couldn't find them. Spook never lets them down. "We've never come out empty-handed," Behling said.

The dogs are also earning quite a reputation with S.A.N.E., (Straits Area Narcotics Enforcement) for their ability to sniff out drugs.

Behling brings the dogs into D.A.R.E. (Drug and Alcohol Resistance Education) classes to demonstrate their effectiveness at sniffing drugs. Behling has been teaching D.A.R.E. programs in the county for the last three years. "It should be a great deterrent, especially in the schools, but it will only be a deterrent if the schools utilize the service," Lasater said.

di said the city staff is trying to plan for the next five years so that rates can be set at a level where they won't have to increase beyond the rate of inflation, yet there will still be adequate funds available to pay for capital improvements. One of the major improvements looming in the future for the electric fund is a substation for the north side. Depending on growth in power needs a north side substation with a cost of $2 million may be needed around the turn of the century.

Recreation rates are being raised to cover program costs. Rates for the Mount McSauba summer day camp will rise from $50 to $55 per week. Swimming lesson rates will go from $5 per person to $10 per person. Youth softball rates will go from $10 per person to $15. Season passes at the Municipal Golf Course will increase between $25 and $55 depending on which category a golfer falls into.

Parking rates will increase from $1-$5-$10 to $2-$10-$20.

DDA projects, primarily the completion of the Bridge Park project, account for $2.2 million of the capital improvement budget. The next latest item is $448,200 for infrastructure work. Major infrastructure projects in the coming year will include: sidewalk repairs; completion of the softball complex project with accompanying street, sidewalk and storm sewer work; street and underground utility work on Mercer between Petoskey Avenue and Cherry Street; and City Hall improvements.

Councilmen Bruce Reid and Russell complained that some sections of sidewalk are cracking only a year or so after being replaced. City manager Mike Wiesner said he would look into the matter.

Russell and Reid also asked if the city might consider adding another mill for additional infrastructure improvements. The city added four mills for infrastructure improvements in the late 1980s on what was proposed at that time to be a 15-year program to get city streets, sidewalks, sewer and water lines in proper repair.

Wiesner said that he feels the city is still on track to have things in order within the 15 year period.

Budget process has improved

L. Scott Swanson

The city council's annual review of the city budget began Monday evening and so far budget discussions are as tranquil as they've been in years.

As you may recall, last year the proposed budget wasn't submitted to the council until shortly before the Feb. 28 end of the fiscal year. When council members refused to simply rubber stamp what was proposed, special meetings had to be called to get the budget adopted prior to the beginning of the city's new fiscal year.

This year, things are going much better. The proposed budget has been submitted in January, offering council members plenty of time for review and analysis.

Monday evening the council reviewed the capital improvement (building, construction and equipment purchases) portion of the budget. The review went very well.

As mentioned in an earlier editorial, the capital improvement portion of the city budget is remarkably well done by the city staff. It lays out in easy to understand terms all of the city's capital improvement plans for the next several years.

If you see a section of street that looks like it's going bad and you want to know when it's scheduled to be repaired, you can find that information on page C-9. For example, Michigan Avenue between Petoskey and Division is scheduled for major repair work in the year 2002.

On the motor pool page, you can find out, among other things, that the city street department is scheduled to get a new back hoe in 1998.

Having such a well developed capital plan allows the city to budget for and make purchases in an organized manner, rather than simply reacting to whatever crisis rears its head in a given year. It's a matter of proactive, rather than reactive, budgeting. The advantages of such budgeting should be obvious, but you'd be amazed at how many public and private entities fail to do it.

One budgetary item city taxpayers should be wary of though, is some casual discussion which took place Monday evening regarding the infrastructure, (i.e. street, sidewalk, sewer and water lines etc.) budget.

Back in the late 1980s the city increased property taxes by four mills to pay for infrastructure work. The rationale given to support the increase was that for years the city hadn't done enough infrastructure repair work to keep up with decay. Consequently, the city needed to levy an additional four mills for 15 years to "catch up."

This four mills was on top of the Downtown Development Authority, which when you cut through all the tax terminology is essentially just an added tax earmarked for central business district infrastructure work.

Now, approximately halfway into the 15-year program, there are some mild rumblings on the council about either increasing the infrastructure tax now, or finding ways to keep levying at least a portion of the tax beyond 15 years.

Monday evening, councilman Butch Russell, who for years wanted to reduce the infrastructure millage from four to three mills, was talking about looking into raising the infrastructure millage by perhaps a mill to offset Headlee Amendment roll backs. Well, to begin with, the Headlee Amendment has only rolled the infrastructure millage back less than two-tenths of a mill, from 4 mills to 3.836 mills. Beyond that, the Headlee Amendment only rolls millage back to compensate for tax increases due to property assessments rising at rates greater than inflation. In other words, the rollback in millage has been more than compensated for in property value increases.

While Russell and councilman Bruce Reid mentioned the possibility of increasing the infrastructure millage, city manager Mike Wiesner noted that although the city is on target to complete the infrastructure improvements within the planned 15-year period, the city might want to consider some means of keeping the additional taxes beyond the 15 years for other projects.

Taxpayers should cast a wary eye on either an infrastructure increase or an infrastructure stretch. The deal on this infrastructure program was that it was going to be four mills for 15 years, not that infrastructure repairs were going to serve as a selling point to get a foot in the door for a permanent tax increase. Taxpayers should hold the city council to the original deal.

Dan Adler

We all know that Charlevoix attracts a great variety of people from many walks of life. Yet it was a surprise to meet two men recently, who are both currently involved with diesel locomotives. Dan Adler, formerly of Cincinnati and now living in Ironton, is a locomotive engineer for freight and passenger trains. He commutes between Ohio and Indiana as an instructor/supervisor, when he's not filling in playing rhythm and blues, rock and roll or jazz on his guitar at local watering holes. But more about that later.

Gene Kasmer, on the other hand, spends every free minute in Norwood, when he's not working for the General Motors Corporation, Locomotive Group as Operations Superintendent.

My goal is to have these two congenial fellows meet, which hasn't been easy since their traveling schedules have not jibed. So I shall introduce one to the other via the Courier.

Dan calls himself a fifth generation fudgie! His grandparents have summered in Oden since 1921. He recalls traveling north as a child every July from Cincinnati to Charlevoix and Oden on the Northern Arrow. He chuckles as he recalls an episode that happened years later, after he was hired by the Alanson and Petoskey Michigan Northern Railroad as engineer on the daytime excursion run. Unfortunately, one day the train broke down — guess where — in Oden. Dan jumped off the train and ran to the cottage his grandfather had sold to friends. He knocked on the door and cried, "My train broke down! May I use your phone?"

"That's a good one!" his childhood friend replied.

When he finally convinced her he was serious, he telephoned the station and a bus was sent to pick up the stranded passengers and return them to Alanson.

Adler remembers that for almost 100 years, "Daddy's Special" railroad cars steamed north on Fridays and returned south on Sundays. Charlevoix summer vacationers, business and professional men, sometimes visited friends in Oden where they had a few drinks at the cottage, while they were waiting to board the train from Mackinac City. From time to time they checked by phone, "Has the train left?" and when they were given the word, the group would go to the platform and light a newspaper to flag the train down.

It was Labor Day, 1961, Adler recalls that the last passenger train ran to points south, Grand Rapids, Detroit and Cincinnati.

Before Adler became a locomotive engineer, he was a song writer, band leader, music arranger and wrote sound tracks for TV ad films. He worked with members of the Rolling Stones in England in the early '80s. Charlie

KCB congratulates Sitzema on Ambassador award

Editor,

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful congratulates Patty Sitzema on her recognition by the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce. Patty is a member of the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful board and, with her daughter, Sheena, a member of KCBs youth advisory committee, has helped for years with petunia picnics, planting, weeding, and so on. Herein lies Patty's strength. As a busy and conscientious parent, she has taken the time to set an example and educate her children on the importance of community service as she initiates projects and participates in civic activities.

Congratulations, Patty!

Vote should reflect constituent wishes

Editor,

It was quite evident from the recent Charlevoix City Council meeting, (Mon., Jan. 15), when five council members voted down the re-numbering plan, that the sole dissenting vote was cast by a council member, whose political actions could certainly be described as arrogant, self-centered and didn't even come close to reflecting the will of the third ward people he purportedly represents.

To their credit, Council members Campbell, Cross, Meggison, Russell & Timms, originally stated they'd follow the will of their constituencies and kept their word. However, one of the third ward representatives failed to hear the will of his people. How peculiar and sad that one council member could hear the "ding dong," and the second could only hear the "ding!"

Also, it's interesting to recall that this only "no" vote came from a person who ran for the office unopposed. Perhaps the time has come for him to realize that the next time around, he'll find suitable competition? That is, if he's still in office to run again!

Sincerely,

Jill Picha

You can fight City Hall

Editor,

The people have spoken. The council, with one regrettable exception, listened and bowed to the will of the majority of the people. This is how a democracy works.

A little 2x4 committee was hastily formed in opposition to this re-numbering plan which was already being hailed by department heads in City Hall as a 'Done Deal.' A done deal is a done deal when the people say it's a done deal.

There were claims supporting the re-numbering plan which were simply not true, no matter how they were presented. 911, for example, will be activated at its appointed time regardless of any numbering system in Charlevoix.

In this era of high-tech weaponry, the infantry is still referred to as the 'Queen of Battles.' Our 'Queens' were the volunteers who hit the pavement. They put their cold fingers on the pulse of the city by gathering about 700 signatures of tax payers who opposed the total re-numbering plan; a man with a bad hip on one side of town, a busy grandmother with cold feet on the other side, a grandmother in the valley, working citizens who could only help at night, people who took time to call their council members, all others who had input and the committee members who stumbled along as best they could.

Remember, you tax payers, to thank your council members who made this entire effort possible. We apologize to the ones who were subjected to questionable and unwarranted personal attacks. The bottom line is you were there when it counted.

This was not a victory. This was a vindication of the will of the majority of the tax payers.

In conclusion, even if it's old age or second childhood, we now believe in Santa Claus and the Tooth Fairy once again because one, old adage has been laid to rest, YOU CAN FIGHT CITY HALL!!!

Thanks for your time.

Sincerely,

Perry Smith, still living at 216 W. Hurlbut

...Edith: how to run a railroad

Watts and Ian Stewart, who were interested in steam locomotives got Adler started in their hobby. This mutual interest led Adler to a part-time job as steam locomotive fireman in the United States.

"I never thought I'd get paid to do this!" he admits.

Adler served his apprenticeship both in England and in the United States in Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania. Here he attended the Burlington Northern Engineers Training Program in Kansas City, which qualifies him as a federally certified diesel locomotive engineer for freight and passenger trains.

Now, getting back to Gene Kasmer and General Motors Locomotives — Gene tells us, if you press him, that over the past fifty years, GM has manufactured 50,000 diesel electric locomotives in London, Ontario and LaGrange, Illinois. Over 60 nations on every continent have placed orders for these sleek, new engines. But most amazing of all, is the story he shares with us about the locomotive that flew last summer! No, this is not a bedtime story for children — but a true story for grownup engine buffs.

It seems that Irish Rail ordered ten new generation, high-horse-powered locomotives, that attain the speed of 100 miles per hour. The first engine had to be delivered on a specified date. This presented a real challenge to the engineers, who were operating on a tight schedule. Therefore, the world's largest commercial jet (Antonov) was rented from the Russians. This airplane not only lifts 20 tons, but burns 1000 gallons of fuel while taxiing on the runway! A Ukranian crew of 21 transported the locomotive from London, Canada, via Montreal, Gander, Newfoundland to its destination in Dublin, Ireland. I'm told the touchdown for unloading was a piece of cake compared to the loading of the locomotive inside the plane on railroad tracks and tying it down during the long flight.

Chances are, however, you'll find that Gene prefers to talk more about how much he enjoys the solitude of his cabin in Norwood, the beauty of the woods and waters in Northern Michigan. He's as anxious to meet Dan Adler as Dan is to meet Gene. Do you think Dan might choose to play Chattanooga Choo Choo for this engagement on his guitar? I'm betting he will!

United Way drive raises $160,000

The United Ways of Charlevoix and Emmet county have ended their first joint campaign, successfully raising $160,000. This year marked the first attempt at bringing the three organizations together for a single campaign.

"Thanks to the hundreds of individual and corporate contributors, the United Way will make a difference in our area in 1996," said Charlevoix United Way President Ellen Zienert. "Last year over 17,000 residents of our two county area were provided services through United Way contributions. Almost everyone is touched by these agencies and we extend our sincere appreciation to all those who supported us this year."

Over 32 percent of the United Way funds raised came from the eight Pacesetter companies who led the campaign in early September. The Pacesetters were: Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant and Local 346, Burns Clinic, the City of Charlevoix, John Hoffman Landscaping, NBD Bank, Petoskey Public Schools, Plunkett & Cooney, PC and the Women's Resource Center. These companies each represented top contributors in each campaign division.

The campaign was full of unexpected surprises. Several companies had significant increases in their employee campaigns and new workplace campaigns were started in local businesses which helped the United Way reach their goal.

"We set realistic goals for ourselves this year and feel good about what we have accomplished together," said Zienert. "This is the beginning of a growth period for the United Way locally and we are excited about the positive response from our donors. Together we will make a difference!"

From substance abuse counseling to camp scholarships, the United Way touches many lives. With this year's campaign finished, the United Way now concentrates on where the contributions will go.

"With the threat of public funding cuts, our agencies depend on private donations to supplement their budgets. Through the support of the United Way and our contributors, agencies will be able to provide essential services to residents of our community," said Emmet County President Dave Gracy.

The United Way will be distributing funds to qualified organizations in February. Anyone wishing to contribute or volunteer may contact the United Way office at 347-0115.

Eastern Star inducts a new member

Worthy Matron Rosalyn Goldstick presided at the Jan. 17 meeting of Charlevoix Chapter #72, Order of Eastern Star.

The Sunshine committee report was made with 175 get-well and sympathy cards being sent to those ill, shut-ins, etc. Thirty seven calls were made, and nine visits to other Chapters.

Congratulations were given to Ann Hufford, for her appointment as Director of Division 2, for Florence Adair who will be installed in 1997 as Most Worthy Grand Matron of the General Grand Chapter of Order of Eastern Star. The General Grand Chapter will convene in Orlando, FL. with members world-wide attending. Hufford's position is to assist in promoting Michigan to the world members. Carla Spencer was also congratulated on her recent appointment as County Equalization Director, and Ray Wood on being chosen Chamber of Commerce Citizen of the Year. A Life Membership was granted to Esther Carey, Past Worthy Matron, for over 35 years of continued service to the Chapter.

The Chapter Charter was draped for 30 days in memory of Gladys Mort who died in December, and a Resolution of Respects was read by Dorothea Kelley, and will be sent to the family. A contribution was also made in memory of Gladys Mort to the Golden Age Fund. A contribution was also made to the Charlevoix High School Seniors for their graduation party. It was noted that the Chapter members donated 31 large bags of grocery items, plus bottles of soaps and paper products, to the Charlevoix Christmas Pantry.

An Exemplification of the Degrees was held, with Patricia Christ being welcomed as a new member into the Chapter.

The Chapter will not hold meetings during the months of February and March, to re-convene Wednesday, April 17.

Martin - Taylor

Lynn Martin and Bill Taylor of Davidson, North Carolina were married Oct. 14 in a double-ring ceremony at the First Baptist Church in Huntersville, North Carolina.

The bride is the daughter of Muriel and Jim Martin of Rock Hill, South Carolina. The groom is the son of Louise and Doug Bergmann of Charlevoix.

The bride was given in marriage by her father Jim Martin. She wore a gown of satin sheath.

Lee Strait served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Elyn Dortch, Tammy Ballard and Betty Schmeider. They wore black velvet, knee-length dresses.

Doug Bergmann served as best man. Groomsmen were Douglas Bergmann, John Tunison, Lee Allard and Matt Peterson.

Prior to the wedding a rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents in Lake Norman at the home of the bride and groom. Following the wedding a reception was held at the River Run Country Club in Davidson, North Carolina.

The couple took a wedding trip to the Wild Dunes Resort on the Isle of the Palms off of Charleston, South Carolina.

The couple is making their home in Davidson where the bride is employed as a senior project manager with the Broadway & Seymour Software Development Co. and the groom is employed by Microban Products.

Robin Maurer has been named the new manager of the Rainbow Shoppe. She is only the second manager the resale shop has had in its 13 year history. The original manager, Joe Spurgeon, died in October. The shop has raised nearly $1 million for Charlevoix charities.

Maurer named manager of Rainbow Shoppe

by L. Scott Swanson

Robin Maurer has been named the new manager of the Rainbow Shoppe. Maurer is only the second manager the resale shop has had in its 13-year history. Joe Spurgeon was the founding manager and was with the shop until his death this past October.

Despite Spurgeon's death, Maurer plans to see that many of his goals for the shop become a reality. Prior to Spurgeon's death, he and Maurer had worked together for six years at the Rainbow Shoppe.

"Joe and I were a good team," Maurer said. "A lot of his dreams, I plan to continue to fulfill. His dream was to make this like a regular department store. I think we've come a long way."

The Rainbow Shoppe is housed in a large white building at the center of a block bordered by Clinton, State, Park and Bridge Streets. The shop was founded by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association and its board is made up of representatives from 10 churches. The shop is staffed by Maurer and a couple of employees who are assisted by between 100 and 150 volunteers.

The Rainbow Shoppe collects donated items for resale. In its 13-year existence, the Shoppe has made nearly $1 million with profits donated back to the community. Among the projects the Shoppe has helped fund are the Community Food Pantry, Ministerial Association assistance programs, the Charlevoix Teen Center, the Charlevoix Senior Center and the Alano Club.

Maurer said one of her goals is to cut down on the trash that finds its way to the shop after hours. She said people often leave worn-out mattresses and old appliances at the shop. The items can't be resold and the Rainbow Shoppe ends up paying to have the items hauled away.

Although rounding up and coordinating the efforts of more than 100 volunteers might seem like a nearly impossible task, the Rainbow Shoppe has been up to the task. Each church has a representative who sees that certain days of the month are staffed. Maurer said most of the volunteers enjoy their time at the shop and make the work fun.

Maurer brings many years of retail experience to the Rainbow Shoppe. In addition to her six years assisting Spurgeon, she previously worked at Staley Hardware in downtown Charlevoix and prior to that in a hardware store in Lansing. She and her husband, Randy, moved to Charlevoix in 1981.

Jackie Hayes joins Vacation Properties Network

If you're in the market to buy or sell property in and around the Charlevoix area, Jackie Hayes is the person to see. Jackie just renewed her Real Estate license and recently joined the Vacation Properties Network staff, where she'll specialize in residential and resort property. As a longtime Charlevoix resident, Jackie brings a wealth of knowledge, keen judgment, and local insight to her sales position ... and she's well-connected to the greater Charlevoix community.

Prior to joining Vacation Properties Network, Jackie worked for an environmental law firm, substitute taught in our public school system, and raised two children. She continues to teach C.C.D. classes at St. Mary's and is active in many civic organizations. Jackie's husband, Roy Hayes, is a Charlevoix attorney and her son, Roy C. Hayes III, is in practice with him. Their daughter, Amy, will soon graduate from Notre Dame Law School.

Robert C. Cooper

Robert C. Cooper, 81, of Charlevoix, died Jan. 20, 1996, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Services will be held in the spring.

Mr. Cooper was born Nov. 7, 1914, in Petoskey, the son of Sam and Pearl (Horton) Cooper. He was raised in the Petoskey area. His grandfather, Sam Horton, was one of the first settlers in Horton Bay.

On Feb. 28, 1961, he married Irene E. Lepinski in Kearney, Neb., and she survives.

He was a World War II veteran of the U.S. Air Force.

Mr. Cooper was a tool and die maker by trade.

He enjoyed bowling and fishing.

Survivors include his wife, Irene, of Charlevoix; three daughters and their spouses, Sandy and Ron Leverson of Las Vegas, Nev., Joyce and Gary Naslund of Minneapolis, Minn., and Sue and Michael Borgman of Lake Forest, Calif.; three sons, Gary Cooper of Minneapolis, Minn., Steve Cooper and his wife, Ingrid, of Sterling Heights, and Mike Cooper of Indianapolis, Ind.; and by several grandchildren, great-grandchildren, nieces and nephews.

Memorial contributions may be directed to the family of Robert C. Cooper.

Arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Florence Blanchard

Florence Blanchard, 77; of Charlevoix, died Jan. 20, 1996, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

A memorial service will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 25, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Thomas Neis will officiate. Interment will take place in Barnard Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mrs. Blanchard was born Jan. 23, 1918, in Shamokin, Pa., the daughter of Alex and Anna (Krawchk) Sokoloski. She was raised in Shamokin and graduated from Coal Township High School in 1936.

During World War II, she worked for RCA in radio inspection for the U.S. Navy.

On May 7, 1949, she married Burr Blanchard in Shamokin, Pa., and they moved to Charlevoix.

Mrs. Blanchard was employed by Hoskins Manufacturing for many years, where she inspected and drew the wire used to make spacesuits for the moon landing.

She was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix. She also belonged to the V.F.W. Post No. 1153 Auxiliary and the American Legion Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226 Auxiliary, both in Charlevoix.

Mrs. Blanchard was known as a mother to everyone.

Survivors include her husband, Burr; four sons, Ross Blanchard of Long Beach, Calif., Scott Blanchard and his wife, Debbie, of Charlevoix, and Mark Blanchard and Owen T. Blanchard, both of Charlevoix; seven grandchildren; one great-grandchild; one sister, Irene Ryan and her husband, William A., of Shamokin, Pa.; three foster brothers, Frank, Andy and Ed Arrison; one sister-in-law, Ruth Sokoloski, of Montgomery, Ala.; and a daughter-in-law, Margaret Blanchard, of Torrence, Calif.

Mrs. Blanchard was preceded in death by two brothers, Ed and Al Sokoloski; and by two sisters, Mary Depiante and Victoria Miller.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to Charlevoix Area Hospital I.C.U. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix, where arrangements were made.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

by REV. PHILIP G. SCHAIRBAUM
First Congregational Church (UCC)

There certainly is a lot of sickness going around these days — people coughing, noses running, chest congestion, and the flu. I visited a nursing home the other day where all the residents were confined to their rooms as a precaution against the spread of germs. How unfortunate when such things happen.

Afterwards, I thought about how we human beings can also affect each other for the good, making positive influences and passing on that which builds up life. A good example is when we are "infected" by God's Spirit with the result that we spread the things of God wherever we go. Such things are also "contagious" by their very nature.

The basic issue here really has to do with sowing the seeds of God's kingdom. St. Francis of Assissi wrote a beautiful prayer about that:

> "Lord, make me an instrument of thy peace —
> Where there is hatred, let me sow love;
> Where there is injury, pardon;
> Where there is discord, unity;
> Where there is doubt, faith;
> There there is error, truth;
> Where there is despair, hope;
> Where there is sadness, joy;
> Where there is darkness, light.
> O Divine Master, grant that I may not so much seek > to be consoled as to console, > to be understood as to understand,
> to be loved as to love;
> For it is in giving that we receive, > it is in pardoning that we are pardoned, > it is in dying that we are born to Eternal Life."

So, may each of us be God's "contagious" people, sharing the "infectious" Spirit of God and sowing seeds of spiritual well-being wherever we go.

Mary V. Black

Mary Viola Black, 98, of Charlevoix, died Jan. 16, 1996, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Her funeral was Friday, Jan. 19, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton of the Community Church of God and pastor William Lyons of the Ellsworth Wesleyan Church officiated. Burial will take place in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mrs. Black was born Dec. 23, 1897, in Alba, the daughter of Burt and Eldora (Tupper) Gates. She was raised in the Gaylord/Alba area, then moved to Charlevoix where she worked at the Chicago Club.

On Oct. 6, 1923, she married Floyd Black in Kalkaska. He preceded her in death on Aug. 8, 1968.

Mrs. Black attended the Community Church of God in Charlevoix, and in later years the Ellsworth Wesleyan Church.

She was a member of the Marion Center Grange, and had taught sewing and 4-H.

Mrs. Black enjoyed gardening, quilting, cooking, and especially her children and grandchildren.

Survivors include three daughters, Jean Drenth of Ellsworth, Mary Lou Johnson and her husband, Richard, of Elmhurst, Ill., and Shirley Ann Wilbur and her husband, Ed, of Kalamazoo; 14 grandchildren; 32 great-grandchildren; and one sister, Gladys Garshow, of LaPorte, Ind. Mrs. Black was preceded in death by a daughter and son-in-law, Maxine and Bob Drenth; and by two grandsons, Eddie Wilbur and Jeff Drenth.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the Ellsworth Wesleyan Church or to the Community Church of God in Charlevoix.

Alice Stanley Acheson

Charlevoix native Alice Stanley Acheson, 100, of Washington, D.C., died Jan. 20, 1996, at her home.

Mrs. Acheson was the widow of Dean Acheson, former president Harry S. Truman's secretary of state. Mr. Acheson preceded her in death in 1971.

Mrs. Acheson was an artist and had exhibited her oils and watercolors at galleries and museums in Washington and New York.

She was born Aug. 12, 1895, in Charlevoix, the daughter of Louis and Jane C. Stanley.

Survivors include her son, David Acheson; a brother, George M. Stanley; two daughters, Jane A. Brown and Mary A. Bundy of Princeton, N.J.; six grandchildren; and six great-grandchildren.

BUSINESS

Dry cleaning business name changed to simplify things

Jeff Bradford owner of Boyne Cleaners in Boyne City, and Hooker's of Charlevoix felt that it was time to incorporate his businesses under one name to simplify things.

So, Boyne Cleaner's and Hooker's Cleaners of Charlevoix have been renamed Bradford's Master Drycleaners of Boyne and Charlevoix.

With the addition of a dry store location in Harbor Springs and with always the potential for more stores to come on line it just made sense to incorporated the name Bradford's Cleaners.

Bradford is no stranger to the dry cleaning business. He has been owner-operator for the past 19 years. He is very quick to point out that his success in this business has come from listening and learning from the old pros in the area, Bill Peters, Floyd Frances, Bill Casper and Bert Hooker.

Bradford admits that he is going to miss all those pranks that are associated with the name Hooker. "There have been a ton of them but it is time to move on with the new identity."

With all the marketing strategies of the business world and ever-increasing technological demands of the dry cleaning industry, Bradford's Cleaners is preparing itself to serve its customers' dry cleaning needs into the 21st Century.

Jeff Bradford, owner of Bradford's Master Drycleaners of Boyne and Charlevoix, stands next to a new rack system at the Charlevoix branch, formerly known as Hooker's of Charlevoix.

Names in business

A collection of awards, accomplishments and milestones in the careers of Charlevoix area business people.

John F. Cork, has been promoted to Mortgage Loan Officer for CB North, Charlevoix. He began his career at City Bank and Trust Company, the Jackson subsidiary bank of CB Financial Corporation, in 1992, as an Executive Trainee.

He is a graduate of Kalamazoo College with a bachelor of arts degree.

Several positions within the mortgage area of the bank provided Cork with the necessary experience before his transfer and eventual promotion at CB North.

Jim Connaughton has been promoted to assistant vice president at the Charlevoix office of FMB-Northwestern Bank.

SEE-North to host Math & Science night

SEE-North will host their Family Math and Science Night Monday, Feb. 5. The event, originally scheduled for mid-December, was postponed due to weather. SEE-North's Family Math and Science Night is an opportunity for adults and children to learn together by exploring ideas, solving problems and participating in hands-on activities. Activities are designed for 3rd-6th grade students and their parents. Families will have fun experimenting with roller coasters, estimation, electricity, the human brain, and more. It is an evening of exploration and discovery.

The event takes place 6:30-8:30 p.m., Monday, Feb. 5 at SEE-North, located in the Mort Neff Outdoor Education Center at Camp Daggett. Admission is $4 per person. Pre-registration is required because space is limited. Refreshments will be served and many prizes will be given away.

SEE-North is a regional center for science, mathematics and environmental education. It serves teachers, students and residents in 13 counties of the northern Lower Peninsula. Family Math and Science Night is one of many events conducted by the non-profit organization. For more information or to register, call SEE-North at 348-9700.

Business breakfast Feb. 2

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors are sponsoring a Business Breakfast Friday, Feb. 2 at 7:30 a.m. at the Grey Gables Inn of Charlevoix.

The breakfast program is a way to expand and enhance communication with the membership. It serves to further inform people of the current happenings in and around the community. All members and their guests are invited to attend. There is a $5 entrance fee.

The breakfast is sponsored by Charlevoix Area Hospital and the featured speaker will be Tim Petrosky, Public Affairs Director, Big Rock Power Plant.

A January thaw left the ice a bit slushy for a few days last week, but several people were still out on Lake Charlevoix ice fishing. Fishermen have been doing fairly well on perch and whitefish this winter. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

Big Rock gets a good report card

The latest U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) "report card" of Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point nuclear plant called plant performance good with an improving trend.

The report card is the NRC's Systematic Assessment of Licensee Performance (SALP), a document which evaluates four areas of plant regulatory performance over a 19-month period from May 1, 1994 to November 25, 1995. Areas evaluated are given a rating from the highest — category one, to the lowest — category three.

The Big Rock Point plant support area received a one rating, an improvement from a two rating in the previous SALP. The plant support area includes the radiation protection, chemistry, emergency preparedness and security functions. The operations, maintenance and engineering areas all received a two rating, the same rating as the previous SALP.

The NRC credits the improved performance trend at Big Rock Point to increased management involvement, an enhanced self-assessment program and a lower threshold for identifying.

"Our goal at Big Rock Point is continuous improvement and this SALP report reflects that we have improved our performance," Big Rock Point Plant Manager Patrick M Donnelly said. "As we approach the end of our operating license in 2000 we continue to focus our efforts on improving plant operations each day."

Big Rock Point was the world's first high power-density boiling water reactor and an important research site for the nuclear power industry. The plant has generated electricity since 1962 and was named a Nuclear Landmark by the American Nuclear Society.

Owned and operated by Consumers Power Company, Big Rock Point is capable of producing 67 megawatts of electricity, enough to serve a community of 38,000 people.

Volleyball team rallies late for win

by L. Scott Swanson

After a mid-match lapse, Charlevoix's varsity volleyball team got their act together in time to beat Kalkaska 15-6, 10-15, 11-15, 15-6, 15-6 Thursday, Jan. 18.

The Rayders beat the visiting Blazers comfortably in game one, but then lost their mental focus in games two and three, played sloppily and lost. In games four and five, the Rayders got their heads back in the game and won handily.

After the Rayders fell behind 1-0 in the deciding game, Liz Kelly served five straight points to put the Rayders on top to stay. During the run, Emily Murray played well in the front row, Theresa Johnson hit for a point from the back row and Jenny Swenor tipped to an open spot for another point. The other two points came on a Kalkaska miscue and an ace from Kelly.

Kalkaska called a time out and got the ball back when they found an opening in the Rayder defense. However, the Rayders immediately got the ball back when sophomore Amanda Eaton found a gap in the Blazer defense. Kristin Czerkes ran the Rayder lead to 7-1, serving two aces.

Kalkaska then ran three points and closed to 7-4 before serving into the net.

After four exchanges without points, Johnson got Charlevoix unstuck from seven serving two points, one courtesy of a Kalkaska error and the second on a serving ace.

Kalkaska took another time out and came back to pick up a side out and two points.

Johnson finished off one of the best volleys of the evening with another solid swat from the back row to get the serve back for Swenor.

Swenor then went on a serving roll. After Kalkaska hit into the net to make the score 10-6, Swenor served five straight aces to seal the game.

On the evening, Johnson led the Rayder offense with nine kills. Johnson a senior in her first year on the Charlevoix volleyball team after transferring from Flushing, is not only among the Rayders' most physically talented players, she's also the most intense. Not playing well and losing offends her. Kristin Czerkes with eight kills and Liz Kelly with six kills were Charlevoix's other top offensive players. Czerkes is one of the steadiest players on the team, not particularly flashy, but fundamentally very sound. Kelly, a senior, is in her third season with the varsity team.

Swenor was Charlevoix's top setter. She's particularly strong stopping opposing team's hits. Along with good hand-eye coordination, she's also fairly strong for a setter.

Kelly and Aprille Pischner were Charlevoix's top servers. Pischner, somewhat like Czerkes, has steadily improved from her freshman year.

Kelly, Johnson and Jessa VanGuilder, a junior in her second year on the varsity team, were Charlevoix's top defenders.

Also playing an active game at the net and disrupting Kalkaska's offense were Murray and Lisa Wheat, both juniors.

Charlevoix's junior varsity team suffered its first loss of the year, falling to Kalkaska 15-7, 15-11. Top offensive players for Charlevoix were Christine Sweeney and Carrie Blanchard. Blanchard and Anne Kerkstra led the Rayder defense. Laura Maltese, Jamie Gowell and Mandi Barrett were the Rayders top servers while Maltese and Sweency were the team's top setters.

J.V. team places third

Charlevoix's junior varsity volleyball team placed third this past Saturday at the annual Indian River - Inland Lakes Junior Varsity Invitational. Inland Lakes won the tournament while Rogers City placed second.

Charlevoix went 3-2 in pool play, sweeping Engadine (15-10, 15-6), Forest Area (15-11, 15-3) and Harbor Light (15-12, 15-3) and getting swept by Rogers City (15-10, 15-12) and Brimley (15-14, 15-11).

In bracket play, the Rayders beat Onaway 7-15, 15-11, 15-10 before losing to Inland Lakes 15-3, 15-13.

Mandi Barrett, Charlevoix's top server, was named team MVP for the tournament. Top defensive players were Mandy Webb and Julie Swenor. Top setters were Laura Maltese and Carrie Blanchard while Jamie Gowell and Carrie Blanchard led the Rayder offense.

Wrestlers place fifth at Charlevoix Invitational

Ron Haggard went 4-0 Saturday to win the 171-pound weight class at the Charlevoix Invitational Wrestling Tournament. Haggard, a senior, is now 19-2 on the year.

The invitational drew eight teams. The Rayders, with only six wrestlers competing, placed fifth.

Also placing for Charlevoix were Bruce Reinhart and Robert Torres. Reinhart, a heavyweight, went 3-1 on the day. In the match he lost, he got behind early and fell short in a comeback attempt. Torres, a freshman wrestling at 112 pounds, only began wrestling a few weeks ago, but continues to improve rapidly and beat more experienced wrestlers.

In one of the most disheartening moments of the day, Charlevoix's Kyle Russell was lost for the season with a broken leg. This season Russell had been picking up some wins and staying competitive even in the matches he lost. Saturday, he was wrestling against a Roscommon opponent when his leg snapped.

Basketball team gets first win

Charlevoix's varsity basketball team got rid of that hideous zero in the win column and replaced it with a one with a 52-47 win at Kalkaska Friday evening.

The Rayders got a monster game from senior forward George McClellan who had 28 points, six rebounds, five assists and five steals. Mark Boss and Josh Miller each hit free throws in the final 22 seconds to seal the win.

In the Kalkaska game, the Rayders got a more consistent offensive game than what they'd had in earlier losses. The Rayders led 17-14 after the first quarter, 26-22 at the half and 40-35 entering the final quarter.

Charlevoix had 21 baskets for the game, two of which were three-point baskets. The Rayders were also deadly from the free throw line where they were eight of nine on the night.

The win left the Rayders with a 1-8 season mark. Kalkaska fell to 2-7.

Kalkaska won the junior varsity game 59-38. Josh Holecheck had 13 points for the Rayders.

Rayders beaten by East Jordan 60-36

An ineffective offense featuring little inside scoring, but lots of turnovers led Charlevoix's varsity basketball team to its eighth straight loss of the season Jan. 16. The benefactors were the visiting East Jordan Red Devils who ran their season record to 7-1 with the 60-36 win.

In the first quarter the Rayders played well, particularly early. With less than three minutes to play in the quarter, the Rayders were up 9-8. But when East Jordan guard Andrew Otis hit a three-point basket with 1:55 left in the quarter to put East Jordan up 14-11 the Red Devils never looked back.

The Rayders scored 16 points in the first quarter, but late in the quarter began having problems with East Jordan's full court press. Even when the Rayders did break the press, they often turned the ball over before getting into their offensive set up.

In the second quarter Charlevoix mustered merely six points while East Jordan picked up 20 to go into halftime leading 42-22. In the third quarter, Charlevoix matched their second quarter output, scoring six again. However, the Rayders did play better defense and held East Jordan to only nine points in the quarter. The fourth quarter was also offensively listless, with East Jordan outscoring the Rayders 9-8.

Rayder coach Jim Kanine's search for a low post offensive threat continues. Ben Owens, a junior, was Charlevoix's most productive player in the paint. He came into the game, parked himself under the basket, played hard and picked up six points. Late in the game, Sean Kimble camped on the low blocks for a few minutes and picked up a basket. Aside from those two, none of the other Rayder forwards ventured into the offensive lane with any regularity, let alone sense of mission and authority. Mark Boss, a guard, provided some interior offense and ended up leading the Rayders with 10 points.

Otis led East Jordan with 19 points, 16 of them in the first half.

Charlevoix won the junior varsity game 60-52. Josh Holecheck led the Rayders with 14 points while Roger Pittman and Matt McClellan each had 11 and Colin Carr 10.

Oh Boix

A collection of praises, awards and accomplishments involving Charlevoix area people.

Edward McLenon of Charlevoix was among the students named to Michigan Technological University's fall semester dean's list. McLenon is a senior majoring in mechanical engineering. To be named to the list, a student must have a grade point average of 3.5 or better on a 4-point grading scale.

The law firm of Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, P.L.C. has announced that Charles A. (Tony) Duerr, Jr. has become a principal of the firm. Working out of the firm's Ann Arbor office, he practices education and employment law.

Prior to joining the firm in 1987, he was director of personnel and labor relations with Ypsilanti Public Schools.

He received his law degree, cum laude, from The University of Michigan in 1972, and his B.A. in political science, with distinction, from The University of Michigan in 1966.

A resident of Ypsilanti, he grew up in Charlevoix, where his parents, Charles and Margaret Duerr, continue to reside.

Carolyn Campbell, a senior at the Holderness School in Plymouth, New Hampshire, is competing this year in the Eastern Cup and National FIS alpine ski races.

These races include the best racers in the eastern United States, as well as some racers from the western U.S. Campbell will compete against U.S. National team members and top collegiate and junior racers. She is one of ten Holderness racers competing in these series.

Campbell is the daughter of John and Mary Lee Campbell of Charlevoix.

Pumping you up

By Laurie Lounsbury

This is no Saturday Night Live skit. Candy Smith is going to pump you up, body and soul. "My goal in life, truly, is to help people feel better," Smith said. Smith has been doing just that for the last 15 years as an aerobic instructor in Charlevoix.

To Smith, feeling better is more than toned muscles and a strong heartbeat. It's also having fun. Her exercise classes are a feel good, social gathering as well as a place to firm up and thin down. "I want people to love it, because then everybody benefits. They leave here feeling better, happier, and then the community benefits from it," Smith said.

Smith is the aerobic director at the Charlevoix Fitness Studio. The health club combined forces with Smith's aerobic studio, Vital Options North, when they opened a few years ago. Before that, Smith was teaching aerobics in a location south of town.

Smith jumped into aerobics with both arms swinging after her first winter in Charlevoix. She and her husband Dave Smith had just moved to Charlevoix. Candy spent that first winter holed up inside with her pre-school children, baking cookies and eating the end results. She took a Vital Options class, taught then by Jenny Wright. Smith took to aerobics like Jane Fonda to a leotard. In no time Smith became a certified instructor, teaching her own classes. "I couldn't pick a better job. Sweat is the great equalizer. No matter what you do for a living, everyone sweats when they're working out," Smith said.

So resorters and locals, young girls, older women, and occasional men all get together and move to the rhythm of Smith's cheerful voice.

Smith reaches out to people all over the community. She helps the walkers at the elementary school, visits senior citizens, and nursery schools. "The hardest part of getting fit is taking that first step in the door. If they come in the door, they're going to enjoy this, and that keeps me energized," Smith said.

Smith is always updating her credentials so she can serve people better. She is certified as a personal trainer and she also has weight room certification. Smith attends fitness conferences several times a year. "Mostly, I go so I can rattle my brains and get new ideas," Smith said.

On the first Monday of each month, Smith teaches an introduction to step aerobics at the Charlevoix Fitness Studio. It's designed to give people a chance to try out step aerobics.

Acacia pressed into ice breaking duty as part of busy winter

by L. Scott Swanson

It has not been a quiet winter for the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Acacia. The early onset of winter initially complicated and expanded buoy tending duties and later pushed the Acacia into ice breaking service.

Lt. Commander Steve Corporon, captain of the Acacia, was in town briefly last week although the ship remains in Escanaba breaking ice. Corporon said the ship left on its fall buoy run in early November and got home two days before Christmas. Significant ice began forming on the northern Great Lakes in about the second week of December, about the same time a massive blizzard hit Sault Ste. Marie.

"This is the earliest it's been this bad in over 20 years," Corporon

Charlevoix coaches under community scrutiny

By Laurie Lounsbury

It happens to Wayne Fontes all the time. Whenever the Detroit Lions are losing, angry fans cry out for him to get the boot.

This phenomenon isn't restricted to famous professional team coaches.

When Charlevoix teams take a turn for the worse, parents and community sports fans start pointing to the person in the hot seat, the team coach.

Charlevoix's basketball, football, ski, and soccer coaches have been under recent attack for an assortment of reasons. Some complaints may be valid. Some may be personal opinions.

The situation came to light at the last school board meeting, when athletic director Barry Anderson explained his process for doing coach evaluations. Citizen Bob Donner questioned the process, saying, "I get the feeling at times it's just like a rubber stamp. Problems aren't being rectified, comments from parents and kids go ignored."

Anderson agreed that there are some problems with some of the teams. "I wrestle daily with the problems I think we have," Anderson said.

Anderson later pointed out that a losing team opens coaches up to criticism. "With the basketball team losing, I think people see an opportunity to jump in and say 'I told you so,'" Anderson said. The basketball team was 0-8 at the time of the board meeting. Since then, they have won two games and lost another.

Anderson is concerned that the numbers of students participating in sports is dwindling every year. It's not that kids are switching from one sport to another, either. In several instances, students are just plain quitting. For example, 80 students participate in the middle school football program. By the time that group is in ninth and tenth grade, the numbers are down to 50 students. Half of those 30 kids who quit football will go to another fall sport, but the other half simply drop out of sports.

Anderson wants kids to play sports and enjoy themselves. "My biggest concern is when they aren't having fun anymore. Win or lose, it's supposed to be fun," Anderson said.

The school board asked the extracurricular committee to look into the problems of school sports. The board recommended two new committee members from the community be added to the extracurricular committee.

Basketball coach Jim Kanine stays focused on moving team forward

Take a coach who's under community pressure to produce a winning team. Add many parents, each with devoted concern for their child's best interests. Throw in ten or 15 kids, shifting from adolescence to adulthood. You have the formula for potential conflict of some sort.

Basketball coach Jim Kanine has been under the gun for much of this basketball season. His varsity team started the season with an 0-8 record, came back with two wins, then lost another game.

Kanine started the season with 13 players. One had an injury, another quit the team. The team is down to 11 players, a number some say is too few. Parents and board members question Kanine's cutting policy, saying that kids are happy just to be on a team, even if they don't get to play much. Kanine sees it differently. "Today's kids are interactive. They like to be involved in a lot of things. One thing they don't like to do that previous generations did was be happy just to be on a team. So these kids make choices," Kanine said.

Are Kanine's 11 players feeling the pressure to win, or can they still enjoy themselves? "These kids knew we were going through a tough time, but they never put their chins down or blamed anyone else. We were having fun when we were 0 and eight, working hard but having fun. Now we've come through that, which is a great experience," Kanine said.

Kanine's coaching techniques may not suit everyone. He is passionately involved with the game, always focused on his goal of moving the team forward. Unlike parents, he thinks about what's best for the team. Parents think about what's best for their children. The two approaches aren't always the same. "I try to motivate kids, but every kid is not motivated by the same thing. I don't always choose the correct motivation for every child," Kanine said.

Old time logging work took strength and confidence

By Nancy Ritsema

If you talk with Stanley "Stubb" Lord very long about growing up around Norwood, you will hear him refer to cant hooks and teamsters, big wheels and shingle weavers, terms used years ago when hardwoods and softwoods were being logged off this land. His grandfather, father and Stubb himself worked in the north woods near Norwood and acquired the skills necessary to cut and load the big trees and to get them to the sawmill.

Stubb's grandfather, George Lord, came to northern Michigan in the 1880's, cleared the land and built a log house and barn south of Norwood.

In the winter George worked as a lumber camp teamster, driving teams of horses. The teams hauled logs cut off the land east of Norwood around Harwood Lake to the big mill in Norwood.

The logging road to the big mill from Harwood Lake was used only for logging operations. Sawmill owners built and maintained the ice roadway at costs of up to several hundred dollars a mile. A thaw or mild winter could mean hauling snow from the woods to build up the road base.

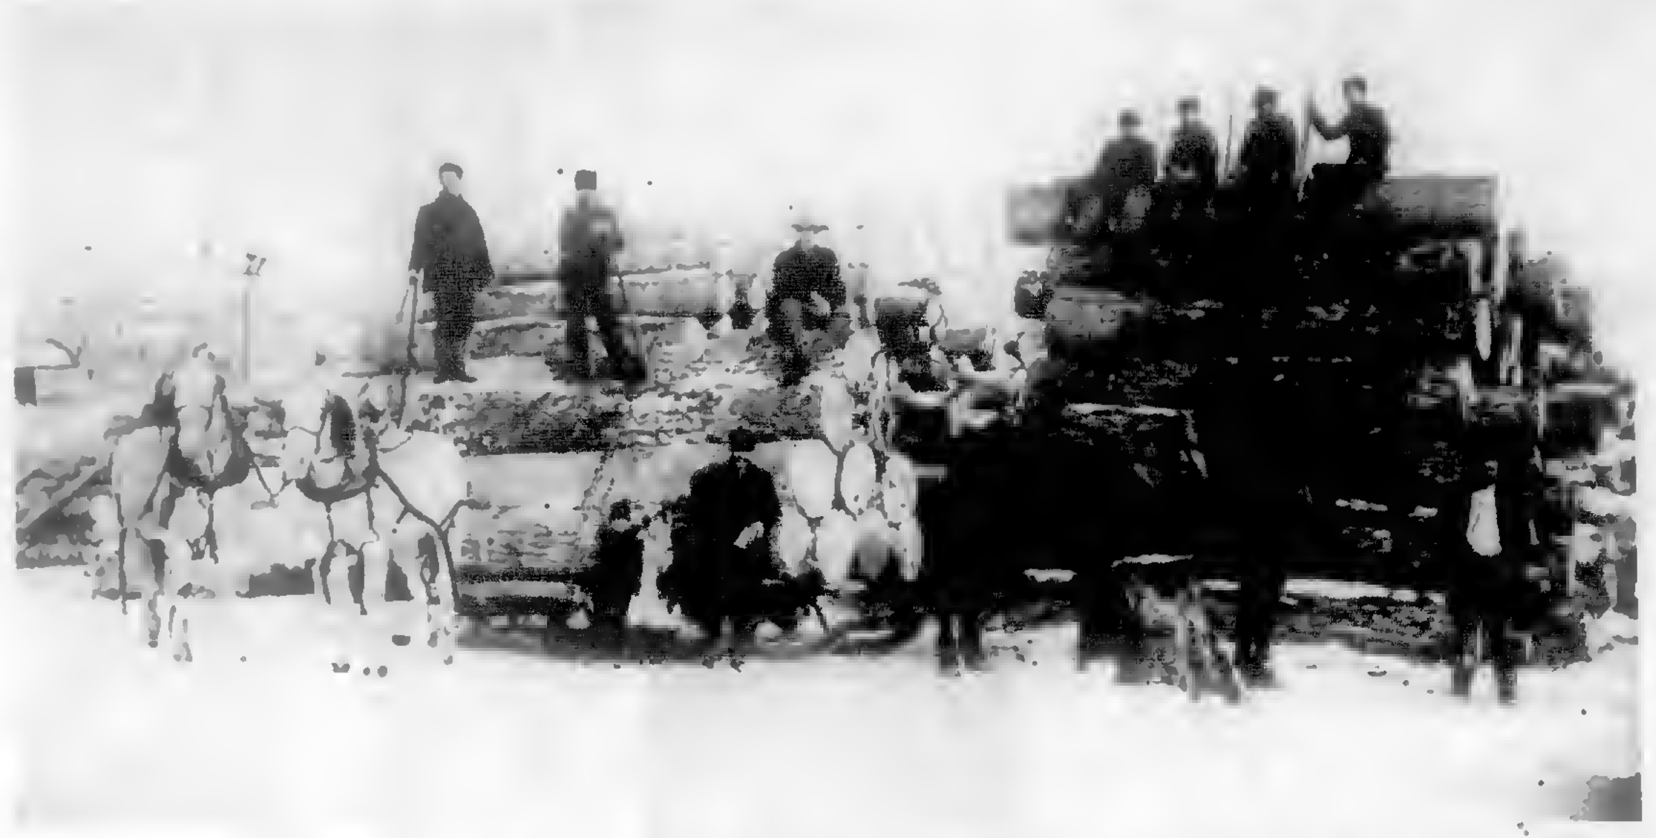
At night in zero weather, a tank cart sprayed water on the roadway's packed snow to keep it slick and smooth. Sand from the Lake Michigan shore was used on slippery hills to slow heavy loads going down them.

A team of horses on an iced logging road could pull incredible loads. A team weighing one ton can pull about five tons, but on iced logging roads, teams of horses regularly pulled 30 ton loads.

The teamsters' skill insured that the log load made it to the mill. The horses' shoes were spiked to bite the ice, but with several tons of logs on a load, and no brakes of any kind, only the confidence of the teamster kept the horses steady and sure.

Irving Lord, Stubb's father, also worked in area logging camps. He was a cant hook top loader, one of the most dangerous jobs in the woods. A cant hook had a long, tapered hardwood handle from four to six feet long. At the lower end was a twelve inch sharp steel hook, used to grip and turn logs.

Big logs that had to be pulled up onto a second or third layer of logs in the skid row were rolled into position by men wielding cant hooks. A chain was attached to the log and horses pulled the log up inclined skids to the top of the pile. Men with cant hooks guided the logs into position. When the enormous sleigh was loaded, the logs were bound in place with chains and the teamster and his team of horses started for the mill.



Loggers at a logging camp east of Norwood around 1890 needed guts and strength to do their jobs. Note the men holding cant hooks on the loaded sleigh and on the skid row.

The big mill in Norwood was destroyed by fire in 1901, but small, family run mills operated around Norwood into the mid-1900s. Harris Pierce owned a sawmill at the lakeshore site of the big mill in the early 1900s, and Clyde Warner operated a sawmill on his farm on Barnard Road from 1946 to 1954. Stubb worked in Warner's sawmill.

Sterling Nickerson started a sawmill in 1927 on the old Albert Smith farm just south of Norwood that operated for six or seven years until the last of the big hardwoods and hemlocks were gone.

There were still some big trees around Norwood in those days. "I can remember cutting an elm tree down that was five or six feet in diameter with Uncle Bill Alward, using a two man crosscut saw," Stubb Lord recalls, "and cutting maples down nearly as big."

Nickerson did mostly custom work. A landowner cut his own hardwood or hemlock logs and hauled them to the mill to be sawed into boards. Hemlock was once a common lumber used in framing buildings and some of the houses in said of the ice on the Great Lakes. He added that if February ends up being colder than usual, the ice problem on the Great Lakes will be severe.

Many of the buoys the Acacia pulled this fall were covered with ice. Acacia crewmembers had to use a shotgun loaded with buckshot to shoot the ice off of several buoys before they could be pulled.

As to the entertainment and sporting value of buoy hunting, Corporon noted, "It's fun for the first couple of buoys, then it gets old." During a two-week period, the Acacia touched off approximately 300 shotgun rounds.

In addition to complicating Acacia's work with its own buoys, ice problems also expanded Acacia's buoy tending responsibilities. Ice prevented a small buoy tender based in Sault Ste. Marie from pulling about two dozen buoys so the Acacia ended up pulling them.

Despite having a busy winter, the Acacia was home for Christmas and New Year's Day. The Acacia arrived in Charlevoix Dec. 23 and left for ice breaking duty during the first week of January. Corporon said the Acacia was fortunate in that it was the only Coast Guard cutter in the district that didn't have to get under way for ice breaking between Christmas and New Year's.

Acacia spent the first two weeks of January breaking ice in the straits of Mackinaw. Meanwhile, four other Coast Guard ships were breaking ice in the St. Mary's River to keep shipping lanes open through the Sault Locks. The locks were closed Jan. 15 and an ice breaker relieved the Acacia in the Straits and the Acacia went to Escanaba. The Acacia will continue breaking ice in the Escanaba area for about another week and then with any luck will be relieved by another ice breaker, probably either the Mackinaw or the Mobile Bay.

Upon arriving in Charlevoix, the Acacia will be spending the remainder of the winter in the Medusa Challenger slip due to work being done on Veterans Memorial Bridge. For the first four weeks in Charlevoix, the Acacia will be doing maintenance and cleaning. Corporon said breaking ice and having large chunks of ice churning through the ship's screw is hard on equipment. As far as the crew goes, ice breaking is warmer than pulling buoys because most of the time crewmembers can stay inside. The downside is that being inside a large metal structure that's crashing through ice is far from the quietest environment in the world and it's not easy to get much sleep.

Following four weeks of maintenance and a week of training, Acacia will start its spring buoy run about the second week of March.

Super Bowl commercials combine creativity and technology

L. Scott Swanson

Despite the fact that Dallas, a team that runs real heavy to jerks, won the Super Bowl, the game was not a total loss. The Super Bowl has turned into an amazing forum for advertising and technological creativity. It is perhaps the only show on television where the commercials are as much fun to watch as the event.

During the Super Bowl, corporations unveil their most creative new advertisements. In a way, this shouldn't come as a surprise. At a reported $40,000 per second, you'd want to show your best.

Advertising often gets rapped for being pretty simple-minded, but several of the Super Bowl commercials used humor, technology, fine acting or some combination of all three. In fact, the companies which just ran their standard commercials stuck out as being pretty dull.

The best of this year's Super bowl commercials were, among others, from Pepsi and Budweiser.

The Pepsi commercial didn't use any technical wizardry. It was just well done and funny. The commercial was shown as though it was being viewed through a store's video security camera. A Coca Cola worker was shown stocking a Coca Cola cooler. After stocking the Coca Cola cooler, he decides to sneak a Pepsi out of an adjacent cooler. When he discreetly pulls a single Pepsi can out of the cooler, all of the other Pepsi cans, hundreds of them come cascading out at him. The look on the guy's face is too funny for words.

For several months Budweiser has been getting a lot of mileage out of its "I love you man," ad campaign. They introduced another of those Sunday, this time featuring actor Charleton Heston. Surprisingly, of the several different Budweiser ads that ran during the game, that one was one of the least amusing. The best of the Budweiser ads involved animals - cartoon frogs and huge draft horses. The cartoon frogs ended up having their tongues frozen to a can of ice cold beer. The horses were lining up and playing football and kicking extra points between power line poles. Not that horses kick extra points all of the time...a lot of times, "they go for two."

Aside from being clever and funny, what's really impressive about the frog and horse commercials is the technological advances in recent years that allows commercials like this to be made. It used to be said that pictures don't lie, but that's just not the case any more. People who are handy with computers can now make pictures do just about anything they want them to do - either with cartoon characters or flesh and blood. And if visually manipulating horses that weigh nearly a ton, doesn't impress you, think about the Ford truck commercial. On that one, they made it look like a truck was pulling a canyon closed.

With communication and the technology involved with communication playing an ever more important role in our lives, you've really got to marvel the commercials which were part of the Super Bowl. One of the better things that advancing technology does is unleash creativity and assist people in effectively communicating ideas. The Super Bowl commercials vividly demonstrate some of the potential of advanced technology combined with human creativity and humor.

Letters to the editor

Councilman's service is commended

Editor,

Much has been written concerning the proposed re-numbering plan in Charlevoix. In one particular letter to the editor I feel personal and unjustified criticism was directed toward third ward councilman Bruce Reid.

I have always found councilman Reid to be available and willing to listen and educate himself about issues that concern and affect his constituents. He even held a special meeting for his ward to provide information concerning the re-numbering plan.

While the plan has been canceled, I believe the architects of the re-numbering plan had only the safety and best interests of the citizens of Charlevoix in mind.

I wish to thank councilman Reid for his dedicated service and the other members of the city council for their efforts in what many times is a thankless task that can expose them to unwarranted criticism.

Sincerely,
Tim Petroskey

...logging was just plain hard work

Norwood are constructed from hemlock, including their old wood siding.

At the Nickerson sawmill, a "big wheel" was used for hauling logs. This invention from a Michigan logger enabled horses to haul heavy logs out of the woods and to the sawmill in the summer. The wheels were about eleven feet in diameter. The logs were suspended by a chain from the wheel's axle and the heavy weight of the logs was carried by the axle.

Nickerson's big wheel was left at the mill site and for years one huge wheel lay in the field for kids to wonder at and to play on.

Nickerson put out a good number of cedar shingle bundles during the years from 1927 to 1934. When a cedar log was brought in, it was cut into blocks. The shingle weaver then took over. Emery Bence, Nickerson's shingle weaver, cut the blocks into shingles on a saw that positioned the block of wood so that the shingle had just the right thickness and taper.

Watching the shingle mill operation was a thing of fascination, according to Stubb. The saw and moving hands as shingles were cut and sorted were so fast the eye could hardly follow. When asked what he missed most from the lumber days gone by, Stubb replied, "Nothing! Everything we did in those days was just plain hard work."

Quit smoking classes to begin at hospital

Successfully quitting smoking and having fun in the process is the goal of the "Freedom from Smoking" program which is sponsored by Charlevoix Area Hospital and the American Lung Association. Sessions to be held at 7 p.m. in the new meeting room will run from Thursday, Feb. 22 through April 11 with two sessions during "quit week" on March 25 and 28. The program begins with an orientation session Feb. 22 followed by six classes. The classes are not scheduled for the first week of March or April.

Cheryl Jacobs, respiratory therapist and program leader, says, "The program really works because we don't quit 'cold turkey' the first night." Pre-registration is required. A minimum of 12 registrations must be received in order to hold the class. Cost for the program is $65. For further information, or registration, call Charlevoix Area Hospital at 547-4024.

Outdoor writers to meet in Charlevoix

More than 50 outdoor writers and reporters from around the state will meet this weekend in Charlevoix to exchange ideas and techniques.

The Michigan Outdoor Writers Association has chosen Charlevoix's Weathervane Terrace Hotel as the location for its winter convention, Friday - Sunday, Feb. 2-4.

Conservation and outdoor recreation will be the main topics of discussion, with MUCC acting director, Rick Jameson, speaking on "Conservation Challenges for the Future," DNR forest management division chief Jerry Thiede and MSU professor Chuck Nelson will discuss "Improving Forest Recreation."

Fisheries biologist Jerry Rakoczy, from the Charlevoix DNR Great Lakes Fisheries Station, will give the group information and tips on "Lake Michigan Salmon and Steelhead."

The Michigan Outdoor Writers Association convention won't be all business however. The group will also take advantage of the variety of outdoor activities available in the Charlevoix area.

Marion Raginia

Marion Raginia, 70, of Charlevoix, died January 26, 1996, at his home in Charlevoix.

Funeral was held at 7 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 28, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix with the Rev. Thomas Neis of St. Mary's Catholic Church officiating.

Mr. Raginia was born Jan. 30, 1925, in Hamtramck, the son of Stephen and Helen (Adamska) Raginia. He was raised in Hamtramck.

On Jan. 17, 1959, he married Dianna Pasternak in Detroit.

Since 1980, Mr. and Mrs. Raginia have made their home in Charlevoix and Hamtramck, moving to Charlevoix permanently in 1993.

Mr. Raginia worked as a dispatcher for Detroit Chrysler Lynch Road Plant for 31 years.

He served with the U.S. Navy during World War II in the Pacific Theater.

Mr. and Mrs. Raginia owned and operated the Fireside Restaurant in Charlevoix.

Survivors include his wife, Dianna, of Charlevoix; one son, James Raginia of Walled Lake; and three daughters, Patricia Toth and her husband, Mitchell, of Algonac, Carolyn Raginia of Chicago, and Susan Picard and her husband, Peter, of Chicago.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Charlevoix County Hospice. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Gayle Jeanette Swenor

Gayle Jeanette Swenor of Petoskey died Jan. 26, 1996, at Northern Michigan Hospital.

Funeral was at 11 a.m. on Jan. 29, at the Petoskey United Methodist Church. The Rev. Don Eddy, pastor of the United Methodist Church, officiated. Burial will be in Carp Lake Township Cemetery.

Mrs. Swenor was born July 6, 1918, in Levering, the daughter of Edmund and Hazel (Srigley) Hartung. She grew up and attended school in Levering, graduating from Petoskey High School. She also completed several courses on child care through the state of Michigan Department of Public Health.

On April 22, 1939, she married Gordon Swenor in Charlevoix.

After their marriage, the couple lived in several places in northern Michigan. From 1944-1954, they resided in Flint. In 1954, they moved back to Petoskey where they have lived since.

Mrs. Swenor was a day care provider for 27 years. She retired in 1979. Since her retirement, Mr. and Mrs. Swenor spent a good deal of time traveling around the country.

She enjoyed cooking, crocheting, knitting, sewing, gardening and camping.

Mrs. Swenor was a member of the United Methodist Church of Petoskey.

Survivors include her husband, Gordon; four children, Dwayne Swenor and his wife, Peggy, of Levering, Donna Gayle Burnison and her husband, John, of Manchester, Dick Swenor and his wife, Pam, of Charlevoix, and Dawn Swenor of Petoskey; 19 grandchildren;; four great-grandchildren; one brother, donald Hartung and his wife, Shirley, of Mobile, Alabama; and by many nieces and nephews.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the United Methodist church Youth Group.

Visitation was held Sunday evening, Jan. 28, at the Stone Funeral Home in Petoskey.

OF BLESSINGS

While looking for a book on our shelves not long ago, I found a small book that had escaped our various yard sales and house moves. Published in 1968, it has on the cover bold letters in pink, orange, blue and black which say, TO BELIEVE IN GOD. The author, Joseph Pintauro was an ordained priest who had special permission from his bishop to join the secular world and become a professional poet and writer.

All of the poems in the book are playfully written against a backdrop of big splashes of color and paint strokes which were created by Sister Mary Corita (an artist who had exhibited worldwide as well as being a member of the Sisters of the Immaculate Heart of Mary.)

As a teenager, I remember enjoying these poems because they stretched my perception of the wonderful and awesome idea of God. Here are a few of the poems which I hope you also will enjoy, whether you are young or not-so-young!

to believe in God is to know the thing you are shall make you live and it will never make you do anything less.

live it.
Up.

to believe in God
is to have the great faith that somewhere, someone is not stupid.

to believe in God is to build a bridge between yourself and everything worth being
one with.

(poems by Joseph Pintauro)

Kids let the good times roll at annual bowling outing

Approximately 30 students from the Charlevoix elementary school developmental learning center went bowling Friday morning at Paul Bunyan Lanes. On left, Tony Garcia hopes for a strike, while Danny Possert celebrates a successful throw. Most of the learning center students spend an hour or so a day at the center, polishing up on a particular subject that gives them difficulty. The bowling outing gives them a one-morning reprieve from the books so they can have some fun.

Ducks Unlimited to host fundraiser dinner

When there is abundant water, there are ducks. This season more than 80 million birds migrated down the flyways in an exodus not seen in decades. Doing its part to protect, manage and restore the wetlands waterfowl depend on, the Charlevoix Chapter of Ducks Unlimited will host its 15th Annual Dinner/Fundraiser Thursday, Feb. 8. This event raises money needed for conservation efforts.

"Last year 85 people attended the Charlevoix fundraiser and we're hoping to add 85 more this year," said John Ochs, Committee Chair of Charlevoix Ducks Unlimited. "Ducks Unlimited raises money for wetlands in North America," he said. "Much of its focus is in Canada, where 70 percent of our continent's waterfowl is produced. However we do spend money in the United States and also in Michigan, I'm hoping that in the future we will have a Ducks Unlimited habitat project in the northern part of Michigan's lower peninsula."

Last year, projects specific to Michigan counties were in Menominee, Ontanogon, Manistee, Oceana, and others. Ducks Unlimited spent $80,000 in wetlands acquisition and an additional $45,000 in habitat development on private lands. For 1995-96, Michigan will receive $269,000 for a total of nine projects.

Waterfowl are not the only beneficiaries of Ducks Unlimited's habitat conservation work. More than 600 species of wildlife live on Ducks Unlimited project sites, including several that are endangered. Whooping cranes, bald eagles, peregrine falcons, piping plovers and least terns all live in these areas. More common creatures such as beavers, muskrats, mink and otters also inhabit wetlands as do several species of fish, amphibians, and plants. Wetlands are nature's most valuable and productive ecological systems.

In the past, wetlands were considered unhealthy, unsightly and unproductive. As a result, much of our wetland ecosystem was destroyed. Ducks Unlimited's programs are helping to reverse wetland losses.

The Charlevoix Dinner/Fundraiser will be hosted by the Argonne Supper Club and will include raffles and auctions of wildlife art and other merchandise, much of which is donated by local merchants.

"Without the support of our local community, we wouldn't be very successful raising money for wetlands and Ducks Unlimited," said Ochs.

The event will start at 5:30 p.m. with auction and raffle items on display. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m. after which a live auction will commence. The grand door prize will be Sawer Sport 16 canoe.

Tickets for the Dinner/Fundraiser are $45 for the first member of a household, and $25 for each additional ticket to the same address. One Ducks Unlimited's bimonthly conservation magazine comes along with other benefits.

For ticket reservations, please call Judi at 547-6463.

Abstract engineers study global positioning

James Evans and Larry Feindt of Charlevoix Abstract & Engineering Company have completed a nine day training course for Global Positioning System (GPS) surveying at Ashtech Inc. headquarters in Sunnyvale, California. The training seminar covered basic conventional GPS surveying, "Real-Time" applications and advanced processing techniques.

GPS is a radio navigation system designed and controlled by the US Department of Defense consisting of 24 satellites orbiting the earth at 12 hour intervals at an altitude of 12,000 miles. GPS allows extremely accurate positioning worldwide in all kinds of weather 24 hours a day. It allows the surveyor to perform accurate surveys in a fraction of the time needed for conventional equipment, since "line of sight" is not needed between points. Five mile distances are considered short and 20 mile distances could be considered medium length. GPS accuracy ranged from +/- 300 feet with fairly inexpensive hand held units, to fractions of an inch using differential measurements between sophisticated receivers.

GPS is currently being used in many areas of navigation besides surveying; from positioning airplanes in flight and ships at sea to the measurement of minute movement of the earth's surface. In some areas of the country, you can rent automobiles with GPS sensors and map displays which show your present location with directions to your destination shown graphically.

GPS has some limitations and will not completely replace conventional surveying. Although GPS is not hindered by cloud cover, tree foliage or large buildings can limit its use, as an unobstructed view of the sky is needed. GPS represents a pinnacle of technology.

Charlevoix Abstract & Engineering Company plans to implement this new technology to facilitate projects such as rapid section measurements, aerial survey ground control, and to provide control services for implementing General Information Systems.

BUSINESS

Taco Bell opens on Charlevoix's northside

Co-branding is newest way of doing business with fast food franchises

By Laurie Lounsbury

Gas stations used to be a place where you got gas, maybe a can of motor oil, and went on your way. Then convenience stores were added to the gas station, allowing people to pick up a loaf of bread and a quart of milk while they filled their tanks.

The newest trend at gas stations is fast food. It's called co-branding, where a gas station teams up with a major fast food chain. In Charlevoix, the phenomenon is occurring on the north side of town, where Woodland Oil put a Taco Bell store under the same roof as a mini mart and gas station. John Guerra, director of fast food operations for Woodland Oil, said, "The largest part of fast food growth in the country today is co-branding. It's really a neat concept. It's like when gas stations went to the convenience store concept."

Many of the fast food chains that set up shop in gas stations go with a limited menu, rather than a full blown operation. Taco Bell in Charlevoix will be an exception, carrying a full Taco Bell menu when all of their equipment is in place. Currently, they don't have a fryer, so Mexican pizzas and cinnamon crisps aren't available. "In a month or so everything should be completed. We're waiting for signs to go outside, and an inside awning. We'll try to make it nice so people feel like they're eating in a restaurant, not a gas station," Guerra said.

This is the third co-branded gas station in the state for Woodland Oil. In St. Charles, they teamed up with a Blimpie's submarine shop, and in Harrison they went with Taco Bell. "It's just another added feature for busy people," Guerra said.

Customers line up while efficient employees at the new Taco Bell serve up fast food. The Taco Bell is part of the Woodland Oil station on the north side of town.

Chamber to host business breakfast

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors are sponsoring a Business Breakfast Friday, Feb. 2 at 7:30 a.m. at the Grey Gables Inn of Charlevoix.

The breakfast program is a way to expand and enhance communication with the membership. It serves to further inform people of the current happenings in and around the community. All members and their guests are invited to attend. There is a $5 entrance fee.

The breakfast is sponsored by the Charlevoix Area Hospital and the featured speaker will be Tim Petrosky, Public Affairs Director, Big Rock Power Plant. News from city hall, the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, and various service organizations will also be be heard.

Rayders win second straight

Maybe a two-game winning streak isn't the same as winning the state title, but after an eight game losing streak it feels pretty darn good.

Charlevoix's varsity basketball team ran their winning streak to two games with a 66-62 win at Harbor Springs Jan. 23.

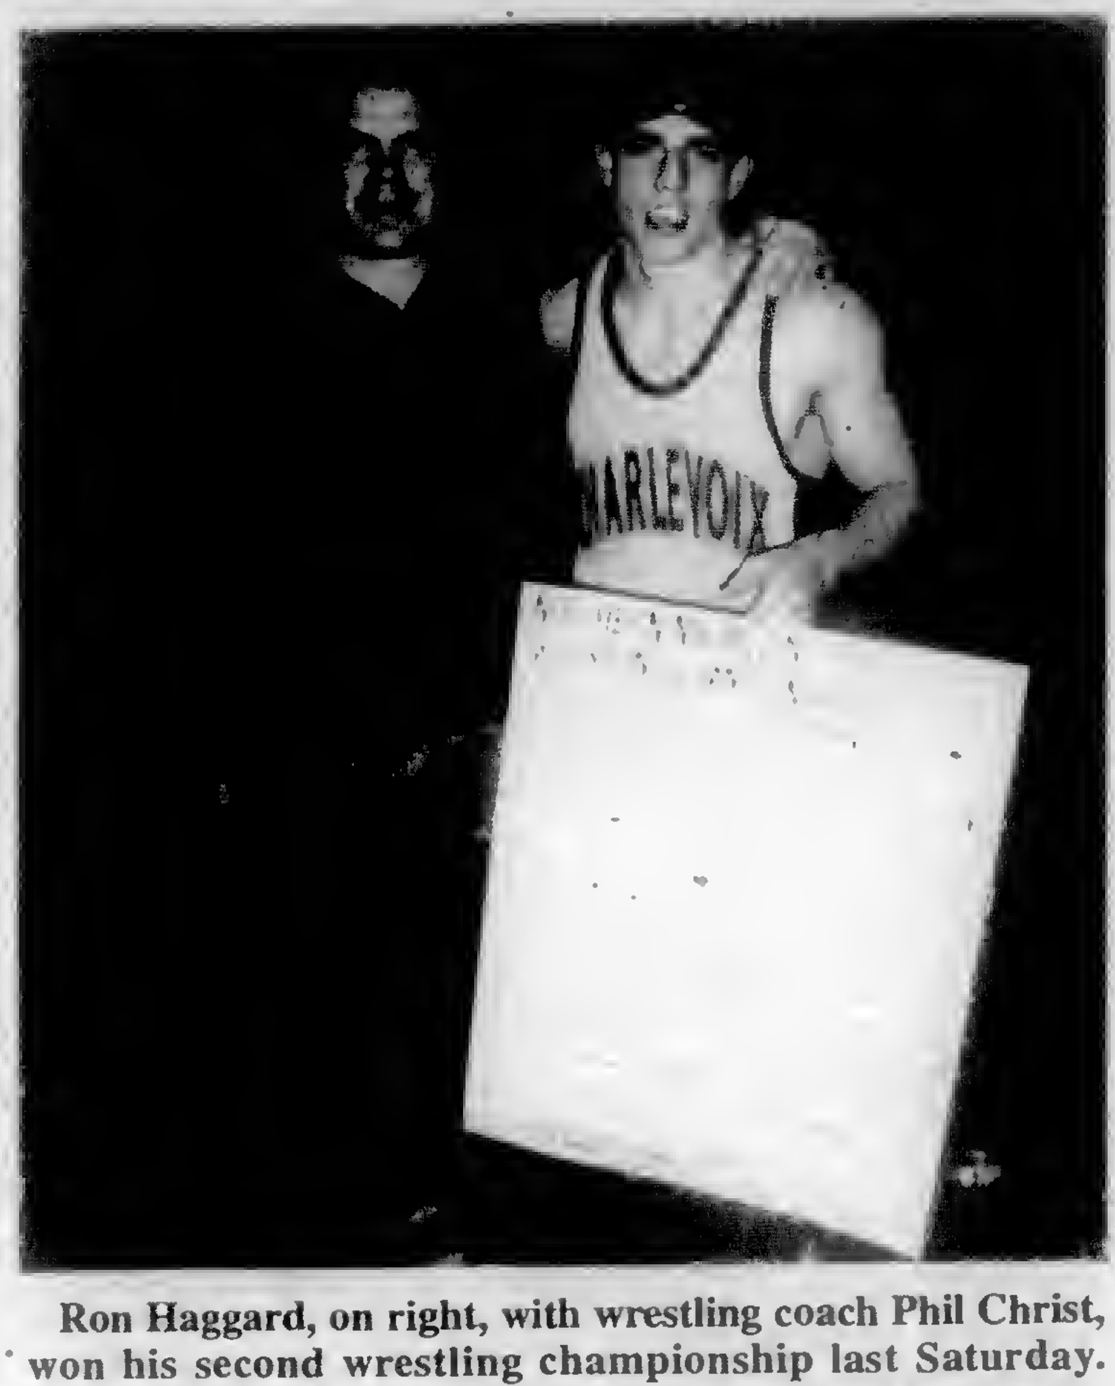
Early in the season the Rayder offense was struggling. They had too many turnovers and no interior offense. In recent games, guards Josh Miller and Mark Boss have taken care of the basketball while George McClellan, David Manker and Steve Carland have begun to stake a claim to the lane.

Against Harbor Springs, McClellan had 19 points while Miller made eight of 10 free throws in the final three minutes of the game.

Charlevoix fell behind early in the game, trailing 20-13 at the end of the first quarter. But the Rayders didn't fold. They righted themselves and by halftime led 33-31.

Entering the fourth quarter the Rayders led 48-43, but found themselves tied with the Rams at 56-56 with just under three minutes left. Miller then went on a free throw binge to seal the win. In addition to scoring 10 points, the junior point guard had five assists.

McClellan had seven rebounds to compliment his 19 points. Boss had 16 points, Manker nine rebounds and Carland seven rebounds.



Ron Haggard, on right, with wrestling coach Phil Christ, won his second wrestling championship last Saturday. Haggard took first place in the 171 pound weight class division at the Northern Michigan wrestling championships held in Gaylord. Varsity Rayders lose close one to Boyne City Ramblers

It was close right to the end, but the Boyne City Ramblers pulled ahead to a 63-57 victory over Charlevoix last Friday. The Rayders were within two points of the Ramblers late in the game.

"It was a great high school game," said Charlevoix varsity coach Jim Kanine. "I was really proud of the way we played. It was a fun game. We have improved tremendously as a basketball team."

The Ramblers were a tough opponent, standing 9-3 overall and 6-1 in the league.

Charlevoix's Jason Smith scored 18 points and Mark Boss and George McClellan each scored 12 points. McClellan had nine rebounds, five assists and two steals; Josh Miller collected four assists and Boss, two steals.

The game leaves Charlevoix with a 2-9 record overall and a 2-5 record in the league.

Charlevoix next plays Petoskey in a non-conference game.

Volleyball team keeps on winning

Boyne City beating 3-1

Charlevoix's varsity volleyball team ran its season record to 6-4-4 and league record to 2-1 with a win at Boyne City Jan. 25. The score was 15-2, 15-8, 7-15, 15-7.

Top setter for the Rayders was Jenni Swenor. Top servers were Swenor, Kristin Czerkes and Jessa VanGuilder. Leading the defense were Liz Kelly, Theresa Johnson and Lyndsay Blechel. Top offensive players were Johnson with eight kills, Czerkes with four and Kelly and Lisa Wheat with two each.

Charlevoix also won the junior varsity match, 15-8, 4-15, 15-6. Top setters for the Rayders were Carrie Blanchard and Laura Maltese. Top servers were Christine Sweeney and Mandy Webb. Playing big on defense were Blanchard and Maltese. Leading the offensive charge were Jamie Gowell and Blanchard.

In the early 1900's, East Jordan had a drawbridge that allowed large ships like this one to pass to the south side of the bridge. The Jordan River feeds into Lake Charlevoix where the bridge is located.

Today it's hard to believe the water was deep enough to allow such navigation. Photo courtesy of Sonny Lang.

CHARLEVOIX ADULT EDUCATION

HIGH SCHOOL COMPLETION PROGRAM

The schedule below lists classes being offered beginning the week of February 8, 1996, and continuing to the week of May 27, 1996. These classes are free to those who do not have their high school diploma and are not enrolled full time in the daytime classes. Any others are welcome in these classes for a fee of $50.00. Upon successful completion of each class, you will be given 1/2 credit toward the number needed for your diploma. If you have already completed a number of credits, call us so we can find out how many classes you should take to complete your work. Age does not matter; an older person may be given credits for life experiences and military service, and you can take tests to get credits in some areas. Call 547-3222 to enroll or for more information. Depending on enrollment, classes may be offered in: English, Math, Government, U.S. History, & G.E.D. Preparation. Classes will meet at Charlevoix High School (room numbers will be posted the first night), and will run from 6:00-10:00 p.m. Classes may be scheduled in other sites pending enrollment. Any fees will be collected the first night of class.

ADULT ENRICHMENT PROGRAM

The following classes are being offered as enrichment classes, most of which will begin the week of February 5, 1996, in various locations as indicated below for the number of hours and weeks listed. An * next to the fee means that the students will have to provide their own material or pay extra for them.

1996 Sno Challenge is this Saturday

by Laurie Lounsbury

Every year, the Mt. McSauba Sno Challenge proves to be the biggest challenge for those who organize it. The competitors have only each other to compete with. Ike Boss, recreation director, has a far more formidable opponent. Mother nature challenges him every step of the way. In 1995, the season's worst weather showed up at Mt. McSauba at the same time as young skiers and thundertube racers. Temperatures were well below zero with the wind chill factor. Blowing snow made it difficult to see the end of your arm. The brutal weather scared off a few people, but a number of hail and hearty northerners still attended the event.

This season, early snow covered the mountain, giving Boss the hope that nature would cooperate. Then the January thaw melted everything. Wet grass waved in balmy breezes where snowmobiles would soon be racing. "We lost two feet of snow in a day and a half," Boss reported.

As soon as the temperatures dropped, the Bosses started making snow, hoping to salvage the situation. They need not have worried. Snow started falling again in the third week of January. Temperatures dropped as rapidly as the snow fell.

The only question now is what the fickle weather will bring us for the 1996 Sno Challenge, Feb. 10. Everything else is in place for the day's activities. Boss has medals for all kids participating in the ski and snowboard races, and trophies for the snowmobile and truck racers. The Charlevoix volunteer firemen will be manning the concession booth, with proceeds going to the fire department.

Boss hired Volcano Fireworks to put on the fireworks display Saturday night. The fireworks will be shot from the top of the ski hill at 7 p.m., with an impressive 112 shells allotted for a grand finale.

The festivities will begin at 10 a.m. with ski and snowboard races. Registration, with a two dollar entry fee, is at 9 a.m.

Following the ski races, tube races are scheduled for noon. New rules allow for one racer per tube, with each racer bringing their own tube. Registration fee is $5 with registration starting at 11 a.m.

The 4 by 4 truck hill climb/drag race will start at 2 p.m. Registration is from noon to 2 p.m., with a $5 entry fee. Boss expects about 75 trucks to compete in six different classes.

Side by side snowmobile races follow the truck races, starting at 4 p.m. Registration will start at 2 p.m. Boss anticipates between 80 and 100 snowmobiles to compete in 10 classes. Entry fee is $5. Snowmobile races will continue after the fireworks display if they haven't concluded by 7 p.m.

There is no charge for spectators.

This frozen country we call home

Brutally cold weather left much of Charlevoix looking like a moonscape last week. Friday and Saturday evenings temperatures fell to more than 20 degrees below zero. Cars refused to start and people walking around outdoors drew their chins down into their collars and appeared neckless. Michigan weather being its ever-fickle self has temperatures higher than 30 degrees predicted for later this week. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

One of state's top fishing experts retires

by Laurie Lounsbury

He's been called the Guru of the Great Lakes. Fair enough. After all, Myrl Keller is the man who started the fisheries research station in Charlevoix 29 years ago. Since then, he's learned just about all there is to know about the flora and fish that inhabit the Great Lakes. "This is the flagship of research, the first of its kind in the state," Keller said, adding, "Charlevoix's station has a solid reputation now."

Understated words from an unassuming man.

Keller is a highly regarded fisheries biologist who has earned the respect of sports fishermen, commercial fishermen, academic leaders, and government agencies in eight states.

Now Keller is trading in a career of fishing research for the time to go fishing. "It was timely for me to go now," Keller said, alluding to the changes that are occurring with the Department of Natural Resources.

Keller may be retired, but his work will continue. Keller came to Charlevoix in 1967 to start a new program for the DNR, the Great Lakes Fisheries Research Station. The Charlevoix station was set up to do research, make assessments, and implement programs to maintain the fish ecosystem.

Before Keller's arrival, the DNR planted millions of lake trout, coho and chinook salmon in Lake Michigan. It was supposed to be a boon for area fisherman - but no one

City discusses Parkside project and fire department budget

by L. Scott Swanson

Charlevoix's city council tossed around a number of issues Monday evening, but in comparison to recent meetings, the Feb. 5 meeting was mild.

In continuing budget discussions, first ward council member Bob Timms raised questions concerning the expenditure of city funds to purchase the Parkside building and staffing levels at the fire department.

Timms said he doesn't feel $101,000 of city tax dollars should be used to purchase and tear down the building which formerly housed the Parkside Restaurant. That cost represents less than a third of the cost of purchasing and tearing down the structure. The remainder of the cost will be covered by a federal grant program which is designed to create view corridors from public highways.

Although Timms was not comfortable with the city contribution to the project, the other council members at the meeting voiced support for the project. Second ward council member Gabe Campbell said he feels purchasing and tearing down the building is a good idea. He said many people in town are unhappy with condominiums blocking views of the lake. He said this project will make the town more attractive.

Third ward council member Bruce Reid agreed with Campbell, adding he wishes the project could have been done 25 or 30 years ago.

In regard to the fire department, Timms raised the possibility of charging for fire runs and also asked if Charlevoix's fire station would still need to be manned on a 24-hour basis after 911 is implemented.

As to charging for fire runs, Timms noted that some insurance policies have provisions to pay for such charges. City manager Mike Wiesner said that the city currently does not charge by the run, but instead has contracts with townships where the townships pay a certain amount of property taxes which cover all runs. City attorney Jim Young explained that the city could not pass an ordinance changing how the townships operate, but could as part of a contract have the townships pass ordinances which would allow charging by the run. He also noted that the city could have difficulty collecting run charges from uninsured people. He said that if the city collected from insured homeowners without aggressively attempting to collect from uninsured homeowners, they would end up facing a legal challenge.

In regard to fire station staffing, Reid pointed out that regardless of knew what to do about it. "One of my biggest jobs was to put the fish and the fishermen together," Keller said. Back then, no one knew how or where to fish for the newly planted salmon. Keller was a big push behind the sport fishing industry. He coordinated efforts between government agencies and sports fishing groups. "Before that, there wasn't much sport fishing going on up here. It was mostly commercial fishing," Keller said.

Every year the DNR planted millions of sport fish, then monitored the fish's growth and reproduction rate. Keller came to know fish's eating and roaming habits the way a wife knows those same habits of her husband. During the long struggle to get lake trout to reproduce naturally, Keller did everything he could to promote reproduction, short of sending the female fish a dozen roses and serving champagne.

Tribal use of gill nets is a continuing concern for Keller. Of the gill netting, Keller said, "It's a malicious, destructive form of fishing. The net is a bad piece of equipment. Gill nets and lake trout restoration are incompatible."

Tribal fishermen are allowed to use gill nets in their fishing waters, and continue to do so, because it's the easiest way to fish. The DNR spent millions of dollars training and equipping tribal fishermen with trap nets, but the tribes continue to use gill nets. The DNR was able to restrict fishing in refuge areas to trap netting.

Keller also worries about the constant introduction of exotic species to the Great Lakes. The sea lamprey arrived in the late 1940's and sucked the life out of the lake trout. With the extinction of lake trout, the foreign alewives overran its native competitors like perch. The introduction of alewife predators like salmon, brown trout, and steelhead has kept alewife population under control.

The threat to the delicate balance of aquatic life comes today from exotics like zebra mussels, the European water flea, and ruffe. Keller would like to see legislation passed that forces ocean going vessels to dump their ballast or at least chlorinate their ballast before entering the St. Lawrence River.

Keeping track of the fisheries station kept Keller going in a dozen different directions. "That's what I'll miss most about the job. The people I worked with, and the challenge of the job. It isn't finished yet. It never will be," Keller said.

Medusa cleaning up kiln dust seepage

by L. Scott Swanson

Medusa Cement and the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) are working on correcting a contamination problem on the Lake Michigan shoreline near the plant. Seepage from cement kiln dust (CKD) piles at the plant has resulted in high PH levels and minute traces of arsenic and lead entering Lake Michigan.

"Offhand, there's not a big threat to the public's health, but environmentally, there's a ways to go," said DEQ Environmental Quality Analyst Andy Stempky.

Medusa discovered the problem in late 1994 and immediately notified the DEQ and brought in outside experts to investigate. The source of the pollution was traced back to an old CKD pile placed parallel to Lakeshore Drive back in the '70s and '80s. CKD is a biproduct of manufacturing cement.

PH levels in the seepage water in the ground have measured between 10 and 12 on a 14-point scale. PH levels at the lake have measured as high as nine or 10. PH levels over 12.5 are considered hazardous. The heavy metals, which Stempky said are primarily arsenic and lead, are naturally occurring in the raw materials used in making cement. During the cement-making process, the metals become more concentrated and once in the CKD are more prone to leach than while in their natural state. According to Medusa, although the amount of heavy metals found in the lake near the seep sites are higher than background levels of groundwater or Lake Michigan water, they're still below levels considered safe for drinking water.

Immediately after discovering the problem, Medusa placed quarry rocks along approximately 400 feet of shoreline near the Lakeshore Drive turn-around to protect the public from water with elevated PH levels. Last winter Medusa designed and installed a series of wells, tanks, pumps and a pipeline to intercept the contaminated groundwater before it reaches the lake. That system began operating early last summer. Water collected from the system is used to cool hot kiln gases.

The well system ran all summer and appeared to reduce the shoreline seepage problem. When the winter freeze came, the system was shut down and will be expanded and restarted, in the spring. Throughout the process, Medusa and its consultants have had regular meetings with the DEQ. According to Medusa plant manager John Laney, to date Medusa has spent upwards of $500,000 to correct the problem. As of yet, they have no estimate on future costs. In addition to the CKD pile near Lakeshore Drive, there is also an older CKD pile on the Fisherman's Island end of the plant. Laney said Medusa is looking at various alternatives to deal with that pile. He expects to know more about those alternatives by early this summer.

Stempky said that among the alternatives being considered are interceptor trenches, neutralizing the water before it enters the lake or perhaps capping the CKD piles.

Stempky said, "We've indicated to them (Medusa) that we want a very aggressive approach to remedying the problem. It's a large problem, but work's been going along real well. They've been pretty responsive. It's been quite refreshing."

Will Cwiekel of the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council said the organization is monitoring the situation. He said the core of the problem is that "there's crud going into the water" and that needs to be corrected. As to Medusa's response to the problem, he said, "I think they are making a good effort to be good players."

Students celebrate 100th day

by Laurie Lounsbury

Nine Cheerios, then a Fruit Loop. Nine Cheerios, then a Fruit Loop. What a yummy way to learn how to count by tens up to one hundred. That's what first grade students did last Friday, to mark the 100th day of school. Fruit Loops and Cheerios, strung along in groups of ten, make an edible necklace. Mini-marshmallows were next on the agenda. Teacher Alison Melon made math easy for her students to grasp - and eat. "If you count with the Fruit Loops, you can count by tens," she explained. "If you're counting by Cheerios, count one, two three, four five."

Resolution is meaningless

L. Scott Swanson

The Charlevoix City Council adopted an anti-smoking resolution Monday evening which will probably have no effect at all - and that may be for the best.

The resolution was requested by the Emmet-Charlevoix-Antrim Tobacco Reduction Coalition. They're a group which, as their name implies, works to reduce the use of tobacco in Emmet, Charlevoix and Antrim Counties.

According to the eighth "whereas" in the resolution, with regard to tobacco, the state school finance reform law passed in 1993 "prohibits local governmental entities from passing any additional local ordinances which are more restrictive than current state law."

What the anti-tobacco group asked for, and got, from the city council was a resolution opposing that provision of the state law. The resolution will be forwarded to Gov. John Engler along with similar resolutions from other local government entities. It's essentially an anti-tobacco petition drive in resolution form.

Gov. Engler will more than likely ignore the resolution, an action which outside of the anti-tobacco groups nobody will be too concerned about.

The problem with resolutions which request governmental bodies to take a position, but no real action is that the driving force which leads governmental bodies to adopt the requested resolution isn't any strong feeling that the resolution is morally right. The driving force is simply a desire to appease the group making the request and get on with business.

To their credit, before passing the resolution Monday evening, council members at least took the time to ask enough questions to assure that by passing the resolution they weren't inadvertently passing something which would have some tangible effect.

On the other hand, they didn't take the time to find out why the state law was adopted in its present form. There must be some reason the state didn't want local governments passing tobacco laws that differ from state laws. No doubt the anti-tobacco people would argue that the state law is the way it is because of the influence of the tobacco law. Maybe that's the case and maybe it's not. Maybe the state law is the way it is because the state legislature wanted continuity across the state as opposed to a patchwork of varying tobacco laws. Perhaps the legislature felt that a patchwork of laws would not only confuse citizens, but goof up commerce. For example, it might cause problems if a franchise store in Petoskey could display cigarettes in some particular manner that wasn't allowed for a franchise store in Charlevoix.

These are just some possibilities. Who knows why the state law is the way it is? Certainly, not the city council. They, and probably most other local governmental bodies which will adopt the anti-tobacco resolution, didn't bother to check. It probably wasn't worth the time. That's why these petition by way of resolution things often get ignored. And perhaps justifiably. How can you either condone or condemn a law when you don't know why it was adopted in the first place?

EDITH

EDITH GILBERT

Learning how to run a new program on a new computer is just like learning how to drive a new car. It's no secret however, that no two automobiles are alike. General Motors, Ford and Chrysler offer many different designs and even the simple act of turning on the ignition varies from year to year on different makes and models. All the knobs, buttons and levers on a car that open the doors or windows, turn on the air conditioning or windshield wipers, adjust the seats, unlock the trunks, turn on the radios, set the clocks — all these adjustments are not located in the same place or function in the same way. One needs to paw through the driver's manual before taking off. And so it is for a beginner when learning how to handle a program on a computer.

It's even trickier when one is looking for helpful, friendly instruction. I found this out the hard way.

My sister, Margot, was visiting me from California, and her goal was to introduce me to my new Windows 95 program and teach me how to get on the Internet. I was anxious to use the floppy 3.5 disk that my publisher sent me so I could read my book, "The Complete Wedding Planner" on my computer. (I'm thrilled to pass on to my readers the fact that the disk is available in all bookstores). The first thing we discovered is that Margot is used to being connected to America On Line and I am hooked up to a local Internet Provider called Freeway. Before she could show me anything, she had to spend hours learning the local rules of the road. Much the same thing happened later, when I called my nephew, Peter, in Washington D.C., to ask him a question on word processing. He told me his program doesn't match mine.

Well, I thought to myself, I had better find someone in town, who uses the same program as I do. A friend, who also has Windows 95, came to my office, but wasn't familiar with Internet because he uses the service through the college in Petoskey. So much for that idea.

So I pick up the "Book for Dummies" and try to fathom their instructions and quickly come to the conclusion that I am not DUMB enough to understand the instructions!

Fortunately, my doorbell rings and a neighbor asks if there is anything he can do to help, since there is a blinding snowstorm outside and he knows I'm stuck in the house.

"Yes, you can do something for me," I shout, completely frustrated by my computer, "Go down to the bars and find me someone who has Windows 95, Microsoft and Freeway!"

A look of astonishment, bewilderment and puzzlement crossed his face. Yet I sensed he was challenged and off he went. It didn't take more than an hour when he returned and introduced my to a very nice person. Without saying "Hello," I said, "Do you have Windows 95, Microsoft and Freeway? Come into my office and help me get on the Internet! Help me read my E mail messages! Help me with my floppy disk!"

Confidently he sat down in front of my computer and there before my eyes appeared several E mail messages. Now I am ecstatic! But my high didn't last long. I pebbled him with questions to which he replied,

"I don't know how to do that — but my son Tommy knows more than I do."

"How old is he?" I asked.

"He's 15 years old, a Freshman in High School."

"Can he come and give me lessons after school?" I ask, and happily arrangements are quickly made to start lessons the next day.

The first think I ask upon Tommy's arrival is "Please help me get on the chat line." I've heard people talk about the chat line and it sounds like a lot of fun, especially since those of us who are still spending the winter in Charlevoix are as isolated from chitchat as a nesting swan.

This he accomplishes neatly and now I am sitting next to my new fifteen-year-old acquaintance as we drag the mouse down the menu, only to find a string of four letter words appearing on the screen, plus off-color invitations to chat with people to whom I wouldn't give street directions. I'm flushed with embarrassment.

Wow!

Here we've run into the latest clash between free speech and censorship that is being hotly debated by the politicos, I say to myself. Now, I'm not one who advocates turning the clock back, heaven forbid, but I am reminded of the marvelous story told about a Wall Street tycoon at the turn of the century, who was called into the board room and reprimanded by his colleagues for his promiscuous ways.

"I'm not doing anything that you fellows are not doing behind closed doors," he replied.

"That's what closed doors are for," was their mutual response.

Isn't it time we should consider closing a few doors on the Internet as well? I sincerely hope that the blessings of the computer will not be overshadowed by the curse, or should I say the license, of free speech on the Internet.

We do require drivers' licenses, automobile registrations, seat belts, and obedience to rules of the road when we are permitted to drive a car at the age of 16, and we are fined and even jailed when we disobey. We also have legislation banning visual blight of billboards on

Mailman's concern appreciated

Editor,

Yesterday the mailman drove up in my driveway and brought my mail to the door during a snow storm "so that you won't have to walk across the street." At the same time he inquired about my neighbor across the street because he had noticed her light on during the day and her mail still in the box. I assured him that she was fine. In the past, he has asked about my next door neighbor when she was gone a few days without the mail being retrieved. It is so nice to know such caring and concern by someone who knows that there are single, older ladies on this street. Such kindness needs recognition and thanks.

Monitor 911 progress

Editor,

Now that the importance of an address has been laid to rest and darn little sweetness and a whole lot of light has been given to the actions of the STAFF of our fair City, we can quote Phil Harris: "Henry, if you will open the NEW deck of Bicycles we'll go on from here."

As soon as the antennas are in place we will begin to enjoy the benefits of again referring to staff confusion available from 911. 911 in and of itself is nothing more than a glorified telephone book. For it to become a living working safety net for OUR CITY will take a lot of additional work by people trained and competent.

The editor of this paper has said in editorials that he has driven around our city and was unable to get lost - a talent it is hoped the 45 members of our public safety department can emulate. In spite of statements and actions of staff to the contrary.

It behooves our city council to now bring staff persons before it starting now and have staff tell us on and for the record now they will ensure our city gets all of the benefits 911 can and will provide.

This information should be done with sweetness and a whole lot of light and as often as necessary to prevent another staff misdirection project.

It is hoped that the editor will now direct his efforts toward informing us of what a 911 program requires. What steps staff is taking to put it in place so that it works from day one.

So again paraphrasing Henry, "STAFF! Shut up and deal."

Yours very truly,
Charles C. Papineau

Editor's note: The following letters were submitted to the Courier by teacher Kathy Gowell's sixth grade class. Additional letters from the class will be running in coming weeks.

New middle school needed

Editor,

I am a sixth grade student at Charlevoix Middle School. I am writing you because we need a new Middle School.

Our building is sixty-nine years old. We need new equipment to keep up with today's high standards.

The intercom is very hard to hear and so is the bell. We also need new lockers.

If we built a new Middle School we would have more room in each classroom.

We desperately need a new Middle School.

Sincerely,
Nick Schwein

Indoor ice rink would be fun

Editor,

I think the City of Charlevoix is in need of an indoor ice skating rink. An ice skating rink in Charlevoix would provide a place for kids to have fun and stay out of trouble. The problem with the outdoor rink is the weather is at times too warm or too cold to skate. An indoor rink would be good year-round, even in bad weather it would be used. Raising money I 'm sure will be no problem. If we all work together we will have our own ice skating rink.

Yours truly,
Betsy Jebeau

Swimming pool supported

Editor,

Charlevoix Middle School needs a swimming pool very much. One reason is because it gives you exercise and you would lose weight. Second of all it helps people to stay off the street. Last of all we can have a swim team. so what I'm trying to say is please build us a pool.

Sincerely,
Lakeisha Burks

...city council addresses several issues

whether calls to the fire station come directly from homeowners or from 911 dispatch operators, someone will need to be at the fire station to answer the calls.

No action was taken on either item and budget discussions will continue Feb. 19.

In other action Monday evening, the council:

*Adopted a resolution asking the state to change a law which precludes local municipalities from adopting anti-tobacco laws which are more restrictive than state laws.

*Approved a minor development plan change for the Captains Corner shopping complex. The change will delete four planned landscape islands and add parking spaces.

*Adopted a traffic control order which changes 13 yield signs in the community to stop signs.

*Approved going forward with the drafting of agreements which will eventually lead to the extension of city sewer lines into Charlevoix Country Club lots in Hayes Township. The cost of drafting the agreements will not be borne by the city, but by other parties to the agreement.

*Approved a request by the Charlevoix Development Company to build a small retaining wall next to the Anchors building.

*Accepted a $2,000 Community Foundation Youth Advisory Committee grant to help the city police fund a youth Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) program.

*Appointed Lou Hollow to fill out the term of Bob Timms on the City Compensation Commission.

*Approved moving forward on an agreement with Ward Brothers Boats for a dock extension which will modify gas and pump-out services for boaters.

our highways. Why are we so timid in the '90s, to enforce community mental health standards when it comes to our new form of public VERBAL transportation over the new airborne freeways? Sure, there are people who will throw up roadblocks, but Germany has already accomplished restrictions, and so can we if we put our minds to it.

In the meantime, you may be interested to know that this column was typed on my new Windows 95 program. It took a little longer than usual, but I think I am going to like it.

Emergency personnel practice ice rescues

The City of Charlevoix Fire Department and the United States Coast Guard Rescue Station Charlevoix completed a joint ice rescue exercise, Saturday, Jan. 27. With the abundance of activities on the ice in the area, both agencies are trained and prepared to respond to emergencies on the ice and to rescue people who have fallen through the ice. The practice session included work on how to reach a victim safely using cold water exposure suits, life safety ropes, reach poles and a rescue sled to quickly and safely return a victim to land.

Performing Arts team receives top district rating

The Charlevoix High School Performing Arts Team got a 1 rating at the district competition last weekend at Midland Central School with their presentation of Fiddler on the Roof.

With an enthusiastic group of 60 students, under the direction of Connie Ford and student directors Tiffany Karczmarski and Anne Scott, they put on a great performance and will now be traveling to regional competition at St. John's High School on Saturday, Feb. 10.

Several individuals were recognized at the end of the competition during an awards ceremony. Awards of Excellence were presented to: Gita Butcher for costumes; to the Russian dancers, Nicholas Kessler, Andrew Moats and C.J. Winell; and to the daughters ensemble, Jessica Babb, Kari Jo Boss, Jennifer Ricks, Kelly Skiba and Amy VanGuilder.

Superior awards were presented to Alison Beatty and Ian Powell for set design and to Jamey McKinney on flute and Becky Blissett on piano for musical accompaniment.

Fiddler will be presented to the public at Charlevoix High School Saturday, Feb. 24 and Sunday, Feb. 25.

Charlotte M. Saltonstall

Charlotte M. Saltonstall, 86, of Charlevoix, died Feb. 3, 1996, at her home.

A memorial service will be held at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 7, at the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum will officiate.

Mrs. Saltonstall was born Jan. 14, 1910, in Detroit, the daughter of Frank and Antoinette V. Mathauer. She graduated from the University of Michigan in 1931 with a degree in literature, science and arts.

On July 2, 1934, she married Gilbert B. Saltonstall in Grosse Pointe. The couple moved to Charlevoix in 1934, and he preceded her in death on May 29, 1995.

Mrs. Saltonstall was a member of the Shakespeare Club in Charlevoix, and the Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild. She was also an avid bridge player.

Survivors include two daughters, Constance A. Harper and her husband, Robert, of San Diego, Calif., and Wendy S. Post and her husband, Kirk, of Charlevoix; four grandsons, Brayton and Jeff Pointner, and Michael and Devin Post.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to Charlevoix County Hospice, or Charlevoix Area Hospital, or to the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix.

There will be no visitation.

Arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Joann Cebulski

Joann Elizabeth Cebulski, 63, of Charlevoix, died Feb. 5, 1996, at her son's home in Charlevoix.

Funeral will be 11 a.m. Thursday, Feb. 8, at the Community Church of God in Charlevoix. The Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton will officiate. Burial will take place in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mrs. Cebulski was born March 14, 1932, in Detroit, the daughter of Henry and Thelma Marie (Brown) Osborne.

On Dec. 17, 1949, she married James J. Cebulski in Trenton. He preceded her in death on Feb. 20, 1984.

In 1961, Mr. and Mrs. Cebulski moved from Utica to Torch Lake. In 1971, they moved to Charlevoix, where together they owned and operated The Grill Restaurant from 1971 until the fall of 1988.

Mrs. Cebulski was a member of the Community Church of God in Charlevoix. She was devoted to her family.

Survivors include her children and their spouses: Susan and Milton Anderson of Canyon Lake, Calif., James and Marie Cebulski of Macomb, Nancy and Greg Gregory of Milwaukee, Wis., Louis Cebulski and Sandra Lou of Highland, Calif., Gene and Mary Cebulski of Jackson, Mich., Randolph and Joanne Cebulski of Charlevoix, Jon Cebulski of Hermosa Beach, Calif., and Connie and Anthony Wade of Charlevoix. Mrs. Cebulski is also survived by three sisters, Mrs. Thelma Aul of Ray, Mich., Mrs. Bonnie Dew of Lapeer, and Marlene Armstrong and her husband, Richard, of Shelby Township; two brothers, Edward Osborne and his wife, Bette, of Simi Valley, Calif., and Barry Osborne and his wife, Jayne, of Imlay City; three half sisters; two half brothers; 19 grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; several stepgrand children and stepgreat-grandchildren; and nieces and nephews. In addition to her husband, Mrs. Cebulski was preceded in death by her sister, Joy-el Rogers, in 1994.

Friends may call from 6-8 p.m. today, Feb. 6, and from 4-8 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 7, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

One of the busiest times of the year is just around the corner for our friends and neighbors at the Post Office. It is a challenge in and of itself for them to simply make deliveries these winter months. But add in the extra load that Valentine's Day will bring and oh, how much fun their work becomes!

It has always fascinated me how people take this special day as one to go out of their way to express their feelings for spouses, sweethearts, and friends alike. Has anyone ever considered that being appreciated is something that is needed by all of us, not just on special holidays, but all year round?

I stopped for gas at a mini-mart Super Bowl Sunday night. Usually around eight o'clock, the highway still has a fair amount of traffic and you can't "hear" much in the way of sounds like the wind in the trees or dogs barking. You certainly could that night! When I went to pay for my gas, the cashier was so shocked to see anyone come in the store that you would have laughed. Things had been too quiet and she was feeling forgotten. I took time to talk and listen and added that I, for one, appreciated her being on duty. It was obvious that those words made her night.

I'm sure many of you have already been thinking ahead about what you might do for those closest to you on Valentine's Day. I know that the cards, flowers, candy or whatever you do will be appreciated by those you love. But might I suggest that you extend that appreciation to others that you come across in your faith's journey?

When was the last time you told your doctor that you appreciated his or her care for you? Think about the pressure they're under and how seldom we say anything except when we're sick or hurting. When was the last time you told the clerk in the check out line at the grocery store or the bag boy that you appreciated what they do? Put yourself in their shoes on a Friday afternoon when it seems like the whole town is waiting in line!

There's your child's teachers and the adventures they go through on a "routine basis." How about being a day care provider? Do you know anybody who drives either a city or county snowplow at this time of year?

The list could go on but then you might miss the point. From bank tellers to waitresses or anybody else you could imagine, there are very few folks in this world who could not use a word of appreciation now and then.

Jesus said that even a cup of cold water offered in His name would keep us from losing sight of the reward He has in mind for us if we remain faithful. Words of appreciation bring just that kind of refreshment to a weary heart. They warm up a frost bitten spirit. They are something easy for any of us to give and truly special when offered in the Spirit of the Lord. Make this month a time that you will commit yourself to offering a ministering of appreciation every chance you get!

(Rev. Bruce Hamilton is pastor of the Charlevoix Community Church of God. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Hamilton and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

Good Cents Savings Bank celebrates grand opening

by Laurie Lounsbury

A common lament is that young people today just don't know how to save money. Elementary school students, with help from FMB. Northwestern Bank, are doing something to fix that. The bank had a grand opening of a "branch" at the elementary school last Friday, complete with student bank tellers and branch managers.

FMB contributed a dollar to every student who opened an account.

Students earnestly lined up in front of tellers while they counted out their pennies, dimes, and nickels. Student tellers, dressed in proper banking attire, carefully recorded the transactions in bank books.

The bank, called the Good Cents Savings Bank, will give kids a chance to apply math skills to real life. Fifth grader Brad Hice was named bank manager. His first duty was to cut the ribbon at the bank opening, with his assistant managers from each grade on hand to assist.

The bank's name and logo is the clever work of second grader Steven Holden.

Brad Hice, cutting ribbon, was named as branch manager of the student bank at the elementary school. Helping Brad with the ribbon cutting were his assistant branch managers, one student from each grade and Jim Connaughton, FMB Northwestern Bank Assistant Vice President. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

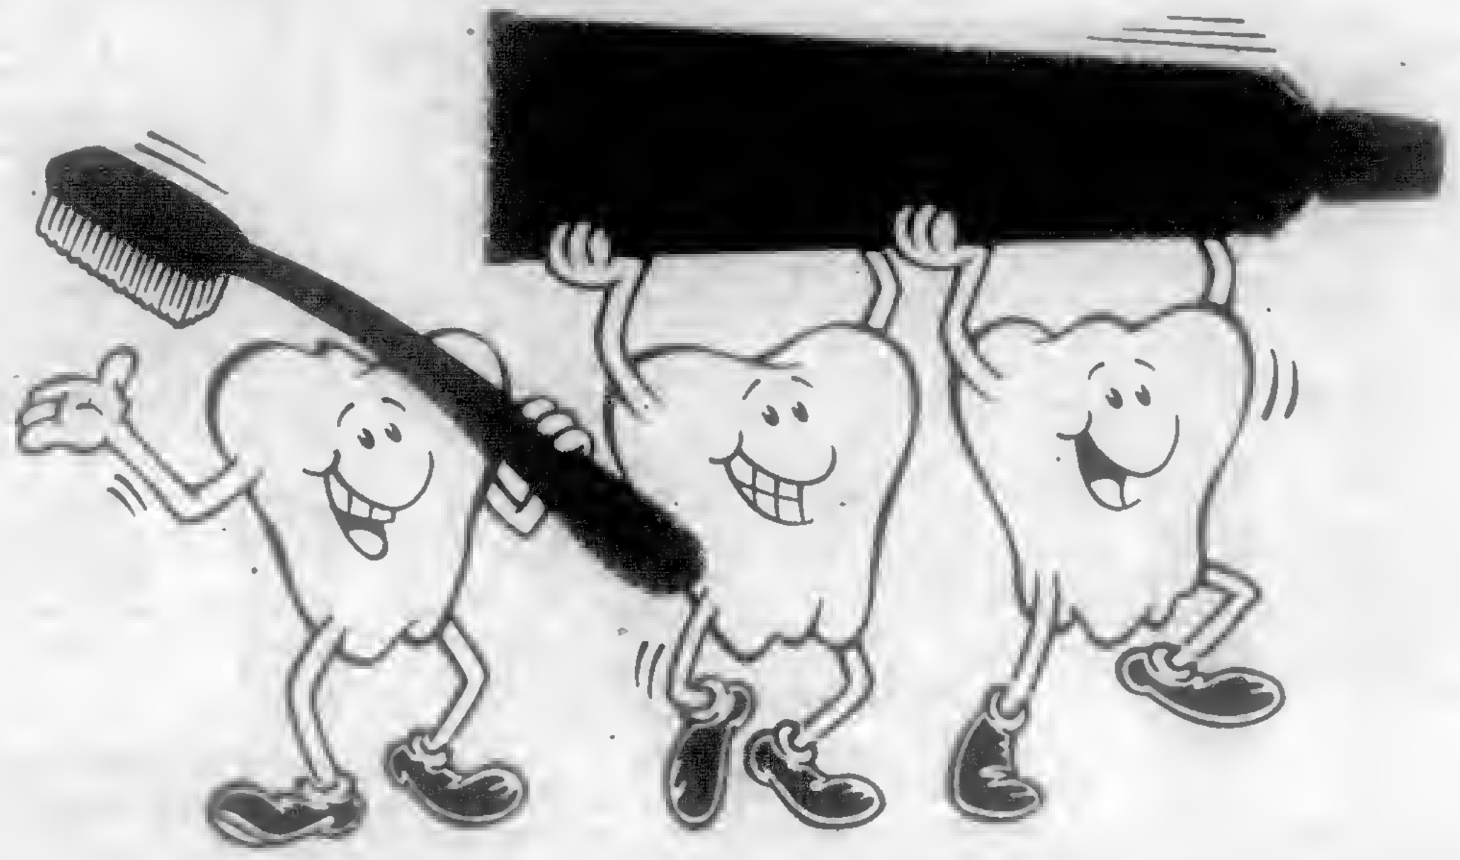
The interest rate for the portion of the Cash Management Checking balance above $5,000 is tied to the weekly average Fed Funds Rate less not more than one percent, which, as of 1/15/96, is 4.61%. The portion of the balance $5,000 and below earns an interest rate determined by the bank, which, as of 1/15/96, is 1.15%. The APY ranges from 1.16% to 4.71% on $100,000. Available to individuals at First of America Bank-Michigan only. Member FDIC. ©1996, FOA Bank Corporation. If hearing impaired, TDD line available from 9-5 EST at (800) 289-4614.

Local dentists observing National Children's Dental Health Month will be involved in many educational and preventative dental activities during February. Included among these activities is the "Dentist With A Heart" program, sponsored by Vacationland Dental Society, an affiliate of the American Dental Association. This program provides free dental care for children who are not covered by dental insurance. The schedule reflected below highlights local activities as well as dentists participating in the "Dentist With A Heart" Program:

- ♥ Dr. Paramo, Dr. Balasz, Dr. Strawbridge & Dr. Merrill will provide dental screening for Charlevoix Elementary School February 13th and Charlevoix St. Mary's children, March 13th.
- ♥ Dr. James Smith will provide dental screening for Ellsworth Schools, Monday, February 12.



- ♥ February 15, 8:00 am-Noon: Dr. Balasz will provide free exams, X-rays, cleanings and fluoride to children with financial need. Please call for an appointment.
- ♥ February 16, 1:00 p.m. to 3:00 p.m.: Dr. Strawbridge will provide 1/2 day free dentistry including cleanings, exams, extractions, X-rays, fillings on a first come - first served basis (excludes lab work).

To Ensure Your Child's Dental Health, You Should ☑

- ☑ Brush your toddler's teeth.
- ☑ Supervise your child's brushing until he or she is 8 years old.
- ☑ Make sure your child uses a fluoride toothpaste.
- ☑ Make sure your child visits the dentist every six months.
- ☑ Make sure your child uses a flouride rinse if recommended by your dentist.
- ☑ Check your child's teeth for white, yellow, or brown spots, which are a sign of decay.
- ☑ Teach your child to brush after snacking.
- ☑ Encourage your child to avoid sweets and sticky foods.
- ☑ Make sure your child flosses as soon as the teeth fit closely together.

CB North receives four-star rating

Francis B. Flanders, Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer of CB North has announced that CB North has earned a Four-Star Rating from Bauer Financial Reports, Inc., the nation's leading bank rating firm.

The Bauer Four-Star Rating is based on the Bank's safety, strength and performance, for the period ended June 30, 1995. CB North's Four-Star Rating indicates that its regulatory capital exceeds six percent of tangible assets and its risk-based capital ration exceeds 10 percent. In addition, CB North is soundly invested and profitable. The capital levels required to earn Bauer's Four-Star Rating significantly exceed federal regulatory requirements. "CB North's Four-Star Rating is recognition of its strength and soundness," said Paul A. Bauer, president of the research firm "Its performance is a measure of excellence in banking."

CB North, with assets of $159.4 million, is a subsidiary of CB Financial corporation. CB Financial Corporation, with assets of $719.1 million, is the parent holding company of City Bank and Trust Company in Jackson, City Bank in Lansing/St. Johns and CB North in Charlevoix. CB Financial Corporation and its subsidiaries have 45 Financial Centers providing commercial, trust, and personal banking services in northwest and central Michigan.

Rayders beaten by Petoskey

Charlevoix's varsity basketball team stayed with Petoskey in the first half, but collapsed in the third quarter and ended up losing 69-46 in a Jan. 30 game at Petoskey. Charlevoix's season record fell to 2-10 with the loss while Petoskey moved to 11-1.

Petoskey led 16-12 at the end of the first quarter, but Charlevoix played a strong second quarter and closed to within one point, 26-25, at halftime.

In the second half, things did not go well for the Rayders. They were outscored 20-10 in the third quarter and 23-11 in the fourth quarter.

George McClellan had 10 points, eight rebounds and three steals for the Rayders while Josh Miller had six assists.

Charlevoix's junior varsity also lost 59-33. No Rayders scored in double figures. The Rayder junior varsity record fell to 3-9.

Charlevoix's freshman team fell to 10-2 with a 59-41 loss despite 13 points from Matt Dennis.

Rayders fall to St. Francis

Charlevoix's varsity basketball team fell to 2-11 on the season with a 70-43 homecourt loss to Traverse City St. Francis Friday evening. As ugly as the score was, the Rayders didn't look particularly bad. Offensively, they were a split second slow with their passes to open people and although they were getting some decent interior shots in the first half, they were taking their shots a bit timidly against the taller St. Francis players. The Rayders missed shots allowed St. Francis to take the ball off the glass instead of out of the net and fast break for quick baskets.

Charlevoix trailed at the quarter marks, 15-4, 33-11 and 48-23.

As the season has progressed, the Rayders have cut down on their turnovers at the guard position and gotten some inside rebounds, but they're still looking for someone to provide some consistent inside scoring. Against St. Francis, Ben Owens led the Rayders with 10 points and seven rebounds. Steve Carland added six rebounds.

St. Francis also won the junior varsity game 58-50. Jim Kanine led the Rayders with 10 points.

Middle school hoops teams beat Boyne

Charlevoix's seventh and eighth grade boys' basketball teams swept a pair of games from Boyne City at home Jan. 31

The Rayder seventh grade team took a 43-29 win behind 12 points from Justin Coen. The eight grade team beat Boyne City 56-31. Sean Stockman scored nine points for the Rayders who are now 5-0.

Junior High Division

The Hoops Legends picked up their first win of the season 18-16 over the Iron Maidens. Lindsey Carland led the Legends with eight points and nine rebounds while Lyndsay Simmons had six points and 11 rebounds. Angela Starr and Sally Beemon each had six points for the Maidens.

The Spartans turned back the Short Shaqs 32-17. Sarah Norton had 22 points and Kelly Dreyer six for the Spartans. Laurel English had nine points and Emily Hughes eight points for the Shaqs.

The Lakers defeated the Piggies 23-18. Taya Drost had 15 points and Abbey Schaperkotter five for the Lakers. Stacey Skippergosh had eight points and Molly Arnold four for the Piggies.

The Monkeys beat the Bear Cats 22-12. Megan Vogel and Kari Miller each had seven points and Jenny Miller six points for the Monkeys. Leslie Hoffman had five points and Sarah Parrish four points for the Cats.

Ladies First defeated the Raiders 34-18. Jenniea Webster led the Ladies with 20 points while Dena Sheldon added 11. Jennifer McClellan had 11 points and Kim Potter five points for the Raiders.

Elementary Division

The Steelers tamed the Wildcats 28-12. Jamie Left had 16 points and Ashley Ager six points for the Steelers. Katie Sheldon had four points and Danielle Flowers three points for the Cats.

The Wild Things defeated the Hoopsters 22-15. Kelly Ward had 18 for the Wild Things while Megan Arnold had eight and Jessica Kelly four points for the Hoopsters.

The Gargoyles beat the Sonics 22-20. Kelly Zimmerman had 10 points while Katie Lieberman and Rachel Bellairs each had six for the Gargoyles. Lauren Silberhorm had 10 points and Elizabeth Blosh six points for the Sonics.

The Bulls defeated the Rockets 18-16. Natasha Kleiber and Kristy Skippergosh each had eight points for the Bulls while Crystal Meredith and Elizabeth Ulrich each had eight for the Rockets.

Volleyball team wins tournament

Charlevoix's varsity volleyball team finished first among four teams at the Elk Rapids Volleyball Invitational Saturday. In the finals, the Rayders beat the host team 15-3, 15-9.

Earlier in the day the Rayders went 5-1 in pool play. They opened by beating Harbor Springs 15-1, 15-11; then split with Elk Rapids 15-2, 4-15; and then hammered Leland 15-5, 15-4.

In the semifinals the Rayders beat Harbor Springs 15-6, 15-9.

Leading the Rayder offense were Theresa Johnson with 25 kills, Liz Kelly with 16 and sophomore Amanda Eaton with 15 kills. Top defensive players were Johnson, Kelly and Aprille Pischner. Top servers were Johnson, 11 aces; Jenni Swenor with seven; and Kelly with seven. Johnson and Swenor were named to the All-Tournament team.

Three Charlevoix soccer players named to All-Academic team

Three Charlevoix High School senior boys soccer players have been named to the Michigan High School Soccer Coaches All-Academic Team for 1995.

Named to the team were:

Jason Firman, a three-year varsity player and team MVP. He is the son of Don and Sue Firman and will attend Michigan Tech and study engineering.

Seth Kilander, a three-year varsity player and team captain. He is the son of Earl and Pam Kilander and will attend Purdue University to study computer engineering.

Noel Kammermann, a three-year varsity player and team captain who also made the All-Region team. He is the son of Eric and Vel Kammermann and will attend Wabash University to study math.

Indoor soccer results

In Charlevoix indoor soccer league action, Saturday, Feb. 3, the Rat Pack out-scored Big Green 7-5 in game one. Scoring for the Rat Pack were Steve Carland 4, Jamie Oppermann 2, and Matt Mikulski 1. Scoring for Big Green were Justin Davis 2, Jeff Zappen 1 and Ryan Ellis 2.

In game two, the Stingers downed the Phoenixx 8-3. Scoring for the Stingers were Noel Kammermann 6 and Drew Belding 2. Scoring the Phoenixx were Jamie Oppermann 2 and Bob Schofield 1.

In game three, the Rockets downed the Crushers 7-3. Scoring for the Rockets were Jeff Zappen 4, Todd Schapperkotter 2, and Frans Vandervelden 1. Scoring for the Crushers were John Doskoch 2 and Erika Kammermann 1.

League action resumes Saturday, Feb. 10, at 6:30 p.m. at the Charlevoix Middle School gym.

Dave Olach (left) goes airborne in Charlevoix Recreation League co-ed volleyball play last week. Teams play in men's, women's and co-ed leagues throughout the winter at the elementary school gym.

Church to host pancake supper

Christ Episcopal Church will host a pancake supper Feb. 20 at the Community Reformed Church at the corner of Petoskey and Meech Streets. There will be two seatings, one from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. and a second from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. Tickets are $5 per person and are available at the Episcopal Church office and at the door. The dinner will also include drawings for several door prizes, among them weekends at Shanty Creek. For additional information, phone the church office at 547-6322.

Char-Em receives $147,038 grant

The Charlevoix-Emmet School-to-Work Local Community Partnership is receiving a $147,038 local implementation grant. State Rep. Beverly A. Bodem, R-106th District, was notified of the grant by Gov. Engler and the Michigan Jobs Commission. The grant, administered by the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, is providing students with skills essential for a successful transition into the work force.

Bodem said the partnership will be comprised of at least 51 percent private sector representatives, an employer chair and representatives from K-12 and post-secondary educational institutions. It also will include organized labor, community organizations, local government, parent and teacher organizations and the Job Training Partnership Act Michigan Works! agency.

Man charged with selling cocaine

Several law enforcement agencies teamed up to arrest Henry Stubbs, a suspected drug dealer, during the evening of Jan. 29. Stubbs was in his home at 201 E. Lincoln Street, near the Charlevoix High School, when the Straits Area Narcotics team, assisted by the Charlevoix City Police and the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department moved in to bust him at 7:25 p.m.

Stubbs, 52, has been charged with selling cocaine on Dec. 29 and Jan 29 from his home. He is charged with two counts of delivery of less than 50 grams of cocaine.

Stubbs does not work. According to court records, he has no job and receives almost $500 a month in supplemental income payments from the government.

Stubbs appeared in district court before Judge Richard May last week for his arraignment. At the time, he was given two days to hire an attorney or the court would appoint an attorney for him. By Thursday of last week, Stubbs had no attorney, so the court appointed Mark Muniak to represent him.

Stubbs is being held at the Charlevoix County jail in lieu of a $10,000 cash bond.

A preliminary hearing is scheduled for February 13.

Charlevoix assistant prosecutor Larry Burgess reported that a special prosecutor for S.A.N.E. will handle the case.

First birthday!

Karley Pearsall's first year certainly wasn't routine

by Laurie Lounsbury

When Karley Pearsall entered the world a year ago, she did something her parents feared she couldn't do - she took her first breath of life on her own. Her parents, Kevin and Vikki Pearsall, were overcome with joy and relief.

After that first sweet breath, Karley made a healthy, squeaky little baby noise, then was whisked onto a ventilator and placed in an incubator. Karley was born 14 weeks prematurely, weighing only one pound, nine ounces at birth.

Karley appeared to be perfect, just tiny. But because of her premature age and weight, the doctors gave her only a 50-50 chance of

Snowmobiler presumed drowned after falling through ice into lake

by L. Scott Swanson

One snowmobiler is missing and presumed drowned while another was rescued from the waters of Lake Charlevoix Saturday evening.

Casey Richardson, 27, was riding one of two snowmobiles which went through the ice on Lake Charlevoix at approximately 8 p.m. Saturday evening. He is presumed drowned, although divers have not been able to recover his body. A remote controlled mechanical diving unit is being brought in from the University of Michigan to continue the search today.

A second snowmobiler, Corey Richardson, 24, also went through the ice, but was rescued by members of the U.S. Coast Guard Life Station.

The two brothers went through the ice near the channel between Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix. Corey Richardson was able to pull himself out of the water and onto the soft ice. A person walking on shore near the lake heard his calls for help and notified authorities. The Coast Guard station is less than 200 yards from where the accident occurred. Station members responded quickly and were able to rescue Corey and bring him to shore where the Charlevoix ambulance transported him to Charlevoix Area Hospital. Corey was released from the hospital Sunday morning.

Emergency personnel searched for Casey Saturday evening and resumed the search for eight hours Sunday, but were unable to locate him. Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater contacted officials at the University of Michigan to bring a remote controlled dive unit to Charlevoix to assist in the survival.

...an interesting way to begin a life

Karley made it. Today she's a bright-eyed, energetic baby, chewing on the corners of Sesame Street books, and grabbing for intriguing items on the coffee table. "For her corrected age, she's doing what she should be doing," her proud mom said.

On February 16, she will celebrate her first birthday. It's a momentous occasion for the Pearsall family.

Karley's survival was touch and go for the first 87 days of her life, which she spent in the Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids. After birth, Karley got an infection and her weight dropped to one pound, six ounces. She wasn't allowed to leave an incubator until she reached three pounds and was able to hold her own body heat. When that day arrived, she was allowed to "Kangaroo" with her parents. Karley's mom or dad would take her, unclothed, and tuck her inside their shirts against bare skin. The process allowed Karley to hear her parent's heartbeat and learn their smell.

During the long three months of Karley's hospitalization, Vikki stayed at a nearby Ronald MacDonald House. Kevin drove back and forth to visit on weekends. The two of them worried about their baby, and worried about their medical bills. "It was hard for him. It was hard for all of us," Vikki said.

Friends back home in Charlevoix organized fundraising dinners and silent auctions. Somehow everything worked out. "We couldn't live in a better community. We are so thankful for everyone's support," Vikki said.

Just a few days before Mother's Day last year, Karley reached a weight of four and a half pounds. The doctors said she was ready to go home. "That was the best Mother's Day gift anyone could ever have," Vikki said.

> "We couldn't live in a better community. We are so thankful for everyone's support."
> Vikki Pearsall, commenting on the support her family received when her daughter was born prematurely

For Karley's first birthday party, her doctors gave permission for her to try her two new teeth out on a cupcake. "It's hard to believe a whole year has gone by so fast. It doesn't seem like she's a year old, but she's definitely a year old and into everything," Vikki said.

Internet law is flawed

The first paragraph of the edito [illegible]

A recently passed telecommunications bill contains a provision making it a crime to send indecent materials to juveniles over computer lines. Like so many things, that action sounds reasonable at first glance, but when you take time to analyze the issue, you begin to see problems.

To preface these comments, let's be clear on a couple of things. Sending indecent material to juveniles merits no support in this editorial, or anywhere else. But, if you're going to legislate against it, take time to do it right. Misguided and simplistic legislation with the potential to infringe on freedom of speech and the exchange of ideas among adults also merits no support.

To begin with, the problem of obscene and indecent material (however you happen to define that) on the Internet has been grossly exaggerated. The Internet is nothing more than a system which links hundreds of thousands of computers together so that people can use their computers to communicate and share information. Granted, a few of the people are twisted and some of the information is sleazy. But the key words here are "a few" and "some." That should not be construed as "most" or "much." Most of the people on the Internet are good and decent people who enjoy communicating with others and who appreciate an opportunity to use technology to expand their intellectual horizons.

The small percentage of perverts and the small portion of sleaze on the Internet is easily avoidable without legislation. Interacting with other people on the Internet is a two-party process. And likewise, text and graphic information doesn't come to you, you've got to go find it. If you don't want to interact with someone who's twisted, the same rules that apply to normal life apply in Cyberspace. Be careful about talking to strangers and don't give them your name and address. As far as text and graphics are concerned, most are titled so you have a pretty good idea of what you're getting into. All conversations on the Internet are easily terminated and all information areas are easily closed. If the things certain people discuss via the computer make you uncomfortable, don't have discussions with those people. If certain text and graphics on the computer offend you, then don't look at them. If your child surfs the Net, establish guidelines for what they are allowed to do and not do. Do not permit them to give their name or personal information to strangers. Tell them that if they access inappropriate files, their computer privileges will be revoked. As a parent, you have a responsibility and a right to take that action with your child. That is appropriate. Attempting to legislate what other adults are allowed to discuss, read or view is not appropriate.

The "decency" provision of the telecommunications bill may sound reasonable, but if you give it greater consideration, it quickly takes on an air of high-tech book burning. It is an oversimplified, political grandstanding response to an uninformed public outcry over a grossly exaggerated problem.

Consider some of the following questions. What is "indecent" material? What constitutes "sending" or "transmission of" indecent material to children? If a group of middle-age men are exchanging pictures of naked women on a computer group and unbeknownst to them, a kid signs onto the group list, are they all busted? If a group of college art students exchange a drawing of a nude model and a kid signs onto the group list, are they all busted? If someone's Internet Web page contains a detailed description of a gruesome murder and kids are able to log onto that Web page, is the person who put together the page busted? What if the person who put together the page is a Bosnian journalist describing atrocities of war and posted the description to get other journalists' opinions of whether or not she's being too graphic in her description?

Where do you draw your lines? And have you any right to draw lines for other people? These questions are complicated, far more complicated than a government censorship provision which, with any luck, will prove legally unconstitutional and technically unenforceable.

Deal with kids realistically

Editor,

Allow me to preface the comments that follow with a brief summary of my personal feelings about certain societal elements that truly put our young people in continuing jeopardy: Almost four years ago my family and I were fortunate enough to be able to relocate to this wonderful part of the world, leaving behind us the family and life threatening environment known as the "big city." A significant part of our decision to exit that environment as quickly and permanently as possible was the ever-present anxiety associated with raising children in a drug-infested, locker-searching, gang-ridden, gun-carrying and violent environment known as the school system. Charlevoix represented an opportunity to finally sever any permanent relationship with those continually worsening conditions, and continues to do so today. I believed then, and believe now, that the people of Charlevoix, and especially our city officials and law enforcement personnel, are serious about these things and committed to maintaining this quality of life.

It seems clear that most of these undesirable conditions plaguing our larger metropolitan areas and the young people that live there may not be so prevalent today had corrective action and prevention taken place earlier in the process. Most city officials, law enforcement personnel and educators living in those cities will comment that the conditions are out of control. The best they can do is try to keep up with the growth of violence, drugs and gangs by arresting offenders, searching lockers and, unfortunately, cleaning-up the mess left behind. The actions taken by our local leaders and educators recently, in an effort to stop the apparent growth of a gang mentality in our schools, should be applauded by all of us. Both Charlevoix and Petoskey have taken positive steps to kill this "virus" before it spreads.

As we continue to pursue this "preventive medicine" I would encourage a strong degree of caution, however, in how we apply the rules, regulations and other constraints designed to avoid putting our young people in jeopardy. Those of us old enough to remember the "sixties" or the "seventies" should benefit from that experience. When we speak of marijuana use today, for example, we advise today's young people that the use of that intoxicant causes things like a lack of motivation, bad grades in school, a lack of interest in all things important and, in many cases, a reason to experiment with things much more destructive. Back in the "dark ages" of the sixties and seventies, however, we told those young people that the use of that bad weed caused people to steal, rape, murder and burn themselves alive in public. As soon as the young people of those earlier generations realized that their "protectors" were either misinformed or just plain lying to them, they lost all confidence in their leaders. For the most part, we handle things better today. For the most part.

If we accept the fact that our young people today will lead this community and this country tomorrow, and if we truly believe we are providing the best possible education for them along the way, then we must accept the fact that they are not stupid and uninformed. Today's young people are, for the most part, smarter, brighter and better educated than any previous generation. They typically know more about the prevalence of drugs and the presence of gangs in the school system than the people trying to protect them. The danger, and the reason for my caution, is the tendency of those "in charge" to mislead, overkill and, in some cases, outright lie about these negative influences. If our young people are expected to believe us when we caution against these things, or take action to prevent their growth, we must be honest, informed and cautious in our application.

In the Charlevoix Middle School this week our "leaders" convinced

a group of young people that we have not learned a great deal as adults and protectors of their future. A group of teens, middle school cheerleaders to be specific, in the typical spirit of pre-game enthusiasm, created hand-made "posters" encouraging the basketball team to win the upcoming game. As a part of these posters the term "kick some butt" was used, and some of the posters included a three-pronged pitchfork symbol for punctuation. The pitchfork, of course, represented the fact that our team was playing a team with the word "devil" in their name. The school authorities insisted that the "kick butt" verbiage was removed, and although I'm personally not sure "kick some butt" is that offensive in a competitive athletic endeavor, I support that edict due to the fact that lines must be drawn in all cases. The ordered removal of the pitchfork, used only for punctuation, however, because it was "Satanic," "gang related" and implied some type of devil worship is, without question, overkill and just plain, well, not very smart.

The message this arbitrary and thoughtless application sends to these bright, energetic and, yes, impetuous young people is that we simply don't understand or care. If we can't see clearly that this was a clean, innocent and harmless representation, as opposed to a devil-worshipping, satanic gang-related activity, then perhaps we need a refresher course of some kind. Let's ensure that we don't fail to educate as our predecessors of the sixties and seventies did. Let's ensure that every application of our inherited, (not necessarily earned), authority is reasonable and logical. Let's ensure that our young people respect our decisions when we endeavor to protect, instead laughing at our lack of reason and common sense. Let's ensure we earn and deserve our position as leaders and educators in the eyes of this generation. If we expect our young people to use reason and common sense, we must set that kind of example in every case, without exception.

To re-state my preface, I absolutely abhor the thought that this "oasis in the middle of chaos" that we all call home could follow in the path of our much larger and much sicker big cities, and I support every effort to prevent that from happening. The only thing worse than our young adults becoming a part of this new and violent society will be the fact that we, as leaders and educators, encouraged it to happen through abuse of power, lack of understanding, misinformation and careless decision making. We learn best when we have confidence in those that teach us. We learn nothing from those we do not trust or respect.

On the other hand, maybe I'm really missing the point. Having said that, I would expect to see us do away with any athletic team name that affronts any our our sensibilities, including such as the "Raiders" (what does that imply?), the "Devils," "Red Devils," etc. (there are likely thousands of those around the country) "Steelers" (thieves that can't spell?), "Indians" (of all the nerve), "Cowboys," "Bears," "Colts" and "Cubs" (for all of us animal lovers, please). And we must certainly discourage any group of people that band together under some undesirable name for the purpose of violent acts, such as ganging-up on someone to simply steal a ball from him, maybe knocking him down in the process.

Or is that really overkill? Thanks for listening.

Tom Phillips

Christmas Project board says thank you

Editor,

Once again the Board of the Community Christmas Project is feeling very thankful and blessed to have such generous and willing workers to help on this big project.

This year we made Christmas a little better for 532 persons; 142 households received dinners; 200 children had Christmas gifts; 97 senior citizens were remembered with a gift and adult foster care clients received special remembrances.

Helping us in helping others was a tremendous cross section of the community: young people, civic groups, churches, private businesses and individual volunteers. We thank you all.

Sincerely,

Mary Helen Riggle and Kay Smith on behalf of the Community Christmas Project Planning Committee

League of Women Voters to discuss civic affairs

The League of Women Voters of the Charlevoix Area will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 20, at the First Congregational Church, 101 State Street, Charlevoix. League members will consider how best to implement suggestions from community leaders for increasing citizen participation in civic affairs in a positive way. During recent interviews with local officials the need for non-threatening exchange of ideas was repeated several times. Negativism and rudeness were cited as being among deterrents to the efficient conduct of civic business.

LWV Charlevoix has achieved official state and national recognition, and will participate in League's "Initiative to Renew Democracy" through 1998. This will be an exciting and challenging assignment which will focus on our area. for information please call 547-2742.

Hospital receives money

Thanks to Medusa Cement Company the cost of the new dining room and classroom at Charlevoix Area Hospital is now paid. Terry Blissett, Medusa controller, visited the hospital in person to make the final $25,000 payment on their 1991 capital campaign pledge of $125,000.

Blissett said, "Medusa is very happy to make this donation to the hospital. We feel it's a gift that keeps on giving. The company and everyone in the community feels very fortunate to have a fine facility such as Charlevoix Area Hospital close-by."

The Medusa gift provided the funds for the dining room and large classroom facilities which opened in 1994. Pledges from businesses and community members during the building campaign five years ago amounted to $1.6 million. The construction program also included a new surgical suite, Birthing Center, kitchen, and renovated Admitting and Emergency Departments.

Richard Krueger, hospital president, says, "From our standpoint, we feel very fortunate to have such fine support for the hospital and the health care of this community from our neighbor. We are very pleased our donors have displayed such dedication to the hospital. Almost all of those pledges made in 1991 have been paid in full and others continue to fulfill their commitment." The 1991 campaign included a matching grant of $150,000 from the Frey Foundation.

Presently the hospital is renovating some of the vacated areas to expand such departments as Physical Therapy.

McKinney - Salatino

Amy E. McKinney and John Robert Salatino of Larchmont, N.Y. have announced their engagement.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Ruth and James McKinney of Charlevoix. Following graduation from Charlevoix High School, she attended Central Michigan and Westchester Business Institute. She is currently employed with Hobbs Group Inc. of Greenwich, Connecticut. Her fiance is the son of Frances and William Salatino of Larchmont. He is employed with the Larchmont Station Taxi/Kissane Limousine Company.

The couple will be married Sept. 14, 1996 at the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix.

Richard Smith

Richard Albert Smith, 59, of Charlevoix, died Feb. 10, 1996, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

His funeral was held Feb. 12, at the United Methodist Church in Charlevoix, with the Rev. Dale P. Ostema officiating. Burial will take place in Norwood Cemetery, Charlevoix County.

Mr. Smith was born Sept. 30, 1936, in Charlevoix, the son of Albert H. and Neva O. (Webster) Smith. He was raised in Charlevoix, and graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1954.

On Dec. 28, 1957, he married Beverly J. Richardson in Norwood, and she survives.

Mr. Smith attended the United Methodist Church in Charlevoix.

He was currently serving as master of the Barnard Grange, and had served as steward for the Michigan State Grange.

Mr. Smith had been employed by the Charlevoix County Road Commission since 1979.

Survivors include his wife, Beverly, of Charlevoix; two sons, James R. Smith and his wife, Kendall, of Charlevoix, and Michael A. Smith and his fiance, Linda Joy, of Grand Rapids; his mother, Neva Smith, of Charlevoix; two sisters, Ruth Ann Campbell and her husband, Howard, of Charlevoix, and Nancy Allison and her husband, Chip, of Charlevoix; and stepmother-in-law, Vida Richardson, of Charlevoix.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the Charlevoix Area Hospital Cardiac Care Unit or to the Barnard Grange. Envelopes for memorial are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix, where visitation was held Sunday evening, Feb. 11.

Ted R. Miller

Ted R. Miller, formerly of Charlevoix, died Feb. 3 in Corvallis, Oregon at the age of 94. Mr. Miller lived in Charlevoix from 1951 to 1967. He was a building contractor and married to Wilma Stevenson, who was born in Charlevoix.

Mr. Miller was born Oct. 4, 1901 in Dearborn, where he received his education and worked on the family's large truck farm. He later attended Michigan Agricultural College (Michigan State University) where he was involved with many campus activities including the ROTC cavalry unit and graduated with honors and a degree in forestry.

On Valentine's Day, 1927 he married Wilma (Billie) G. Stevenson in Decatur, Illinois. They had been married 67 years before her death in September, 1994.

Mr. Miller is survived by daughters Susie O'Shea of Corvallis and Ellen Lange of Davis, California and three grandchildren.

Honoring Mr. Miller's wishes, there will be no services.

OF BLESSINGS

by LOWELL ANDERSON
Charlevoix Assembly of God

Since His knowledge and understanding is so infinitely greater than our own, Jesus often used analogies and illustrations from the common things of everyday life to teach divine truth. He used the teaming together of a pair of oxen in a common yoke to enable us to better understand the kind of relationship with Himself He has called us to.

"Come to me, all you who are weary and burdened," He said, "And I will give you rest." What wonderful news! We often find ourselves stressed by the pace of our activity and the cares of our lives and the offer of rest is enthusiastically received because it is just what we need.

But the Lord continues, "Take my yoke upon you ..." At first glance that appears to be totally contradictory to the rest to which He invites us. Our imaginations picture a pair of oxen yoked together and straining to pull a plow, or a heavily laden cart. But that's not all the case when we hear the remainder of what He has to say, "... and learn from me, for I am gentle and humble in heart, and YOU WILL find rest for your souls."

When you consider all that Jesus means by using the illustration of a yoke of oxen you are overcome with a realization of the great love and care for us that is contained in His invitation to take the yoke. Customarily a younger and less experienced ox would be teamed with an older more mature one. The younger and weaker one would tire sooner than the mature one making it essential for the older to bear more of the load while the younger "rested." The older was more experienced at the task and therefore provided leadership and direction for the younger. Clearly Jesus invitation to take His yoke is just the answer for the burdens we carry and the weariness they cause us! He reassures us, "My yoke is easy and my burden is light."

The reality of life is that we all have a burden to bear. The problems, difficulties and trials of life affect us all. The question is, are we going to continue in our foolish effort to carry the load alone when Jesus Christ offers to share it with us? I've accepted His offer and found His yoke to be easy and His burden to be light indeed. A whole lot lighter than carrying it alone.

How about you? Will you accept His invitation? Turn to Him in prayer, He will meet you. Talk with a Pastor if you need to. The Pastors of our community churches are "farmers" who are very familiar with fitting the yoke of Jesus to weary, burdened oxen.

Alice S. Acheson

Alice S. Acheson, formerly of Charlevoix, died Jan. 19 in Washington D.C. Acheson, 100, was an accomplished artist and the widow of former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, who served during the Truman administration and died in 1971.

Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Acheson was Alice Stanley. Her family owned a cottage at the Belvedere Club from 1943 to 1965. She often visited Charlevoix during the summer months.

Church to host pancake supper

Christ Episcopal Church will host a pancake supper Feb. 20 at the Community Reformed Church at the corner of Petoskey and Meech Streets. There will be two seatings, one from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. and a second from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. Tickets are $5 per person and are available at the Episcopal Church office and at the door. The dinner will also include drawings for several door prizes, among them weekends at Shanty Creek. For additional information, phone the church office at 547-6322.

Joseph "Joey" Seidel

Joseph Glen "Joey" Seidel, 4, of Charlevoix and Selfridge Air National Guard Base in Mount Clemens, died Feb. 6, 1996.

Two funeral services and visitation times are planned.

A funeral service was held Friday, Feb. 9, at the Selfridge Air Base Chapel in Mount Clemens. A local funeral service as held Sunday, Feb. 11, at the United Methodist Church in Charlevoix with the Rev. Dale P. Ostema officiating. Burial will take place in Barnard Cemetery.

Joey was born March 11, 1991, in Charlevoix, the son of Joseph F. Seidel and Gail L. (Lewke).

He is survived by his parents; his sister, Amanda; grandmothers, Isabelle Seidel and Marguerite Lewke; and by several aunts and uncles.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to Charlevoix Area Hospital, to the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Michigan, or to Child Life Services Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Chester E. Belfy

Chester E. Belfy, 76, of Charlevoix, died Feb. 5, 1996, at his home.

His funeral was held Feb. 9, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Charlevoix Lodge No. 282 F&AM will officiate.

Mr. Belfy was born June 23, 1919, on Beaver Island, the son of Erwin E. and Lenore J. (Allers) Belfy. He later moved to Charlevoix.

He served with the U.S. Navy during World War II.

He piloted the Beaver Island and Charlevoix ferry-mail boat, "The Mary Margaret," after World War II.

Mr. Belfy was then employed by the Department of Natural Resources as a conservation officer in law enforcement. He became captain of the DNR fisheries research vessel, "Steelhead," until his retirement in 1976.

On Dec. 19, 1953, he married Elaine Lockwood in Pentwater, and she survives.

Other survivors include a son, Edwin E. Belfy and his wife, Sharon, of Paw Paw; two daughters, Carol A. Wojan and her husband, Kenneth R., of Petoskey, and Jeanne Belfy of Boise, Idaho; five grandchildren; one great-grandchild; and a brother, Erwin "Sonny" Belfy, of Charlevoix.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Alzheimer's Disease Foundation. Envelopes for memorials will be available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix where friends may call from 7-9 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 8.

Volunteers help students get a good start with reading

by L. Scott Swanson

One of the most important things children learn in their first three years of school is how to read. The ability to read and acquire information off a page or off a blackboard forms the foundation of a child's education. If that foundation is shaky, it affects almost every aspect of the child's educational experience.

This year, with the help of nearly 40 volunteers, Charlevoix elementary school initiated a program to help shore up the educational foundation of students who are having a tough time with reading. The program operates under the acronym STAR (Success To All Readers). Teacher Joellen Rudolph is in charge of the educational end of the operation. Joan Carson coordinates the volunteers.

"It's been really wonderful for the children," Rudolph says. "We've seen a lot of progress already."

The 40 volunteers are a nice cross section of the community. There are parents, senior citizens, even people who take some time off work and forego their coffee break to make some child a brighter, happier person.

First and second grade students who are having problems with reading and writing spend 20 minutes a day, four days a week in the program. They are paired up, one-to-one, with a volunteer who reads with them and helps them with their writing. The children spend 10 minutes with the volunteer and 10 minutes working on a computer that lets them work at their own pace.

Some of the children who began the program are no longer in it. Not because they didn't like it, but because the one-to-one attention quickly improved their reading and writing skills to the point where they no longer needed the program.

Cathy Miller is one of the volunteers who works with the children. "I wouldn't trade it for the world," she says. "You get so much from them."

Miller's son had learning difficulties that have required special attention and work in the school's Developmental Learning Center. Working with her son and teachers to overcome those problems moti-

School libraries are an information gold mine

The most important tool for gaining entry to the information age and all its promise is the ability to read. The library and media centers at the three Charlevoix school buildings are dedicated to promoting reading the appreciation of literature. Additionally, the media centers assist in curriculum development and implementation, provide a research base for study, and teach students how to use current technologies. The media centers are normally filled with busy students learning how to access information and process it from raw data into usable form.

Charlevoix students and faculty have access to a variety of both print and electronic communication media including: electronic database searching via CD ROM; an automated circulation and card catalogue; Internet resources of Worldwide Web via Netscape; electronic EBSCO magazine search; fax machine access to Northland Cooperative (NILS) for inter-library loan of books and articles.

Students at all three media centers are assisted by certified, professional teacher/media specialists.

Parents and community members are welcome to stop by and see the media centers in operation.

The Charlevoix Middle School library has several computers to assist students in their research.

Charlevoix Middle School students use the computer card catalogue to find things in the school library.

BUSINESS

Mother and daughter open lingerie shop

by Laurie Lounsbury

Sugar and spice, and everything nice, including intimate apparel and lingerie. It's not quite how the saying goes, but the description fits a new store in town, A Touch of Lace.

Mother and daughter Pat and Deborah Neumann are the new owners of a boutique and lingerie shop located in the Pine River building. The store is distinctly Victorian, with delicate lingerie, soft, lacy curtains and an assortment of feminine gift items. The mother and daughter pooled their collective talents to come up with the idea for their new business.

Deborah has a strong fine arts background, and leans towards the creative aspects of the business. She's a watercolor artist, and will sell some of her work in the store, where it hangs on the walls and lends a soft ambiance to the shop. "I wanted to give people the feeling that they're walking into their own bedroom, so they feel comfortable," Deborah said. Pat has a customer retail background from her 18 years as a motel owner. "I like working with the clothes," Pat said.

The two women agreed that they will carry tasteful, intimate apparel and steer clear of trendy gag gifts. "We don't want to offend anyone. Everything we have is in good taste," Pat said.

What they have ranges from jewelry, sleepwear and lingerie to soaps, lotions and bath oils. Deborah plans to have more of her artwork in the store by summer.

Next year, they hope to expand their business to include bed and bath items.

The Neumanns don't want to leave anyone out, so they are carrying women's sizes up through 1X. Both women noted that the larger sized items are often made with greater attention to detail and styling. "We really liked the styling on some of the 1X items, and we couldn't get the same style in smaller sizes," Pat said.

The Neumanns look forward to customer input. If they get enough requests for certain items, they will stock accordingly. "It's touch and go until we find out what sells, what people want," Pat said.

The business is located at 101 Bridge Street. For more information, call 547-9308.

Names in business

A collection of awards, accomplishments and milestones in the careers of Charlevoix area business people.

Rich Hand, of Charlevoix, was one of 26 young Farm Bureau members who began the fourth class of Michigan Farm Bureau's Institute for Leadership Education (ProFILE) Jan. 24.

"Every county Farm Bureau in Michigan is asked to nominate deserving young farmers to participate in Farm Bureau's intensive leadership building program," explains Michigan Farm Bureau's Young Farmer Department Manager Ernie Birchmeier. "Over 100 were nominated, but only 26 exemplary young farmers from all over Michigan were selected."

Reinhart and Haggard win conference titles

Ron Haggard and Bruce Reinhart dominated their weight classes at the conference wrestling meet in Whittemore-Prescott Saturday. Although the Rayders placed last as a team, Reinhart and Haggard were conference champions.

Haggard won the 171 pound title with two technical pins. He beat his first opponent by a score of 15-1 and his second opponent by a score of 17-1.

Reinhart was equally impressive. Reinhart wrestled three times in the heavyweight division. He pinned his first opponent in 50 seconds, beat his second opponent 8-1 and in the finals pinned a tough Mancelona wrestler in 1:10.

Rayder wrestling coach Phil Christ said both wrestlers have a very good chance of doing well in the state tournament. "They looked dominating this weekend," Christ said. "Ron's got a good chance of winning (the state championship, and so does Bruce."

Also wrestling for Charlevoix in the conference meet were Robert Torrez, Steve Speigl and Jason Cesaro. None of them were able to pick up a win.

Christ noted that K-5 and middle school wrestling has begun with practices at the Bi-Ceps fitness club from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. on weekdays. K-5 and middle school students interested in wrestling should either show up at practice or phone Christ at 547-5816.

Volleyball team wins

Charlevoix's varsity volleyball team travelled to Onaway Feb. 7 and made short work of the Cardinals. The Rayders swept Onaway 15-1, 15-7, 15-3.

Jenni Swenor was the Rayders' top setter while Lisa Wheat, Swenor and Amanda Eaton were the team's top servers. Lyndsay Blechel, Liz Kelly and Swenor led the defense while the big offensive hammer was Theresa Johnson with eight kills. The win raised Charlevoix's season record to 12-5.

Charlevoix lost the junior varsity match 14-12, 17-15. Top setters for the Rayders were Christine Sweeney and Laura Maltese. Top servers were Maltese and Liz Dohm. Leading the defense were Maltese and Juli Swenor while the best offensive players were Swenor and Sweeney.

Basketball team falls

Charlevoix's varsity basketball team fell to 2-12 on the season with a 56-37 loss to visiting Elk Rapids, Feb. 6.

The Rayders stayed close early, trailing 16-13 after the first quarter. In the second quarter the Elks outscored the Rayders 15-6 to take a 31-19 halftime lead.

Both teams came out of the locker room cold in the second half. Charlevoix scored merely nine points in the quarter, but that was one better than the Elks' eight. In the fourth quarter Elk Rapids found their offense while the Rayders continued looking and outscored the Rayders 17-9.

David Manker scored 11 points and had eight rebounds for Charlevoix. Ben Owens had nine rebounds for Charlevoix while Steve Carland had six rebounds to go along with five assists. The loss dropped the Rayders conference record to 2-7.

Charlevoix won the junior varsity game 60-47 behind 16 points from Josh Holecheck and 14 points from Matt McClellan.

Freshman team wins

Charlevoix's freshman basketball team ran their record to 12-2 with a 62-26 pounding of Elk Rapids this past Thursday evening. Keith Grunch and Matt Cunningham each scored a dozen points for the Rayders while Matt Dennis had nine rebounds.

Dozens of skiers participated in the 1996 Mount McSauba Sno Challenge ski races and received medals and ribbons for their efforts. (A listing of the winners will appear in next week's Courier.)

Ski team takes fourth

Charlevoix's girls' team placed fourth while the boys' team finished last in the Great Northern Conference ski meet Feb. 6 at Nubs Nob.

Harbor Springs dominated the girls' meet, winning with 34 points. They were followed by Boyne City with 98 points, Grayling with 137 and Charlevoix with 149. Nine teams competed in the race.

Top individual finishers for Charlevoix were Heidi Miller with a sixth in the giant slalom and Kelly Kusina with a tenth in the slalom.

Charlevoix's boys placed last among nine teams with 303 points. Harbor Springs won the boys meet with 34 points.

The Sno Challenge Thundertubing competition once again proved to be a wild and wooly event. The warm wet snow was slow early in the event, but became slicker and faster for the later runs. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

...volunteers help students learn to read

vated Miller to help out with the STAR program.

One of the students Miller works with is second grader Adrianna Holmes. Not unlike many children her age, Holmes is a bit on the shy side. When she arrived at her table last week to read with Miller and found a reporter there, she was initially a bit apprehensive. Reading out loud to one adult is scary enough. Reading to two is even more intimidating. But after a bit of encouragement, the little girl opened the book and began to read. A few words tripped her up briefly, but with a bit of adult encouragement and a healthy portion of childhood determination she soon figured out the tricky words and pressed on. The book ended with praise from Miller and a wide smile from Holmes. It is the STAR version of "and they lived happily ever after."

"They're very appreciative of the person helping them read," Miller says. "They understand we're here to help them. They all want to progress. They all want to get better."

Rudolph said the STAR program is modeled after the International Reading Recovery program. She said the recovery program is a good program, but expensive. This past summer a team of Charlevoix teachers developed the STAR program as an economical way of getting the benefits of the recovery program. Materials for the STAR program have been purchased with federal grant money and the bulk of the labor is supplied by volunteers.

"It's been really exciting," Rudolph said. She noted that the volunteers become very interested and concerned about how their child is progressing. Following a volunteer training session, many of the volunteers stayed after the training was finished and compared notes in order to make themselves better at what they're doing. Rudolph said the program could use a couple more volunteers, particularly people who could substitute on days when other volunteers can't attend. For more information about the program, contact the school office at 547-3215.

In the heat of competition

Hopping on an innertube and sailing down a ski hill is not for the faint of heart. It is an activity best reserved for people who like to live life a bit on the edge. This town has no shortage of such people and consequently the Sno Challenge Thundertube competition once again drew a large field of sliders. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

SCRAPBOOK

Carrying the mail in the old days was a challenge

by NANCY RITSEMA
Norwood Area Historical Society

Letters were few and far between in northern Michigan in the early days, and delivering the mail was a task for the hearty and the faithful. But wherever pioneers advanced, the United States' mail was close behind.

In April of 1868, Norwood's first post office was established. William Harris was the first postmaster and served in that position or that of deputy postmaster for thirty-seven years.

Earliest mail carriers in northern Michigan were Native Americans. There weren't any roads and it took one week on foot to carry the mail along the Indian paths from Traverse City to Mackinaw. The Indian trail hugged the lakeshore and families living near the lake today can point out parts of the well-worn trail still visible in their yards.

The postal service charged the carriers to not get drunk while delivering the United States' mail, and had them kiss a Bible to seal their pledge. No one ever reported a violation of this unusual pledge.

Norwood's first mail carrier was a Native American who had only one arm and spoke French. He often stopped at Frenchman Joseph LaShore's place north of Norwood for food and rest on his long mail route.

Mail service to northern Michigan soon depended on railroad service from Grand Rapids. Henry D. Campbell of Traverse City established mail stagecoach contracts from the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad to points throughout northern Michigan. By 1872 a settler and his mail could travel from Traverse City to Elk Rapids, Charlevoix, Little Traverse, and Cheboygan on the Campbell Stage Line.

In their book "Sails and Rails," Larry and Lucille Wakefield describe the typical mail coach in northern Michigan. "Mail coaches were drawn by four horses, the slower coaches by two. The speed was between four and ten miles an hour, depending on the condition of the road, and there were frequent stops to rest the horses... As the stage neared the post office... the driver sounded his approach by blowing on a long tin horn."

Norwood's Post Office was built in 1872. Fred J. Meech constructed a fine general store on the bluff by the road leading to the sawmill and the post office was located in the back of the store. The Western Union Telegraph office was also there and the area's first telephone.

The building was one of the finest stores north of Grand Rapids, finished inside with red birch, birdseye maple and solid black walnut counters two and one half inches thick. Fire destroyed the building completely in 1911 while the Valentine brothers owned and ran the store. It was never rebuilt.

Mail carriers were soon hired from the Norwood locals. Early homesteader Harmon Stafford used a dog sled to carry mail from Norwood to Elk Rapids in the winter. For a few arduous years, Norwood's mail was carried on horseback over fifty-five miles of rugged hills, swamp and forest to Boyne Fall's G.R.&I. Railroad line and back again. In 1879, twenty-year-old Frank Richardson took that job after two other carriers threw their mail bags down in defeat.

The local post office and gathering spot in the old days in Norwood was Nash's Company Store. This photo was taken sometime around 1880.

Richardson had to leave Norwood Monday morning at 5 a.m. for Boyne Falls, return on Tuesday, leave on Wednesday, return Thursday, and repeat the trip again Friday and Saturday. The route zigzagged from one little post office to another: from Norwood to Antrim City to Atwood and on, then to a ferry to get across the Jordan River and on to Boyne Falls. The following year the mail once again came from Traverse City.

Rural free delivery started in 1896 in Michigan and quickly extended to nearly every part of the state. From 1896 until 1915 scores of little post offices in Michigan closed their doors. During this period Inwood's post office (located three miles north of Norwood) closed in 1905, Barnard's post office (three miles northeast of Norwood) in 1910, and Norwood's a few year's later.

Norwood's mail finally came on a short daily stagecoach route from Charlevoix to Norwood. The stagecoaches ran summer and winter, on wheels or on sleigh runners.

Jackson's Hotel and Livery Stable on Lake Street was the Norwood stagecoach stop. In her diary Ruby VanDusen recorded a trip to Charlevoix by stagecoach. She caught the stage at Norwood at 10:30 a.m. on June 23, 1902 and arrived in Charlevoix, eleven miles away, at 1:30 p.m.

Riding the mail coach stage was slow, and delays often came from the unexpected. On Jan. 28, 1891, Archer's stage team ran away while the mail was being changed at the Norwood post office. After running around town awhile the horses stopped at Wilson's barn, with no damage done!

In the early 1900s the automobile began to replace horse-drawn deliveries on the mail. In winter those early cars were put inside and a horse and cutter were used to pace off the miles on Norwood's old rural route number four. Old timers still remember Orson Everett and his horse and cutter coming up the road on a wintry day. He was totally enclosed in a box-like cab atop the cutter, with a window to see the road and an opening for his hands to hold the reins, as he delivered mail to each mailbox.

Most folks here can't remember when Norwood had its own post office or that sometime around 1913 the old Norwood post office closed for good. But young and old alike still wait expectantly for the mail to come. Some things never change.

Cabin Fever!

What are the symptoms?

You've heard the complaints about winter having gone on far too long. You've heard people claim they're suffering from the dread northern Michigan disease of cabin fever. Are these complaints mere grumbled opinions of malcontents or is there more to it than that? Is there any way these claims can be substantiated?

With those questions in mind, the Courier research department (an impressive way of saying Courier staffers and spouses) looked into the matter and came up with the following:

Twelve Unmistakable Signs that Winter has gone on TOO LONG and you've got CABIN FEVER

1. Your hair contains so much static electricity that floresent light bulbs glow when you enter the room.

2. You've replaced the batteries in your remote control twice since Christmas.

3. You rent videos by the 12-pack and the clerk has memorized your phone number.

4. You go to Kmart twice on Sunday, don't buy anything, yet spend hours in the toy department although you don't have any kids.

5. Your skin's so dry you can refinish furniture without using sand paper.

6. Your fingers are permanently configured to snow shovel gripping position.

7. In any conversation, the word "snow" inevitably comes up - and is always preceded by a stream of profanity.

8. You're studying seed catalogues even though you don't have a garden.

9. Your dreams of a vacation in Mexico have changed to plans to permanently relocate.

10. You can name the top contenders on the pro bowler's tour, you know all the moves of the professional wrestlers and you wonder whatever became of Heather Thomas and if she still looks as good as she did on that "Fall Guy" show.

11. Turning the ignition key in your car is always preceded by a silent prayer or crossed fingers.

12. You're wondering if your dog could be trained to pull a sled, or better yet to open the mail box and retrieve the mail.

In an effort to combat the effects of cabin fever, Charlevoix merchants will be hosting a Cabin Fever sale this coming weekend. Details appear on pages 11-14 of this week's Courier.

Superintendent to recommend $26 million in school construction

by Laurie Lounsbury

If Charlevoix needs a new school, what's it going to be? Some people want a new high school. Others favor a new middle school. A task force was established by Superintendent Dr. Roberta Jackson to study the issue and make a recommendation.

The task force came up with their recommendation at a meeting last week. They recommend both a new middle school and a new high school. The recommendation comes with a $26 million price tag and includes the following: A new high school with an auditorium, a new middle school housing grades five through eight, with grades five and six in one wing and grades seven and eight in another wing: a new transportation facility, remodeling to the existing elementary school, including the addition of a new science lab.

Jackson gave her word to the task force group that if they came up with a consensus recommendation, she would support it. "This recommendation came from the community. I told them right out of the chute that I would support their recommendation if there was a consensus, and there was," Jackson said.

John Haggard was a community member who served on the task force committee. He said he supports the recommendation for two new buildings, but would like to see them built at separate times. "I'm for doing one now, and starting a sinking fund to build another in five years, or whatever is reasonable, so we don't have to bond and pay $20 million for a $10 million facility," Haggard said.

Jackson reported that the task force studied the costs of establishing a sinking fund and delaying the construction of one building. It was the committee's conclusion that rising construction costs down the road would offset the savings of waiting.

Original plans for a new school started with a recommendation for a new middle school to house grades six through eight. The plans grew into several different alternatives, including building a new high school and moving middle school students to the existing high school. Since the high school can accommodate 600 students, that plan called for expanding the middle school to include grades five through eight.

The task force recommendation will be presented to the board of education at their next meeting.

Ordinance to regulate height of shoreline buildings

by L. Scott Swanson

An ordinance to regulate the height of buildings on the north shore of Round Lake was adopted by the city council Monday evening. The ordinance, which essentially will prohibit new buildings on the north shore from exceeding 26 feet in height, was drafted and recommended by the city planning commission.

City planner Gerry Harsch explained that the purpose of the ordinance is to regulate the height and volume of buildings on the north shore so they don't obstruct the view from the bluff at the back of Dixon Avenue. He said the ordinance affects a relatively small number of properties, consequently the planning commission attempted to establish a background and foundation for the ordinance in case it is challenged in court.

The background information is contained in a lengthy preamble to the ordinance. The preamble describes Round Lake as a natural resource which is very important to the community.

City attorney Jim Young said of the ordinance, "We're pushing the envelope in terms of how far we can go." He said that's why a great deal of care was taken in drafting the preamble and establishing a foundation for the ordinance.

"Can I absolutely guarantee that a court won't overturn it? No," Young said. "Can you enact it in good faith? Yes."

Young said the ordinance should be part of a good overall plan to protect Round Lake.

City wants to develop an accurate map

by L. Scott Swanson

The city administration, at the behest of the city council, is working on developing an accurate set of maps for the city. At Monday evening's city council meeting, city manager Mike Wiesner reported that the city is looking to work with a graphic information system to develop a good base map which will help the city with several things, among them the installation and maintenance of city utility systems.

Wiesner said the city is also looking at aerial photography and at working on the mapping project with surrounding townships that are served by city utilities.

He said that in regard to the recent controversy over the possibility of changing the address system within the city, the city may in one sense have gotten the cart before the horse in that the city has never had a map correctly showing existing addresses.

Wiesner suggested the possibility of developing a map of current addresses and shading areas where current addresses either don't make sense, have illogical or no street names, would need to be changed to meet a grid system or base 50 system. He said that was just a possibility and the city staff is not trying to push anything on the council.

Mayor Josh Barnes said that for the time being he just wants to see a map with current data. He said the immediate problem is that the city desperately needs a good map, since existing maps simply are not that good.

Search fails to find snowmobiler

Despite three days of searching with a mechanical diving machine, a Charlevoix snowmobiler who went through the ice of Lake Charlevoix Feb. 11 remains missing.

A search for Casey Richardson, 27, who is presumed drowned was called off by the sheriff's department at 11 p.m. Friday evening. The sheriff's department, assisted by an underwater robot on loan from the University of Michigan spent Wednesday, Thursday and 14 consecutive hours Friday searching the waters of Round Lake, Lake Charlevoix and the channel connecting the two lakes.

In a press release issued late Friday, Lasater said the area covered by the mechanical diver was the equivalent of what it would take human divers 30 days to cover.

Lasater said he and all members of the rescue team are deeply saddened that they were unable to locate the missing man for the family, but he feels all efforts and resources have been exhausted at this time.

Richardson and his brother Corey, 24, went through the ice in the early evening Feb. 11. They went through the ice of Lake Charlevoix near the channel between Lake Charlevoix and Round Lake. Corey Richardson was able to pull himself up onto the ice and yell for help. A man from the Chicago Club was going from his house to his car and heard the cries for help. He notified authorities and a U.S. Coast Guard Life Station ice rescue team braved the bad ice and stormy weather to bring Richardson to shore.

The rescue and subsequent search involved the following agencies: U of M "Rover" Underwater Robot; Charlevoix City Fire Department; Charlevoix City Police; United States Coast Guard/Charlevoix Station; East Jordan Fire Department; Boyne Valley Fire Department Divers; Michigan State Police Divers; Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department Divers; DNR boat Steelhead; Family members and friends of the victim; Sheriff's Volunteer Auxiliary.

A memorial service for the victim took place Monday.

A simple proposal that brought traffic to a stop

L. Scott Swanson

Some of the simplest and least controversial measures city government takes are often the most effective.

Earlier this winter, during general comments at the end of a meeting, city council members were discussing traffic problems. Second ward council member Gabe Campbell mentioned that yield signs on some intersections weren't doing much good. He noted that in many instances drivers were barely slowing down, let alone taking a good look before shooting through intersections. He said that as far as he was concerned, the city could get rid of all yield signs and replace them with stop signs.

City Police Chief Dennis Halverson, who among a variety of other duties oversees city traffic signs, took Campbell up on that proposal. Approximately a dozen yield signs, most of them up in intersections involving East Lincoln, Upright and Hurlbut Streets where they intersect Sheridan, Sherman or Grant Streets, were pitched and replaced by stop signs. The council gave their stamp of approval to the action a few weeks ago.

Although there hadn't been a rash of accidents with the yield signs, over the years there had been many a close call and gasps of fright. Even though the areas in question are residential and people generally don't drive that fast, the intersections were something of a challenge. In the winter, snow banks often make it difficult to see and in the summer hedges blocked views. The reasonable solution was to have drivers come to a complete stop, rather then roll through with their heads on a swivel.

The switch from yield signs to stop signs was simple, noncontroversial and not particularly expensive. But it sure has taken a lot of the adventure out of driving in some portions of town.

EDITH GILBERT

Those of us who follow the news, often hear this phrase, "exerting pressure," tossed about, not only in Washington DC, at the Whitewater hearings, but also in Lansing, about lobbyists, and in Charlevoix by phone calls to our city councilmen. Executives of major corporations are no strangers, either, to the all too human temptation of exerting pressure for a cause.

For starters — how much pressure did President Clinton exert in the Whitewater fiasco? How much pressure did Hillary Clinton exert in the travel office scandal?

Before we consider this question, one must remember the differences in interpretation of what one person considers a suggestion — with the shrug of a shoulder, and what another person considers exerting pressure — the the wink of an eye. One executive may interpret a memo as an order, while another interprets it as a demand. Body signals alone, often may send a message loud and clear to someone eager to please.

To illustrate, a story was told to me by an executive of General Motors a few years ago. It seems he'd attended a dinner gala, and a good friend asked him if it would be possible for the company to donate a car for the benefit of a charity auction, to be held soon.

The GM executive generously agreed to make arrangements for a car to be donated to this good cause. The next morning, true to his word, he telephoned his assistant and gave him detailed instructions as to the make and model of the car and to whom and where it should be delivered.

The assistant called the Central District Manager and told him the CEO would like to have a certain model car be delivered on a certain date to a certain place.

"What color car would you like?" the manager asked.

"Oh, blue would be nice," was the reply.

A week later the car was delivered as promised. The blue car had been flown in to Detroit from South America by plane, because — now hear this — there was no blue car available at that time, of that model, in the United States!

The question now is, did someone exert pressure to have the blue car airlifted to the United States, or was this merely a communication gap? Or was it a little of both? My guess is that the manager felt pressured to fill the order for the blue car for the "BIG BOSS", no matter what.

Communication gaps happen to us every day. Send someone to the store for orange juice and you might receive a small or large can of Minute Maid frozen orange juice, or a one quart or two quart container of Tropicana, or you might get a whole bag of fresh Florida juice oranges.

We're told, "you didn't say —" or "I thought you meant —"

The next time you listen to the Whitewater hearing on CNN, (which is costing the taxpayers over $25 million dollars, and that is more than airlifting a car to the United States from South America) ask yourself if Senator D'Amato couldn't spend his time to better advantage than mulling over who said what to whom ten years ago.

He should be told the story, "What Color Car Would You Like!"

Letters to the editor

Leave fire station manned as is

Editor,

I am writing in response to your article about the Feb. 5 city council meeting. Since I live in Marion Township I don't normally attend the Charlevoix meetings. However, now I see I am directly affected by decisions the council makes.

I am referring to the possibility that the council may decide to operate the Fire Station without 24 hr./day personnel once 911 is implemented.

As a Marion Township resident I am outraged and frightened by this possibility.

At 1 a.m. last August 3, I awake to find my unattached 3-car garage engulfed in flames. My husband and I were overwhelmed at the quick response of the Fire Department team. Though we live eight miles from the Fire Station the trucks arrived in less than 10 minutes! Many volunteers were already here and ready upon arrival of the trucks.

If the Fire Station is not manned 24 hrs./day the response time would be increased by at least 10 minutes. This could easily mean the difference of LIFE and DEATH to my children, my husband and myself in an emergency situation.

I, therefore, would like to urge the city council to keep the many township residents in mind when considering unmanning the Fire Station 24 hrs./day.

Sincerely,
Peg Myers

Local tobacco laws are needed

Editor,

I am writing in response to the editorial "Resolution is Meaningless." The Emmet-Charlevoix-Antrim Tobacco Reduction Coalition has been working since 1992 to create a community standard that is less tolerant of tobacco use. The coalition supports tobacco prevention and cessation efforts. The goals are to decrease tobacco use and exposure to secondhand smoke, especially among our young people.

You suggested that there must be some reason for the present law. Local units of government have historically been able to set policy based on community standards. The right of local governments to set local policy has been a cornerstone of American Government. At Christmas 1993, in a closed door session with tobacco industry, the legislative leadership made a deal. The result: preemption was included in the tobacco tax law. Preemption prohibits local units of government from enacting ordinances restricting the sale and distribution of tobacco products. No longer can local units of government enact ordinances that will protect our children from access to tobacco products and from addition to a deadly drug.

Victor Crawford, Retired Maryland State Senator and former lobbyist for the Tobacco Institute, recently made a video for the Michigan PTA. In it he explained that his job as a lobbyist was to kill or weaken tobacco control legislation. In 1991 Mr. Crawford was diagnosed with throat cancer and he has since spoken out against the tobacco institute. In the video he states "Preemption of local regulatory of local authority is the number 1 goal of the tobacco industry nationwide."

You also suggested that one state law would be better than a patchwork quilt of many local ordinances and measures. This response is valid only when local laws make compliance impossible or when they threaten to frustrate the goals of state law. In this case, when the issue concerns protecting consumers and promoting public health and safety, there should be the strongest possible presumption for their own citizens. The sale and distribution of tobacco products to children is illegal and is overwhelmingly perceived by the public to be a health problem. Who cares more about children: Parents in local communities or Lansing lawmakers and lobbyists?

The patchwork quilt metaphor is misplaced in this discussion. The implication that it is flimsy and weak denigrates women's contribution to our culture. Patchwork quilts are creative variations on a theme that blend beauty and practicality. Each individual piece is placed side to side to serve one uniform function. There is strength in diversity. If a strong state law on youth tobacco access is in place, the patchwork quilt of local ordinances provides further insulation and protection for our children. If the state law is weak, then a patchwork quilt of local ordinances is an essential security blanket to protect our children from illegal tobacco sales.

One question you didn't ask is: Do local ordinances work? A current Michigan study indicates that 64 percent of retailers sell tobacco products to underage children. In some communities the rate is as high as 85 percent. Under current state law, enforcement requires the use of the local police agency, which is virtually not done because there are no monies provided for this. Indeed, in this case, clearly there is under-regulation of local vendors. In Ingham County where there is a local ordinance which was in place prior to preemption, the illegal sales rate to underage children has been reduced from 77 percent to 18 percent. Local retailers in Ingham County, who are required by county ordinance to pay a small retail tobacco license fee, are satisfied with the system. These fees provide monies for enforcement at the local level. A few fines have been issued, but no license has been suspended or revoked. Ingham County is an excellent example where a license system has been used to provide accountability and enforcement without breaking the backs of small business people.

You raised many crucial issues in your editorial. I hope some of our community members have investigated what the truth is about preemption. Anyone interested in the efforts of the coalition can contact 547-6523.

Sincerely,
Mary Ann Cox, RN, BSN

FAMILY

Barker - Daniels

Douglas & Julie Daniels

Julie Leone Barker of Troy, and Douglas Brian Daniels of Clarkston, were married June 10 at the St. Thomas More Catholic Church in Troy. The bride is the daughter of Diane M. and John L. Barker of Charlevoix and Troy.

The groom is the son of Cathy and Aaron Daniels of Trenton, and the late Carol Ann Daniels.

One hundred and eighty guests witnessed the double ring ceremony, performed by Rev. Father Edward Belczak. The church was decorated with white carnations, gladiolus, larkspur, green and white pittisporum, and needlepoint ivy. Tulle bows accented with white variegated ivy were placed on each pew.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a Scassi gown of candlelight silk-satin and tulle with a portrait collar surrounding her shoulders. The slim bodice, adorned with alencon lace and trimmed with seed pearls, extended down to the full skirt which draped to the left and was fastened with a cabbage rose. The bride's veil was cathedral length trimmed in alencon lace.

The bride carried a long, cascading bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, and variegated ivy.

Music at the ceremony was provided by La Corda string quartet with trumpet; organist Manfred Dreilich, and soloist Jeffrey Norris, the bride's voice instructor when she attended Interlochen Arts Academy.

The maid of honor was Tamara Sehmiege of Rochester. Bridesmaids were Karen Spencer, Marnie Barker, sister-in-law of the bride, Jill Daniels, sister of the groom, Wendy Malkowski, and Beth Swindell.

The attendants wore teal silk shantung sheath gowns with pleated wrap collars and portrait necklines, worn off the shoulder. They carried bouquets of summer flowers.

Flower girls were Haley Barker, niece of the bride, and Ashley Rogow, cousin of the bride.

Best man was Keith Torrico. Groomsmen were Gregory Daniels, brother of the groom, John Barker Jr., brother of the bride, John Vackaro, Davic Vaclav, and Scott Darnell.

Reading scriptures were Bernard Lambert, godfather of the bride, and Carol Cook, friend of the bride and groom.

A reception was held at the Great Oaks Country Club in Rochester, hosted by the bride and groom's parents. Dinner music was provided by Sylvia Norris of Interlochen, playing the harp. Dance music followed, provided by the band Secrets.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents on Thursday, June 8, at Patrick's Restaurant in Auburn Hills.

The couple took a honeymoon trip to the Hawaiian islands of Maui, Kauai, and Oahu.

They are making their home, which was built by the bride's brother, in Clarkston.

Thompson - Minch

Bonnie Lynn Thompson of Traverse City and Kevin Harold Minch of Traverse City are announcing their engagement to be married.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Charlene and Ken Thompson of Traverse City.

The groom-elect is the son of Carolyn (Kohn) and Larry Minch of Charlevoix.

The couple is planning a June 1 wedding at the First Congregational Church United Church of Christ in Charlevoix.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Traverse City High School and is currently employed by Empire Bank. Her fiance graduated from Traverse City High School and the University of Michigan. He is employed by Oleson's Food Stores.

Four O.M teams qualify for state

Six Charlevoix Public School Odyssey of the Mind teams competed in the regional O.M. competition at Petoskey Saturday and four of the teams qualified for the state finals by taking first or second place in their divisions.

State finals will be April 20 at Central Michigan University. Representing Charlevoix after placing first at regionals are the middle school "Crunch" team and the Middle school "Great Impressions" team. Qualifying for state finals with second place regional finishes were the middle school "Amusin Crusin" team and elementary school "Crunch" team.

O.M. is a world-wide program that promotes divergent thinking and develops creative problems solving skills. Students work on their long term problem throughout the school year. At competition, students present their long term problem solution and also must solve a spontaneous problem on the spot.

Middle School Amusin Crusin O.M. team: (from left) Kelly Dreyer, Lisa Miller, Laura Schairbaum, Ethan Phillips, Jon Tebeau. They are coached by Ginnie Schairbaum and Dianne Dreyer.

Casey Richardson

Casey Rod Richardson, 27, of Charlevoix, died Feb. 10, 1996, in Charlevoix.

A memorial service was held Monday, Feb. 19, at the Assembly of God in Charlevoix. The Rev. Lowell Anderson officiated. Interment will take place in Norwood Cemetery.

He was born Oct. 16, 1968, in Petoskey, the son of Rodney M. and Linda R. (Somerville) Richardson. He was a life resident of the Charlevoix area, and graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1986.

On Sept. 25, 1993, he married Tricia J. Sutton in Charlevoix, and she survives.

Casey enjoyed the outdoors, especially bow hunting.

He was a carpenter by trade and worked for Scott Parker of Charlevoix Building and Remodeling Co.

Survivors include his wife, Tricia J. Richardson, of Charlevoix; his parents, Rodney and Linda Richardson, of Norwood; one brother, Corey Richardson and his wife, Krista, of Charlevoix; one sister, Carrie LaBlance and her husband, Tim, of Charlevoix; four nephews; paternal grandfather, Milton Richardson, of Melbourne, Fla.; maternal grandparents, Howard and Juanita Somerville, of Boyne City; and his mother- and father-in-law, Art and Pat Sutton, of Charlevoix.

Memorial contributions may be sent to the family of Casey Richardson in care of the Charlevoix State Bank. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Assembly of God Church in Charlevoix. Arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by JAN BOSS
Director of Youth Education
Community Reformed Church

As I am beginning to write this afternoon I glance outside and I see the snow coming down again. As the snow comes down, it is hard for me to remember those really - really hot days of summer. You remember the ones, the ones that made all of us say, "I will not complain this winter when it is snowy and cold." Right!!

But summer is the time I want to recall. Last summer I spent two weeks at a cottage. A time to refresh, re-energize, and just relax and that is just what I did. I brought my bike and a stack of books. The first couple of days were cool and nice. I would get up around 6:30 a.m. to hop on my bike and take the nine-mile trip around the lake. The first day was basically just making myself do it. The second was a little better, and then the heat came. Even at 6:30 in the morning it was hot. You see it doesn't take much to discourage me from my goal. After a while it did get to be part of a routine until I overslept one morning. I didn't like going too late because the traffic picks up and the road is narrow. So I thought, thank you Lord, today I can skip. But as most of us Dutch people know, guilt sets in - I had made myself a promise, at least 100 miles of bike riding in the two weeks vacation. Then I remembered the bike trail in Hart, Michigan, how nice it was supposed to be. So I loaded my bike and headed out. Instead of the nine miles that I usually road, I rode 24 instead. I didn't have to worry about traffic and I could just make up a lot of miles so that maybe tomorrow I wouldn't have to go. As I'm riding down the trail I start to get introspective. Which can be very dangerous for me. But I started comparing my bike riding with my relationship with the Lord. At first, all just the obvious stuff. Like the ups and downs in life, the trusting of the equipment and road, the times that I have to dig in and pedal harder, and other times where I just can relax and enjoy the journey.

But as I was driving home, more parallels come to mind. See I'm the kind of person who when faced with something that she doesn't like, I just tough it out and dig in a little deeper and get it over so I can go on with something else. For instance: the bike trip, I had made myself a promise to ride 100 miles in two weeks, instead of enjoying the process I saw it as a goal that I had to overcome and I missed the pleasures along the way. Instead of looking at it as an opportunity I saw it as a responsibility. So each day I hurried through it to say, "Oh, that's one more responsibility done," missing the joy, the adventure, the pleasure, the tired muscles, the beauty around me. Growing up, I remember the phrase that was told to me over and over again. "We get our work done before we can play." So what's wrong with playing first? And what if "work" turned into play? Or what if responsibilities turned into opportunities? Would I look at life a little differently? Would I look at my relationship with God differently or His relationship with me?

God doesn't see me as a responsibility - He sees me as an opportunity. When He sent Jesus it wasn't His responsibility to do so, it was His opportunity to show His love. So what have I learned: enjoy the journey - enjoy the process of life - see my responsibilities as opportunities to show love or experience love. You see life is a lot like a bike ride ...

Dorothy Dixon

Dorothy Dixon, 81, of Charlevoix, died Feb. 13, 1996, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Her funeral was Friday, Feb. 16, at the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix, with the Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum officiating. Burial will take place in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mrs. Dixon was born June 26, 1914, in Fargo, N.D., the daughter of Martin and Mina "Minnie" (VanDyke) Pedersen. As a young girl, she moved to Northern Michigan from North Dakota. She graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1932, and then graduated from Lansing Business College.

On June 26, 1936, she married Maurice G. Dixon in Charlevoix. He preceded her in death on Sept. 13, 1978.

Mrs. Dixon was a member of the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix, where she belonged to the Mary Burns Circle and served as financial secretary for several years. She was also a member of Zonta International, and was the chairperson for the American Cancer Society in Charlevoix County.

She was employed by the First State Bank of Charlevoix for 33 years, retiring in 1977 as assistant vice president.

Survivors include two daughters, Julie Christiansen and her husband, David, of Charlevoix, and Marlene Safko of Rockledge, Fla.; four grandchildren, T.J. and Brian Christiansen, and David and Christine Safko; and by one sister, Amy Boughton, of Kalamazoo. Mrs. Dixon was preceded in death by two brothers, William and Marvin Pedersen; and by three sisters, Hazel Tillotson, Alice McClanaghan and Betty Belfy.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the First Congregational Church or to the Charlevoix Area Hospital. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Debate team is among state's best

The Charlevoix High School Debate Team made the semi-final round of the State Final Class C-D debate competition Feb. 3 and 4. Seven schools qualified for State Final competition. Charlevoix, Elk Rapids, Frankenmuth and Liggett qualified for the semi-finals with Frankenmuth and Liggett advancing to the finals. Both of the teams qualifying for the finals have been Class B schools in recent years with declining enrollment dropping them into the Class C-D division this year.

Charlevoix's varsity debate team is made up of ten students. Five seniors competed at state finals. Competing at the state competition were: Alison Beatty, Gita Butcher, Mary Beth Gagnon, Mike Staton and Colleen Urban. Other team members travelling and debating with the team this season were: Crystal Marvin, Danica Kilander, Rhonda Williams, Ian Powell and Stacy Urban.

Although this year's team graduates five seniors, the five varsity underclassmen along with a strong novice unit leave the team in fine shape for next year. Participating on the novice debate team this year were: Katie Golski, Sarah Polena, Kim Cunningham, Mike Czerkes, Andrew Moats, Abigail Paterka, Kris Staton and C.J. Winnell.

After learning about and debating the subject of foreign policy and Chinese relations this season, the team is anxious to move on to a more immediate problem for their own generation. Next year's topic will be juvenile crime.

Charlevoix's high school debate season will conclude with Alison Beatty competing in the John S. Knight scholarship competition later this month.

Karczmarski receives DAR award

Tiffany Karczmarski of Charlevoix High School, daughter of Don and Lisa Pero of East Jordan, has been selected by her peers with guidance from her counselor Toni Felter as the Good Citizen for 1996. She along with six other Michigan Seniors will be honored by Three Flags Chapter, National Society Daughters of the American Revolution at a luncheon on Monday, March 11, 1996, noon at the First Presbyterian Church of Farmington, Farmington Hills (corner of 11 Mile Road and Farmington Road). The program will also include Jerry H. Maxwell speaking on "Abraham Lincoln: His Life to the Presidency."

Good Citizens are chosen on the basis of Dependability, Service, Leadership and Patriotism. Sponsoring DAR Chapters are assigned schools by the State Good Citizen Chairman so that as many Michigan schools as possible may participate.

Karczmarski has been a class officer, stage and student manager of the drama group, member of the National Honor Society and participated in the state forensic (debate) contest. She is active in her church and youth group. As part of her English class, she organized dances for Senior Citizens. Karczmarski finds time to work as a waitress and nanny program after school. This ambitious young woman plans to enter the "Nanny Program" at Mott Community College in Flint Michigan after high school.

BUSINESS

Plaster is still an important material

by Laurie Lounsbury

Joe Maltese may be one of the last of a disappearing breed. He learned a unique trade that was handed down to him from his father. Before that, his father learned the trade from his father, Joe's grandfather.

Maltese stuck with that trade his whole life. Now he's brought his skill up north to Charlevoix.

Maltese is a plasterer, specializing in repair and restoration. His grandfather started a plastering business when he came to America two generations ago. All of the sons, uncles, and brothers in the Maltese family went into the business.

When drywall replaced old plastering methods, Maltese's grandfather would have none of it. He was from the old school, and believed plastering was the superior way to make walls.

Maltese adapted to the times. He still uses special plastering techniques to repair existing drywall. "There is no sanding involved. The finish is done by hand, with a trowel," Maltese explained.

For anyone who has lived through a drywall job, the absence of sanding is blissful. No drywall dust permeates your home with Maltese's technique. "It's a very different method. It took me a long, long time working with my dad to learn this," Maltese explained.

Maltese has the expertise to repair old style, cove plastered ceilings, working carefully with the curves and molded edges.

When Maltese isn't repairing walls inside a home, he is busy putting finishes on exterior walls. Maltese is the area representative for Dryvit, an exterior finish similar to stucco in appearance. But that's where the similarities end. Dryvit is made of 100 percent acrylic, making it very durable. The surface is applied over fiberglass and styrofoam, giving it insulation benefits along with a durable finish.

Maltese said that Dryvit is becoming popular for a variety of reasons. Some people use it to accent one facade of a house, such as the entryway or face of the garage. It can be used inside the home to create a unique fireplace wall or accent wall in a den.

Maltese is working with Creative Tile to host a seminar on Dryvit on Wednesday, February 21. For more information, call Joe Maltese or Creative Tile at 547-3563.

Volleyball team beats East Jordan

Charlevoix had to work hard to beat pesky East Jordan volleyball team 15-11, 14-16, 17-15, 15-10 last Thursday evening. Both teams hit and played defense very well with several long rallies.

Top setter for the Rayders was Jenni Swenor. Top servers were Swenor, Liz Kelly and Aprille Pischner. Leading the defense were Theresa Johnson, Swenor and Pischner and swatting rockets on offense were Johnson with 15 kills, Amanda Eaton with seven and Kelly with five.

Charlevoix won the junior varsity match 14-16, 15-9, 15-4. Setting for the Rayders were Laura Maltese and Christine Sweeney. Top servers were Maltese and Sara Firman. Putting up the wall on defense were Ann Kirkstra and Mandy Webb. Leading the offense were Kirkstra, Juli Swenor and Becky Hosler.

Charlevoix's next game will be Wednesday, Feb. 21 at home against Harbor Springs.

Jenni Swenor is the setter who coordinates the Charlevoix volleyball team's attack this season. Swenor, a senior, is a third-year varsity player.

Basketball team splits two games

Charlevoix's varsity basketball team broke a four-game losing streak Feb. 13, but started a new one three nights later.

Tuesday, Feb. 13 the Rayders hosted St. Ignace and played perhaps their best game of the year, beating the Saints 55-48. The Rayders played a physical defensive game, holding the Saints to just 14 baskets.

At the offensive end, Charlevoix scored by committee. George McClellan had 12 points and Marc Jacobs 10. Three other players had seven or more points. McClellan also had 14 rebounds while Steve Carland had eight and Mark Boss seven.

St. Ignace led 15-13 after the first quarter, but by halftime Charlevoix was up 29-25. Entering the fourth quarter, the Rayders led 40-37. St. Ignace drew to within two points late in the fourth quarter, but Carland drained a three-point basket to stretch the Rayder lead to five.

After Tuesday's win, Charlevoix traveled to East Jordan Friday evening and came home with a 73-57 loss.

The game featured an impressive exhibition of long-range shooting. East Jordan guard Andrew Otis hit four three-point shots in the first quarter on the way to a 26-point night. Charlevoix's Jason Smith stuck six threes on the way to a 20-point night.

East Jordan led from the outset, leading 24-11 after the first quarter and 34-21 at the half. Charlevoix rallied and got to within four points early in the fourth quarter, but a 10-4 East Jordan run doused that fire.

In addition to Smith's 20, McClellan had 13 points and Jacobs 11.

The win Tuesday and loss Friday left Charlevoix's varsity team with a league record of 2-8 and a season record of 3-13.

Charlevoix's junior varsity team won both the St. Ignace and East Jordan games. The Rayder j.v. team beat St. Ignace 62-53 behind 20 points from Reggie Burks and 19 from Josh Holecheck. The j.v. Rayders beat East Jordan 67-60. In that game, Burks scored 12 points, Matt McClellan 11 and Colin Carr 10.

Ski team competes at regionals

Charlevoix's girls placed ninth and the boys team tenth at the regional ski meet in Iron Mountain. Twelve teams competed in the meet.

Petoskey won the girls' meet with 75 points, followed by Harbor Springs with 118 points. Charlevoix finished with 196 points. The top individual finishers for the Charlevoix girls were Heidi Miller who placed 12th in the slalom and Brooke Block who placed 15th in the giant slalom.

Harbor Springs won the boys' meet with 62 points followed by Iron Mountain with 92 points. Charlevoix finished with 398 points. Charlevoix's top individual finisher was Kevin Meier who finished 36th in the slalom and 39th in the giant slalom.

Two wrestlers qualify for regionals

Ron Haggard and Bruce Reinhart will be representing Charlevoix in the high school regional wrestling tournament at Breckenridge Feb. 25. Both wrestlers placed second in their weight classes at the individual district tournament in Hart this past Saturday.

Haggard started the day with three pins and became one of only a handful of wrestlers in the history of Charlevoix High School to accumulate 100 career wins. In the district finals, he went up against unbeaten Rick Voss of Whittemore-Prescott and loss a close 4-2 match. Haggard is now 29-3 on the season with two of those losses coming to Voss.

Reinhart went 2-1 in the heavyweight division. He won his first two matches quickly on pins, but then lost to Mancelona's Chris Cool on a pin. Reinhart and Cool, two of northern Michigan's best heavyweights, have wrestled each other four times and are 2-2. Rienhart's season record is 17-5.

Freshman James Pop also picked up a win at the district meet. He went 1-1 in the 140 pound weight class.

In the team district meet last Thursday at Mancelona, Charlevoix was eliminated by the host team 70-11. Charlevoix's points came on a pin by Pop and a technical pin by Haggard.

CARD OF THANKS 070

A sincere thank you to all of our friends and relatives for their support during the recent loss of our Mother.

Thank you for the beautiful flowers, cards, dishes, memorials and words of kindness that helped to console us during this sad time in our lives.

We also extend our appreciation to the doctors, nurses and other staff at the Charlevoix Area Hospital and to Ron and Lisa Winchester.

Special thanks to Reverend Phil Schairbaum and the members of the First Congregational Church for all they have done.

From the Family of Dorothy Dixon

Foundation awards grants

Infants, athletes, and outdoor-lovers are just a few of the folks who will benefit from the latest round of Charlevoix County Community Foundation grantmaking. Six programs that serve a variety of residents throughout the county have been selected to receive Foundation grants totaling $16,043. The grant recipients and the amount of their funding are:

- Boyne Falls Public School, $1,546 to provide bus transportation to youngsters enrolled in "Be-Four," a special, school-preparedness program for children who need some extra help.
- Top of Michigan Trails council, $2,500 to support the development of a proposed 127-mile system of recreational trails linking Charlevoix, Emmet, and Cheboygan counties.
- Char-Em Intermediate School District, $2,500 to promote the health and well-being of teen parents and their babies. The funds will expand parent education and infant assessment components of the Alternative Program for School-Age Parents.
- East Jordan Care & Share Emergency Excellence, $5,000 toward the construction of an outdoor recreational and athletic complex in Boyne City.
- Raven Hill Discovery Center,

Oh Boix

A collection of praises, awards and accomplishments involving Charlevoix area people.

John Henry Heck of Charlevoix has been awarded the E.C. Stephenson Foundation Scholarship at Northwood University for the 1995-96 academic year. Private donor scholarships at Northwood are awarded by a scholarship committee and are based on requirements specified by donors and information students provide on sholarship applications. Heck, a sophomore, is the son of Eileen J. and Dennis Paul Heck of Charlevoix.

Marine Lance Corporal Nick Himebauch has been named Marine of the Wing for the 2nd Marine Air Wing. Along with the honor comes a promotion to corporal which will take place March 2. In order to receive the promotion, Himebauch competed against other marines in the areas of knowledge, performance of duties, conduct and appearance. Himebauch is currently completing a tour of duty on Iwakuni, Japan and will be returning to Marimar, CA with the rest of his unit March 4.

Three Charlevoix people are among the students named to the Northern Michigan University fall dean's list. Named to the list were Laura Loder, Shannon Rowell and Dan Spang. To be named to the list, a student must have a grade point average of 3.25 or better on a 4-point grading scale.

Winnie the Pooh coming to this area

Children, especially ages four through eleven, are in for a rare treat Saturday, Feb. 24, at 2 p.m. at the East Jordan Middle School. The Jordan River Arts Council is offering another production from "For a Good Time Theatre" of Saginaw, Michigan.

The special traveling performance has been sold out in many Michigan cities since its opening Jan. 29, including the new VanAndel Museum Theatre of Grand Rapids. It is a beautiful musical adaptation of A.A. Milne's classic "Winnie-the-Pooh." Straight out of the Hundred Acre Woods are Christopher Robin, and Pooh Bear, Tigger, Eeyore and Piglet.

"For a Good Time Theatre" is a dedicated company of actors from all over the United States who tour schools and theatres throughout Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Wisconsin. The Jordan River Arts Council feels this is wonderful family entertainment and is excited to bring this musical to Northern Michigan. Tickets cost $2 and can be purchased at Huckles in East Jordan, the McCune Arts Center and Horizon Books in Petoskey, Bridge Street Books in Charlevoix and Boyne Country Books in Boyne City, or they may be purchased at the door. For further information contact Jeanne Buick, 582-9404 or the Jordan River Arts Council, 536-3385.

$2,997 to purchase a special microscope and video system that will enhance learning at the hands-on science center.

Charlevoix High School also received a $200 grant for student leadership training from the Tunison-Garlock fund, held by the Community Foundation. The fund is designated for support of educational or environmental programs.

With these grants, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation has awarded nearly $180,000 to various projects and programs that improve health, education, cultural, and economic opportunities in the area.

The Foundation was established as a nonprofit, charitable organization in 1992 by a group of civic leaders from throughout the county. Like more than 475 other community foundations across the country, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation receives donations which are held in a permanent trust. Investment income from the trust is used to support a variety of worthy programs, while the endowment continues to grow and serve as a source of revenue for the community good. To date, the Community Foundation has accumulated more than $3.5 million.

More information about the Foundation and its grantmaking activities is available by calling 616/536-2440, or writing P.O. Box 718, East Jordan, Michigan, 49727.

were: The Area Hospital, Senior Citizens Center, Friends of the Pool, Community Food Pantry, the Area Christmas Project, Camp McSauba and many other local non-profit organizations. Our policy has been to also reach out to our close neighbors, among them being the Salvation Army, Nehemiah House, Northern Michigan Hospital Chaplaincy, Dyslexia Organization, Youth for Christ, Grandview Chaplaincy, East Jordan Coffee House and many other needy organizations and individuals.

Indeed, the board of directors felt very positive about assisting so many non-profit organizations in 1995. We realize this could not have been accomplished without the cooperation of our community and neighbors. Our appreciation is extended to all who donated, patronized, and volunteered their services to the Charlevoix Rainbow Shoppe. We sincerely thank you, and pray you will continue to be as generous in the future as you have been in the past.

Thank you,

Roller blading area needed

Editor,

We definitely need a roller blading area in town. I surely think it would be good. We don't need anyone getting in trouble. It would be a good recreation area. It also would be fun.

Respectfully yours,
Josh Popenhagen

There's no place to skateboard

Editor,

Charlevoix needs a skateboard park. Many kids have skateboards or want to skateboard. There is no place to skateboard. It is dangerous for us to skateboard in the street. It would be nice to have a skateboard park in East Park.

Sincerely,
Adam Wright

Town needs an indoor ice rink

Editor,

Charlevoix needs an indoor ice skating rink. We need an indoor ice skating rink because it provides exercise, recreation. It also gets bums off the street. Then you can organize a hockey league. This is why we need an indoor ice skating rink.

Sincerely,
Roscoe Serrels

Charlevoix should have a roller rink

Editor,

I think there should be a roller rink in Charlevoix. Buy-Low would be a perfect place for it. Nobody is doing anything with Buy-Low anyway. It would be easy just to be able to go to a nice roller rink without traveling far. It would be a big rink and there could be something else to do.

Sincerely yours,
Kyle Dobrowolski

Pre-teens need jobs

Editor,

I think that there should be more jobs for pre-teens. Having jobs would keep us out of the street. Also it will show us responsibility. Jobs will give us something to do besides stare at the television. Please give us a chance to prove our responsibility.

Sincerely yours,
Jimmy Bolanos

Gym time is hard to find

Editor,

I am a sixth grade middle school student and I think we should have an unlocked indoor basketball court. People are always complaining because the one at the Middle School is always locked.

Also if you go early for basketball practice it is always locked.

I also think there should be more leagues for kids and adults because you can learn more.

If you play the sport a lot, it is good for your health.

When there is a basketball hoop outside, it is always snow covered.

That is why I think we should have unlocked indoor basketball court.

Yours truly,
Jenny Miller

Aprille Pischner and her Rayder teammates were surprise winners at the conference tournament in Boyne City Saturday. Earlier in the week, one of the Rayders' top players broke her wrist snowboarding, but the remaining players picked up their games for the tournament win.

Rayders surprise conference foes

Tournament champs despite loss of key player

by L. Scott Swanson

Charlevoix pulled off something of a surprise Saturday in the conference volleyball tournament. The Rayders, who entered the tournament with a 4-2 league mark, won the tournament despite losing one of their key players Thursday night in a snowboarding accident.

Friday morning, Rayder coach Brenda Bryan received word that Theresa Johnson, one of the team's top players, had broken her wrist Thursday evening. Bryan and her team had one day to come up with a Plan B.

Just a few short years ago, losing a top player would have spelled curtains for the Rayders' chances in a big tournament. But that's not the case anymore for a number of reasons. Volleyball has grown quite popular in Charlevoix. With people playing on the Ferry Beach court, a Venetian tournament which brings good players into town and funds a summer camp, adult recreation leagues, along with improved coaching and help from alumni players, the Rayder high school program has developed a lot of depth.

With Johnson missing, Bryan inserted sophomore Amanda Eaton into the line-up and told other players they were going to have to pick up their games a notch.

"This team has a lot of good players," Bryan said. "Pretty much the whole team is real nice to work with."

County moving forward on hiring administrator

by Laurie Lounsbury

A county administrator position is an idea that's lingered in the commissioner board room for years. Commissioners were split on the need for an administrator. Now, it appears that the majority of the commissioners agree that some sort of county director is needed. "I learned my lesson the hard way that we need this position. Management of county functions has gotten too complex to do by committee," said commissioner Richie Gillespie. Gillespie had previously been opposed to the idea of a county administrator.

Commissioners have hired Lyn Johnson, Emmet County controller, to work as a consultant on defining an administrator position. Johnson will make $2,000 for his consulting fee.

Johnson met with department heads last week to discuss the position and explain the benefits and drawbacks of an administrator. He fielded questions from county employees and listened to their suggestions. Carla Spencer, head of the equalization department, came away from the meeting with cautious optimism. "I think he (Johnson) convinced everyone at the meeting that Charlevoix County needs some sort of an administrator," Spencer said, adding, "I'm impressed with the route the commissioners are taking. I'm glad department heads are allowed to have input."

Department heads agreed that whoever might fill the position will need strong communications skills. "We've got to have someone who gets along with people," said Charlene Gaskin, register of deeds. Johnson concurred, explaining to the group that when problems occur in a county, it's probably because issues haven't been properly addressed.

Commissioners originally hoped to create a position of personnel director/board secretary, with the idea that the job could grow as needed. They were considering a salary of $30,000 to $40,000 for the job. Now it looks like they can't get what they want for that money. "The persons qualified to do the functions we want as well as taking on additional responsibilities are

Charlevoix Scouts win Klondike Derby

Charlevoix Eagle Patrol 5 won the 1996 Klondike Derby Scouting competition which took place recently in Indian River.

The Klondike Derby is a popular winter event in which scouts are tested in their scouting knowledge and skills. Approximately 30 patrols from northern Michigan participated in the event.

Scouts were judged in the following events: Sled inspections; Snow-pie tag; Compass use; Sled race; Fire building; Snow golf; and Snow snake. At each station, scouts were also asked questions related to scouting.

One of the most interesting competitions is the fire building event. Scouts are timed on how quickly they can build a fire, without matches, and have that fire generate enough heat to burn through a piece of string. Charlevoix's patrol won the event with a time of seven minutes, nine seconds.

Members of Eagle Patrol 5 are Jason Nelson, Cody McCary, Jeff Riley, Spencer Bryan, David Ruehle and Nick Miller. Their adult leaders are Cathy Miller and Bobbie Ruehle.

Miller said that when the award was announced she was so proud of the patrol that she found herself in tears.

not in our original price range. It looks like it will cost more like $40,000 to $50,000," Gillespie said.

Add to that a secretary to the administrator, office space, and equipment, and the total price tag for the position is estimated to be over $100,000.

The county has already received phone calls from people in three different states who heard about the newly created position. Johnson predicted that at least 125 people would apply for the job.

Commissioners expect to have a job description in place by the Feb. 28 board meeting. "After that, if we conduct a successful search, it could all be in place by May 1," Gillespie said.

...Rayders rally to win conference tournament

Charlevoix split three games in preliminary pool play. They split with Kalkaska 11-15, 15-4, Harbor Springs 11-15, 15-12 and Elk Rapids 15-5, 9-15.

"We had to do some changes and it takes a couple of games to get used to it," Bryan noted.

The 3-3 record in pool play was good enough to get Charlevoix into the semi-finals against Traverse City St. Francis. St. Francis had the league's best regular season record. Despite that, the Rayders handled the Gladiators fairly easily in the semi-finals, sweeping them in two games 15-6, 16-14.

In the finals the Rayders faced an East Jordan team, which has been streaky all year. "They're up and down," Bryan said of East Jordan. "They're a scary team. They can be really good."

But then so can Charlevoix and by the time the finals came around the Rayders were rolling. They hammered East Jordan 15-7, 15-1.

Despite the tournament win, the Rayders finished second overall in the conference. Final conference standings are determined by a point system which combines the results of regular season and tournament play. St. Francis ended up finishing one point ahead of the Rayders.

Still, Bryan was elated with her team's performance in the tournament. "I thought they did real well," she said of her team. "They pulled right together."

Although Johnson couldn't be with the team physically on the court, she was there emotionally. One of the team's most intense players, Johnson was on the sideline to offer advice and encouragement.

Several Rayders raised their game in the tournament. Senior setter Jenni Swenor had a strong all around game. In addition to setting, she served nine aces and had eight kills. Eaton served eight aces, had 10 kills and was one of the top defenders in the back row. Senior Liz Kelly had two aces and was among the leading defenders. Other top defenders were Jessa VanGuilder and Aprille Pischner.

Emily Murray, a junior hitter, had a monster day in the front row with 13 kills. Lisa Wheat, another junior, had eight kills. Wheat has impressed coaches with her improvement during each of the past two years. "She wanted to be better this year and she worked hard at it," Bryan said.

This Saturday, Charlevoix will compete in the district tournament with Suttons Bay, East Jordan, Boyne City, Elk Rapids, Mancelona and Boyne City.

"I think we're contenders there," Bryan said. "I think we could take it. We need to do a good job and stay focused."

Local lumber helped rebuild Chicago after the fire Retrospective

A look back at some of the interesting historical aspects of this area.

by NANCY RITSEMA
Norwood Area Historical Society

The war between the States was over. "Uncle Sam" was practically giving away land, and a fortune was to be made in timber from the vast forests of northern Michigan. Orwin Adams and Orvis D. Wood had swamp scrip for hundreds of acres of land along the Lake Michigan shore and plans were underway for constructing a sawmill.

Millions of acres of "swamp lands" granted to the state of Michigan by the federal government were sold cheap to Michigan lumbermen or given outright as a reward for building state roads in the 1860s. The government paid Wood and Adams for building state roads in southern Michigan with swamp scrip and northern Michigan settlers in turn bought the land from Wood and Adams for from 50 cents to $1.25 an acre.

In Antrim City, on the east shore of Grand Traverse Bay, Wood and Adams met up with Lucius Pearl. He invested $7,000 with Adams and Wood and Company to build a dock at Antrim City, and one at Norwood, three miles up the lakeshore.

In the spring of 1866, work began on Norwood's dock and sawmill. Investments totaled $25,000 to get the mill and dock operational.

Millwright Daniel Stafford, Elmore Clark, Joe LaShore and others were hired to build the two-story frame sawmill and the dock. It was the first steam-powered sawmill north of Traverse City.

Schooners and steamers soon arrived at Norwood's new dock transporting freight and passengers. Thousands of cord of maple and basswood "propeller" wood were cut at the mill to be burned by lake steamers for fuel. In the 1870s the Union Line Steamers regularly wooded at Norwood.

Mill products were shipped to Chicago and Milwaukee by two and three-masted schooners which approached the dock by anchoring off shore about five hundred feet and drifting in. They were then secured and made ready for loading. A horse-drawn trolley wagon on wooden rails brought loads of lumber from the mill yard onto the dock and to the moored schooners.

Hands were always needed at the dock to help load the ships. Ernest Harris, who came to Norwood as a boy in 1866, wrote "whenever the mill blew four long blasts I hurried to the dock and received from twenty-five to thirty-five cents an hour 'dock wholloping.' That was the way we boys had of getting a little spending money."

Not all shiploads of lumber reached their destination. In June of 1891, the schooner Starke loaded at Norwood's dock bound for Milwaukee. Mill owner Nash received a telegram three days later stating that the Starke had collided with another schooner, capsized and lost her deck-load of lumber. Her cargo was not insured and was a total loss.

For more than twenty years, 3,000,000 board feet of hardwoods, hemlock and cedar, annually, were produced from logs cut at the Norwood mill. William Pearl was the log scaler for years, measuring each log and calculating its board feet.

When most of Chicago was destroyed by fire in 1871 and a smoky haze hung over the village and the lake from the burning city, Norwood's lumber helped to rebuild that city.

Cedar, plentiful in the swamp land, was cut and sold as railroad ties and as shingles. A shingle mill added to the big mill's operations produced 6,000,000 shingles in 1892. Railroad ties shipped to Chicago helped to build the railroads pushing farther and farther west.

The boiler and power plant of the sawmill were housed in a frame lean-to attached to the mill. When the mill was at peak production it ran day and night, and operating at full tilt generated 70 horsepower. After fire destroyed the mill in 1901, the smoke stack and the old boiler were purchased by Mr. Porter, torn down, and moved to East Jordan.

Behind the two-story mill was the mill pond heated by an exhaust from the mill's steam boiler. Logs brought on skids and heavy-duty sleighs were rolled into the pond to wash off snow and dirt. Mill workers then guided them onto the inclined log chute to be lifted to the mill's second floor by a chain with sharp lugs attached.

The second floor of the mill was its working area. Flat bottom scows brought the mill machinery to the site in 1866 and a big Muley or upright saw was installed. Later the mill was enlarged and a circular saw was brought in.

In 1884, the sawmill employed 21 men and paid out $9,000 in wages. Tom Carter was the first mill superintendent. Later Henry Wagner and Henry Supernaw were employed as foremen.

Settlers and homesteaders were eager for winter employment in Norwood logging camps. G.V. Nash operated several camps over the years within a six mile radius of Norwood. In 1891 he had between 60 and 70 teams of men and their horses skidding and hauling logs to his big mill.

A.J. Bolhuis came to Norwood when he was eighteen and worked

OPINIONS

Editor's notes

L. Scott Swanson

Doctors are good people to have around sporting events. When players drop to the floor with an injury, it's reassuring when a doctor happens to be there to look them over.

Charlevoix's fortunate in that we have local doctors who are interested in athletics and tend to be around at games. This past Saturday, when a player banged her knee during a middle school girls' recreation game, one of the first people there was Dr. Jim Gels. Gels was there because he also happens to be the girl's coach. Is there a doctor in the house? Yep, right there on the end of the bench.

A week earlier when a girl twisted her ankle, Gels was officiating the game. Gels has been a regular at girls' basketball games for the past several years. In addition to helping coach and officiate in the local girls' recreation league, he's coached his daughter Sherry's AAU team and attended her high school games. On more than one occasion, when a player came up limping, he's been there to provide care and knowledge. Even when the injury's minor, it's got to be extremely comforting to a parent to know that someone that knowledgeable is on the scene.

While Gels has been a regular at basketball games, Dr. Marc Lame has been a fixture on the homefield sidelines of varsity football games. The funny thing about Lame is that even though it's hard to tell if he knows much about football or if he's really a fan of the sport, he seems to enjoy himself at the games. He hangs out on the sidelines, chats with people and just kind of takes in the event. You always hear people talk about a doctor's bedside manner. Well, in this case you couldn't ask for a doctor with a better sideline demeanor. If a player gets injured, he goes out on the field and takes care of the problem. With his medical background and years on the sidelines, he's quick to recognize the more common football injuries. Where you or I might think of football in terms of blocking schemes, and running game versus passing game, he deals with the game from the perspective of bruises and sprains. It's a different way of looking at the game.

The family of Tricia Richardson, Casey Richardson's widow, contacted the Courier Monday wishing to express their gratitude to those who helped with a fund-raising dinner Saturday evening. Approximately 150 people attended the dinner at the Charlevoix Yacht Club. Several local businesses donated the food which volunteers prepared at the high school kitchen. This was the second dinner held since Casey Richardson died in a snowmobiling accident Feb. 10 on Lake Charlevoix. The earlier one was hosted by On the Edge. A fund has also been established at Charlevoix State Bank.

As wonderful as Charlevoix may be, it is not immune to local tragedies. Even so, this is a community which responds to tragedies with great care and compassion.

Hospice care appreciated

Editor,

We would like to thank the doctors and staff of the Charlevoix Area Hospital, the care-givers, and the Charlevoix County Hospice Organization for the wonderful care our mother, Charlotte Saltonstall, received.

It was extremely important to her to be able to spend her last days in the comfort of her own home. Her doctors respected her wishes, and the hospice organization and care-givers helped facilitate her care.

We were surprised to learn that Medicare has a separate hospice program administered through the County Health Department providing all the necessary services and support, including 24-hour R.N. and pharmacy services.

However, the most important benefit of the hospice program is the dedicated people who care for the patients and their families. The compassion and dignity that they provide is an invaluable benefit for both patient and family. These people made extraordinary efforts to make sure she had whatever was necessary.

Thank you all,
Connie Harper and Wendy Post

Sports park needed

Editor,

I'm a sixth grader at Charlevoix Middle School. I think we need a park for sports. I have listed some reasons why. First, we need a place to meet and hang out. Not all the parents like it when we all come over to their house. Second, not everybody has a basketball hoop at their house, so where are we supposed to go? Third, we always get kicked off the street when we play "street hockey." Where else can we play? That is why I feel we need a park.

Sincerely,
Shawn McDonough

Can't find court time

Editor,

The students of Charlevoix Middle School need a basketball court for use in the winter. Here are some reasons why: The school's courts are always in use for practice by school teams or the recreation league. Games are being played in the evenings and Saturdays. This leaves very little time for students or adults who would like to just shoot hoops for the fun and good exercise.

Sincerely,
Beth Arnold

pool is a good idea, because it will teach people how to swim for fun and safety reasons.

It is also good exercise and a way for people to meet and socialize.

I also like to swim, and think we should form a swim team.

I would like to thank Charlevoix for building this pool, because it gives people the opportunity to swim whenever they want, "Not only in summer."

Looking for an indoor court

Editor,

I think having an all season indoor basketball court would be a good idea. It would allow people of all ages to enjoy the fun of playing basketball, more basketball leagues could start, and it would be open to the public almost every day. I love playing basketball, but would enjoy it more if I could practice more in the winter when it is too cold and wet out to play outside. I am sure a lot of other people would also agree.

Respectfully yours,
Chelsea Newcomb

Build bike trails

Editor,

The county of Charlevoix should require having bike trails. We believe that bicycling is a very beneficial sport that will keep kids entertained. Both adults and young adults from surrounding cities can use it also. Bicycling is a very athletic sport and we would like to see other people involved. This athletic sport will keep kids occupied, happy, and out of trouble so that they do not disturb people as well as laws. Most importantly though, safety should always come first. If we have a bike trail it will keep kids off of roads, so that they do not frighten drivers.

Sincerely,

New middle school needed

Editor,

I am a sixth grade student at Charlevoix Middle School. My classmates and I feel that we are in desperate need of a new middle school. There are many reasons for this theory. One, the school is sixty-nine years old and is practically falling over. Second of all we need more room in the classrooms because we are almost jammed in them. Third, we need larger lockers because we have to tip our books to get them in. Thank you for your patience.

Sincerely,
Marie S.
Kelly R.

Wanted: a gym

Editor,

I am a sixth grade student at Charlevoix Middle School. My friends and I think it would benefit the community if there was a public basketball gym in Charlevoix with reasonable hours. During the summer we have the courts at Ferry Beach, but in the winter the cold and snow keeps us away. In a sense, we get a case of "cabin fever" from being inside for five winter months. Young people and adults need exercise and a public gym with reasonable hours would provide that in the snowy season.

Sincerely,
Jim Shepherd

Raecke - Sanchez

Jill & Eric Sanchez

A rustic chapel setting with a large field stone fireplace and candlelit wall sconces was the setting for the marriage of Jill Raecke of San Francisco, California, and Eric Sanchez of San Francisco. The wedding took place October 14, with 75 guests in attendance at the Swedenborgian Church in San Francisco.

The Reverend Dr. James Lawrence performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Janice Olach of Ellsworth and Michael Raecke of Charlevoix. The groom is the son of Melvina Blanchard of Scottsdale, AZ., and Edward Sanchez of Los Altos, CA.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her father, and given in marriage by her mother and father.

She wore a custom made gown designed by the bride's cousin and maid of honor, Lynn Greene. The bodice was a backless halter made of white Thai silk taffeta and French alencon lace. The ball gown skirt was also fashioned of Thai silk taffeta.

The bride's veil was a cathedral length split veil of white tulle. She carried a hand tied bouquet of baccara roses, amaryllis, and asiatic lilies.

The maid of honor was Lynn Greene, cousin of the bride. Bridesmaids were Kristine Hobbs and Paige Biorn. They wore two piece, black suits with long, straight skirts and tuxedo style jackets.

Best man was Tom Newton, and groomsman was Kris Biorn.

Ushers were Scott Lippildt, cousin of the bride, and Lester Thomas.

A reception was hosted by the newlyweds and the bride's parents at the Rotunda Restaurant on top of Nieman Marcus in Union Square, San Francisco.

The rehearsal dinner was held at the Plumpjack Cafe in San Francisco, hosted by the groom's father.

The couple is planning a wedding trip to London and Paris. They are making their home in Menlo Park, CA.

The bride is a customer team manager for a contract software manufacturer, Logistix. The groom is a worldwide account manager for Logistix.

Guild makes final payment on pledge

On July 16, 1991, a Charlevoix Area Hospital capital campaign pledge card for $25,000 was signed by then hospital Guild president Margaret Landman.

Now, Guild members are celebrating the final pledge payment of $5,000 delivered to hospital President Richard Krueger last week. Ed McGee, Guild president, said, "Since we made the pledge, Guild members have made and sold untold numbers of cookies, cakes and pies. The Gift Shop personnel have sold gifts, candy and flowers to hospital personnel, patients and their families, and the volunteers, themselves. During that period of time, our Style Show was created and is growing larger each year. The money it has brought in has helped greatly in obtaining this goal.

"All of you have worked very hard and spent many hours on this project. You are to be congratulated for a job well done. Now our goal has been reached and the day we have been looking for has arrived."

Krueger commended the Guild for their achievement of the pledge. "We are very fortunate to have such dedicated volunteers working on our behalf," he said. "We couldn't provide the service we do without your help. Everyone on the hospital staff and Board of Directors thanks you very much for all you do every day of the year."

Krueger notes that almost all of the pledges made in 1991 have been paid in full. The 1991 campaign raised nearly $2 million toward the new building which opened in 1994.

McKeown - Zahner

Peter Zahner & Kerry McKeown

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McKeown of Charlevoix are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Kerry Bridget McKeown, to Peter Thomas Zahner.

The groom-elect is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Zahner of Ann Arbor.

The bride-to-be graduated from Michigan State University with a B.S. degree in social sciences/pre-law in 1993. She is currently attending Capital University Law School in Columbus, OH. She plans to graduate in May of 1996. She is currently employed as a law clerk in Columbus. She is a member of the Chi Omega Fraternity.

The bride-elect's fiance graduated from Michigan State University with a B.S. in mechanical engineering in 1993. He is the assistant plant manager at Michigan Sugar Company in Caro.

The couple will be married August 17 at the Evangelical Lutheran Church in East Jordan.

Frey Foundation grant to help Charlevoix school foundation

The Charlevoix Schools Enrichment Foundation has received a $10,000 Frey Foundation grant. The Enrichment Foundation will in turn distribute the money during 1996 through a series of grants which assist projects beyond the scope of routine educational funding.

A similar grant was awarded by the Frey Foundation to the Enrichment Foundation in 1994. Among the items purchased with that grant were: art display panels to allow students to exhibit their work; materials to allow K-5 students to create murals for the library walls; a computer station allowing the expansion of a high school biology program; 25 graphing calculators for the high school math program; a computer and software which assists high school band students in writing and composing music.

Charlevoix public school teachers submit grant applications to the Enrichment Foundation which reviews the applications and makes grants as funding permits. In addition to the Frey Foundation grant, the Enrichment Foundation derives money for grants from interest on previously established funds and from fund-raising events such as the annual Alyce Lesser Memorial Golf Scramble.

Applications for the current round of grant funding are due by March 1. The Enrichment Foundation will review applications March 12.

Cribbage results

Homer Brady

Former Charlevoix resident Homer Brady, 80, of Zephyrhills, Fla., died Feb. 13, 1996, at St. Joseph Hospital in Tampa, Fla.

Mr. Brady was born in Charlevoix, where he resided until moving to Florida nine years ago.

He had been retired from Foremost Mckesson for 14 years.

Mr. Brady was past commander of the American Legion. He helped organize the Charlevoix Yacht Club and served on its board of directors.

He was a member of the B.P.O.E. Lodge 2544 in Gaylord and a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1153 in Charlevoix.

Survivors include his wife, Kate; one daughter, Billie Swanson and her husband, Tom, of Tucson, Ariz.; one son, James Brady and his wife, Jeanette, of Burwick, La.; three sisters, Hilda Gibson of Charlevoix, Esther Doyle of Detroit, and Jane Malknecht of Roscommon; two brothers, James of Massachusetts and William Brady of Charlevoix; five grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren.

Arrangements were handled by the Coleman & Ferguson Co. Zephyrhills Chapel in Florida.

Delene B. Beach

Delene B. Beach, 89, of Atwood and formerly of Flint, died Feb. 22, 1996, at Country Haven Adult Foster Care in Atwood, where she had been a resident for seven years.

No services are planned at this time.

Mrs. Beach was born Sept. 4, 1906, in Portland, Mich., the daughter of Victor and Carrie (Andrews) Derby.

She was a teacher for the Kearsley School District in Flint for many years, retiring in 1972.

Mrs. Beach was a member of the First Church of Christ, Scientist in Flint and Boston, Mass., and was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star in Flint.

She is survived by one son, Russell James Beach and his wife, Verna, of Battle Creek; one daughter, Gail Glendon and her husband, Mark, of Eastport; two grandchildren; and one great-grandchild.

Arrangements were handled by the Hastings Funeral Home in Ellsworth.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON
Charlevoix Community Church of God

One of the oldest universities in the world is Cambridge University in England. With over four hundred years of tradition, you'd be amazed at what can be found when you really dig into the school rules and regulations.

It seems one day during an examination, one student asked his professor to bring him cakes and ale. The professor was a bit stunned by the request. The student repeated it, "Sir, bring me cakes and ale, I have requested it and require that you bring me cakes and ale."

At this point, the student pulled out a copy of the 400 year old code of Cambridge University, written in Latin and technically still in effect. Sure enough, there was a section in the rules that said gentlemen taking examinations may request and require cakes and ale.

After some discussion among other faculty members, it was decided that the modern day equivalent of cakes and ale would be Pepsi and a burger. So the student got to sit there and take his test while happily slurping on a soda and chomping on a burger.

Very seldom are teachers caught off guard for long. About three weeks later, the student got a notice in the mail fining him five pounds or about twelve dollars. The same rules that required the university to feed him a burger and Pepsi during the test also insisted that gentlemen taking examinations are expected to wear swords.

You've got to give the student credit for really digging to find such a clause in the rules. My hat is off to the the professors too for the good come back. I mean when do you suppose was the last time that they really looked at their own rules? When was the last time that any of us took a close look at some of the things that have been happening in our own lives?

Take a close look at the place God holds in your heart. Have you let your schedule push Him off in some obscure corner of your world or are you involved in a full time partnership with Him? He has the refreshment your soul needs. He has the hope your spirit craves. He has a sense of direction and purpose that will never fail you.

Stress is a big problem in our world. Children and adults alike can suffer from its effects. If you take a close look at all God promises, you will find He has the answer for any situation you may face. It takes more than a Pepsi and a burger to get through some of life's challenges. Draw nigh to God and He will draw nigh to you.

Methodists host Lenten services

Lenten Soup Suppers/Devotional time will continue for the next four Wednesdays at the Charlevoix United Methodist Church, 104 State Street. At 6 p.m., a simple soup and bread supper will be served followed by a video/discussion series, "That the World May Know." Scriptures will be brought to life through the tour of the ancient ruins of the Holy Land.

Legion Auxiliary planning dinner

President Katie Curtis presided at the February business meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary. Sunshine Committee Chairman Jo Bindi reported on the cards, Valentines, and gifts sent to shut-ins and those members ill. A mass card was sent in memory of Florence Blanchard, and the Charter was draped for 30 days in her memory. It was noted that thanks were received for contributions to Grandvue Medical Facility and to the Charlevoix Hospital. Other contributions were made to Camp Quality, the Charlevoix Teen Center, to the Senior Center "$500 or Bust" fund, and in memory of Joey Seidel.

Plans were made to hold the annual Spring Salad-Casserole Dinner, Tuesday, April 16, from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. Prices will be $5 for adults, $3 for children under age 10, and children under age 5 will be free.

The next meeting of the Auxiliary will be Tuesday, March 5, at 7:30 p.m. All members are invited to attend. All wives, mothers, daughters, sisters of those veterans serving in the armed forces are invited to join the Auxiliary and participate in programs for Americanism, youth programs, community service and legislative programs, to assist veterans and the community.

Who? Who?

Who can help take care of wildlife? You can. Diana Sullivan (below) and Joe Ferrer of Associated Wildlife Educators of Cedar, Michigan brought three live owls to the Charlevoix K-5 school last week. Ferrer is shown with a great horned owl named "Mr. Gray" while Sullivan is shown with a small owl named "Screech." In the wild, Mr. Gray will eat anything from the size of a racoon on down. Screech tends to stick to mice and smaller birds.

Associated Wildlife Educators nurses back to health approximately 35 to 40 birds that have been injured.

THE PINEWOOD DERBY!

Gentlemen, start your...well, just put your cars at the top of the ramp. This past Saturday morning, Charlevoix Cub Scouts participated in one of car racing's greatest traditions - the Pinewood Derby. Out of kits containing small blocks of pine, nails and plastic wheels Scouts fashion small racing cars. The cars must fall within certain size and weight specifications. Parents are allowed to help with car design and some concept cars to rival anything put out by the Big Three auto makers show up each year. Granted, the speed of the Pinewood Derby cars doesn't quite match up to Indy cars, but then Indy cars aren't manufactured with jack knives and sand paaper.

Bodem sponsors bill to change liquor license law

by Laurie Lounsbury

State Representative Beverly Bodem introduced a bill that should make it easier to get a resort liquor license.

Every year, 35 resort liquor licenses are made available by the state. These licenses are issued to resort communities where population increases with the tourist season. Once resort licenses are issued, the current law requires that they stay in the municipality where they were originally issued. In other words, a resort license in the city of East Jordan can't be taken to the city of Charlevoix.

Bodem's bill would allow resort licenses to be moved within a county. "This will allow licenses to move where the population is growing," said Kerry Krone, legislative aide to Bodem.

When a business that owns a resort license sells or closes, the license is put in escrow. The state currently has hundreds of licenses in escrow. Rather than issuing new licenses, Bodem's bill would encourage people to obtain escrow licenses in their county.

The Liquor Control Commission is working towards a new system of closing escrow licenses down if they remain in escrow up to five years. This 'use it or lose it' enforcement could make the price of liquor licenses more competitive.

Farmers voice concerns to legislators

Nearly 400 farmers from across Michigan attended the Michigan Farm Bureau (MFB) Lansing Legislative Seminar, Feb. 13 at the Lansing Center. The event was conducted by the State's largest farm organization to give county Farm Bureau leaders an opportunity to discuss key issues with their state representatives and state senators.

"This event is valuable for farmers because it lets them meet not only with the legislators from their own districts, but also with the lawmakers from urban and suburban areas who have an influence over agricultural issues," MFB Legislative Counsel Howard Kelly, coordinator of the seminar.

Key issues that farmers discussed with more than 100 legislators at the seminar included farmland preservation, amendments to the Agricultural Commodity Insurance Act to make it easier for farmers to recover money from bankrupt agricultural handlers, protection of private property rights and support for plant industry research at Michigan State University.

Raffle winner announced

Kathy Johnson, Director of Development for Charlevoix Area Hospital, and RSVP Advisory Council member, won the doll raffle. The raffle is an annual fund-raising event held by the Retired and Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) of Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

The doll and 7 piece wardrobe, donated by Mary Hill, an RSVP volunteer, will be going to Kathy's granddaughter, Marisa, for her birthday.

When asked about her winning Kathy said "I'm always happy to support RSVP and their fund-raising efforts." Also, "Charlevoix Area Hospital is very fortunate to have a number of RSVP members included in our hospital volunteers and I very much enjoy working with all volunteers."

RSVP is sponsored by the Friendship Centers of Emmet County and funded by the Office for Services to the Aging and the United Way.

Haggard advances to state finals

Charlevoix wrestler Ron Haggard placed second at the regional wrestling meet at Breckenridge Saturday and will be wrestling in the state finals at Western Michigan University March 8-9.

Haggard, wrestling at 160 pounds, began the day with an 11-6 decision over Joe Year (31-8) of Fulton-Middleton. He then pinned Rick Silvis (39-2) of Almont in 3:26.

In the finals, Haggard lost to Rick Voss of Whittemore-Prescott on a 6-4 decision. Voss is 51-0 on the season and previously had beaten Haggard 3-0 and 4-2.

Haggard is likely to run into Voss again at the state finals. The two are considered by most coaches to be the premier wrestlers in the 160 pound weight class.

Also competing in the regionals from Charlevoix was heavyweight Bruce Reinhart. Reinhart just missed qualifying for state finals when he lost in triple overtime to Chris Cool of Mancelona.

It was the fifth time the two wrestled this season with each wrestler 2-2 going into the match.

Reinhart opened the day with a loss to Shawn Sumner (31-14) of Breckenridge on a pin in 5:55. In his second match, Reinhart pinned Jeremy Carr of Whittemore-Prescott in 46 seconds.

Volleyball team beats Harbor Springs

Charlevoix's varsity volleyball tuned up for the conference tournament (see story page 1) with a sweep of Harbor Springs 15-0, 15-4, 15-5 Thursday night.

Top setter for the Rayders was Jenni Swenor. Top servers were Liz Kelly, Swenor and Carrie Blanchard. Leading defenders were Theresa Johnson, Kelly and Lyndsay Blechal. Leading the offensive assault were Kelly and Amanda Eaton with four kills and Lisa Wheat with three.

Charlevoix finished the regular conference season with a record of 4-2 and moved their overall season record to 14-5-6.

Charlevoix took the junior varsity match. 15-2, 15-4. Setting for Charlevoix were Laura Maltese and Christine Sweeney. Top servers were Maltese and Mandy Webb. Putting up the defensive wall were Ann Spang and Sara Firman. Leading the offense were Mandi Barrett and Jamie Gowell.

Middle school skiers bring home awards

Seven middle school ski teams competed in the Little Brown Jug Invitational ski meet held at Nub's Nob last week. Over 200 skiers competed in the races. Charlevoix's ski team, under the direction of Tori Fisher, finished in third place. The top 20 finishers from Charlevoix were:

Boys: Jonathon Campbell, second place- Todd Freidinger, eighth- Shawn MacMillan, tenth- Brandon Boris, 12th- Tom Wilson, 18th- Joel Trubilowicz, 19th- Steven Pirie, 20th.

Girls: Tiffany Fisher, second place- Lexi Wilson, 11th- Amanda Simpson, 15th- Alisha Johnson, 17th.

Middle school basketball teams win

Charlevoix's boys seventh and eighth grade basketball teams swept visiting Harbor Springs last Wednesday evening.

The eighth grade Rayders dropped the Rams 60-20. Skyler Handy and Sean Stockman each had 12 points for the Rayders. The Rayder eighth grade team finished their season 11-0.

The seventh grade team took a 60-23 win. Dustin Brewster led Charlevoix with 15 points while Ben Coen and Ryan Leitner each had 10. The Rayder seventh grade team finished their season with a record of 7-3.

Indoor soccer results

Sports Peddler/Charlevoix Indoor Soccer concluded regular season play, Saturday, Feb. 24. In game one action the Stingers laid claim to first place honors in regular season play with their 9-8 win over the Rockets. Scoring for the Stingers were Noel Kammermann 6, Melissa Darrah 2, and Greg Bryan 1. Scoring for the Rockets were Chris Mikulski 5 and Todd Schaperkotter 3.

In game two, the Rat Pack defeated the Phoenixx 6-3. Scoring for the Rat Pack were Steve Carland 4, Carolyn Selders 1, and Matt Mikulski 1. Scoring for Phoenixx were Herman Madison 2 and Seth Kilander 1.

In game three, Big Green downed the Crushers 5-1. Scoring for Big Green were Hagen Manker 2, Justin Davis 2 and Ryan Ellis 1. Scoring the long Crushers goal was Tom Conlan.

Sports Peddler/Charlevoix Indoor Soccer Tournament action begins Saturday, March 9, at 7 p.m. at the Charlevoix Middle School gym. This two-day event will conclude with a Consolation and Championship match March 16.

Freshman team wins

Charlevoix's freshman basketball team hammered Harbor Springs 77-37 last Thursday. Keith Grunch led the Rayders with 15 points while Justin Thorpe had a dozen points and nine rebounds. Charlevoix led at the quarters, 19-4, 41-10 and 64-21.

Basketball team splits two games

Charlevoix's varsity basketball team split a pair of home games last week. Tuesday, Feb. 20 the Rayders beat Kalkaska 57-50 and Friday they lost to Harbor Springs 40-37. The split left Charlevoix with a record of 3-8 in league play and 4-14 overall.

The Kalkaska game went back and forth with Charlevoix making the deciding run in the game's final four minutes. Charlevoix led 15-9 after the first quarter, but trailed 25-24 at halftime. Entering the final quarter, the Rayders led 36-33.

In the crucial final minutes, Charlevoix's guards were as cool as a northern Michigan winter at the free throw line. Josh Miller hit five of six free throws and Mark Boss added two more.

George McClellan picked up eight of his 22 points in the final quarter. He also had 13 rebounds for the game.

The Harbor Springs game wasn't decided until the final minute. Charlevoix led 37-36 and had the ball when a Harbor Springs player intercepted a pass near the half-court line and was fouled while making a lay-up.

Charlevoix played a strong defensive game. Rayder junior Steve Carland played particularly well, thumping and muscling with a Harbor Springs player who he was spotting three inches in height and more than 20 pounds in bulk.

At the offensive end the Rayders were dismal. The perimeter offense was limited, but existent. As for the Rayders' interior offense, the didn't really have any. Marc Jacobs and Ben Owens did some work on the offensive glass and McClellan ventured into the lane on a few occasions. But for the most part, the area near the Rayder basket belonged to the Harbor Springs defense.

Boss led the Rayders with 10 points. Nobody else scored in double figures.

Charlevoix lost the Kalkaska junior varsity game, but won the Harbor Springs junior varsity game 64-63 on a jump shot by Reggie Burks in the closing seconds.

CARD OF THANKS 070

We wish to express our sincere thanks to friends, relatives and neighbors for all their prayers, kindness, sympathy and support during the illness and death of our beloved husband, father, son and brother, Dick Smith. Also, we wish to thank everyone for the cards, food, memorials and beautiful flowers. A very special thanks to Rev. Dale Ostema of the Charlevoix United Methodist Church, staff of the Charlevoix Area Hospital, Barnard Grange members and the Winchester Funeral Home.

From the Family of Dick Smith

Feb. 24, 1994

It has been two years since we had to say goodbye and let you go. Not a day passes that you are not remembered and loved. Each day we thank both of you for the happy memories, and for the strength, courage and inspiration you provided which allowed us to move forward and find happiness once again. You will always be a part of us. To live on in the hearts of those you leave behind is to never die. You will live on in our hearts forever.

Guitar quartet to perform

If you count the number of fingers on your right hand, chances are they total more than the number of professional touring classical guitar quartets on the U.S. concert circuit today. Even though electrical and acoustical guitars are so popular, it is surprising that there aren't more groups performing in the traditional chamber music format. The main reason, it seems, is that there has not been a great deal of classical music written specifically for an ensemble of four players.

The Minneapolis guitar quartet considers themselves missionaries in this music field, using their growing popularity to commission guitar quartet music from composers and enticing composers to arrange their won works for this unique medium.

Tickets for the Minneapolis Guitar Quartet program, Thursday, March 14, at 8 p.m., may be reserved by calling the Crooked Tree Arts Council office at 616-347-4337. General admission for adults is $10 and Students is $3. Tickets will be available at the Box Office prior to the performance.

Stowe appointed foundation president

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation has a new president for 1996. Mike Stowe, longtime Boyne City booster and CEO of Industrial Magnetics, Inc., has been chosen to lead the charitable organization during the year. Stowe replaces retiring president Vel Kammermann, who will now serve as the Foundation's vice president. Kammermann is a Charlevoix resident and partner in the CPA firm Mason & Kammermann. Both officers have served as trustees of the Community Foundation since its inception in 1992.

William Sherman, president of Burnett Foods will continue as corporate secretary and William Lorne, vice president for administrative affairs at the East Jordan Iron Works, will remain in the position of treasurer.

The Foundation also welcomed a new trustee at its last board meeting. Leon Jarema, a resident of Boyne Falls, will serve a three-year term as a representative of his community. Jarema, who recently retired, spent his life teaching in the Ellsworth and Boyne Falls schools. Active as a volunteer in many community activities, he now is a pilot and aviation instructor.

The Community Foundation is governed by a Board of Trustees made up of volunteers from throughout the county. Others who currently serve on the board are: Jean VanDam and Steve Weber from Boyne City; Skip McDonough and Joe Reed from Beaver Island; Bill Ohle from Horton Bay; Cal Diller from East Jordan; and Scott Beatty, John Frey, Lou Hollow, and Nancy Porter from Charlevoix.

Founded in 1991 by a group of civic leaders, the Community Foundation received contributions and manages them in a permanent endowment. Income from the endowment is used to support a variety of worthy programs and projects in Charlevoix County. More information about the Foundation is available by calling 616/536-2440, or writing to P.O. Box 718, East Jordan, Michigan, 449727.

in Nash's logging camps for $15 a month clear-cutting virgin timber land. He helped clear-cut all of the land north of the sawmill as well as several other parcels of timber around Norwood.

Nash let the swamp land north of the mill go back to the state for unpaid taxes after it was clear cut. Today the State of Michigan owns over 1100 acres or one tenth of the land in Norwood Township.

The last standing virgin timber in this area, on the A.J. Bolhuis farm in Marion Township, outlasted the Norwood sawmill by only ten years. Twelve acres of virgin hemlock were sold to the Charlevoix Lumber Company in 1911 for $1,100. The bark was sold to the tannery in Boyne City and the logs were loaded up and hauled to the Charlevoix Lumber Company.

Nash's big mill burned in 1901 and a few years later the dock washed out in a violent storm. With it went the last of the sawmill and the logging era that gave birth to the village of Norwood.

Charlevoix to get new Post Office

by L. Scott Swanson

The U.S. Postal Service is seeking a site for a new post office in Charlevoix. The postal service wants to build a new 12,000 square foot building and have it operational by the spring of 1997.

Jeff Stozek, Real Estate Specialist with the postal service, noted that an attempt was made to build a new Charlevoix post office back in 1987, but the funding was pulled and since then it hasn't been a high priority.

Of the current effort, Stozek said, "We're just getting started and hopefully we'll be successful this time."

The present post office was constructed in 1956. It is owned by the city and leased to the postal service.

The main problem with the present building is space. "The current location is definitely far too small and has been for some time," Stozek explained. At 2,300 square feet, the current facility is about

You too can interpret a tax assessment notice

by L. Scott Swanson

Charlevoix property owners who didn't receive tax assessment notices last week can look forward to receiving them this week. Once the notices are in hand, the next challenge is figuring just exactly what they tell you. That task was no day at the beach before Proposal A reformed the system and now it can seem like you're trying to interpret Egyptian hieroglyphics. But if you take a moment and acquaint yourself with a few tax terms, it's really not that difficult to comprehend.

Charlevoix County Equalization Director Carla Spence found life more challenging than usual this year as they prepared the notices for mailing.

"Proposal A has probably doubled the work of the assessors and tax administration," she said.

Under the old property tax system there were only a few terms you needed to understand in order to figure out your property taxes. Under the new system, there are all of the old terms plus some new ones.

The critical old terms are market value, assessed value and millage. The critical new terms are value change multiplier and taxable value.

Following are brief working definitions:

Market Value: The price, according to the tax assessor, that you would be able to sell your home for on the market.

Assessed Value (also sometimes known as State Equalized Value or SEV): Fifty percent of market value.

Millage: A mill is $1 for every $1,000 of assessed value.

Value Change Multiplier: Your 1996 assessed value divided by your 1995 assessed value. If this figure is lower than the rate of inflation (2.8 percent this year) and less than 5 percent, this is the percentage that your taxable value will increase over your 1995 assessed value.

Taxable Value: Under the new system, this is the amount of property value that millage will be levied against.

Now, you know the terms, but the question is how do you use them to figure out how deep in your pocket you'll be digging to pay your property taxes.

Under the old system, you simply multiplied your assessed value by your millage rate. For example, if your home has an assessed value of $50,000 and you pay a total of 25 mills, you take your calculator and multiply $50,000 by .025 and discover that you'll be paying $1,250 in property taxes.

Under the new system, you no longer use assessed value. Instead, you use taxable value and multiply that by your millage rate. The equation is the same, you just use taxable value instead of assessed value.

Where do the tax people come up with this taxable value figure? That's where the value change multiplier, rate of inflation and a figure of five percent come into play. Under Proposal A, the rate your property's taxable value increases from one year to the next will be the lowest of the three aforementioned figures. Since the inflation figure being used for this year is 2.8 percent, unless your property has been sold or physically changed your taxable value will not increase by more than 2.8 percent this year.

...understanding your property tax assessment notice

Although the five percent figure is essentially meaningless this year, that doesn't mean it won't ever be relevant in future years. Even if in some future year, inflation is running at seven percent, the most your taxable value could increase (again barring the sale of your property or physical changes to the property) would be five percent. The five percent figure is just an inflation cap.

Although your property's taxable value won't increase by more than 2.8 percent this year, it could increase by less than that - if your value change multiplier is less than 1.028. On your Notice of Assessment Change, you'll find your value change multiplier next to the number (8). You can calculate it yourself by dividing your 1996 assessed value (3) by your 1995 assessed value (1).

One of the more interesting facets of the value change multiplier is that it has to be calculated for every piece of property. Thus the extra work for the tax administrators.

Another interesting feature of the new tax system is that as the years go by the difference between a property's assessed value and its taxable value will in most cases grow.

However, you remember the earlier disclaimers about the sale of property or physical changes to property. When a property is sold or otherwise transferred from one person to another, the assessed value becomes the taxable value for the new owner. In other words, the new system is going to encourage people to hang onto property for longer, instead of switching regularly.

As the years go by, this provision of the new system could have a lot of different ramifications. In order to avoid having a property's taxable value increased to the assessed value, people may try to find ways of exchanging property without having it look like a transfer.

As Spence speculates, "There's going to be a lot of shenanigans going on."

The transfer provision along with another provision which has homestead properties paying lower school taxes than nonhomestead properties makes it difficult for schools and other governmental entities to project property tax revenues for coming years. Future tax revenues depend on how many pieces of property sell and how many are homestead or nonhomestead. In a year where a lot of property is sold, governmental units could see a big boost in tax revenue. In a year where property doesn't sell, revenue increases will be lower.

Spence said that one thing which could be done to make things easier is to synchronize the tax calendar requirements from the old system with the new provisions of Proposal A. She said she's talked to state representative Bev Bodem, R-Alpena, about that problem.

The figures you need to figure your taxes

To calculate your total property tax bill for 1996, you need two figures - your 1996 taxable value (Figure 7 on the Notice of Assessment Change, which local property owners should either have received or will be receiving later this week) and the total millage ($1 for every $1,000 of taxable value) levied against that taxable value.

In other words, the equation is: Taxable Value x Millage = Property Tax.

For example, if you own a home in Charlevoix Township with a taxable value of $50,000 and you're paying a total of 16.5784 mills in property taxes, the equation for your property taxes would be:

$50,000 x .0165784 = $828.92.

Millage figures vary according to what municipality you live in and whether your property is homestead or nonhomestead. In the City of Charlevoix, millage figures also vary depending on whether you are in or not in the Downtown Development Authority district.

Following are the 1995 total millage figures for the City of Charlevoix and some surrounding townships. 1996 millage figures may vary slightly (more if any proposal for an additional millage passes), but these figures multiplied by your taxable value should give you a pretty good idea of what kind of 1996 property tax bills you can be looking forward to.

Fiddlers will play in East Jordan this Saturday

Fiddlers and other musicians from across Michigan will be in East Jordan Saturday, March 9 for the 1996 Fiddlers' Jamboree. The Jamboree is sponsored by the Barnard Grange and will take place at the Jordan Valley Express.

The Jamboree portion of the event with an open mike for musicians will be from 1 p.m to 5 p.m. Following a one-hour break, music and square dancing will begin at 7 p.m. and end when the musicians and dancers run out of steam.

Among the musicians appearing at this year's Jamboree will be: young fiddlers from Petoskey and East Jordan; The Boyne Mountain Boys; The Musik Haus Accordion Club from Gaylord.

The first Jamboree took place in 1981. Since 1983, East Jordan has hosted a March Jamboree.

Co-chairing this year's Jamboree are: Gary and Janet Stutzman, Bill and Donna Stevens, Rod and Kim Stevens, Dan and Sherry Johnston, Jack and Kathy Stebe, Lloyd and Sarah Cummings.

one fifth of the size of the proposed facility.

Sites ranging in size from one acre to two and a-half acres will be considered, but ideally the postal service would like a site of about two and one-fourth acres.

In the past, local business people have lobbied to keep the post office downtown. In regard to that issue, Stozek said, "For postal purposes, it doesn't need to be downtown. It would be nice. Unfortunately, there isn't two and a-half acres (of open building site) downtown."

Stozek said the postal service hopes to close on the purchase of a site by sometime this summer, award a construction contract later this year and be finished with the building by next spring.

He said the postal service doesn't have an exact cost yet, but that they don't expect purchasing a two and one-half acre site and building a 12,000 square foot building to be cheap.

School board extends administrative contracts

by Laurie Lounsbury

About 25 teachers and school staff members attended last Monday's school board meeting to hear the board's decision on administrative contracts. The board voted to extend the contracts for superintendent Dr. Roberta Jackson, principals Gary Grundman, Dick Swenor, and Dennis VanGuilder for one year. The approval of the principals' contract passed unanimously by the board. Jackson's contract extension passed by a six to one vote, with board member Ardeth Wieland casting the only dissenting vote.

The board also accepted letters of intent to retire from teachers Dave Smith, Dennis Carr, Terry Smith, Barbara Cook, and Elizabeth Hoffman.

In other business, the board approved raising the pay scale for substitute teachers from $50 to $60 a day, from $25 to $35 for a half day, and hourly from $10 to $12 per hour.

The board approved changes in coaching staff. Jim Kanine is resigning as junior varsity baseball coach, and Karen Lerch was appointed as middle school track coach.

MADD group disbands

Carol Havens was honored last week by Sheriff George Lasater for her eight years of efforts with M.A.D.D. Havens founded M.A.D.D. eight years ago, and through the years has helped changed community attitudes towards law enforcement of drunk driving laws. "M.A.D.D.'s support really helped us. They got the message out to the community, which helped us accomplish our mission," Lasater said.

Now the organization has been disbanded due to lack of interest. "Community interest goes in cycles," Lasater said.

During the eight years of M.A.D.D.'s existence, the group raised money to buy equipment for the sheriff's department, including video cameras for the booking area and a patrol car, two breath testers, and two fax machines for magistrates to expedite warrants.

EDITH

by EDITH GILBERT

You may read about the theater season in New York, and the new opera house in Detroit, and the Monet exhibit in Chicago, but have you heard about the "little season" up North during February and March?

In celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Little Traverse Civic Theater, this amateur/professional group of actors performed Gilbert & Sullivans' musical, The Mikado at the McCune Arts Center to sell-out crowds. And what a rousing performance it was! Good voices, colorful costumes, theatrical wigs, a well-designed set, and five live musicians in the professional orchestra. Twenty of our gifted friends and neighbors took part on stage and another thirty-seven talented souls added their expertise working on the production crew.

I have always enjoyed good amateur theater, because it's so much fun to see someone you know, assume a wide variety of roles, first in a comedy, then in a mystery, musical, or drama. LTCT deserves high marks for fifty years of top performances and delightful entertainment.

During the Mikado intermission, the audience was treated to the Alaskan Inuit Art Show in the Exhibition Gallery, which was on loan from the Dennos Museum in Traverse City. During the month, the docents conducted about 20 tours for area schoolchildren, who were delighted by a video showing Units' hand painting of birds and seals, and polishing their black stone carvings. The youngsters were heard to exclaim that this show was, "really cool."

As if all this dose of "culture" wasn't enough, the Michigan Opera Theater performed the lilting music of Andrew Lloyd Webber at the Perry Hotel in Petoskey to a sold out, turn-away dinner crowd. The new director of the Crooked Tree Arts Council, Michelle Conklin, deserves the credit for masterminding the entire project. It all began when MOT called her and offered to perform Hansel and Gretl in full costume with an entire orchestra in seven of our area schools, including the one free performance to benefit CTAC. Conklin made numerous telephone calls that resulted in three communities, — Petoskey, Harbor Springs and Boyne City — picking up the tab for the shows. In Petoskey the local Parent Teacher's Organization funded the performances, in Harbor Springs, the Kiwanians funded the performances and in Boyne City, a group of businessmen funded the performances. Unfortunately due to winter storms, three performances had to be canceled, which left the actors free to go — guess where — on a shopping spree in our own shops. Happily, all three engagements have been rescheduled for March 11.

The mail also brings me an invitation to a private soiree to hear the Hontz-McDermott duo, which consists of a flute and guitar. Charlevoix's Kelly McDermott, flutist, and Philadelphia's Hontz, guitarist, were named special Presentation Winners in the Artist International Carnegie Hall Debut Competition. McDermott teaches at the University of Pennsylvania and Hontz is on the faculty of several eastern colleges. He is currently president of the Philadelphia Classical Guitar Society. This private concert is a part of their Spring '96 tour in the Midwest.

Finally, on Thursday, March 14, Community Concert ticket holders will be able to enjoy the Minneapolis Guitar Quartet at 8:00 o'clock at the McCune Arts Center. "People who ordinarily wouldn't be caught dead listening to classical music, do enjoy this Quartet's performance," chuckles chairperson Connie Tanner. Well known on the concert circuit, their musical background includes playing many styles of music from the traditional Spanish to rhythm and blues. This group is considered one of the few leading ensembles in North America. They have played for the American Public Radio on the popular St. Paul Sunday Morning broadcast, and have recorded their own newly commissioned works by young composers. Audiences will enjoy hearing their explanations of each number — giving its origin, composer etc. We are looking forward to hearing Alan Johnson, Joseph Hagedorn, David Crittenden and O. Nicholas Raths play the music written in chamber music form for guitars ranging from favorite composers like Igor Stravinski, to contemporary composers. Tickets are still available at the door at $10 for adults, and $3 for students.

Yes, there's more than ice fishing and skiing up North, these days. The "little season" thanks to the Crooked Tree Arts Council, and Little Traverse Theater gives a welcome cultural dimension to our sporting lives.

Courier reader Anne Olmstead from Le Crescenta, California sent a letter including the following comments regarding a column appearing in the Feb. 7 edition of the Courier:

"We were much entertained by your column in the Feb. 7 Courier about your computer woes and your rescue by a fifteen-year-old maven. We've always said anyone born since 1950 seems to know about computers almost by instinct, so we're not at all surprised....."

"It won't surprise you a bit that there is a preschool here in the Los Angeles area that advertise, for ages 2-5, 'foreign languages, computer classes, and potty training.' Your next expert may show up wearing Pampers."

Editorial

Commissioners deserve praise for administrator decision

Charlevoix County Commissioners deserve praise for their long overdue decision to hire a county administrator.

Charlevoix County has grown into a multi departmental, multimillion dollar operation and having some type of day-to-day on-site management to coordinate the operation is essential.

In the past, county commissioners have operated by committee. That is a system which has its merits, but also has its pitfalls. Among the key pitfalls is that in a committee system, when it comes time to make a decision, the members of the committee may, or may not, understand the upside and the downside, but remaining board members, who were not on the committee, often do not.

Although that same situation can occur under an administrative structure, it generally is mitigated by the fact that a full-time staff person has more time than an elected committee member to both acquire information and prepare a report.

While hiring a county administrator should reduce some of the workload on commissioners and provide more efficient day to day operations of county government, it does not remove ultimate responsibility from county commissioners. They remain the elected officials and that should continue to be where the buck stops. One of the dangers of an administrative, rather than committee, government structure is the tendency for boards to begin to rubber stamp administrative recommendations. For the administrative structure to function properly, commissioners must remain active in county government and must be willing to ask questions and go against administrative recommendations in instances where they don't make sense. The county is hiring an administrator, not a dictator.

While the addition of an administrator may cause some mild transitional discomfort for both commissioners and department heads in the short term, in the long term it will prove to be a very important step forward for Charlevoix County government.

Letters to the editor

Family thanks rescue personnel

Editor,
To The Good People of Charlevoix

On Saturday, Feb. 10, 1996 our son Casey died in a tragic snowmobile accident. His snowmobile went through the ice on Lake Charlevoix. Our other son Corey, who was riding with his brother on another snowmobile, also went through the ice, but was saved by the quick action of the U.S. Coast Guard. Our tragedy was almost a double tragedy.

The following week was the most difficult of our lives. On one hand, we mourned the loss of Casey, but on the other hand we were rejoicing at the rescue and complete recovery of Corey. Thank God that we still have Corey.

The purpose of this letter is to say "thank you." Thank you to the gentleman and the woman who each heard Corey's calls for help and who each immediately notified the Coast Guard Station. Thank you to the Coast Guard personnel who responded so quickly and courageously. Thank you also to the ambulance team, the fire department, the police department, and the Sheriff department for also responding with such determination and professionalism. Thank you to all the great hospital staff for their preparedness. The coordinated effort of all these people saved our son Corey's life. We are all truly grateful.

But our thanks doesn't end there. The unfortunate task of attempting to find Casey's body fell on the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department. Part of the Sheriff Department's search and rescue team is the East Jordan Fire Department's diving team. These fearless men searched for Casey the night of the accident. Then, on the next day, along with State Police divers, Boyne Valley Fire Department divers, and other Sheriff Department divers, they conducted thirteen dives in an effort to locate Casey's body. These men made their dives facing icy water and strong currents and were finally forced to give up their search. Sheriff George Lasater kept us apprised of the search efforts. It was he who suggested contacting the University of Michigan in an attempt to secure use of their experimental robotic underwater search vehicle, "The Rover M," in order to continue the search for Casey's body. The U of M team responded positively to Sheriff Lasater's request. On Wednesday morning Feb. 14, they began their search having set their equipment up on the Steelhead, the DNR research vessel. For the next two days they searched Lake Charlevoix and Round Lake from the Steelhead. On Friday morning, the equipment was moved onto the ice of Lake Charlevoix. They searched and searched, but to no avail. At 11 p.m. Friday night, the search was ended.

When we think of men from Boyne Falls, Boyne City, East Jordan, and Charlevoix who so unselfishly gave of their time to help in the search, we are overwhelmed with gratitude. When we think of Sheriff Lasater personally being so kind and cooperative and of his departments willingness to help, we are overwhelmed with gratitude. When we think of the crew of the Steelhead, the fire department, the ambulance crew, the hospital staff, and the divers we are overwhelmed with gratitude. When we think of all the wonderful people and businesses who sent their love, supplied food and coffee, or offered help, we are overwhelmed with gratitude. Our family and friends have showered us with love and support, which has helped us beyond measure.

But it is our deep faith in God in which we found our greatest source of strength. The confirmation that we have received, about Casey's having entered heavens gates, has us rejoicing about Casey being with his Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. We know how tough it is for us to cope with Casey's death, even having God in our lives. How much more difficult it must be to cope for those who haven't experienced the hope that only God can give.

We want everyone who helped us in our time of need, whether it was through prayer, through supplying food, through supplying Casey's wonderful wife Tricia with a contribution, or whether participating in the search and rescue, to know that we are truly grateful. Our community, our county, supported us in our time of grief and sorrow. We wish we could mention everyone by name who so generously helped us in so many ways. What a great bunch of people.

With our Sincere and Heartfelt Thanks,

Rod & Linda Richardson & Family

The origin of team names

Editor,

We get our Couriers somewhat later than their publication date, so perhaps someone has already replied to Tom Phillips's letter in the Feb. 14 issue. While I will not attempt to comment on his analysis of the problems of youth, I must take exception to his statements on the naming of athletic teams.

Mr. Phillips says he moved to Charlevoix four years ago, so he could not know the origin of the name of Charlevoix's high school athletic teams. He asks what "Raiders" implies, and I hope by now he has been told that the correct spelling is "Rayders" and that the name was intended to honor long-time coach Ray Kipke. I would imagine that anyone who seriously tried to change it would be in deep trouble.

The original pirate logo, slightly changed since then, I believe was created by Louis Orlowski, a graduate of my own CHS class of 1937.

I can't resist adding that "Steelers" is the Pittsburgh football team's name because the city was a major steel manufacturing center, not a den of "thieves who can't spell." Perhaps a bit more research would have avoided these errors.

Yours,
Anne Higman Olmstead

Students learn babysitting skills

by Laurie Lounsbury

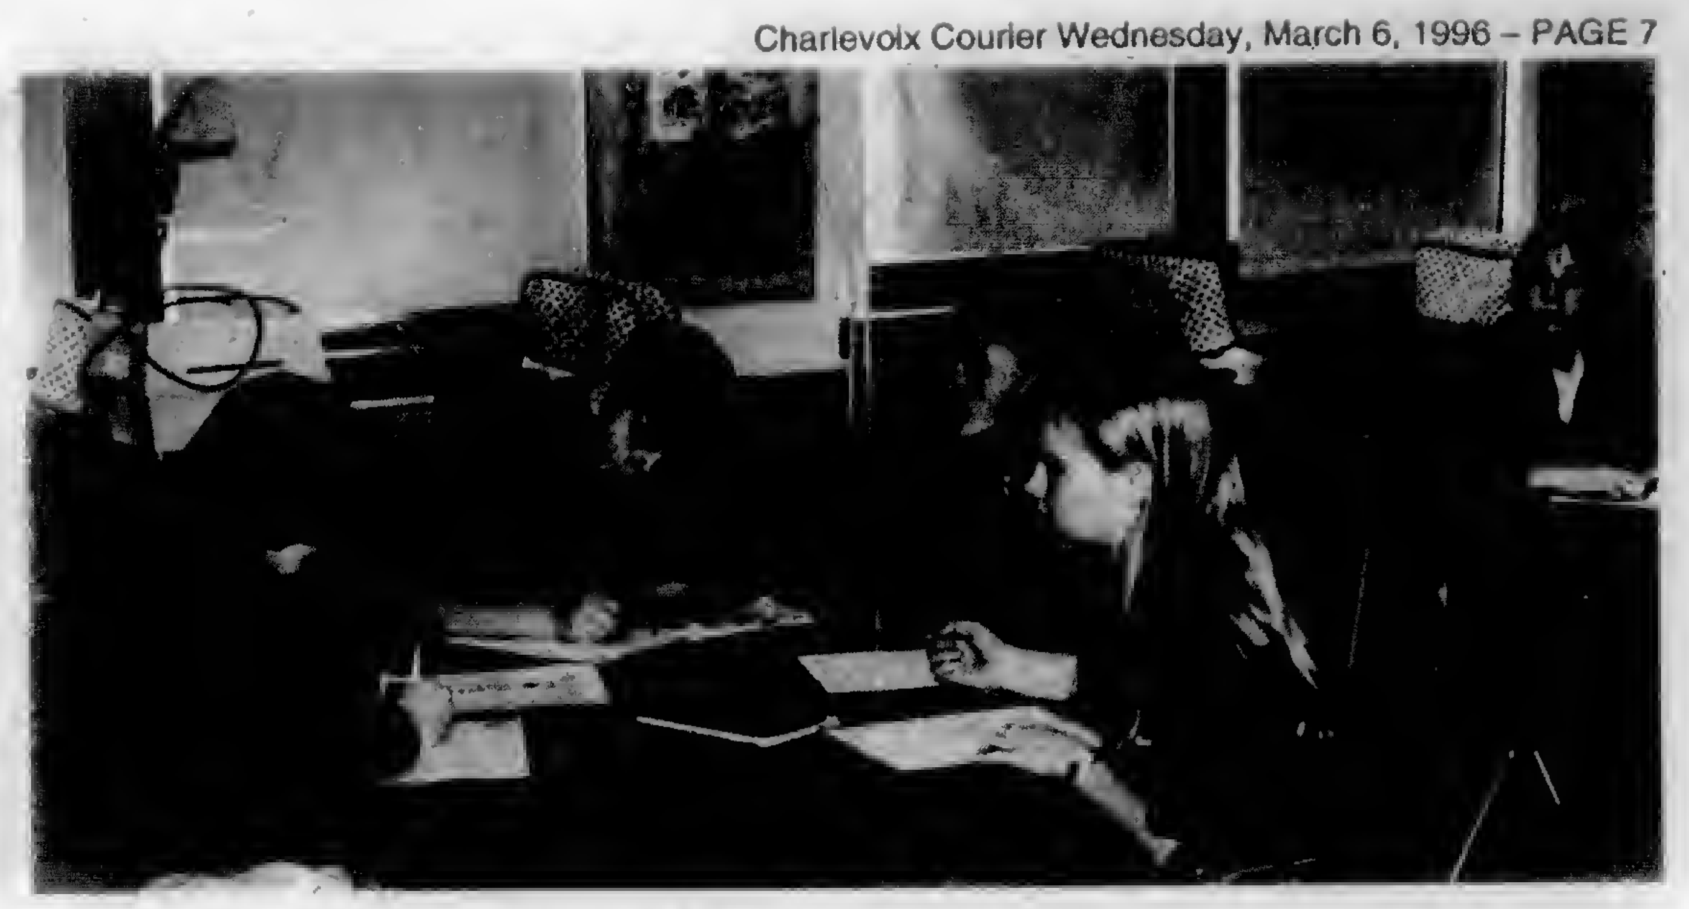
If you hire a Charlevoix seventh grader to babysit for your children, you'll get more than you bargained for. And that's good.

For more than a decade, teacher Barb Cook has been imparting good babysitting skills to seventh grade students. The babysitting unit covers much more than heating up fish sticks and changing a diaper. The students become certified in CPR, learn what factors can affect a child's behavior, and prepare babysitter checklists. They even get pointers on negotiating their wages. "That's the hard part, discussing the fee, hut that's the maturity needed that goes with the job," Cook said. (Charlevoix sitters earn, on average, between $2.50 and $4.00 an hour.)

Cook started the babysitting unit of life management skills ten years ago to comply with state curriculum requirements. The state called it pre-parenting skills. The idea behind it was to break the cycles of poor parenting, including physical and mental abuse. Students learn why babies cry, and what makes a toddler tick.

Cook's babysitting unit is popular with parents of young children. Parents routinely call Cook and ask for the names of potential babysitters who have completed the unit of study. "I'm like an employment agency in the community," Cook said. She matches sitters up with customers, taking into consideration the maturity of the sitter with the age of the children who need a sitter. Cook also tries to find a sitter who lives in the same neighborhood as the parents.

Cook's students learn the importance of writing down emergency numbers and keeping them by the phone. In a crisis, Cook explained, you can forget even your own phone number. And emergency numbers vary from city to townships. Cook distributes a list of emergency phone numbers to students which include township and city emergency numbers, along with a number for the poison control center.



Barb Cook's babysitting students learn the importance of writing down vital information, such as emergency phone numbers, in their seventh grade babysitter's class. These students are filling out a babysitter's information record, to be kept on file for each of their customers. Photo by Laurie Lounsbury

obituaries

Jack Eno

Jack Eno, 57, of Charlevoix, died Feb. 28, 1996, at Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey.

His funeral was Saturday, March 2, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton of the Community Church of God in Charlevoix officiated, with burial in Greenwood Cemetery, Petoskey.

Mr. Eno was born Jan. 26, 1939, in Wayne, Mich., the son of Louis and Gertrude (Sinclair) Eno. He graduated from Wayne Memorial High School, then attended Eastern Michigan University. He was a veteran of the U.S. Army.

On Sept. 15, 1978, he married Karen McIntyre-Austin in Clarkston, and she survives.

They moved from Clarkston to Charlevoix in 1994.

Mr. Eno worked for General Motors Pontiac Motor Plant Electronic Data Systems as a computer programmer, retiring in 1994 after 34 years.

He enjoyed wildlife.

Survivors include his wife, Karen, of Charlevoix; three sons, Greg Eno and his wife, Sharon, of Warren, Mark Austin and his wife, Amy, of Waterford, and Kevin Austin of Waterford; one daughter, Pamela Austin, of Waterford; five grandchildren; two sisters, Audrey Hamilton of Westland, and Freddie Collins and her husband, Rip, of Arapahoe, N.C.; and his mother-in-law, Norda McIntyre, of Charlevoix.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the American Heart Association. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix

Church to host auction

The Public is invited to an auction at the First Congregational/UCC Church of Charlevoix, 101 State St., Sunday, March 10 at 6:30 p.m.

Proceeds go to the church's youth programming and the Community Lisa Dixon Scholarship Fund which aids young people for enriching experiences.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON
Charlevoix Community Church of God

You must admit that winter never ceases to bless us with surprises every day. Last week's ice storm threw a whole new twist into the meaning of keeping things "under control." As beautiful as that clear frosty coating was, it made every step I took an adventure.

I can't speak for anyone else, but that day reminded me how even my style of walking has been affected by the snow and ice. Part of it could be that I remember last year and the broken elbow that a fall on the ice brought. But could part of it be the Lord's way of sharing a fresh appreciation of just who it is that ought to be directing my steps each day?

Few would disagree that in our minds there is a constant awareness of God. Yet in our hearts, we have this sticky habit of temporarily forgetting that He is in control. We rejoice when He brings us blessings and encouragement. But once those spiritual high points begin to fade into pleasant memories, we go back to handling things on our own.

Think back to Moses and the children of Israel as they were leaving Egypt. They had been witness to ten overwhelming miracles that finally succeeded in melting an icy Pharaoh's heart. You would think such wonders would last forever and strengthen their trust in the Almighty. You would think that they would grasp that nothing can stop the love of God. But when they got to the Red Sea, it was as if they felt they had been left to fend for themselves.

With the waters before them and an advancing army behind them, they lost their spiritual footing and panicked. They got so off balance that some even wished they could go back into slavery instead of facing what they thought was certain death in the desert.

Moses had to remind them who was in charge. He had to remind them that the God who had set their feet on the road to freedom would never leave their side. But they needed to learn to hold on. He told them, "Do not be afraid. Stand firm and you will see the deliverance the Lord will bring you today ... (Exodus 14:13)."

Now don't misunderstand. I am ready for spring. But maybe a dose of slipping and sliding is good for us now and them. It makes us aware of just how uncertain our steps can be. It reminds us that even the strongest among us need Someone to hold on to now and then. And who better to hold on to than God?

Our David was sick all week. So guess who covered his paper route? It really is amazing to realize that in a few months there will be flowers blooming and birds singing everywhere. But right now, icy sidewalks and frozen fingers do make the days fun. I wonder if it was cold when the apostle Paul wrote, "Rejoice in the Lord always, I will say it again, rejoice!" Isn't winter wonderful?

Odd Fellows lead cribbage tournament

Despite gaining 22 points on Odd Fellows in cribbage tournament play this past Thursday, the Masons are still looking an awful lot like cooks. The Masons and Odd Fellows winter cribbage tournament has been going on for more than six decades. At the end of each year's tournament, the losing two clubs have supper together with the losing team doing the cooking. Although the Masons gained 22 points this past Thursday, they still trail by 309 points entering the final evening of play this Thursday.

John Barber led the Masons this past week with 954 points. Roman Hanks led the Odd Fellows with 925 points. There were four tables in play.

The final night of play will begin at 7:30 p.m., March 7 at the Masonic Temple on the corner of Bridge and Mason Streets. The post tournament supper will begin at 6:30 p.m. at the same site, March 14.

Girl Scout cookie sale begins

Area Girl Scouts will begin their Annual Cookie Sale Friday, March 8. The Girl Scouts will continue to offer eight different varieties of cookies this year at the same low price of $2.50 per box.

Nearly 4,000 girls from the 11-county area participate in the Cookie Sale each year. All profits raised during the Annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale remain in the 11-county Crooked Tree Girl Scout Council. Volunteers decide how the money will be spent on programs and facilities to meet the needs of local girls.

If you would like to order cookies and have not been contacted, please call 947-7354.

DDA and Council disagree on bid award

The Downtown Development Authority board and City Council will have to work out their differences on a $1.5 million bank loan.

The loan, taken out under state Act 99, will be used to pay off the Bridge Park project. The DDA solicited bids from banks on interest rates for the loan. Standard Federal put in the low bid of 5.1 percent for 15 years. CB North put in a bid of 5.13 percent over 15 years. After other costs were factored in, the difference on the 15-year payback was somewhere between $7,000 and $10,000.

Both the DDA and the city council must approve whichever bid is accepted.

At their Feb. 28 meeting, DDA members voted to accept the CB North proposal even though it was for a higher interest rate and would cost the city between $7,000 and $10,000 more over 15 years to pay back. Board members cited CB North's having two buildings within the DDA district and consequently paying higher property taxes to the DDA as their reason for bypassing the lower bid. DDA members Jeff Porter, Mary Fiendt, Jeannine Wallace, Hugh Mason and Fred DiMartino voted in favor of accepting the CB North bid. Dan Barron abstained.

At the March 4 city council meeting, council members object to bypassing the lower bid.

Second ward council member Gabe Campbell said the city should only go with the CB North rate if CB North matched the Standard Federal bid. First ward council member Don Meggison agreed.

City attorney Jim Young said that once the city accepts competitive bids they can't really go back and negotiate with one of the bidders. If the city made a practice of that, ultimately it would discourage people from bidding on city projects. He said a better approach would be to reject all bids.

Campbell said he realizes the city doesn't have to always accept the low bid, but that if a low bid is bypassed he feels there needs to be a valid reason.

Third ward council member Bruce Reid also opposed bypassing the lower bid.

"When you send something out for a bid, you go with the lowest bidder, you don't say, 'Yeah, but...'" Reid said.

A motion by the council indicating they prefer to accept the Standard Federal bid passed 5-0. Reid, Meggison and Campbell were joined by Bob Timms and Butch Russell in adopting the motion.

DDA board members are shown reviewing tile and brick colors for the Bridge Park building. At their Feb. 28 meeting, the DDA revised earlier plans for red tiles, to instead use green tiles. They also want to look at some different options for brickwork. DDA members said they want the building to be understated so that it doesn't stand out from the other buildings or detract from the natural beauty of the waterfront area. Shown looking at tiles are (from left) Dr. Jeff Porter, Mary Fiendt, Jeannine Wallace, Fred DiMartino, Dan Barron and Hugh Mason. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

Rayders end regular season with a superb performance

by L. Scott Swanson

Charlevoix's varsity basketball team closed out its regular season at home Friday night by putting a whuppin' on Cheboygan 78-54.

What a difference a week makes. A Charlevoix offense that was totally ineffective one week earlier against Harbor Springs cut Cheboygan to shreds Friday evening.

Charlevoix scored 24 points in the first quarter to take a 24-10 lead. And then the Rayders scored 26 more points in the second quarter to go up 50-19 at halftime.

The Rayder offense executed with amazing precision. The Rayders taller players were making sharp, precise cuts both vertically and horizontally in the lane. The instant they got open they received crisp passes in stride.

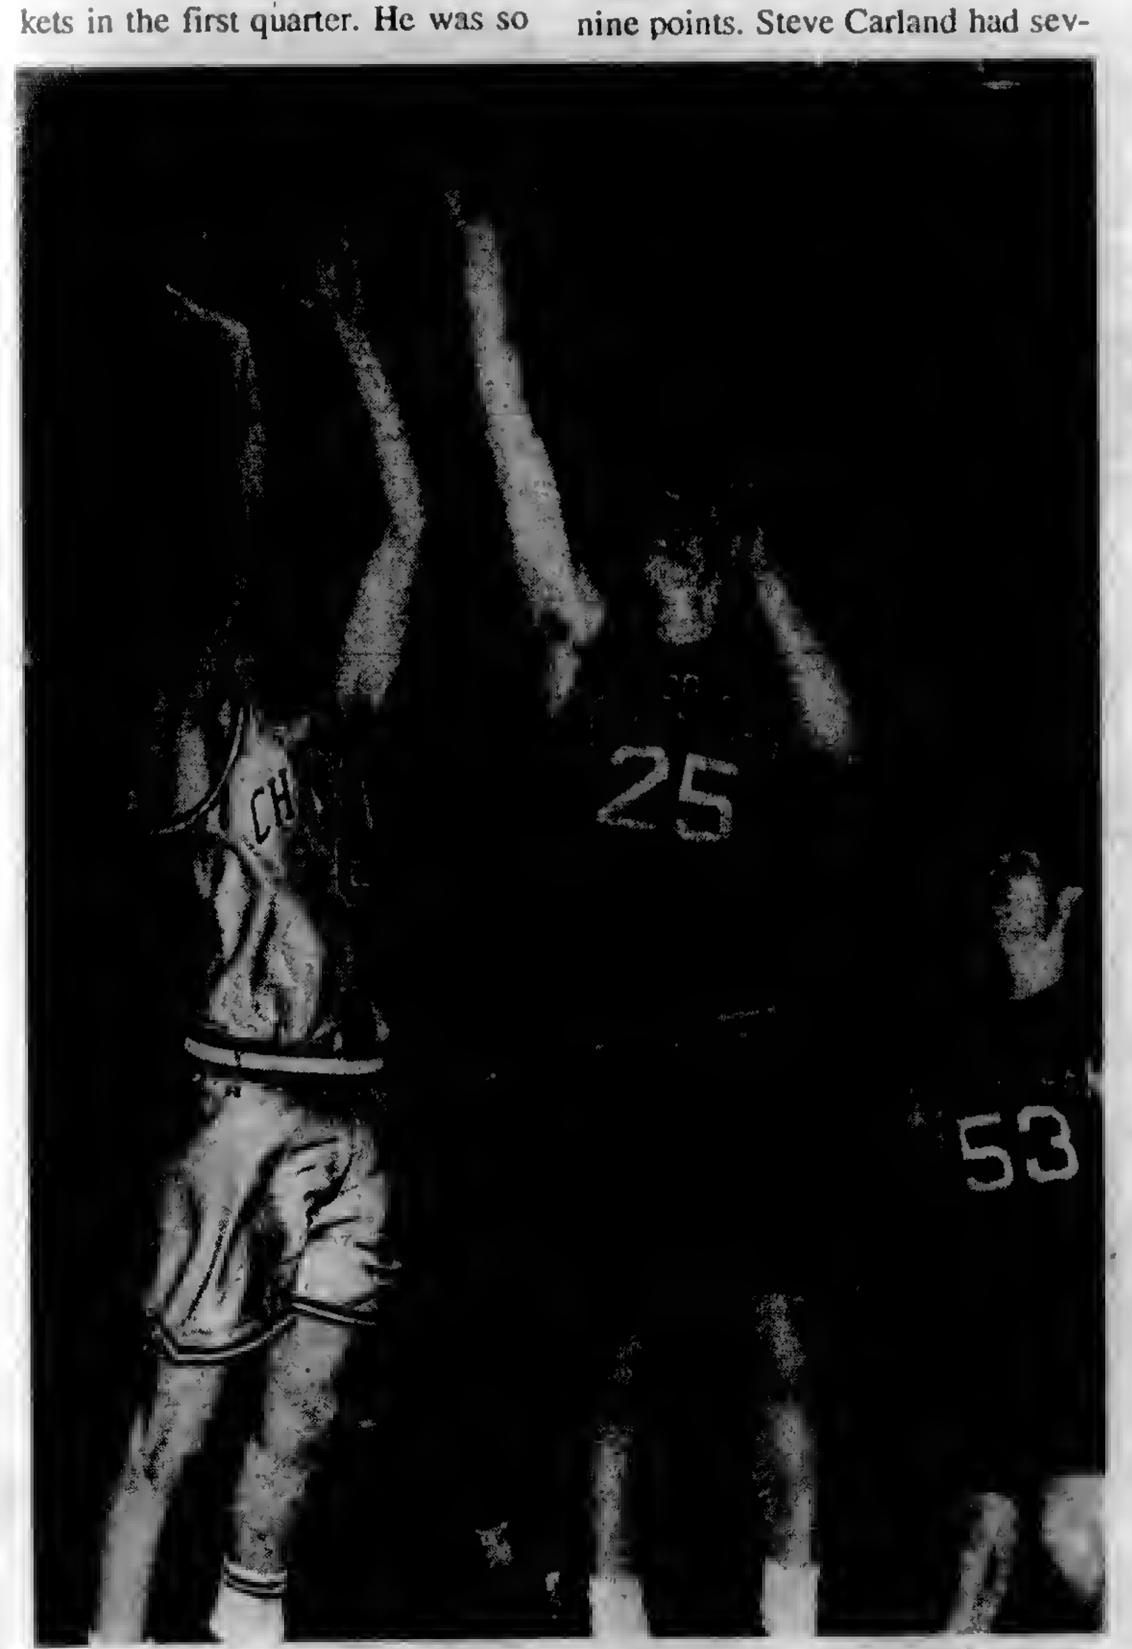
And the Rayders perimeter offense was just as impressive as what was going on in the paint. Senior Jason Smith was in a shooter's zone. He hit three three-point baskets in the first quarter. He was so hot, everybody else in the gym could have gone home and the windows still would have been steamed.

At the defensive end of the floor, junior guard Josh Miller was an ingracious host to the visiting Chiefs. He made a big pain of himself. Utilizing some nasty quick hands and showing absolutely no tolerance for being ignored, every time a Cheboygan player was in reach and glanced away, Miller quickly reached in and snatched the ball away.

Cheboygan rallied and got within 22 points, 57-35, by the end of the third quarter, but the game was never in doubt. Charlevoix was getting contributions from too many players for Cheboygan ever to make a serious threat.

Smith finished with 15 points. Ben Owens had a double-double with 11 points and 10 rebounds. Marc Jacobs, Josh Miller, David Manker and Mark Boss each had nine points. Steve Carland had seven assists.

The win left Charlevoix with a regular season of 5-15 entering the district tournaments this week at Boyne City.



Although not particularly tall for a forward, Marc Jacobs lurks around the basket and finds ways to score. He picked up nine points against Cheboygan Friday.

Middle school wrestlers bring home medals

The Charlevoix Middle School wrestling team competed in the 10-team Cheboygan Invitational Tournament this past Saturday winning 64 matches and losing 16.

First place wrestlers from Charlevoix were: Luke Whitley, Anthony Cesaro, Ben Speigl, Skipper Torres, Ryan Leitner, Tony Miller, Bret Probert, Joshua Christ and Spencer Bryan.

Second place wrestlers from Charlevoix were: Tyson Potter, Sean Dutcher, Chris Loper, Dawson Matter, Delos Lanterman, Jeff Golovich.

Third place finishers from Charlevoix were: Bo Moore and Nick Gotshal.

The Raiders beat the Bearcats 53-12. Beth Owens led the Raiders with 21 points while Jennifer McClellan added 14 and Tasha Morrison 10. Marcie Bennett led the Cats with eight points.

The Short Shaqs won by forfeit over Ladies First, dropping Ladies First into a three-way tie for first place with the Spartans and Monkeys.

The Maidens picked up their first win of the season in a double overtime thriller. The Maidens beat the Piggies 24-23 behind 11 points from Erica Kammermann. Stacy Skippergosh and Molly Arnold each scored eight points for the Piggies.

The Spartans defeated the Hoops Legends 38-6. Sarah Norton had 28 points for the Spartans. Kendra Willett led the Legends with four points.

The Monkeys beat the Lakers 39-9. Megan Vogel and Kari Miller each had 13 for the Monkeys. Melissa Mauer led the Lakers with three points.

Get out of the lane, George McClellan is about to make like Larry Johnson's Grandmama and do some driving. McClellan is shown taking the ball to the rim in the first quarter of Charlevoix's 78-54 thumping of Cheboygan.

Rayders win district volleyball title

Just to show that winning the conference tournament last week was no fluke, Charlevoix's varsity volleyhall team traveled to Elk Rapids this past Saturday and won the district volleyball tournament.

Right from the beginning, the district tournament was no cakewalk for the Rayders. The Rayders had to put in a full day's work just to get by Suttons Bay 15-13, 16-14 in the opening match.

In the semi-finals the Rayders rolled over East Jordan. Rayder senior Jenni Swenor went on a serving binge and East Jordan was dispatched 15-0, 15-3.

In the finals Charlevoix beat Elk Rapids 17-19, 15-10, 15-12.

On offense Liz Kelly led the Rayders with 11 kills on the day while Amanda Eaton had 10. Kelly and Eaton each only stand about 5'6". Kristin Czerkes had nine kills while Emily Murray added seven.

Swenor served 11 aces while sophomore Lyndsay Blechel had five and Jessa VanGuilder three. VanGuilder, Aprille Pischner, Eaton and Kelly were the Rayders top defenders.

The Rayders will play in the regional tournament at Inland Lakes Saturday, March 9. Other teams in the tournament will be Kingsley, Tawas and the winner of the Sanford-Meridian district.

Charlevoix's varsity volleyball team won the Class C District Tournament at Elk Rapids Charlevoix. The Rayders will play in regional competition Saturday at Inland Lakes. Little League sign-up begins this week

The Charlevoix Little League will host player sign-up for all boys or girls ages 8 to 15 interested in playing Little League Baseball. Player registration will be as follows:

Wednesday, March 6, 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., at the Charlevoix Elementary School; Tuesday, March 12, 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., at the Charlevoix High School; Saturday, March 16, 9 a.m. to 11 a.m., at the Charlevoix Elementary School.

Please bring a copy of a certified birth certificate that we can keep on file in the Little League office. Player's fees and fund raisers will be explained at sign up. Commitment to fund-raising and adult assistant programs can be made at that time.

Late sign-ups: Players who sign up late have a big impact on teams, equipment and uniform orders and league registration. Any player that signs up after the above dates will be required to pay a late registration fee. After April 12 no player registrations will be accepted.

Cassandra Ruby received a special hat with a "29" on it last week, honoring her Feb. 29, 1996 birthday. Cassandra was born at Charlevoix Area Hospital and received the hat from Hospital Guild members. There won't be a leap day in the year 2000 so Cassandra won't be celebrating her first birthday until the year 2004.

Wet and sloppy snow last week was the ideal consistency for some distance flinging by Charlevoix snow plows. In some places the snow was flying high into the air and off into the woods. This plow is shown traveling down Maple Grove Road. (Photo courtesy Toni Zellers)

Acacia makes emergency fuel trip to Beaver Island

The long, cold winter continues to take its toll. On Beaver Island, heating fuel supplies are running short and the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Acacia will be making an emergency fuel run to the Island March 6. The Acacia will deliver approximately 10,000 gallons of oil from the ship's tanks. Island suppliers will pick up the fuel in bulk trucks and reimhurse the Coast Guard.

Hauling fuel isn't a common mission for the ship these days, but in the past, when lighthouses and buoys required regular deliveries, it was a routine part of the ship's mission. The ship has a reel of hose on the bow and was designed for fuel delivery.

In recent weeks, Acacia has been docked at the Medusa Cement plant slip undergoing maintenance following the fall buoy run. It has not been in its normal slip downtown due to work on Bridge Park and the Memorial Bridge.

According to Lt. Cmdr. Steve Corporon, the Acacia's commanding officer, it will probably take most of the day Wednesday for the ship to make its way to Beaver Island. The ship may have to break ice which is as much as three feet thick in some places. Breaking ice is nothing new to the Acacia this winter. Following her fall buoy run, the Acacia spent several weeks in the St. Mary's River and in Escanaba breaking ice for commercial shipping.

In mid February, Beaver Island fuel distributors contacted Rep. Bart Stupak, D-Menominee, and told him that Island fuel supplies were in danger of being tapped out before the ice broke up in the spring.

Joseph Martin of Martin Gas and Oil noted that this year winter arrived early and has been long and cold. "The months of Novemher and December gave few opportunities for the safe delivery of fuel oil, which we rely on for the hulk of our heating needs," Martin said.

Stupak asked Rear Adm. Gerald Woolever, commander of the 9th Coast Guard District, for assistance from the Acacia. This past Friday, Woolever gave the Acacia the green light for the emergency fuel run.

School board to hear $26 million proposal

by Laurie Lounsbury

The information phase regarding a $26 million new school proposal is about to begin. At the March 18 school board meeting, the board will hear a recommendation from a task force committee about building two new schools in Charlevoix. The proposal has five components: a new high school; new middle school; remodeling to the elementary school; a new auditorium; and a new bus garage.

After the board hears the proposal, the questions and answers will start to fly. "We'll have an information phase for the next month and a half, which will include a random phone survey," said school superintendent Dr. Roberta Jackson. "Ultimately, it will be a community decision."

What the community needs to decide is whether or not they're willing to support the $26 million proposal, and whether or not everything in the proposal is needed.

The task force committee determined that both the middle school and the high school require such extensive remodeling that it would be more cost effective to build new buildings.

The proposed 5.15 millage needed to build the new facilities would cost homestead owners of a home with a market value of $120,000 about $309 a year for 20 years, for a total of $6,180.

The Charlevoix school district isn't the only district facing new millage proposals. Proposal A, passed by state voters in 1994, lowered homestead property taxes and raised sales taxes for school funding. Many school districts saw the reduction in property tax as an opportunity to pass millage proposals and fund building projects by raising property taxes back toward their former levels.

Just what are we looking at here? Is it steam, mist, or fog rising off Round Lake in last week's subzero temperatures? The vapors that appeared above Round Lake last Thursday morning defy definition, according to Webster's New Collegiate dictionary. Mist is condensation that falls from the sky. Steam is water vapor created by heating water. Fog is a cloud that hovers near the earth. None of these definitions seem to accurately fit the weather conditions that prevailed last week when temperatures dropped to five below zero. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

City board of review fields tax assessment complaints

by L. Scott Swanson

At least one downtown business owner is not happy about increased tax assessments and Monday morning she took her complaint to the board of review.

Susan LeButt, who owns the building housing Michelle's, spent approximately half an hour complaining to the board Monday morning and debating tax policy with assessor Tom Wolf.

LeButt recently received a notice of assessment increase informing her that the assessed value of her property is being increased by 10.5 percent. She maintains that since there have been few if any sales of property in the downtown area during 1995, that increase cannot be justified.

Wolf contended that regardless of if properties sell, or what properties sell, commercial market values don't remain stagnant.

LeButt asked Wolf what other sales he used to justify increasing downtown assessments. Wolf said the sale of the old theater building and the former Wharfside Market building. LeButt maintained that the Wharfside building was sold prior to 1995 and thus can't be used and that the theater building was an exchange of property, not a sale.

Wolf also noted that the Bridge Park property, which the city is acquiring, is across the street from LeButt's property and had been appraised at a high value. LeButt said that is a piece of municipal property rather than private commercial property and that the city has not yet purchased that property and in fact is pursuing alternative funding means due to the price.

Although LeButt's assessed value is increasing 10.5 percent, her tax bill will only increase by 2.8 percent due to being capped at the rate of inflation by the state. LeButt said that despite the cap, assessed value is not a moot figure. The bill still comes due when the property is sold and if assessed value increased at a value less than 2.8 percent, the tax increase would be less than 2.8 percent.

Wolf said to LeButt, "Is your property overvalued? That's what you've got to look at."

LeButt responded, "I claim that in our neighborhood nothing's selling. If you can't justify the increase, then it shouldn't go up 2.8 percent." She added that assessors can't increase property values based on a sale during the year the sale takes place and then increase property values again the following year based on the same sale.

Wolf said that one way or another, you've still got to tie taxes to the market.

LeButt said that right now properties in downtown Charlevoix are owned by either investors who don't need to get rid of them or by people who are working their own buildings. She said that for people who are working their own buildings, taxes are part of the picture of trying to survive and maintain a business in the downtown business district.

The board of review will consider LeButt's protest and issue her a written response later.

Not guilty plea entered in drug case

Henry Stubbs, 52, of Charlevoix, pleaded not guilty to two charges of selling drugs. His court appointed attorney, Mark Muniak, entered the not guilty pleas in circuit court last week. Stubbs is charged with one count of delivering less than 50 grams of cocaine, and one count of distributing an imitation of a controlled substance.

According to the police report, a confidential informant worked with the Straits Area Narcotics Enforcement (SANE) agency to buy cocaine from Stubbs. On December 29, 1995, the informant went to Stubbs' home and purchased a quarter ounce of what is alleged to be cocaine.

A month later, the same informant went to Stubbs' home to make another purchase. Stubbs wasn't at his home, but he allegedly left a note directing the informant to use the side door. From there, the informant allegedly found a note on the kitchen table directing to him to pick up his package in the bedroom. According to the police report, the informant left $700 in the bedroom and took one baggie believed to contain cocaine.

State Police crime lab reports confirmed that the first bag did contain cocaine. The second bag did not contain cocaine, but an imitation of a controlled substance.

Stubbs remains in custody at the Charlevoix County jail. The next hearing for the Stubbs' case is scheduled for March 22.

Ice brings Acacia to a halt

by Laurie Lounsbury

The Coast Guard Cutter Acacia was comfortably within sight of Charlevoix's lighthouse when it got stuck in Lake Michigan's ice. The Acacia was on its way back from Beaver Island, where it had made an emergency fuel delivery to the islanders.

The trip over to Beaver Island last Wednesday took the cutter more than ten hours, but went smoothly. On the return trip Thursday, the Acacia was four miles from home when it got stuck on rafted ice. The Acacia's commander Steve Corporon explained that rafted ice consists of large slabs of ice that stack up on top of one another from pressure. In this case, the rafted ice was stacked below the surface, so the ship's crew couldn't see the problem. "The ice was at least six feet thick where we got stuck," Corporon said.

Corporon said some people asked him why the ship didn't follow its tracks back home. "There was no path to follow. On the way over, the ice was closing right behind us. You could see it slamming shut about a hundred yards behind us," Corporon said.

Contributing factors to the Acacia's icebound dilemma were that the evening temperatures dipped below zero, making the ice even stiffer than it was on the outbound trip. Corporon said the Acacia was also 13,000 gallons of fuel lighter on the trip home. "It's like driving around on ice with nothing in the back of a pick-up truck," he said.

The Coast Guard Cutter Biscayne Bay came down from St. Ignace to break up the ice around the Acacia. The Biscayne Bay arrived at the Acacia around 2 p.m. The Acacia had been stuck in the ice since noon. By 11 p.m., the Acacia was freed and returned to the dock at Medusa.

Correction

A cutline which appeared in last week's Courier incorrectly reported that a baby born on Feb. 29, 1996 won't have a birthday until 2004 because there won't be a leap day in the year 2000. In reality, although there was no leap day in the years 1700, 1800 and 1900, there will be a leap year in the year 2000. Courier reader Ken Smith of Flint caught the error and sent in the explanation.

...school building plans

With districts all over the state jumping on the building bandwagon, the cost of building new schools rose with demand.

Charlevoix started with a more modest proposal two years ago. The school facilities committee recommended building a new middle school and renovating the high school and elementary school for $16 million, or $18 million if an auditorium is included. At the time, committee chairman Harry Golski told the board that the proposal was a dream list of everything needed to meet present and future needs. The architectural firm of Kingscott and Associates drew up extensive plans to accommodate the proposal. From 1992 through 1994, the school paid Kingscott and Associates $19,717.

At a public meeting held last June, some people asked about the possibility of building a new high school instead of a new middle school. "At that point, it made sense to process some more," Jackson said.

A task force committee started with three options, created two more options, then came up with a sixth option that includes the two new school buildings.

The original proposal for a new middle school is still floating around somewhere. "It wasn't scrapped. It was just not moved forward by the board," Jackson said.

While millage experts recommend that districts take an "all or nothing" approach with ballot proposals, the option exists for a component ballot proposal. A component proposal would allow taxpayers to pick and choose which of the projects they would support. "I hope that question (would voters prefer a component ballot proposal) will be on the random phone survey," Jackson said.

Editorial

School facility plans need a dose of reality

L. Scott Swanson

Monday, March 18 the Charlevoix school board will receive a recommendation from a citizen's task force to ask taxpayers for $26 million to build a new high school, middle school, auditorium, bus garage and renovation of the elementary school. The proposal (already referred to by some members of the community as the Deion Sanders proposal -as in "What'll it be, a new middle school or a new high school?" "Both.") is financially wasteful and has little if any chance of receiving voter approval.

Voters may approve funding for one new school, but it's difficult to believe they'll support building two. Rather than waste time and thousands of dollars pursuing a proposal that is dead on arrival, board members should muster the courage to cut short a trip down Fantasy Lane.

Why is this proposal doomed to failure? Take a look at how it developed.

There were two committees involved, a facility committee which met for approximately two years between 1992 and 1994 and recommended a proposal which would have cost $16 million or $18 million (depending on whether you included or excluded an auditorium), and a citizen's task force which met between three and five times oyer about a month and is recommending the $26 million proposal.

Compare and contrast how the two groups functioned.

The facility committee (which the writer of this editorial was a member of) began by reviewing an engineering structural study of all school buildings as well as enrollment projections and touring all three school buildings. The committee consulted with an architect, an engineer and school faculty and administrators to determine school facility needs and how best to address them. Some committee members also toured school buildings in other communities.

Among many questions, some key questions considered and debated at length by the facility committee were: Could the current middle school be renovated? In building a new school, should that school be a new middle school or a new high school? In building a new middle school, should it be 5-8 or 6-8? The facility committee recommended building a new 6-8 middle school, adding classrooms to the elementary school and remodeling the high school. Whether an auditorium should be included within a single ballot proposal or left as a separate ballot proposal was left for the board to decide.

The citizen's task force met between three and five times. Different people showed up at different meetings. They reviewed a limited amount of information. In fact, some task force members didn't receive copies of the initial committee's recommendation until a few moments before their next to last meeting. At their next to last meeting, the task force appeared ready to abandon the concept of a grade 5-8 middle school. At their final meeting, the task force reversed field and supported a 5-8 middle school ... as well as a new high school, auditorium, bus garage and elementary school renovations.

What happened? Why did the two groups come up with such different solutions?

To begin with, the second group, the task force, should not have been appointed until after the proposal from the first group was thoroughly explained to the public and received either approval or disapproval. That did not happen for a couple of reasons. The committee finished its work and made its recommendation about the same time a proposal for enhancement millage was rejected by voters. That failure at the polls had the school board gun-shy about discussing a new millage proposal. Later, when the facility proposal was presented to the board, there was some opposition from some corners of the community, particularly from people who preferred to build a new high school rather than a middle school. Some opposition and questions should have been anticipated. This is Charlevoix. We question everything.

School superintendent Dr. Roberta Jackson has maintained that the opposition to the initial proposal was widespread. From here, it appeared that opposition wasn't necessarily widespread, but a few people who were very vocal.

Whether the opposition was widespread or small, but vocal, it led Jackson to make a bad decision. Rather than staying with the initial proposal, answering questions or giving committee members an opportunity to answer questions and modify the proposal, she effectively turned her back on it. She recommended to the school board that a citizens task force be appointed to look at three possibilities: building a new 6-8 middle school; building a new 5-8 middle school; or building a new high school. She also stated that whatever the task force decided would be her recommendation. Jackson should have seen the potential for such a statement to put her in a bad position. School board members should have taken some time to analyze the potential pitfalls of that proposal, but they didn't. Jackson made, and school board members rubber stamped, a bad recommendation.

Among the most obvious pitfalls, Charlevoix is a politically contentious community by nature. Establishing a task force with three options created a prime atmosphere for people to choose up camps. The task force ended up being a cattle call for special interests. Many of the people who attended had their own sacred cow - for some it was a new high school, for some it was a new middle school, for others it was a new auditorium. Rather than make some difficult decisions about what are needs and what are wants, and what taxpayers can and cannot afford and what they will and will not support, the task force made no decision. For all intents and purposes, what they did was hold an impromptu pep rally and say, ok, we'll do it all. The task force lost sight of the larger question - how does the community of Charlevoix provide appropriate educational facilities without unduly burdening taxpayers? If the school board goes forward with this $26 million proposal and puts it on a ballot, taxpayers will not lose sight of that question.

Even before the proposal has come to the board of education, the school is beginning to trot out some shaky arguments in its support. One of the arguments is that the current high school is structurally unsound and has major problems. Facts do not justify that contention. According to the engineering report, the building has a couple of cracks in some walls due to settling, but all are repairable. The oldest part of the high school is only nine years older than the elementary school. Significant portions of the high school are newer still, having been constructed in about 1980. The architect who worked with the original committee, when pressed for his opinion, said the current high school, with some renovation, should be perfectly functional for the next several years.

Voters may be willing to fund one new school building, but they won't, and shouldn't have to, fund two new buildings. When the school board meets Monday evening, they should be prepared to recognize some financial realities and be willing to make some decisions to set the school's facility plans on a realistic course.

An objection to cigars

Editor,

I see by the last issue of the Courier, there will be a cigar dinner in Charlevoix next week. As a member of the Antrim-Charlevoix-Emmet Tobacco Reduction Coalition, I would like to challenge the restaurants of Charlevoix to promote some "SMOKE FREE" dinners.

Seventy-five percent of adults do not smoke. However, there are no restaurants in Charlevoix where you can enjoy a full course dinner without being subjected to second-hand smoke.

The coalition is working to decrease the use of tobacco products and to reduce health risks. As I've pointed out before, I hope anyone attending a Cigar Dinner considers the health risks of cigar smoking. Cigar smokers have overall cancer death rates 34 percent higher than nonsmokers. Their risk of dying from laryngeal, oral, or esophageal cancer is four to ten times greater than for nonsmokers. These statistics are from the American Medical Association, American Medical News, July 24, 1995.

Also ask yourself why are cigar dinners promoted. Tobacco retailers are looking for customers! Do you want to become addicted to tobacco? I assume the business sponsoring the dinner would like to see you as a regular user.

Instead of increasing our community's health risks by sponsoring cigar-dinners, let's unite together to decrease the use of tobacco products. Join the restaurants in Charlevoix that are presently smoke-free: The Acorn, Pizza Hut, and Subway.

I encourage everyone who is interested in smoke-free dining to let restaurants know. Any restaurants wishing to offer smoke-free dining, please contact the coalition at 547-6523 for assistance. Any other restaurant which is smoke-free that I did not list, contact the coalition so that we can update our list.

Editor's note: The following letters were submitted by students from teacher Kathy Gowell's sixth grade English class:

Editor,

The Middle School needs to be fixed. When someone shuffles the chairs on the top floor, the bottom floor hears it. There are also built-in lockers that don't work well, which cause people to be late. Some classes are cold. They should make it warmer in the classrooms. We should definitely get the school fixed.

Respectfully yours,
Jerry Zeitler

Editor,

I am a sixth grade student. I think we need a new school. Here are reasons why: The ceiling leaks. Another is you can see all the pipes. The boys' bathroom needs more toilets. Please help raise money for all this.

Respectfully yours,
Corey Wells

Editor,

I believe that the city of Charlevoix needs an indoor swimming pool. If we have to swim in the lakes we have to depend on the weather. If we only have the lakes to swim in we have to worry about: Will it rain? Is the water too cold? Will a storm come? With an indoor swimming pool we don't have to worry about that at all. People can learn to swim more easily and quickly.

With an indoor swimming pool life could be a little easier.

Yours truly,
Andrew Kunas

FAMILY

Stoneham - Thornton

Three hundred and fifty guests witnessed the double ring wedding ceremony of Kaye Stoneham and Robert W. Thornton. Father Don Shiroda of Sault Ste. Marie performed the services in the St. Francis Xavier Church in Petoskey, Oct. 7.

The bride is the daughter of Marla and Ron Stoneham of Charlevoix. The groom is the son of Frederick W. Thornton of Sarnia, Ontario, Canada, and the late Joan Thornton.

The groom's ring was from his grandfather, the late Dr. William Thornton.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a satin gown adorned with pearls, sequins, Alencon lace and embroidered lace heart appliques. The gown featured a sweetheart neckline, basque waistline, and bishop sleeves which came to a V at the finger tips. The back of the gown was highlighted by a bustle and bow which flowed into a cathedral length train edged in lace. The bride's finger tip veil was held by a crown of pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of stargazer lilies, white sweetheart roses and ivy.

The mother of the bride and the father of the groom lit a candle for each family, then the wedding couple used that flame to light the unity candle.

Organist was Wilmer Moyer, who played at the wedding of the bride's parents 30 years ago in the same church.

Matron of honor was Andrea McColl of Ohio. Bridesmaids were Lisa Herriman of Charlevoix, Dawn Beach of Alpena, and sisters of the groom, Tobi Blue of London, Ontario, Canada, and Katie Thornton of Sarnia, Ontario, Canada. They wore dark purple satin brocade pantsuits trimmed with black velvet. The suits were made by Mrs. Peter (Sharon) Spencley of Bay Shore and the groom's aunt, Mrs. Barry (Marilyn) McCormick of London, Ontario, Canada.

Flower girls were Marguerite and Loretta Gilewicz. They wore off-white tea length dresses with lace bodices and crinkle skirts, complemented by pink ballet slippers.

David Corey of Chicago, Ill., was the best man and read the Scripture. Groomsmen were Andrew McCarthy and Ryan Herman, both of Thunder Bay, Ontario, Canada, and Ron and Mike Stoneham, brothers of the groom, both of Charlevoix.

A reception, hosted by Marla and Ron Stoneham, was held at the V.F.W. Hall in Harbor Springs. Hostesses were Lisa Grose, cousin of the bride, and Julie Bickersteth, both of Charlevoix, and Jaymie Maguire of Connecticut. The table centerpieces were made by the groom's aunt, Mrs. Gary (Lee) Bond, of Toronto.

The rehearsal dinner, hosted by Rick Thornton, was held Oct. 6 at Victories in Petoskey.

The newlyweds spent their honeymoon in Cancun, Mexico.

The groom is employed by Trillis Software and Controls in Rochester Hills as a robotics application engineer.

The bride is also employed by Trillis as the accounts payable/human resources manager. They are both May 1995 graduates of Lake Superior State University.

Lieberman wins math competition

Tyler Lieberman of Charlevoix was the top individual finisher in the 1996 Regional Mathcounts Competition which took place Feb. 24 at Petoskey Middle School. Mathcounts is a match competition for seventh and eighth grade students.

Eighteen four-person teams from seven area schoolsparticipated in the regional team competition which was sponsored by the Mackinac Straits Chapter of the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers. The winning team was from Boyne City, the second place team from Petoskey and the third place team from Charlevoix. Members of the top team were Lieberman, Tiffany Fisher, Laurel English and Luke Whitley. They were coached by Kay Fiedorek. In addition to Lieberman's first place finish, Whitley placed sixth and English seventh in the individual competition.

Two other teams from Charlevoix also competed. Sally Beemon, Sabrina Wynkoop, Matt Horon and Nate Bartlett were coached by Tori Fisher. Joel Trubilowicz, Sonja Omland, Laura Schairbaum and Winter Kyvik were coached by Fiedorek.

The top two teams from Boyne City and Petoskey as well as Lieberman will advance to the State Mathcounts Competition March 16 at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo.

Robert Gilson Martin, M.D., 79, of Charlevoix, died March 11, 1996, at Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey.

Funeral will be 11 a.m. Thursday, March 14, at the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix. The Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum will officiate. Burial will take place in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Dr. Martin was born Nov. 17, 1916, in Niles, the son of Walter and Floye (Gilson) Martin. He graduated in 1939 from North Central College in Naperville, Ill. He then graduated from Wayne State University College of Medicine in 1943.

On July 10, 1940, Dr. Martin married Lucile J. Gustafson in Detroit.

He served in the U.S. Army Medical Corps during World War II.

Dr. Martin practiced medicine in Cheboygan for six years prior to moving to Charlevoix in 1954. He retired from practicing medicine in 1979.

Dr. Martin served as Charlevoix County Medical Examiner for several years, and was the medical director at Grandvue Medical Care Facility in East Jordan for a number of years. He was on the staff of Charlevoix Area Hospital and served as its chief of staff.

Dr. Martin was a member of the Northern Michigan Medical Society and served as its president for two terms.

He was a member of the Boyne City Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America. He also served on the Rainbow Shoppe Board of Directors in Charlevoix, and was assistant manager of the Charlevoix Community Food Pantry.

Dr. Martin was an active member of the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix, where he was active in the church choir and had served on nearly every church board over the years.

Survivors include his wife, Lucy, of Charlevoix; two daughters, Ann Sherwin and her husband, Maynard Sherwin, Ph.D., of Raleigh, N.C., and Elaine St. Laurent and her husband, John, of Naperville, Ill.; one son Paul Martin, of Raleigh, N.C.; five grandchildren, Cynthia Sherwin Gresham, Craig Sherwin, Monique St. Laurent, Caroline Martin, and Kristin Martin; and by one sister, Jeanne Gustafson and her husband, Roy, of Ypsilanti. Dr. Martin was preceded in death by a granddaughter, Adele St. Laurent.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix or to Charlevoix Area Hospital. Envelopes for memorials will be available at the church, where visitation will be held from 4-5:30 p.m. and 7:30-9 p.m. Wednesday, March 13.

Arrangements are being handled by the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Don Kowbel

Donald Stephen Kowbel, 54, of Bad Axe and formerly of Charlevoix, died Friday, March 8 in St. Mary's Medical Center after a brief illness.

Mr. Kowbel was born Aug. 3, 1941 in Ferndale to Stephen J. and Annajeanette (Leitch) Kowbel. He married Marilyn L. Kretzschmer, Jan. 15, 1966 in Owendale.

Mr. Kowbel worked as an auto parts salesman for many years. He and his wife were part of a core group which founded Calvary Baptist Church in Bad Axe, an extension of the First Baptist Church of Cass City. He served as a deacon with the church.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by: a son, Stephen Kowbel and his wife Stephanie of Britt, Iowa; a daughter, Stephanie Hawkins and her husband Gordon of Atlantic, Iowa; a brother, Garry Miller and his wife Barb of Charlevoix; sisters, Janice Leonard and her husband David of Marlette; Judie Steffen and her husband Donald of Overland Park, KS; Jackie Macdonald of Muskegon.

His funeral took place Monday, March 11 in the First Baptist Church in Cass City with Rev. Gerald Hopkins and Rev William Paton officiating. Internment will be in Elkland Township Cemetery.

Memorials may be made to Calvary Baptist Church in Bad Axe.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON
Charlevoix Community Church of God

The world lost a rare treasure over the weekend. George Burns passed away at the age of 100. Though there were some things about his life that shall we say intrigued me, you had to admire a man whose positive attitude and outlook on life touched so many hearts and made them smile. I loved it when nearly ten years ago he signed a contract to perform in the London Palladium on his hundredth birthday.

I love watching old films of he and his wife Gracie performing together. She would say the most "innocently weird" things and he would serve as the perfect foil for them all. For her to say, "Good night, Gracie," just because George told her to, "Say Good Night Gracie," well you knew your spirits had been lifted after watching the two of them work.

But what I will always remember him for happened in Connecticut a few years back. He was being awarded an honorary doctor's degree by a university and the reporters that thronged to the occasion asked him the secret of his success. "Do what you love and love what you're doing" was his reply.

Not very many of us are blessed with living a century. But if we can recognize the importance of the time we do have, the little bit of philosophy is worth holding onto with all our mights.

You could talk about the frustrations that many families feel of having to live from paycbeck to paycheck. You could talk about the number of divorces and single parent homes. There are any number of societal problems that might be listed. What about the simple joy that is there for each and every one of us if we will just live life?

If you know nothing else about the Bible, you have doubtless heard of John 3:16. Lots of grown ups learned that short little verse when they were kids. "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." May I suggest you look at that verse in a slightly different light? Where it says "world," insert your name. Where it says "whosoever," change it again by adding your name and realize the possibilities that sets before you.

God knows the struggles and discouragements you face far better than you might imagine. That's what makes John 3:16 such a priceless verse. That's also why He sent you His Son. He, better than anyone I have ever known, understands what George Burns meant about "doing what you love and love what you're doing." There is strength to turn your life around. There is healing to bring back the fun you need. There is insight that will restore your hopes. There's direction that will bring meaning to your dreams. I may miss the wit and wisdom of George Burns. But life without Christ, now He's someone none of us can do without!

YOUTH

Students prepare for life with computers

Talking computers, digital cameras, and the World Wide Web may all seem like gadgets from the latest Sci-Fi movie, but to students in Charlevoix's public schools these are valuable learning tools. Students from kindergarten through twelfth grade are using some of the latest technologies available. Everything from CD-ROMS for learning the ABCs to complex software for computer aided drafting and multimedia productions are available in the computer labs or classrooms. Students and staff use many of the most common business programs for Windows and Macintosh computers. A large selection of educational programs are used in a variety of subject areas to supplement learning. The computer labs in all three buildings are also used for adult education classes.

The global communications and information available on the Internet are invaluable resources for students and teachers. Future plans include expanding computer networks throughout each building and Interconnecting the buildings to form a wide area network. This network will be combined with a high speed connection to the Internet to provide all students with the tools necessary for success into the 21st century.

Fourth grader John Wilkinson is working with "Buster," a talking computer in the computer lab.

Shawn McDonough works on one of the middle school computers.

High school senior Jeff Boss is both the photographer and the photographee as he holds a digital camera.

CMS students work their way up

Charlevoix Middle School's computer program begins with keyboarding basics, progresses to word processing and eventually includes an in-depth spreadsheet unit manipulating data from the stock market.

Some middle school students use the school's Independent Learning System. This computer based program contains an entire K-12 curriculum which each student uses to work at his or her own pace.

Journalism students are using desktop publishing to produce the school's newspaper. In producing the paper, students learn word processing, graphic arts, editing and the use of computer scanners and digital cameras.

Hospital offers new credit card payment

Charlevoix Area Hospital is now providing another payment option for patients. CompleteCare is a national health care credit card specifically designed for self-pay balances.

Co-pays, deductibles and procedures not covered by insurance can be charged to CompleteCare by those unable to pay their balances in full. There are only three criteria for a patient to qualify for a $5,000 line of credit with CompleteCare — be at least 18 years of age, have a valid U.S. residence and Social Security number, and have some form of income. These criteria allow patients who normally cannot obtain a credit card to qualify for CompleteCare, and, in turn, help them establish a credit rating.

The CompleteCare credit line is reserved for health care related expenses only, and is accepted nationally by a wide range of health care providers. There is no annual fee or application fee for the card and virtually everyone is accepted for an account. Cardholders can establish or build or rebuild credit histories through the card.

CompleteCare applications are being offered to patients during the registration process and when an account balance is transferred to self pay. Anyone with questions regarding CompleteCare applications or qualifying for the card can contact DeeAnn Mathews at 547-4024.

Pool group reviews progress of past year

At its annual meeting Charlevoix Friends of the Pool learned that more than $1 million has been raised toward construction and operation of an indoor pool for the Charlevoix area.

The money is in the form of cash, pledges, land, in-kind services and bequests with about half available for construction and half toward operating expenses.

Treasurer Joanne Curtis presented the report in March at Alexander's Restaurant during the first annual meeting held since the organization was incorporated in the State of Michigan in 1995.

The 1995 tally of $1,016,357 includes a major pledge of $250,000 from Ellen and William Schuiling toward pool operating expenses over the next 10 years.

President David Strawbridge explained, however, that "although we received many generous gifts during the final months of 1995, we still need approximately $498,000 to complete our capital campaign."

Meanwhile the organization plans to continue construction with the help of a $250,000 loan from CB North and FMB Northwestern Banks. Longtime pool promoter Ralph Hamilton pitched the first shovel of dirt at last April's groundbreaking ceremony.

Highlights of 1995 included pool installation and pouring of footings last fall, 501(c)3 received in September, and transfer of funds held by Charlevoix County Community Foundation to CFOP.

Strawbridge was re-elected CFOP president. Also continuing to serve are Bruce MacArthur, vice-president; Curtis, treasurer; and David Smith, secretary.

Also re-elected were directors Mary Frame, Ralph McRae, David Wassenaar, Patty Sitzema, Joan Nelson, Steven Hansen, Dennis VanGuilder, Earl Kilander, Dan Spagnuolo and Patt DeYoung.

For you who have been wondering what's going on over the edge of the bank in Bridge Park, here's a bird's eye view. Despite a lack of cooperation from the weather, progress has been steady. The DDA recently made some design modifications which won't affect the structure, but will change the color scheme of the building front. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

Names in business

A collection of awards, accomplishments and milestones in the careers of Charlevoix area business people.

Lani and John Ochs, pharmacists with Central Drug Store and Charlevoix Commons Apothecary in Charlevoix, were among more than 1,600 people attending the 1996 Michigan Pharmacists Association Annual Convention and Exposition, Feb. 23-25 at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn.

More than 70 programs were offered during the three-day convention allowing participants to learn more about topics such as patient counseling techniques, new drug therapies, innovative treatments and disease states.

John Ochs serves on the executive board of the Michigan Pharmacists Association.

Tim Matchett, of Charlevoix, represented the Charlevoix County Farm Bureau at the 1996 Michigan Farm Bureau Council of Presidents' Conference, Feb. 13-14 at the Radisson Hotel in Lansing.

The two-day conference was highlighted by Congressman Dick Chrysler's (R-Brighton) comments regarding the 1995 farm bill and its status in the U.S. House of Representatives. Other speakers covered topics including global positioning systems (GPS) in agriculture, Farm Bureau member involvement, and outstanding county Farm Bureau projects.

Volleyball team loses at regionals

Charlevoix's postseason volleyball run came to an end in the regional opener Saturday. The Rayders traveled to Indian River and were beaten by Coleman 15-10, 15-6.

Charlevoix played fairly well, but Coleman was an exceptionally quick and strong defensive team. Charlevoix had Coleman scrambling several times during long rallies, but they recovered and ended up getting points from the Rayders.

Charlevoix clearly missed senior hitter Theresa Johnson. Johnson, at 5'9" was the Rayders best power hitter prior to injuring her wrist two weeks ago. Without Johnson, the Rayders are more of a finesse team and Coleman was too quick to be finessed.

Top setter for the Rayders was Jenni Swenor. Top servers were Jessa VanGuilder and Swenor. Leading defenders were Aprille Pischner, Amanda Eaton and VanGuilder. Leading the offense were Liz Kelly with four kills and Emily Murray and Kristin Czerkes with three apiece.

The Rayders finished the season with a record of 21-7-8. They will lose five seniors to graduation: Swenor, Kelly, Czerkes, Pischner and Johnson.

Steelers win tournament thriller

The Steelers, coached by Terry Left, won the elementary division tournament of the Charlevoix Recreation Department girls' basketball program Saturday. The tournament was sponsored by the Charlevoix Lions Club.

The Steelers went 3-0 on the day and remained undefeated on the season: In the final game, the Steelers trailed the Gargoyles 27-26 with eight seconds left. Jamie Left was fouled and sank two free throws for the win. The Gargoyles, coached by Kraag Lieberman, went 2-1 on the day and finished with a 6-5 record.

Jamie Left led the Steelers with 13 points while Ashley Ager had 11. Katie Lieberman had 11 points for the Gargoyles while Kelly Zimmerman added eight and Rachel Bellairs six.

In the playoff game for third place, the Bulls, coached by Larry Skippergosh, won in the closing seconds 28-24 over the Wildthings, coached by Bernie Ward. Natasha Kleiber led the Bulls with 18 points while Kristy Skippergosh added eight. Kelly Ward had 20 points for the Wildthings.

In the fifth and sixth place game, the Sonics, coached by Jim Potter, beat the Wildcats, coached by Mandy Barrett, Ann Marie Terryberry and Lyndsey Blechel, 28-16. Lauren Silberhorn led the Sonics with 15 points while Alyssia McDonough added six. Danielle Flowers led the Wildcats with eight points.

In the seventh place game, the Hoopsters, coached by Hagen Manker, defeated the Rockets, coached by Dan Ulrich and Angela Schmidt, 24-13. Jessica Kelly had eight points and Shayna Drost and Jackie Mailloux six apiece for the Hoopsters. Elizabeth Ulrich had seven points for the Rockets.

In Most Valuable Player balloting by the coaches, Silberhorn and Ward were selected co-MVPs. Others receiving votes and named to the tournament All Star team were: Zimmerman, Klieber, Katie Bradley, Lieberman, Flowers, Ulrich, Left, Krystal Meredith, Skippergosh, Megan Arnold and Ager.

Middle school game to be on radio broadcast

The finals of the Charlevoix Recreation Girls' Basketball 6, 7 & 8 grade tournament will be on the WMKT 1270 AM radio station Saturday evening at 7 p.m. The game will be played at the Charlevoix Middle School gym.

Charlevoix's boys' varsity basketball team concluded its season in the opening game of district play with a 63-52 loss to Harbor Springs. The Rayders fell behind by 16 points in the first half, but rallied to within three points at half time and were close through most of the second half. However, the Rayders never got over the hump and into the lead.

Charlevoix started the game dismally, finishing the first quarter trailing 18-4.

In the second quarter, Charlevoix's offense caught fire and smoked Harbor Springs for 25 points. The half ended with Charlevoix down three, 32-29. Charlevoix also had Harbor Springs two best players, Mike Tippett and James Hacker in foul trouble, each with three.

In the second half Tippett, who had 20 first half points, picked up his fourth foul and spent several minutes on the bench. The Rayders were unable to get Hacker in additional foul trouble.

The Rayders kept the game close, trailing 46-41 entering the final quarter and 54-51 with just over two minutes left in the game. But in the final two minutes, the Rayders didn't hit their shots and the Rams did. Simple enough.

Josh Miller led the Rayders in scoring with 13 points while Steve Carland added 10.

The Rams beat the Mancelona Ironmen Thursday and lost to the host Boyne City Ramblers 97-88 in Saturday evening's district finals.

For Charlevoix, the loss in the district opener brought to an end a 5-16 season. The Rayders lose four seniors to graduation. They are George McClellan, Mark Boss, Jason Smith and Matt Mosoryak.

Haggard places sixth at state tournament

Ron Haggard of Charlevoix competed in the 160 pound division of the state finals wrestling tournament this past weekend and placed sixth. The tournament was hosted by Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo.

Haggard had kind of a strange weekend. He wrestled twice Friday evening and won both matches, pinning his first opponent in 3:53 and his second opponent in 3:51.

Wrestling in the semi finals Saturday, he lost his first match to Ricky Silvis from Allendale on a 7-5 decision. Silvis went on to win the state championship. Earlier this month at regionals, Haggard pinned Silvis.

In his second match Saturday, Haggard lost a 12-5 decision to the wrestler who ended up taking third place at the state meet. In his final match, Haggard was leading 2-0 and made a mistake and ended up getting pinned for the first time this season.

Haggard finished his high school wrestling as one of only a handful of Rayder wrestlers to accumulate more than 100 wins. Haggard's high school record was 104-37.

Charlevoix hosts middle school wrestlers

More than 350 middle school wrestlers from 14 schools will be in Charlevoix this Saturday to compete in a wrestling tournament being sponsored by Biceps Health Center. The Charlevoix Middle School wrestling tournament is the largest in northern Michigan and is in its fourteenth year. Matches will begin at 10 a.m. with finals taking place around 3:30 p.m.

Anyone interested in lending a hand is asked to contact Greg Bryan at 548-9980.

Cribbage match concludes

Despite a last ditch rally on the final evening, the Masons fell short in the 1996 cribbage tournament and will be cooking dinner March 14. Each winter for more than six decades members of the Charlevoix Masons and Odd Fellows have competed against each other in a winter cribbage tournament. The tournament is played one night a week for 10 weeks. The team that loses cooks at a dinner following the tournament.

On the final night of play, March 7, in the 1996 tournament, the Masons picked up 123 points on the Odd Fellows, but still ended up losing by 186. On the evening, William Bergmann led the Odd Fellows with 123 points while Rod Trimble and Ted Pennel tied for top Mason honors, each with 901 points.

The post tournament dinner will be at 6:30 p.m., March 14 at the Masonic Temple.

DDA rescinds decision, will go with low bid

At a March 6 special meeting the Downtown Development Authority board rescinded a previous decision and voted to award a $1.5 million loan contract to Standard Federal Savings. The loan will be part of the financing for the Bridge Park project.

At a Feb. 28 meeting, the DDA had voted to award the bid to CB North even though the CB North interest bid had been 5.13 percent as compared to Standard Federal's bid of 5.1 percent. By the time some other costs were figured in, the CB North proposal would have cost between $7,000 and $10,000 more over 15 years. The DDA board's rationale for favoring the more costly bid was that CB North has two buildings within the DDA district and consequently pays a higher tax rate.

In order for the bid to be accepted, it also had to be approved by the city council. At their March 4 meeting city council members objected to the DDA's acceptance of the higher bid and voted to support acceptance of the lower bid.

March 6, after rescinding their earlier motion the DDA voted to accept the Standard Federal bid.

Girl Scouts raising money for camp

Coins for Camp is an opportunity for the local community to support Camp Charlevoix. From March 7-19, canisters marked "Coins for Camp" will be placed in several area businesses throughout Charlevoix and Emmet Counties. Donations collected will be used specifically at Camp Charlevoix.

Camp Charlevoix, located two miles from downtown Charlevoix, is 23 acres of wooded land with a stream running across it. It is the sight of many Girl Scout events throughout the year including day and over night activities. Jeanne Eaton, a member of Girl Scouts for nearly thirty years, sees increased activity at the camp every year. "The facilities are not only used by Girl Scouts in Charlevoix, but are used by all the Girl Scouts in the northern part of the Council area." Eaton said. "This includes Girl Scouts from Harbor Springs, Boyne City, Bellaire, East Jordan, and Petoskey."

Girl Scouts can find most of their basic needs met at Camp Charlevoix. Lake Michigan is a one mile hike from Camp. Fire rings, latrines, tents, tarps, pie irons, etc. are readily available for any troop to use. There are acres of trails and an over abundance of wildlife.

The camp area was originally donated in the mid 1960s. Later the small house adjacent to the property was purchased. Throughout the years improvements had been made at the camp. The current troop house was a building from the old airport that was donated and moved to camp. A new pavilion was recently built and electricity run into camp. The next improvement slated for Camp Charlevoix is construction of a larger troop house. The Committee for Capital Campaign is currently being formed. Watch Camp Charlevoix for exciting things happening in the near future.

School debates O.M. funding

by Laurie Lounsbury

Charlevoix's Odyssey of the Mind teams will move ahead to the state finals, held in Mt. Pleasant, in April. They will take with them the emotional support of the schools and community. What they won't take with them, according to two OM coaches, is adequate financial support from the school district.

Coaches Tori Fisher and Virginia Schairbaum went before the school board March 4 asking for additional funding for the OM trip to Mt. Pleasant.

The board approved spending $2,535 on the trip to the state competition. That amount covers transportation in three school vans and 12 hotel rooms for 27 people. The rooms cost $130 per night, for a total of $1,560. Meals are also included, at $25 a day per person, for a total of $675. The actual number of people being provided room and board is greater than the number presented to the board, since several spouses are going along on the trip as chaperones. The student to chaperone ratio will be 3 to one.

Fisher and Schairbaum asked the board to spend an additional $1,641 for an extra night's stay and breakfast the following morning. "You're going to have tired parents driving kids home at one in the morning if we don't stay overnight," Fisher said.

The OM coaches booked hotel rooms at the Holiday Inn and the Comfort Inn in Mt. Pleasant. The two hotels are the most expensive in Mt. Pleasant, with rooms at the Holiday Inn costing $115 for a two person in a room and $135 for a four person room. The Comfort Inn charges $99.50 for a four person room. Both the Comfort Inn and the Holiday Inn offer an indoor pool, a game room, and free HBO. Fisher said it's easier to entertain and amuse the children if they stay in hotels with indoor pools and game rooms.

Other hotels in Mt. Pleasant offered rates ranging from $54 at the Super Eight to $72 at the Best Western.

Board member Larry Levengood suggested that the teams travel on a school bus so parents won't have to drive home late at night. "If safety is the issue, then you should be traveling by bus," he said.

"I won't go on a bus," Fisher said. "I want to make sure my kids and my props are in the right place at the right time."

Fisher also asked the board to consider paying coaches for OM. "Parents aren't empowered because we don't have a paid person... Our (OM) children should not be left behind financially just because OM is not part of the collective bargaining process," Fisher said.

Board member Sulane Hamilton disagreed with Fisher's connection of paid coaches to OM funding. "I don't think your request would carry more weight if you were a paid coach."

Board member Mary Lee Campbell pointed out that many school extracurricular activities are privately funded through team boosters and fundraising activities. "Perhaps it's time for OM to start fundraising to plan for future years," Campbell said.

The board recommended that superintendent Roberta Jackson look into the availability of extra funds for the OM trip.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The City of Charlevoix City Council will hold a public hearing on Monday, April 1, 1996 at 7:00 p.m. at City Hall, 210 State Street, Charlevoix, MI to discuss a proposed amendment to Chapter 51, Zoning and Planning of the City Code, Section 5.35, Round Lake Height Restrictions. The ordinance is as follows:

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE CODE OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX BY AMENDING SECTION 5.35 OF CHAPTER 51 OF TITLE V OF SAID CODE.

WHEREAS the City of Charlevoix with concurrence of its planning commission makes the following findings:

A. It is the policy of this City to balance the often competing interests of the business community, residential uses and natural resource preservation as it regulates uses which impact on Round Lake as well as views to and from Round Lake. As used in this preamble, "Round Lake" means the lake, itself, and property which can be used to view the lake as well as property which can be viewed from the lake.

B. Round Lake is a natural resource which enhances the economic viability of the community and also leads to community pride. Round Lake has been and is a cornerstone or focal point of the City's recreational and commercial life..

C. Charlevoix is a seasonal, resort-oriented community. In the summer its population doubles and occasionally triples. Round Lake is crucial to the City's resort image as "Charlevoix the Beautiful." Round Lake also attracts transient boat traffic from the Great Lakes. Charlevoix, and the Round Lake area in particular, is a prime location for second homes of summer residents. These summer residents often retire to the City.

D. The City desires to protect the view from the lake, itself, to the surrounding bluffs and existing structures and also protect a view of Round Lake from the surrounding bluffs and existing residential structures, the downtown waterfront commercial district and city parks which abut Round Lake. It is the legislative policy of the City to begin preserving these views which have historically existed and which currently exist to and from Round Lake as well as along the waterfront of Round Lake.

E. The following zoning ordinance amendment is a legislative decision to provide a reasonable height to residential structures while taking the initial steps to preserve the character of Round Lake and the views to, from and along Round Lake. This ordinance cannot, by itself meet all of its goals. However, the ordinance is designed to begin the process by setting reasonable height restrictions on that portion of the R-1 district which abuts Round Lake.

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

1) That Section 5.35, R-1 District, of the City's Zoning Ordinance (Chapter 51 of the City Code) be amended by deleting the current language and adding new language as follows:

5.35 ROUND LAKE HEIGHT RESTRICTIONS

Structures in the R-1 District on lots having frontage on Round Lake, any part of which is located lakeward of the 602 N.V.G.D. contour as it existed at the adoption date of this amendment, shall have no portion of the structure which exceeds the elevation 625 N.V.G.D. The maximum building area measured in an elevational view constructed at and parallel to the lake shore line, between the lot lines and the elevations 620 N.V.G.D. and 625 N.V.G.D., shall not exceed twenty percent (20%) of the total area within such elevational view.

A copy of the proposed ordinance is available for review at the City Manager's Office, 210 State Street, Charlevoix, MI 49720. Written comments may be sent to the City Manager's Office, 210 State Street, Charlevoix, MI or may be presented at the City Council meeting.

School board hears $26 million proposal

by Laurie Lounsbury

The school board played to a packed house at their Monday night meeting. More than 60 people attended the meeting to hear the board's recommendation on a $26 million school building project.

But the large group gathered was noticeably quiet when the school board listened to the task force recommendation to build two new schools, a new auditorium, a new bus garage, and make renovations to the elementary school. The group was even quieter when the board voted unanimously to support the initial planning phase of the $26 million project. "Tonight you've seen a recommendation from the community. There will be more opportunity for input from the community along the way," superintendent Dr. Roberta Jackson said.

Board member Allen Telgenhof was concerned about the wording of the board's motion, and attempted to clarify the board's action the day after the meeting. "This is not the board's plan. This is the task force committee plan. The board is supporting going forward with the project, but until we've heard from the community, we won't have a specific plan," Telgenhof said.

Somewhere between the time the initial agenda was drafted and Monday's meeting when the motion was adopted, the wording was changed.

Sheriff George Lasater (center, back to camera) coordinated a search of a wooded area near US-31 and Burgess Road last Thursday. A plane had been reported flying low and having problems. A resident of the area reported hearing a crashing noise. A ground and air search of the area found nothing and no planes have been reported missing. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

Charter school receives Saginaw Valley support

by Laurie Lounsbury

Charlevoix's first charter school will open with authorization from Saginaw Valley State University.

The school, called Northwest Academy, will open in September and will educate middle and high school age students. Academy board members are expecting about 50 students to attend in the first school year. The ratio of students to teachers will be kept at or below 15 to one.

The curriculum will emphasize science, mathematics, and technology, but will also include English, social studies, and the arts.

The school's location will be in the former Bartlett's furniture store on Hurlbut Street.

What still isn't known about the school is how they will provide extracurricular activities to its students. "It doesn't make sense for us to develop a lot of programs when we could potentially share," said Gerry Chase, a charter school board member.

Chase is hoping to develop an arrangement with the existing public schools that would allow charter school students to take classes like band or performing arts at the other schools. The charter school has set aside funds to pay for that sort of sharing of classes. "I don't see this as being a divisive issue with the schools," Chase said.

Low flying plane prompts search which turns up nothing

by L. Scott Swanson

A search of a wooded area near the intersection of Burgess Road and US 31 turned up no sign of an airplane that was seen flying low Thursday afternoon.

Shortly after 1 p.m. an employee of the Big Rock power plant reported seeing a small twin engine aircraft flying low and apparently having some type of difficulty. Sheriff's officers checked with other people in the area and one of the other people reported hearing a sound similar to a crash at approximately the same time the low-flying plane was reported.

Sheriff George Lasater coordinated a search which involved the Charlevoix Township Fire Department, Charlevoix City Fire Department, Island Airways, three snowmobiles, a U.S. Coast Guard helicopter, private planes and volunteers.

Approximately 25 people fanned out along an old railroad bed and conducted a foot search of the swamp between Burgess Road and the highway. As searchers on the ground slogged through soft snow and chilling water which was more than knee-deep in places, search planes and the helicopter criss crossed overhead, just above the tree line.

The search turned up no sign of a plane crash and has been suspended until additional information is received or a missing airplane is reported.

$300,000 grant awarded to repave Beaver Island road

by Laurie Lounsbury

Seeing is believing. Just ask the Michigan Transportation Commissioners. They saw a dusty, washerboard rutted road that passes for a highway on Beaver Island. Then they believed something had to be done. To that end, the transportation commission granted $300,000 in funds for resurfacing King's Highway.

It's been a long six years since King's Highway was torn up by the Charlevoix Road Commission. The four mile stretch of highway, which was originally a blacktop road, was torn up with the intention of resurfacing it. The road commission rebuilt the road up to the point of a gravel surface, then stopped. The road commission said gravel was good. The islanders disagreed.

A lawsuit between the islanders and the road commission ensued. In the end, the islanders lost their suit, but all parties agreed to put the suit behind them and work together to get King's Highway resurfaced.

Help finally came from an islander who knew what ropes to pull in Lansing. Bob Welke, a native of Beaver Island, was deputy director of MDOT last year when he asked the transportation commissioners to go take a look at Beaver Island's main highway. The transportation commissioners agreed to the trip. "Their meeting on Beaver Island gave them a very clear picture of what was going on here," said islander Billy McDonough. Welke has since been promoted to Director of MDOT. "Bob was instrumental in getting us help," McDonough said.

The transportation grant specifically says that the money will be used to put a double sealcoat and prime finish on the four miles of gravel surface. That leaves a remaining mile of King's Highway that is the original black topped surface. The road is horribly pitted with pot holes and patches.

County commissioner and island native Richie Gillespie is hoping the county road commission will take up where the state grant leaves off. "The road commission said they are making King's Highway a high priority item. I'm hoping that the road commission will put some money in to help the project along," Gillespie said.

Gillespie may be disappointed. After an unusually harsh winter, the road commission has depleted their funds in a hurry. "This winter took a big bite out of our budget," reported Fred Welch, road manager. "We're 40 percent over budget already, so money for new construction may be limited."

County wants to keep road commissions

by Laurie Lounsbury

Charlevoix County Commissioners have decided that a flawed road commission is better than no road commission at all. At their last meeting, county commissioners voted to oppose a state senator's plans to disband road commissions. State Senator Phil Hoffman has prepared four bills that would affect the way the state handles road funding and building.

The first bill would eliminate the state transportation commission. This is the board that oversees the Michigan Department Of Transportation and sets policy.

The next bill would repeal Act 51 of 1951 which governs the distribution of road funds. This would take the money business out of the office of management of budget and put it in the hands of the legislature.

The third bill would allow county commissions to take over the duties of the road commission.

And the last bill would give counties the option of levying their own gas tax.

County commissioner Richie Gillespie was opposed to the four bills. "I don't disagree that the road commission needs some tuning up, but throwing the baby out with the bath water isn't the best course of action," Gillespie said.

...$26 million school proposal

On the original school board agenda, the motion to be adopted read, "that the Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education support the 'vision' of the citizen task force for the initial planning phase, remodel the elementary, build a new high school, middle school, auditorium and bus garage."

The motion which was adopted was changed to read, "that the Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education support the initial planning phase of the facilities project including the hiring of an architect, presentation to the community of the citizens task force recommendation, conducting of a community survey."

Without comments or questions coming from the board or audience, the board went into the work session of the meeting.

The board's next steps will be to hire an architect, educate the community about the project, and conduct a random phone survey for community input.

The board is considering hiring Epic MRA, a survey group from Lansing, to do the phone polling. "If you want a first class, quality job, these people will do it," said board member Allen Telgenhof. "Hopefully, we're going to do this one time and pass whatever's on the ballot, so it's money well spent to do it right," he added.

Board member Larry Levengood wanted to start the phone survey as soon as possible, but board member Sulane Hamilton cautioned against that. "There needs to be a whole lot of dialogue on this issue before we get opinions on this issue. As we educate people and have dialogue with the community, it might help determine what questions we want on that survey," Hamilton said.

"I think what we want is an accurate, truthful survey," Levengood said.

Jackson will look at a cost comparison of two different survey companies.

The board narrowed the field on their choice of architects by one, leaving Kingscott and Associates of Kalamazoo and the Beta Design Group of Grand Rapids as the two architects being considered.

...charter school moves forward

It's unclear if charter students would be permitted to play sports at a different public school. The Michigan Athletic Association says that a student must be enrolled at the school where they play sports.

If that's the case, then Northwest Academy may form their own athletic league with other small schools like Beaver Island, Mackinac Island, Grand Marais, and Hannaville, a charter school in the Upper Peninsula.

All of this is news to Charlevoix School Superintendent Dr. Roberta Jackson. "I've had no contact from the charter school, no requests or official communication from them," Jackson said, adding, "I'm sure our intent would be to be cooperative."

Foster parents honored

The Charlevoix County Department of Social Service staff and social Services Board recently honored the following foster parents; Sandra and Lawrence Bergmann; Kathy and Ken Bradley; Deborah and Paul Gelderblom; and Dawn and Dave Saward.

A recognition dinner was held Feb. 15 at the Grey Gables Inn in Charlevoix. Troupe Teen Theater provided an educational skit on cultural diversity and Aids awareness. Dr. Andrew Sahara, clinical supervisor at Community Mental Health spoke about challenges that confront foster parents in the nineties.

The Ironton School will host an anniversary party for the Head Start program March 22. Head Start has been in existence for 30 years.

Head Start celebrates anniversary

Children in Charlevoix County have benefited from Ironton's Head Start program for eight years. President Lyndon B. Johnson initiated the Head Start program nationally 30 years ago.

Families, friends and professionals are invited to attend an anniversary party Friday, March 22 from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. at the Ironton Head Start Center located at 10566 Ferry Rd., Ironton. Refreshments will be served and a video depicting the developmental programs Head Start offers will be shown. Staff will be available to answer any questions about the program.

Ironton Head Start has 32 children enrolled in the program serving Charlevoix and East Jordan.

It's been a bad winter for roads

by Laurie Lounsbury

It's as if hoards of little hard-hatted, jackhammer wielding gophers attacked Charlevoix roads from the underside. Eruptions of blacktop and gravel can be seen everywhere. On a good - or bad - day you can actually watch the road upheave and crumble.

It is not the work of malicious little gophers. It's the invisible culprit, frost, that did it.

This winter's temperatures were unusually harsh on roads. It got really, really cold in January. Then it got really, really warm, up to 50 degrees, in the same month. Then it got really cold again, down to 25 degrees below zero.

One of Charlevoix's best programs

Following the finals of this weekend's middle school basketball tournament, Nancy and Rick Grunch were honored for their efforts in founding and running the league during the past six years.

One of the finest programs in Charlevoix enjoyed one of its nicest moments Saturday evening. Following the final game of the Charlevoix Lions Club postseason tournament in the Charlevoix Recreation Girls' basketball program, Rick and Nancy Grunch were honored for their work in founding and running the program during the past six years.

If you haven't taken a little time on a Saturday and visited the Charlevoix Middle School gym at sometime during the past six winters, you've really missed something. At face value, what you have is a 12-week basketball program involving about 180 young ladies between the fourth and eighth grades. The fourth and fifth grade girls play in one division while the sixth, seventh and eighth graders play in another division. Coaches, officials and time keepers are all volunteers.

When you go beyond face value, you find much more. You find young ladies at an age which has its challenges, burning energy and building self confidence while their parents look on with pride from the old middle school balcony. You find volunteers investing some time to make the community a better place both now and in the future.

Approximately seven years ago, Rick and Nancy Grunch returned to their hometown of Charlevoix with their family after spending several years in Idaho. In Idaho, they and their children had been involved with a recreational basketball program. Rick was disappointed to find that Charlevoix didn't have a similar program so he started one. That may sound simple, but there's been a lot of work involved: meetings, paperwork, recruiting coaches, referees and scorekeepers, cleaning the gym after games...lots of stuff. All of that in addition to spending 12 Saturdays a year in the gym from 8 a.m. until about 6:30 p.m. It's been a big job, but the program has been a big success.

Next year the program is going to be run by a board. Although Rick will still be involved, next year the Grunchs' daughter, Liz, is going to be playing college basketball and Rick and Nancy would like to be able to attend some of her games. Approximately three weeks ago Rick sent letters to coaches and parents asking them to attend a meeting to establish a board of directors. Between 25 and 30 people showed up and a board was elected. Since that time, dozens of other people who couldn't attend the meeting for one reason or another have also offered to help in any way they can. It's just been an incredible example of people stepping forward and volunteering to assist with something that they feel is good for their children and their community.

Charlevoix is a community with a lot of things going for it. We have beautiful lakes, a good employment situation and a strong tax base. But more important than all of these things is that we have good people. People who are willing to initiate a program and people who are willing to invest some time to see that a program which benefits our young people continues.

EDITH

by EDITH GILBERT

Legend has it that in 1987 Neptune, Lord of All Waters, appeared in a dream to the President of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Bruce MacArthur. "What Charlevoix needs is a man-made pond," Neptune said. "Here children will learn to swim. The halt and the lame will be able to exercise and suffer no more, and it will bring joy to everyone, young and old."

Skeptically, Bruce said to Neptune "A man-made pond costs a lot of silver. Who is going to pay for it?" to which Neptune replied, "Build it and they will come."

And so it came to pass that an election was held and on the ballot the populace was asked, "Do you want to pay taxes for a man-made pond?" And the populace noted "No."

And then the school board was approached, "Do you want to fund the yearly maintenance of the man-made pond?" And the school board voted "No, the silver isn't in our budget."

And in Bruce's dream Neptune appeared again, and Bruce said, "I have worked hard on this project for you, lo, these many months, but we are not making any progress in raising silver," to which Neptune, raising his trident high in the air, cried, "Build it and they will come!"

And hence Bruce walked among the people and said, "Do you want a man-made pond in Charlevoix?" and many of them said, "Yea."

And so it came to pass that every year an auction was held and much silver was raised for the benefit of the man-made pond. And many appeals were made and more silver was raised, but still it was not enough.

And again Neptune appeared in Bruce's dream. "There are many among us who would like to have a man-made pond in Charlevoix, but we need land to launch this project," And Neptune cried out, "Build it and they will come!"

And, lo, it came to pass that the land was given for the man-made pond, and many among us rejoiced. And again in the night, Bruce had a dream in which Neptune appeared, "We have the land, and we have some silver, but not yet enough. What shall we do?" to which Neptune replied, "Build it and they will come!"

And hence a large hole was dug in the land in the fall, while the ground was still soft, and the populace waited until spring with much hope. And they built a path to the pond and it was good. Again Bruce had a dream, "I have worked hard for you, lo, these many years," he said to Neptune, "I have attended many meetings, and talked to many among us, and we have the land and we have a great hole in the land, and we have a path to the pond, and we have some silver, but not yet enough."

And Neptune said, "I am well-pleased. Many of your followers have worked hard and deserve much praise. The man-made pond shall be a thing of beauty and the water shall be warm, and no one shall be afraid. Therefore, I say again unto you — build it and they will come!"

Letters to the editor

Task force member responds to editorial

Editor,

This letter is in response to your March 13, 1996 editorial for the Charlevoix Courier. I was one of the cattle who attended every meeting of the facilities committee, and would like to take a few minutes to "MOO" at you!

As being a member of the herd of the facilities "special interest" group - I plead guilty. Because my special interests are my two calves, of which I have 20 more years of getting them to chew their cud (education).

I have seen the original facility study and have it in my possession today. A year ago, I felt we must be conservative in any proposal to the community. Because of the cost of renovating the high school, which you point out in your article will only be good enough for several years, I thought we should check into a new high school as well as a new middle school. The study from the first group was made available to the public. Very few people showed up to the meeting.

If the cattle in this community choose to build one new facility and renovate the other two facilities, it will take 15 years to pay it off, and we will need to look at building another new facility at that time. If the cattle in the community choose to build two new facilities and renovate the elementary, it will take 20 years to pay it off. The new facilities would be built so we could add on and update, rather than continually building new facilities. The fact is, we have a decent elementary school that is 25 years old, but can add on and update. We have a middle school that is 69 years old, and by your own figures, we have a high school that part of it is 34 years old, and the newer part is already 16 years.

Another fact is, no matter what you do to improve the facilities for schools, there will ALWAYS be people who can't afford it. There will always be people who vote "no" on any issue that is laid out there to them. According to another article on this issue in the Courier, if I had a home or market value of $120,000, my cost of $309 per year would amount to $6,180 for two calves for 20 years. I don't feel that's an outrageous amount. The WAGON I have to buy to haul them around cost me far more in five years.

Lastly, I'm sure that Dr. Jackson and the school board members know that being put in a bad position is naturally a part of the job. As a cow in this community, I've been known to MOO loudly a time or two. After all, as a cow, I want to eat a lot of corn, and not be sent to the slaughter house. I would like to encourage all cattle in the herd of Charlevoix to find out first hand about the facilities proposal and why it is being proposed. You will find there is a lot of food to be digested.

MOO-CERELY Yours,
Cathy Miller

K-5 musical will take you from coast to coast

The 1996 Charlevoix Elementary School spring musical will cover a lot of ground - geographically, musically and educationally. The theme of this year's musical is "Cities from Coast to Coast." Showtime is 7 p.m. , Tuesday March 26 in the high school gym.

Show songs and dance numbers take in not only several cities across the U.S.A., but also the different social settings and cultural periods of the places and times in which the music was written. As elementary art teacher Beth McGraw points out, music and art don't exist in a vacuum. Throughout the ages musical and artistic works reflect the culture and atmosphere of the time in which they are created.

For this program, when music teacher Marina LaBlance introduced songs about various cities and places the students also were introduced to the geography of the songs and social aspects of the era. For example, consider the various forms of transportation covered in some of the songs: "Route 66"; "Erie Canal"; "Chattanooga Choo Choo"; and of course a song that covers several means of transportation - "I'm Going To Kansas City."

The program also is diverse culturally with songs such as "New York, New York," "Rocky Top" and "Surf City."

"It's a nice performance and a nice evening of entertainment, but there's so much more behind it," McGraw explained.

Two Michigan songs will be featured in the performance. Justin Flowers will be singing a solo of "I Got A Gal In Kalamazoo." Lyrics to "Hooray for Hollywood" have been adapted to say hooray for a town which is just a bit more familiar to Courier readers. A backdrop painted by the art students shows various landmarks from across the nation. Charlevoix's Memorial Bridge is located between the factories of Gary, Indiana and the White House.

The coordination of the event heats up in the days preceding the show. Students start by practicing within their classes, then entire grades practice together and in the final show 500 students from the entire school perform together.

...spring road problems

Frost is an amazing phenomenon," said Fred Welch, county road manager. "The freeze/thaw cycle we had just drove the frost in deeper. Then frost thaws from the top down. The water can't drain away so it pops the road out," Welch explained.

At the frost measuring tube in Boyne Falls, the frost is shown to be 52 inches deep. The road damage probably isn't over yet.

"This winter took a big bite out of our budget. We're 40 percent over budget already, with all the snow plowing," Welch said.

The Charlevoix Road Commission has its financial hands tied behind its back. All funding comes from the state and federal coffers, distributed by a formula determined in Lansing.

The formula is based on population and miles of road traveled in each of the state's 83 counties.

Because of this formula, Antrim County received $177,693 more than Charlevoix County in 1994. Emmet County got $297,154 more than Charlevoix. And Cheboygan County got a whopping $475,722 more than Charlevoix.

Welch wants people to understand that roads are entirely funded by gas tax and vehicle registration fees. The 15 cents a gallon gas tax has remained the same for 11 years. If the average driver drives 10,000 miles a year and gets 20 miles to the gallon, that person spends $75 a year on gas tax.

Of the nearly 400 million dollars collected in revenue for roads, the state keeps 10 percent for administration costs. Another 10 percent goes to the transit fund, which pays for the county's green buses. MDOT gets to keep 39.1 percent, and the 83 counties share the remaining 39.1 percent.

So where does that leave Charlevoix County? "Our construction money may be limited this spring," Welch said.

obituaries

Winifred E. Meyers

Winifred E. Meyers, 82, of Chandler, AZ, died Wednesday, March 65 at Hospice Family Care, Mesa, AZ.

Born in Flannigan, Illinois, September 17, 1913, she was the daughter of Emil and Winifred (Ryan) Monk. On May 31, 1939, she married Leo P. Meyers in Alma.

They made their family home in Ann Arbor for many years. Her retirement years were spent in Charlevoix until 1987, when she moved to Chandler following the death of her husband.

She was a prolific reader, and enjoyed knitting, the soap operas, and playing gin rummy. She devoted her life to caring for her family.

She is survived by a sister, Ramona (Peter) Zahner of Ann Arbor; a daughter, Mary Elizabeth (LeRoy) Fox of Chandler; and stepson, John J. Meyers of Traverse City; four grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by three sisters and one brother, and a granddaughter, Grace Anne Meyers.

Cremation has taken place. Interment will be at St. Andrews Cemetery, Dexter, Michigan.

Memorials may be made to Hospice Family Care, East Mesa In-Patient Unit, 5037 E. Broadway, Mesa, AZ 85206.

Ruth Ann Tompson

Ruth Ann Tompson, 92, formerly of East Jordan, died Feb. 22 at Meadowbrook Medical Care Facility in Bellaire.

Mrs. Tompson was born Oct. 26, 1903 in East Jordan, the daughter of Job and MayBelle Jackson. She spent much of her adult life in the Detroit area where she worked for Michigan Bell Telephone Co., retiring in 1968. Following the death of her husband, Dr. Frank Tompson, she moved back to northern Michigan.

She is survived by one sister, Geneva Stevens, and several neices and nephews.

A memorial service for her was held March 2 at the Bellaire Chapel of Mortensen Funeral Home. Pastor Walter Kreger officiated. Burial will be in Lakeview Cemetery in Bellaire.

Nathan T. Fraley

Nathan T. Fraley, 50, of Ellsworth, died March 18, 1996, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral will be 1 p.m. Thursday, March 21, at Emmanuel Evangelical Church in Petoskey with pastor Robert Elders officiating. Burial will be in Ellsworth Cemetery.

Mr. Fraley was born Sept. 14, 1945, in Detroit, the son of Robert and Lorraine (Sullivan) Fraley.

On Nov. 7, 1970, he married Theresa Chasse in Troy, and the couple made their home in Lake Orion. They moved to Ellsworth in 1993.

Mr. Fraley was a veteran, serving in the U.S. Army during the Vietnam War.

He was employed as a truck driver for many years.

Survivors include his wife, Theresa; two daughters, Laura Fraley and Tammy Figueroa and her husband, Shawn, of Charlevoix; two sons, Timothy and James, at home; his mother, Lorraine Fraley, of Clawson; three brothers, Robert Fraley and his wife, Pat, of Oxford, Mark Fraley and his wife, Tina, of Canada, and Aaron Fraley and his wife, Rene, of Ohio; and by two sisters, Rachel Childress and her husband, Lon, of Troy, and Edna Zancouchio of Georgia.

Arrangements were handled by the Hastings Funeral Home in Ellsworth.

John F. Sharrow

John F. Sharrow, 88, of Charlevoix, died March 13, 1996, at Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey.

His funeral was Friday, March 15, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Rev. Perry Fowler of Safe Harbor Baptist Church in cooperation with Charlevoix Lodge No. 282 F&AM officiated. Burial will take place in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mr. Sharrow was born Oct. 16, 1907, in Charlevoix, the son of Louie and Margaret (Laidlaw) Sharrow.

He graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1926.

He worked for General Electric in Detroit as a tool and die maker for 30 years. After his retirement in 1973, he returned to Charlevoix.

In 1965, he married Sylvia Stanley in Charlevoix, and she survives.

Mr. Sharrow was a member of Charlevoix Lodge No 282 F&AM, and served as past master of the lodge in 1989.

Survivors include his wife, Sylvia, of Charlevoix; son, John Gazarek and his wife, Shirley, of Charlevoix; two daughters, Virginia Kay Short of Grand Rapids, and Rae Sharrow of California; four grandchildren, William Ray Rock, Wayne Carl Rock, Bonnie Kay Cozier and Jeremy Sharrow; five great-grandchildren; one great-great-granddaughter; and one sister, Elizabeth Dixon, of Charlevoix.

Memorial contributions may be made to Safe Harbor Baptist Church. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Church plans baked potato dinner

The public is invited to a Baked Potato Dinner, Sunday, March 24 from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the First Congregational United Church of Christ, 101 State St. in Charlevoix.

The cost is $5 for a potato loaded with toppings, salad and drink. Donations will be accepted for homemade desserts. Proceeds go to senior high youth who are going on a community work camp in Arkansas to work with physically disabled youngsters.

Missions Conference at Reformed Church

Ray Badgero, chairman and professor of the Department of World Missions and Evangelism at Moody Bible Institute, is the keynote speaker at the 1996 Mission Conference at the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix.

The public is invited to the conference which begins at 7 p.m. Saturday, March 23. Community Reformed Church is located at 100 Oak Street in Charlevoix.

Badgero's talk about World Missions will follow a choral presentation by the church choir, a welcome by Pastor Larry Grooters, and a Parade of Nations.

Conference attendees will also have an opportunity, during an afterglow, to visit booths featuring many missions and ministries supported by Community Reformed.

Shopping complex to be remodeled

The Captain's Corner shopping complex near the intersection of US 31 and M-66 will be taking on a new look this summer. The old miniature golf course is gone and a new 11,180 square foot building will be constructed in its place. The new building will house a Rite Aid store with a drive-up window for pharmacy pick ups.

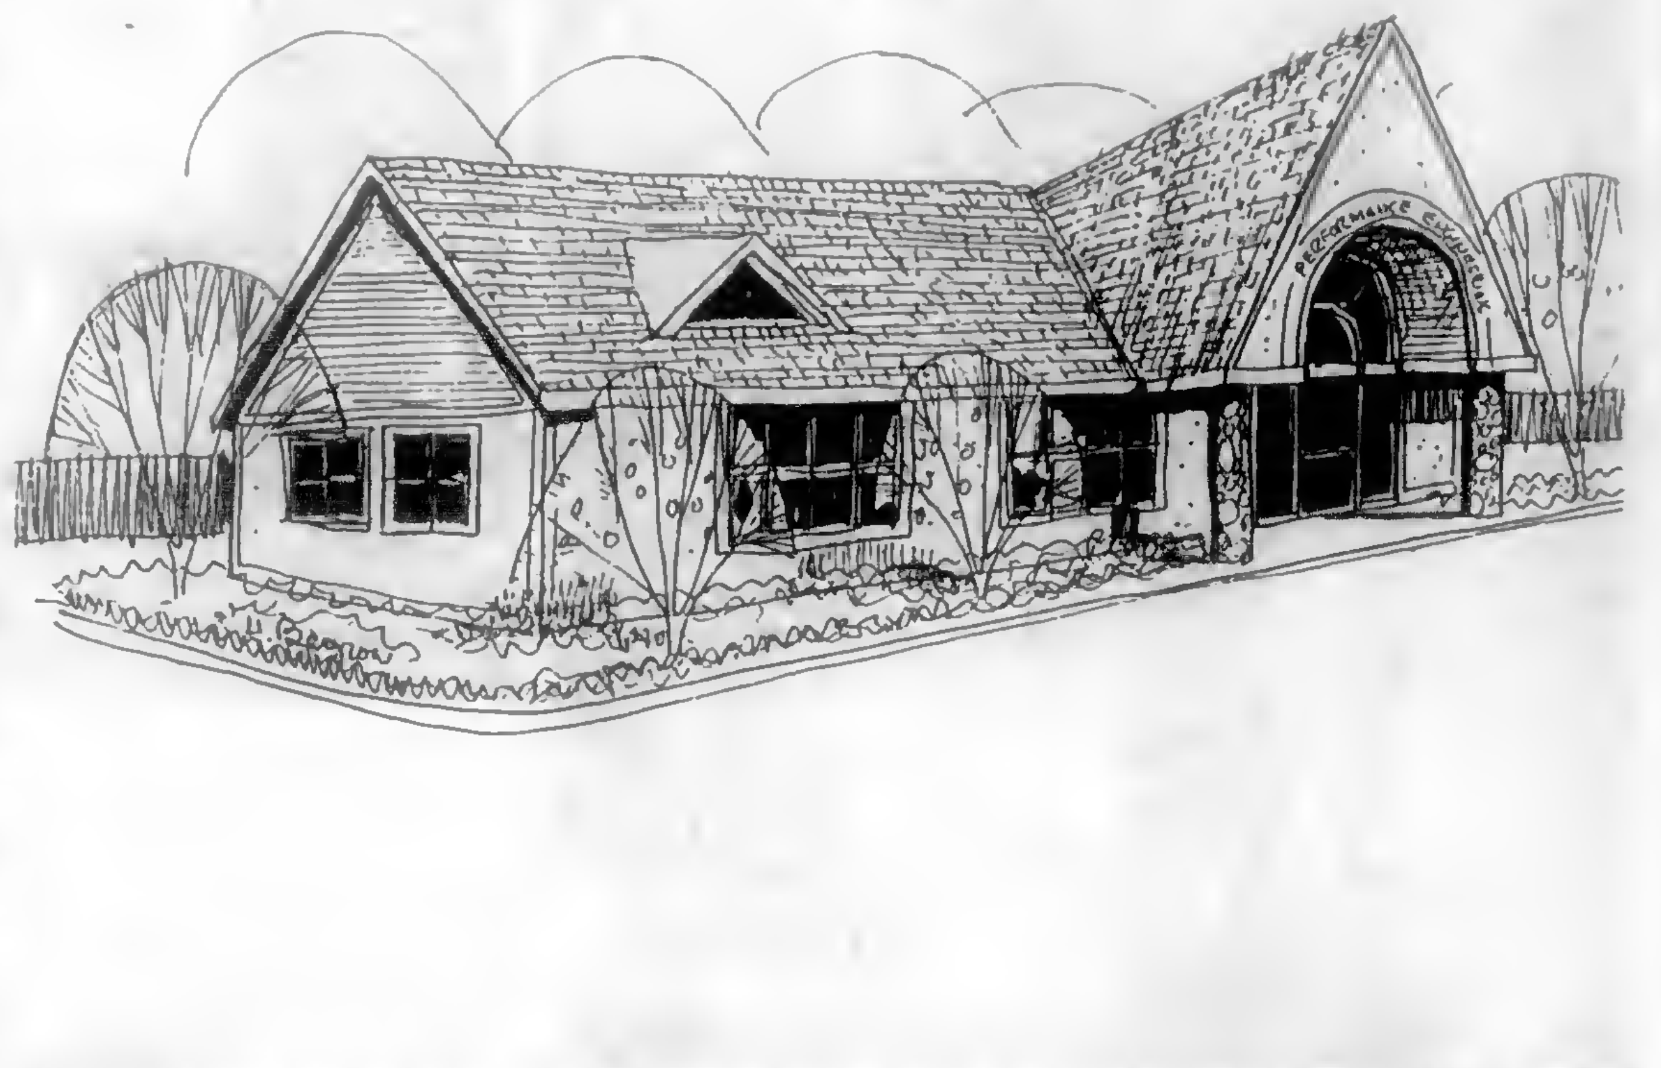
So what will happen to the 7,210 square feet of space currently occupied by Rite Aid? The Glen's Market Charlevoix store has been cramped for space for some time and is considering expanding into the space currently occupied by Rite Aid. The expansion would not only ease Glen's Market's current space situation, but would allow the store to expand into some additional product lines.

Some additional retail spaces will also be constructed off of the end of the laundramat, although the Rite Aid building will be separated from the remainder of the complex.

In addition to the building changes, the complex parking area will also be reworked. Currently, there are two entrances off of M-66. Following renovation, there will be only one entrance off of M-66. That entrance will be between the two current entrances, closer to the US 31 entrance location. The current entrance near Stover Road creates problems for people turing onto M-66 off of Stover Road. Following renovation, Captain's Corner will have two entrances, but only one will be off of M-66. The other will be off of Stover Road.

There will also be seven islands of greenery constructed in the parking lot to make the complex more aesthetically appealing.

The design work is being done by Performance Engineering of Charlevoix. The complex is owned by Leo and Maureen Quinn of Boca Raton, FL.



This drawing by architect Jack Begrow shows how the Performance Engineering building at the corner of Petoskey and Prospect will look upon completion. The building will have approximately 1,500 square feet of office space.

Names in business

A collection of awards, accomplishments and milestones in the careers of Charlevoix area business people.

Six staff members at RE/MAX of Charlevoix recently received awards from the RE/MAX Real Estate System for outstanding sales and service in 1995. They received the awards at the company's annual regional conference, Feb. 8-10 at the Grand Traverse Resort.

Katherine S. Engle received the President's Club Award for helping 12-21 families with their real estate transactions in 1995. Gregory Bryan Jr. was awarded Executive Club honors for 22-35 real estate transactions. Broker/Owner David L. Campbell, Steve Andreae, Judy Petkewicz and Joseph T. Vogelheim received 100 Percent Club awards for helping 36 or more families with their real estate transactions.

Performance Engineering moving into new office

Performance Engineering is renovating the former Muffin Man shop at the corner of Petoskey and Prospect with the hopes of moving into the building by early summer.

Jim Malewitz of Performance Engineering purchased the building in January. He said the building is essentially being gutted prior to remodeling. Fred Siegwart is doing the construction work. Jack Begrow did the drawings for the exterior and Malewitz, with guidance from Tim Fisher, did the design work.

When renovated, the building will have high ceilings with better lighting and look much better from the outside. Malewitz said the neighbors seem to be very happy with the proposed new look.

When completed the interior will have approximately 1,500 square feet of office space. Performance Engineering will occupy approximately 850 feet of that space with the other 650 feet available for rent. Performance Engineering is currently subleasing space in a building at the corner of Petoskey and West Dixon, but that space is needed for expansion by the business Performance Engineering is subleasing from.

Girls' recreation basketball league wraps up season

Charlevoix's middle school gym rocked for more than 12 hours Saturday as girls from the junior high division of the Charlevoix Girls Recreation Basketball League competed in the Charlevoix Lions Club postseason tournament.

In the final game, the Monkeys, coached by Andy Schramke, Barb Vogel and Nora Miller, defeated the Raiders, coached by Ben Owens, 28-21. Megan Vogel and Courtney Cebulski shared scoring honors for the tournament champion Monkeys, each with eight points. Kari Miller, the team's point guard, had four points. Beth Owens led the Raiders with 15 points while Chelsea Newcomb added four.

The Spartans, coached by Dick Swenor and Larry Potter, took third place in the tournament, beating Ladies First, coached by Lisa Parrish and Bill Webster, 16-11. Kelly Dreyer led the Spartans with six points while Katie Swenor and Kelly Sullivan each had four. Tiffany Resch had six points and Dena Sheldon five points for Ladies First.

The Piggies, coached by Erv and Mandi Barrett, claimed fifth place with a 26-21 win over the Short Shaqs, coached by Scott Blechel. Molly Arnold had seven points, Stacy Skippergosh six and Kathryn Ricks four points for the Piggies. Jill Ramsey had six points and Emily Hughes four points for the Short Shaqs.

In the seventh and eighth place game the Bear Cats, coached by Gordie Russell and Paul Parrish, defeated the Lakers, coached by Dr. James Gels, 32-20. Leslie Hoffman had 17 points and Kelly Reid, Sarah Parrish and Caytee Scott four apiece for the Bear Cats. Taya Drost had 16 points for the Lakers.

In the ninth and tenth place game, the Hoops Legends, coached by Scott Swanson, held on for a 9-8 win over the Iron Maidens, coached by Bob Rowe. Shannon Nystrom led the Legends with four points while Erica Kammermann had four for the Maidens.

Co-MVPs for the tournament were Beth Owens and Jennifer McClellan. Runner-up was Megan Vogel. Named to the All Tournament team were: Taya Drost, Emily Hughes, Molly Arnold, Shauna Barrett, Kari Miller, Leslie Hoffman, Kelly Dreyer, Jill Ramsey, Sarah Parrish and Dena Sheldon.

Tournament part of Municipal Golf Course centennial

This year marks the 100th anniversary of the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course and a four-person, 18 hole scramble tournament is already being organized as part of the celebration.

The tournament will take place Sunday, July 14 beginning at 9:30 a.m. The cost is $50 per person (a price which includes dinner and prizes). There is room for only 15 foursomes. Registrations will be accepted April 1 at City Hall. A $50 deposit is due upon registration with the remaining $150 due by July 1.

Registration forms are available at City Hall and at the Chamber of Commerce.

Lake levels rise again

During the month of February precipitation was above average on the Lake Superior and Michigan-Huron basins and below average on the Lake Erie and Ontario basins. For the year to date, precipitation is about 31 percent above average for the entire Great Lakes basin. The net supply of water to Lakes Superior, Michigan-Huron and Ontario was above average in February, while the supply to Lake Erie was below average.

In comparison to their long-term (1918-1995) averages, the February monthly mean level of Lakes Superior, Michigan-Huron, St. Clair, Erie and Ontario was 1, 2, 9, 4 and 7 inches above average respectively. Shoreline residents are cautioned to be alert whenever adverse weather conditions exist, as these could cause rapid short-term rises in water levels. Should the lakes approach critically high levels, further information and advice will be provided by the Corps of Engineers.

Buried tanks improve rural fire protection

Although the Total gas station is clear on the other side of town, a recent renovation of the station has made Marion Township safer in the event of fires.

As part of the renovation, three old fuel tanks were dug up. The tanks have been cleaned out and will be used as water tanks in Marion Township. Two of the 20,000 gallon tanks have already been buried and a third will be buried soon. One tank has been buried at the Barnard Grange while the other has been buried at the Marion Township Hall. The third will be buried near the intersection of Marion Center and Phelps Roads.

Tanker trucks from several area fire departments recently made runs to fill the two tanks. Charlevoix City Fire Department Chief Doug Carver said each tank truck will haul between 1,800 and 3,500 gallons of water.

The tanks were placed in Marion Township because there aren't any other readily accessible sources of water in the area. In some large barn fires in the past, fire trucks have had to come all the way back to fire hydrants on the edge of town for water. The fire department can draw water from streams or lakes such as Lake 26 or Barnard Pond, but when road conditions are bad the lakes and streams can sometimes be difficult to access with large trucks. The buried tanks are next to plowed parking areas.

The Total station donated the tanks and paid half of the cost of transportation. The township paid the other half of the transportation cost as well as the cost of adapting the tank for use in providing water.

Carver said the fire department hopes to have a similar tank installed in Norwood Township, near the Clipperview area.

Firemen from several area fire departments helped fill two 20,000 gallon tanks which have been buried at the Marion Township Hall and Barnard Grange Hall. The buried tanks will provide closer and more accessible sources of water for large fires in the south end of Marion Township. (Photos courtesy of Charlevoix City Fire Department)

Johnson named top gardener

The Northern Michigan Master Gardener Association (NMMGA) has named Kathy Johnson as the 1995 Master Gardener of the year. Johnson received the award from out going president, LeRoy Brooks during the February meeting of NMMGA.

Both Brooks and incoming president, Tracy Blake, cited Johnson's work for the association as a primary reason for her award. She was a fall, 1993 graduate of the MSU Extension Master Gardener program and completed her initial 40 hours of community service working on the East Jordan Evangelical Lutheran church garden, Charlevoix Area Hospital flower beds, the MSU Master Gardener booth at the Emmet County fair, writing NMMGA newsletters and managing membership files.

Johnson is a member of the Charlevoix Area Garden Club, Zonta Club of the Petoskey Area, Michigan Council for Directors of Volunteer Services, and the Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild. She serves on the board of The Living Room and the Charlevoix-Emmet Housing Coalition and she is a member of the RSVP Advisory Council. Johnson is Director of Development at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The Northern Michigan Master Gardener Association is open to any graduate of an accredited Master Gardener Course. Master Gardeners must complete 40 hours of training and 40 hours of community service to receive certification. Anyone interested in joining the NMMGA Should call 582-2715.

Charlevoix skiers compete in Junior Olympic races

Downhill

by Laurie Lounsbury

Troy Smith did something in the Colorado mountains that would have gotten him arrested on Michigan's highways. Smith hit top speeds of 72 miles an hour in the Junior Olympic downhill race in Vail. Fast enough to get a traffic ticket if Smith had been driving a car. And it was fast enough to put the 13-year-old Smith in 27th place in a field of 92 competitors. Smith had plenty of time to build up a head of steam. The downhill course was one mile long, a distance midwest skiers rarely experience.

It was Smith's first trip to the Junior Olympics. Maybe it was the excitement of skiing in the Junior Olympics that knocked Smith off his feet. Or maybe he just pushed his skiing beyond his outer limits. Smith was reportedly going extremely fast when he fell in the super G, the giant slalom, and slalom events. "It was fun. I had a rough time getting down the hill, but I'll be back next year," Smith said con-

Real athletes can ski up the hill as well as down it.

Spring break migration begins

by Laurie Lounsbury

They say the human body is made up almost entirely of water. If that's the case, we'd better start laying sand bags along all the south bound highways, because there's a tidal wave of people flooding out of town.

Charlevoix's spring break has arrived. Most of our community has departed. At Passageways Travel, Carlo and Terri D'Angelo are frantically taking care of last minute details. "Carlo, did you arrange for pre-paid parking in Windsor for those girls going to Toronto?" Terri asks, with the phone cupped to her ear while her fingers fly over a computer keyboard. Carlo barely has time to answer her. Plane tickets slide through his fingers like cards in the hands of a blackjack dealer.

People start booking spring vacations as soon as their kids come home from their first day of school in September with the vacation schedule. The smart people don't even wait that long. The best bargains are available if you make

French juggler visits Charlevoix

Charlevoix elementary school children witnessed one of the world's top jugglers this past week. Francois Rochais, a 22-year-old French woman who is the International Juggling Association's 1995 grand champion visited Charlevoix elementary school last week.

Rochais is in the United States for six-weeks. She was invited to northern Michigan by Tommy Tropic and other area jugglers. Several local businesses contributed money to fund her airfare and bring her to area schools.

After becoming a majorette at age six and twirling a single baton, Rochais began adding batons. She is now believed to be the only person alive who can juggle six batons and she's working on adding a seventh. Rochais holds four world records for juggling.

She's traveled to China, Russia and the United States to both teach and learn from other jugglers. For her Charlevoix performance, in addition to batons, she also juggled pins (similar to bowling pins) and flaming torches.

Tropic warmed up the audience with a variety of juggling and unicycle stunts and then juggled with Rochais at the show's conclusion.

Rochais, Tropic and other jugglers performed March 23 at Boyne Highlands.

Man dies in plane crash

James Genc, a retired conservation officer, died Saturday afternoon in a plane crash at the East Jordan Airport. Genc was piloting a single engine Cessna plane and approaching the east end of the runway for a landing when the plane nose-dived into the ground.

Although there were witnesses to the accident, at this time authorities aren't sure exactly why the accident occurred. East Jordan Airport Manager Sanford Sweet said conditions Saturday were normal and that there were quite a few people flying.

"We're not sure what happened," Sweet said in regard to the cause of the accident.

The Federal Aviation Administration is investigating the accident with the assistance of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department. In addition to Sweet and the Sheriff's Department, the East Jordan Police Department, East Jordan Ambulance, East Jordan Fire Department and several Department of Natural Resources officers assisted at the crash site.

reservations before kids start school in September.

So where is everybody going? Terri reports that Charlevoix folks are unanimous with their request: "Send me somewhere warm!" Any place with a beach is the number one request. Disney World is the most popular destination for families with children and honeymooners.

Townspeople who are chilled to the bone and frostbitten throughout don't take chances in their pursuit of warm weather. They head beyond Florida, where the weather can be fickle, to almost guaranteed hot spots in the Caribbean and Mexico. Puerto Vallarta and Cancun, Mexico are popular destinations at reasonable prices. Jamaica, the Bahamas, and Puerto Rico in the Caribbean are popular for their warm climates and relative closeness to the United States. Since they lie south of the U.S., traveling there doesn't include jet lag.

Engler doesn't need budgetary advice from Stupak

L. Scott Swanson

About once a week for the past three or four weeks, Congressman Bart Stupak, D-Menominee, has faxed press releases to the Courier and other newspapers complaining about how Michigan Governor John Engler spends, or doesn't spend, state money. Specifically, Stupak wants Engler to dip into surplus state funds to provide additional state money to northern Michigan communities that have had higher than normal snow plowing costs this winter.

Granted, some areas of Michigan, Charlevoix among them, have experienced a pretty tough winter. On the other hand, snow in northern Michigan during winter is not something which is entirely unexpected. Regardless, the central issue here is that it is not Stupak's place to tell the state's governor how to spend state tax dollars. Stupak is elected to federal office. His efforts should be directed toward the federal budget. He should leave the state budget to Engler and others who are elected to state office.

And it's not as though in his three years in Congress, Stupak has gotten the federal budget all whipped into shape so that he's now free to move along to correcting other budgets. Despite all that Stupak and his Washington colleagues claim to have done in recent years, here in America's heartland those ugly rumors of a trillion dollar federal deficit continue to persist.

Let's compare and contrast the budgetary situation of the federal and state governments.

When Stupak was elected to Congress, the federal government was a trillion dollars in debt. Three years later, can Stupak tell his constituents that the trillion dollar debt has been erased? No. Can he tell them that it has been diminished? No. In fact, it has grown. Perhaps the best argument that Stupak can make regarding the federal debt is that even though it continues to grow, at least it's not growing as fast as it used to.

Now look at the state budget. When Engler was elected governor in the late 1980s, Michigan's budget wasn't in deficit, but it wasn't in great shape. In fact, the state was having problems with its credit rating. Now, the state's credit rating is fine, the budget is on solid ground and the state has established a rainy day fund.

The bottom line here is that you've got a guy from an organization which is a trillion dollars in the hole offering financial advice to a guy from an organization which is financially strong and in the black. That this advice is unsolicited should come as no surprise.

Stupak should save the political grandstanding and focus his energies on correcting problems with the federal budget. Until the Congress adopts a balanced federal budget, Stupak doesn't need to be dabbling in state budget matters.

EDITH GILBERT

by EDITH GILBERT

It is a constant source of amazement to me, how deep the feelings of nostalgia dip among former resorters, particularly about their long ago Charlevoix summers. No one more so than James G.F. Coleman, who is celebrating his 80th birthday this month. Jim recalls carving his initials on the side wall of the old "Baker" Cottage with a 1922 date. The "Baker" cottage was then owned by Mrs. Baker, who built the former Beach Hotel, where the LaCroft Condominiums stand. The cottage is now called the Bridge Street Inn, and the initials have been covered with aluminum siding, but the memories are still there.

For twenty years, from the early twenties to the forties, the whole Coleman family, from Winnetka, Illinois, rented the red, brick corner house on Petoskey Ave. at the corner of Burns. A 1922 photograph shows the family in front of a telephone pole, no less, and it has been enlarged and distributed to all the biological offspring. Jim's brother, Bud, now 94, has one hanging on his bedroom wall and writes that he looks at it frequently. He recalls the days when he was a college student and used to organize a summer day "gang" for resort youngsters. The boys chose up sides for baseball teams and, then as now, played out at Mt. McSauba, or on warm days, he took the whole "gang" for a swim at the Depot beach. He also remembers meeting his wife Lil, lo these many years ago, in Charlevoix. Here they would go dancing and do the Tango at the old Beach Hotel to the music of the late Jules Stein, who founded the Music Corporation of America.

This photo of the Coleman family was taken on Petoskey Avenue in 1922. The family spent summers in Charlevoix in the 1920s, '30s and '40s.

Jim also recalls, that when he was 10, on a clear night and on calm waters, he was a passenger aboard my late husband, Julius Gilbert's boat, heading toward Horton Bay. Unexpectedly, Julius permitted him to take the wheel, which was the unforgettable thrill of his life. Jim has since become an avid yachtsman and now owns a 40 footer, that is the pride of the Newport Beach Club in California, and he is flirting with a 50 ft. Burger, for sport fishing.

Jim also reminds me that Julius used to pay him $5 to Simonize his red Bugatti — the classic car even then was the talk of the town, for I recall people telling me for years that they had had a ride in Julius's Bugatti. Finally, Jim writes that "Your book 'Summer Resort Life: Tango Teas and All' was such a pleasure for us all to read. None of us ever forget Charlevoix! Keep writing, I enjoy your articles, and never miss a word of the Courier." Happy Birthday, Jim!

Letters to the editor

Parkside purchase opposed

Editor,

The proposed spending of $500,000 (one half million dollars) by the City of Charlevoix to buy and demolish the Parkside Restaurant is a prime example of government waste of taxpayers' money. Four-hundred-thousand dollars will come from the Federal Department of Transportation - taxpayer money that should be used to repair our highways and bridges. The $100,000 plus $10,000 to $20,000 will come from city taxpayers directly.

The property to be purchased is twenty feet on Bridge Street and eighty feet on Mason Street - 1,600 square feet. This is not Round Lake frontage!

This property generates $5,500 in tax revenue for the city, county, Grandvue, public transit, schools and DDA. If the city buys this property there will be no tax income, only expense and a loss of important commercial property. I don't believe this is a prudent use of taxpayer money.

Sincerely,
Robert Timms

Community working to help youth

Editor,

A recent Monday night Community Forum at the High School was a tribute to the hard work of a caring community in an ongoing battle to keep our youth healthy and drug free. Brought together by Scott Kelly, the panel was impressive. Seventeen experts from the fields of drug prevention, law enforcement, education, school and family counseling, self help and volunteer groups were brought together to share their resources and vision. Sheriff George Lasater swept the audience and presenter group with a steady gaze and declared, "You're on the right track!" He noted that since the '80s our community has created an "excellent foundation to support in the fight against drugs, including counselors, police, judges, prosecuting attorneys, probate and district courts, caring police, parents and the Teen Center." Judge Richard May reiterated his commitment to strict enforcement of policy and law and the need for community support.

Again and again the experts stressed that the most effective deterrent to drug use is "perceived risk," i.e., swift and appropriate consequences for negative behavior. Prosecutor Mary Beth Kur, Police Chief Dennis Halverson and school counselors stressed that parents and the community must be actively involved in, and supportive of, efforts to keep youth drug and alcohol free. And when young people do get in trouble, the community must stand behind enforcement of the law for everyone.

Several presenters noted that although the abuse of alcohol has decreased somewhat among teens, marijuana use is increasing at an alarming rate. Also more and more over-the-counter drugs and household products are misused when inhaled or injected. It is more and more difficult for parents to stay in touch with the changing world of drugs, gangs and peer pressure.

Drug, tobacco and alcohol abuse prevention education starts at home, where parents model positive behaviors and instill healthy values. In elementary school, counselor Gayle Gennet's programs strive to encourage healthy self esteem and healthy choices.

Raising healthy children in a changing, aggressive and oftentimes violent world, is increasingly difficult. Our community is working to create an environment in which children can excel and fulfill their potential. "The Village raises the child." We have a good start, but we need everyone's help. Thank you to all the experts who gave their time and shared their knowledge and insight with us. Thank you also to the parents and concerned community members who attended because they care about youth. We have accomplished much, but there is still much to do!

When Scott Kelly asked the 40 persons attending the forum how many wanted strict enforcement of laws related to underage alcohol and illegal drug use, support for strict enforcement was unanimous. The Teen Center is committed to continuing its work in facilitating an active and vocal parent support group.

Voters need to be informed

Editor,

There was a wonderful meeting in Charlevoix last night (Tuesday, March 19). It was political, businesslike, decorous, and informative. Many facts concerning a highly controversial proposition were presented in clear and concise order; questions were asked and answered, and several new thoughts were elicited. An informative time was had by all.

Time to haul in the 1996/97 kindergartners

As in past years, registration for students beginning kindergarten in 1996 will include a 90-minute mini kindergarten session this spring. The objective is to give kindergarten students a feeling for what a day of kindergarten will be like. Meanwhile, parents fill out registration forms in the gym.

Parents must phone the elementary school at 547-3215 to register their child for one of the four mini-sessions. The mini-sessions will be April 16 and 17 from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. and from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.

In addition to the child to be registered, parents should bring the following to the mini-session: a certified copy of the child's birth certificate; up-to-date immunization records; social security numbers for father, mother and child; a photograph (to be returned at a later date) of the child.

The Charlevoix Board of Education recommends that children entering kindergarten be five years of age by Sept. 1, 1996.

For additional information, contact the elementary school office at 547-3215.

Sorority planning dinner dance

The Xi Epsilon Gamma Sorority is starting a new tradition. They are hosting a dinner dance and silent auction at the Charlevoix Country Club, April 20.

"We're hoping this will replace the old Chamber of Commerce dinner dance," said Pam Barnes, co-chairman of the project.

The dance and silent auction will benefit the Charlevoix pool project. The cost of the dinner dance is $50 per person, and $25 of the cost is tax deductible.

Luther Gravy and the Soul Bisquits, a popular band out of Traverse City, will provide the entertainment.

Cocktails and the silent auction will start at 6:30, with dinner following at 7:30 and dancing from 8:30 to midnight.

Items to be auctioned include:

*A drawing of your home done in pen and ink with watercolor wash, by Linda Boss.

*A day at the salon (package not yet finalized) donated by Trudy Center.

*A ride in the Venetian Festival Lighted Boat Parade on the 1995 winner's boat. Includes hors d'oeuvres and cocktails.

*A gourmet Italian dinner for eight, served in your home. After dinner entertainment of a murder mystery.

One hundred and seventy-five tickets will be available for the dinner dance. They may be purchased at the Charlevoix Country Club, the Clothing Company, or by calling Denise Pointer, dance chairman, at 547-4898.

obituaries

James Carl Genc

James Carl Genc, 55, of Boyne City, died March 23, 1996, in East Jordan.

A private family service will be held at a later date.

Mr. Genc was born Sept. 29, 1940, in Oak Park, Ill., the son of Emil A. and Charlotte (Wittek) Genc. He served in the U.S. Army in the early 1960s and was stationed in Germany.

Mr. Genc was a fisheries and wildlife graduate of Michigan State University, where he also obtained a teaching certificate.

He began his career in the Michigan Department of Natural Resources as a wildlife biologist, then served as a sergeant in the law enforcement division until his retirement in 1995, after 29 years of state service. Sgt. Genc was the area law supervisor for Emmet, Charlevoix, Otsego and Antrim counties.

Following retirement, Mr. Genc was a substitute teacher at area school districts and also taught hunter safety education courses.

He was a member of the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association.

Mr. Genc enjoyed playing the piano, song writing, hunting, fishing and flying. He often volunteered his piano talent at local nursing homes.

Survivors include one stepdaughter, Kristine Stokes and her husband, Jeff, of Alanson; two grandchildren; his mother, Charlotte Genc, of Hinsdale, Ill.; two brothers, Richard Genc and his wife, Janet, of McHenry, Ill., and Robert Genc and his wife, Linda, of Wheaton, Ill.; and by two nieces and three nephews. Mr. Genc was preceded in death by his father, Emil A. Genc.

A memorial fund will be established for the education of Mr. Genc's grandchildren. Contributions may be directed to FMB Bank, P.O. Box 10, Boyne City, Mich. 49712.

Arrangements were handled by the Paullin Funeral Home in East Jordan.

Albert C. "Tubby" Clark

Albert C. "Tubby" Clark, 68, of Charlevoix, died March 21, 1996, at his home.

A graveside service will be held in the spring at Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mr. Clark was born May 18, 1927, in Petoskey, the son of Albert J. and Margaret (Kocher) Clark. He attended Charlevoix High School.

Mr. Clark served in the U.S. Army during World War II.

He worked for American Mold in Charlevoix, retiring after 30 years.

On Aug. 9, 1945, he married Fern M. Gorman in Charlevoix, and she survives.

Mr. Clark is also survived by one son, Michael Ray, of Charlevoix; one brother, Robert, of Colorado; and one sister, Katherine Oless, of Phoenix, Ariz.

Arrangements were handled by the Winehester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Marvin K. Smith

Marvin K. Smith, 75, of Charlevoix, died March 22, 1996, at his daughter's home in St. Louis, Mo.

His funeral was Tuesday, March 26, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix. Co-celebrants will be the Rev. James P. Hayden and the Rev. Casmier Zawacki.

Interment will be at noon Wednesday, March 27, at Calvary Cemetery in Dayton, Ohio, with the Rev. Kenneth Schartz of Incarnation Catholic Church in Centerville, Ohio, officiating.

Mr. Smith was born Oct. 24, 1920, in Carlisle, Ky., the son of Ernest Byram Smith and Bette Woodson Williams Smith. He was raised in Mount Sterling, Ky., and served in the U.S. Army during World War II.

On Nov. 30, 1946, he married Lois E. Weber in Dayton, Ohio. She preceded him in death on Nov. 4, 1994.

Mr. Smith worked for National Cash Register in Dayton, Ohio, for 31 years. He also worked for Feltz Office Products in Dayton, Ohio, retiring in 1984 when he and his wife moved to Charlevoix.

Mr. Smith was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church of Charlevoix.

Survivors include one daughter and son-in-law, Janet E. and David L. Weghorst, of Villa Ridge, Mo.; one son and daughter-in-law, Douglas K. and Patricia A. Smith, of Germantown, Tenn.; two granddaughters, Kristin M. and Colleen M. Smith, of Germantown, Tenn.; his mother, Bette W. Smith, of Mount Sterling, Ky.; three brothers, Elgin Smith of Greencastle, Ind., Paul Smith of Lexington, Ky., and Gerald Smith of Mount Sterling, Ky.

Memorial contributions are suggested to Missouri Baptist Health Care Foundation-Hospice, and sent in care of Missouri Baptist Hospital-Sullivan, 751 Sappington Bridge, Sullivan, Mo. 63080.

Health education scholarships available

A future nurse and physician from Charlevoix County may find some help with the cost of their education, thanks to two scholarships available through the Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

The Julius Gilbert Memorial Scholarship, named in honor of a community benefactor and former trustee of the Charlevoix Area Hospital, will award a $500 scholarship to a deserving medical student; while the Charlevoix Area Hospital Nursing Scholarship will give a $500 scholarship to an area nursing student.

Deadlines for both scholarships are May 1, 1996, and decisions will be announced early in June. Those interested in applying may pick up the necessary forms at the Charlevoix Area Hospital. Nursing scholarship forms are also available through the counseling office of area high schools, at the Women's Resource Center in Petoskey, or at the financial aid office of North Central Michigan College.

To be eligible for the Julius Gilbert Scholarship, candidates must be Charlevoix County residents, have successfully completed an undergraduate degree, and be accepted in an accredited medical school. Nursing scholarship candidates should live in the Charlevoix Area Hospital's service area and be accepted at an accredited school of professional nursing in the State of Michigan. If enrolled in a two-year nursing program, the candidate will be eligible for a second-year $500 scholarship as well.

Candidates for both scholarships will be judged on their academic performance, student service record, leadership qualities, commitment to their chosen profession, and letters of reference.

Financial need will also be a factor in selecting a nursing scholar.

The Charlevoix Area Hospital placed both the Julius Gilbert Fund and the Charlevoix Area Hospital Nursing Scholarship under the care of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation last year. The Community Foundation, which was established in 1992 by a group of civic leaders, administers a number of charitable and scholarship funds on behalf of area organizations. Only investment income from the funds is used to award grants and scholarships — so the trusts continue to grow and support community efforts for years to come.

More information about the Julius Gilbert Scholarship and the Charlevoix Area Hospital Nursing Scholarship is available by calling Robert Tambellini, Executive Director of the Community Foundation, at 536-2440, or Diane Kidder, at the Charlevoix Area Hospital, 547-4024.

Oh Boix

A collection of praises, awards and accomplishments involving Charlevoix area people.

Several Charlevoix people are among the North Central Michigan College students named to the college's fall semester dean's list. Named to the list were: David Bordas, Elizabeth Browe, John Chase, Joshua Dhaseleer, Pamela Fuller, Leslie Keim, Llane McGhee and Karin Rylander. To be named to the list, a student must have a grade point average of 3.5 or better on a 4 point grading scale.

Keith Carey of Charlevoix is among the members of the 1996 Alma College track team. Carey, a junior at Alma College, is the son of Bill and Judy Carey.

Don Heilig, formerly of Charlevoix and the son of Ruth Heilig of Charlevoix, will be retiring as the director of Grand Haven Community Education in June. Heilig has served in the position since 1973.

Gary Moore, ENCS U.S. Navy, is part of the U.S. military presence in Bosnia. Moore is the son of Richard and Mary Moore of Charlevoix. He joined the Navy in 1973 and currently serves aboard the USS Tortuga. His wife, Gaynell and three sons live in Virginia Beach.

Katherine H. Campbell of Charlevoix has been named to the Colby College first semester dean's list. Campbell is a senior majoring in biology. She is the daughter of John and Marylee Campbell of Charlevoix. To be named to the dean's list, a student must have a grade point average of 3.2 or better on a 4-point grading scale. Colby College is located in Waterville, Maine.

Two Charlevoix people were among the fall semester graduates of Ferris State University. David B. Saunders received a bachelor of science degree in printing management, graduating with high distinction. William T. Saunders also received a degree in printing management, graduating with distinction.

Noel Kammermann, son of Eric and Vel Kammermann, has been selected as a member of N.M.C. United soccer team, a select travel soccer club based in Gaylord. N.M.C. United is made up of select players from Northern Michigan who will compete in the Northern Michigan Soccer Alliance U-17 spring league as well as major tournament play (Canton Invitational, Petoskey Invitational, Portage Invitational, and the Cherryland Invitational) throughout the summer, and possibly one other tournament such as the USA Cup or Adidas Warrior cup. Kammermann, a senior honor student at Charlevoix High School, plans on attending Wabash College in the fall.

Community Foundation seeking grant applications

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation has funds to give out in support of worthy projects — and nonprofit organizations, local municipalities, and school programs in need of funding are invited to submit their grant requests. During the next few weeks, the Community Foundation and its Youth Advisory Committee will review funding proposals before awarding grants later this spring.

The youth group, made up of teens from each of the high schools in Charlevoix County, will give priority to programs and projects targeted to young people in the county — especially those which address the group's most pressing concerns: alcohol and drug abuse, drunk driving, child abuse, lack of recreational activities, and environmental issues. Applicants for Youth Advisory Committee grants should submit their requests no later than March 29, 1996.

The Community Foundation will also accept grant applications for a broader range of projects through April 30, 1996. To be considered for general funds, a proposed project should support community development, health, education, social services, civic improvement, or the arts and culture.

The Foundation uses a simple form for grant requests, and staff are happy to provide advice and assistance to organizations interested in applying for funds. Grant seekers may call the office of the Community Foundation at 616/536-2440 to obtain a grant application or receive some help.

Since its inception in 1992, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation has distributed nearly $180,000 to support a host of programs throughout the county. The charitable organization receives donations and manages them in a permanent endowment. Only investment income is used for grantmaking, so the endowment continues to grow and serve as a resource for many years. To date, the Community Foundation's assets stand at $3.5 million. More information about the Foundation and its grant application process is available by calling the office, or writing P.O. Box 719, East Jordan, Michigan, 49727.

Lasater and Alward running for Charlevoix County Sheriff position

It's an election year and incumbent Charlevoix County Sheriff is being challenged by East Jordan Police Chief Jerry Alward.

Lasater, who has been sheriff for the past 20 years, announced his candidacy for re-election earlier this year. Alward, who has been East Jordan police chief and prior to that served as a deputy and detective with the Antrim County Sheriff's Department, announced his candidacy last week.

In a press release announcing his re-election effort, Lasater said he will be campaigning on the merits of the programs established and the changes initiated within the Sheriff's Department and on his plans for the department during the next four years.

In a press release announcing his candidacy, Alward said he feels he has the knowledge, experience and leadership to bring back the best, cost-effective law enforcement available to Charlevoix County.

Area United Ways announce merger

The United Ways of Charlevoix/East Jordan, Boyne Area and Emmet County announced their merger at their first annual Bravo Breakfast on March 7, 1996. The United Ways have been working together since October 1994 to create a more efficient method for donors to support local non-profit human service organizations.

The three United Ways had been funding 13 of the same agencies, resulting in duplicate efforts and costs. The merger will create a more efficient fundraisng effort for Charlevoix and Emmet counties by minimizing paperwork for agencies and donors alike and by providing a full-time staff person to manage the daily operations of the organization.

"We believe that by combining the time, talents and efforts of our three organizations, we will have a bigger impact in all of our communities. The Bravo breakfast was just the beginning. Thanks to generous donors we are very optimistic about our future ability to serve the members of our community who need special assistance," said CharEm President Ellen Zienert.

The United Ways held a joint campaign last fall and raised over $164,000, 3 percent over their original goal. During the Bravo Breakfast, held at Stafford's Weathervane Restaurant in Charlevoix, the United Way recognized and thanked donors and volunteers for their support of the 1995-96 campaign.

Zienert thanked 1995 Campaign Co-Chairs, Robert Graham, President of North Central Michigan College, and Patrick Donnelly, Big Rock Point Plant Manager for their support and guidance during the campaign and the merger.

"Our campaign was successful this year thanks to our many donors and volunteers," said Zienert. "We could not have surpassed our goal without everyone's time and support."

The CharEm United Way will kick off its first campaign in September. Business owners wishing to start United Way employee campaigns are asked to contact UW Executive Director Lisa Ashley at 347-0115.

Council again discusses purchase of Parkside building

At the March 18 city council meeting, council members again discussed the purchase of the former Parkside restaurant. The city is pursuing a federal transportation grant which will fund 80 percent of the cost of purchasing the building and tearing it down to create a better view from Bridge Street.

First ward council member Bob Timms again stated his opposition to the project saying, "I think this is a prime example of pork barrel spending by federal agencies."

Timms was a lone voice of opposition on the council. Third ward council member Bruce Reid noted that this issue has been discussed in the past and the council has budgeted money for the city's share of the project.

Second ward council member Gabe Campbell said he agrees with Timms that the project will cost a lot of money, but that if the city turns down the federal grant, the money would just be spent in a similar situation somewhere else.

The total project is expected to cost a maximum of $503,805 with the city's share being $100,761.

By a 4-1 vote the council approved the continued pursuit of the grant. Campbell and Reid were joined by Don Meggison and Jackie Cross in supporting the motion while Timms voted in opposition to it.

In other matters the council approved applying for a state recreation grant to assist in funding improvements at Depot Beach. A similar grant application was rejected last year although Charlevoix did receive a grant to improve the city softball complex. City manager Mike Wiesner told the council that even if the application is approved this time around, the money for the project won't be available until 1997. In recent years the city has already made some improvements to Depot Beach, including a new paved parking lot and a new picnic pavilion.

Council members also expressed concern about the Post Office constructing a new building outside of the city. Campbell suggested having the city offer to sell the Postal Service the street department property on Stover Road. The city intends to eventually move the street department to the city's public works complex on Carpenter Street. Wiesner said the sale of the property might be possible, however the Postal Service has indicated they want the new building to be, located on a highway. The Postal Service is seeking a two-acre site to build a new and larger post office.

Hospital stressing diabetes awareness

Charlevoix Area Hospital in conjunction with the American Diabetes Association, has announced March 28, as the day that all should "Be Alert" to the risks of diabetes. Peggy Spang, RN and Diabetic Educator for Charlevoix Area Hospital, said "Early detection of diabetes is critical for preventing or limiting serious health complications of Diabetes."

The public is urged to find out if they are at risk for diabetes by answering seven simple questions on the American Diabetes Association's diabetes risk test. Copies of the test are available and may be picked up at Charlevoix Area Hospital. Additional information on the test and the risks of diabetes may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Spang at 547-4024.

Names in business

A collection of awards, accomplishments and milestones in the careers of Charlevoix area business people.

Donald Sproul of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department recently completed more than 400 hours of law enforcement training with the Michigan State Police and Michigan State University. The training emphasized traffic accident reconstruction and will allow Sproul to testify in court as an expert witness.

Three employees of Buday's Sound Advice of Petoskey and Charlevoix recently attended a Great Lakes Training Seminar in Lansing. Edward Buday, Sr., Edward Buday, Jr. and Norm Carlson received training on advanced home theater technologies including: room acoustics, front and rear projection screen technologies for very large screens; high performance video signal distribution; video cable selection; and amplification technologies.

Elementary and middle school wrestlers bring home medals

Charlevoix elementary and middle school wrestlers have been very active during the past two weekends. Saturday, March 17, Charlevoix hosted the annual Charlevoix Invitational. Saturday, March 23 the Rayders competed in the Benzie Central Invitational.

Thirteen schools participated in the Charlevoix Invitational. During the course of the day, 310 elementary and middle school wrestlers competed in 597 matches.

In the elementary division, Charlevoix's Delos Lanterman and Spencer Bryan placed second in their weight classes while Brett Probert took a third. Also picking up at least one win for the Rayders were Josh Christ, Jeffrey Golovich and Tony Miller.

In the middle school division, Anthony Cesaro and Bo Moore placed second in their weight classes while Luke Whitley and Ryan Leitner took thirds and Chris Loper placed fourth. Also picking up at least one win for the Rayders were William Potter and Skip Torres.

At the Benzie Central tournament this past Saturday, Chris Loper took a first in the middle school division. Tony Miller and Brett Probert took second places in the elementary division while Anthony Cesaro, Luke Whitley, and Jordan Burke took seconds in the middle school division. Troy Drebenstadt and Tyson Potter took thirds in the middle school division. Winning at least one match for the Rayders were Regan Drebenstadt, Delos Lanterman and William Potter.

Earlier in the season, at the Cheboygan Invitational, Troy Drebenstadt placed third in his weight class and Regan Drebenstadt second in his weight class.

the United States participated in the series of races. Vandergriff, who will turn 16 next month, competed in a group of 50 skiers in the ages 13 to 15 division. During the week, Vandergriff raced four times. She placed 36th in a 1K prologue race, which is kind of an informal warm-up race. She finished 33rd in a 5K classic skiing race, 24th in a 5Skate skiing race, and ninth in a 3x3k relay race. Cross country skiing includes two types of racing, the classic skiing in which skiers keep their skis straight and stride, and skating where skiers use somewhat shorter skis and angle them and push in a stride somewhat comparable to that used by speed skaters.

Vandergriff took up cross country skiing last year after completing her freshman season with the Charlevoix Cross Country team. Some of the other cross country runners planned on cross country skiing during the winter to maintain their physical conditioning so she joined them. The cross country ski program isn't a high school team or even a club. They're just a group of skiers who get together to practice and race under the instruction of volunteer Nick Baic.

Vandergriff promptly concluded that she liked cross country skiing. HIghly competitive by nature, she began training hard and improved rapidly. Last year she qualified for the Junior Olympic program and spent 13 days in Alaska. On an average day, she skis about 10k (6.2 miles) either on Boyne resort courses or on a course at cross country assistant coach Paul Gelderblom's farm.

At this year's Junior Olympics, Vandergriff roomed with Tessa Benoit, an 18-year-old racer from Northern Michigan University. Benoit took first in the Junior Olympics and recently placed seventh in a highly competitive Norwegian race.

"I want to be as good as Tessa," Vandergriff replied when asked about her cross country skiing goals.

Vandergriff said she felt she raced pretty well at this year's Junior Olympics. She said temperatures were about 11 degrees during the races, which she considered reasonably comfortable. "I don't like it too cold," she remarked. "My feet get cold."

Last winter, during a race in Ishpeming, the windchill dipped to 40 degrees below zero. At one race during the Alaska Junior Olympics, the temperature was 4 degrees below zero and racers with frost bite were being pulled off the course. Vandergriff said she hasn't had any problems with frost bite.

Vandergriff returned from Maine March 10 and has now begun training for the spring track season with the Charlevoix High School track team.

Several businesses and individuals helped fund her participation in the Junior Olympics. They were: Michigan Scientific; Quick Care; Jim and Stacy Salanty; Rick and Sue Duerksen; the Charlevoix Cross Country running fund; Delmer and Betty Duerksen; Wojan Window and Door.Co.

While Smith was melting snow on the Vail slopes, Kami Boyer, 15, was making tracks of her own in Steamboat Springs, Colorado. Boyer won a spot to compete in the 15 and 16 year old division of the Junior Olympics. Boyer streaked through the giant slalom, finishing ninth in her age group and 20th in her division. Boyer also took 11th place in her age group in the giant slalom, and 28th in her division. "It was tough, so I was happy with how I did," Boyer said. Boyer's coach Bob Vial advised her to skip the downhill race. "I haven't had that much training for a downhill race," Boyer explained.

Robby Bunting of Charlevoix also participated in the Junior Olympics, but as of press time, his results weren't known.

Skiers in the Junior Olympics in Vail and Steamboat Springs were from the Rocky Mountain and Central divisions of the United States Ski Association. The Charlevoix skiers had to work their way through several qualifying races in the midwest in order to win a spot to compete at the Junior Olympics.

Smith and Boyer aren't done racing for the season. Smith was invited to ski in the Canadian Juvenile Championships at Searchmont, and Boyer will be racing in the Eastern. Cup races at Mt. Snow, Vermont, and Camp Fortune, Ontario.

Boyer, Smith and Bunting all train with the Hurricane Racing Team at Boyne Mountain, under the coaching of Bob Vial.

Aggressiveness and tenacity are two qualities required for ski racing. Ten-year-old York Smith demonstrated an abundance of those qualities when he followed his big brother out west for the Junior Olympics.

York was too young to race officially at the Junior Olympics in Vail, Colorado. So the small, sandy-haired boy with a bowl cut asked the race committee if he could be the forerunner for the slalom event. The committee laughed at him.

CARD OF THANKS 070

Dear Friends:

I wish to express my appreciation to the many, many people of this community who have sent messages of sympathy and love at the time of my husband's death. A special thanks to all of you who have touched my heart with tributes to Bob. I wish I could thank each of you personally, but my failing eye sight will not permit it. Please, know each one of your names is written on my heart.

Lucy Martin

...persistence pays

talented young athletes who aren't officially racing in a particular event. It's a coveted spot, being the first one down a race course - not a privilege bestowed upon young boys from the Midwest.

But York was determined. Like a Yorkshire terrier, he sunk his teeth into the race committee's collective pants' leg and tugged away until they couldn't ignore him anymore. "You never let kids from the central division forerun the course. It's time you did," York told the powerful men in charge.

They sighed a collective sigh and told York to go to the coaches' meeting. Let the coaches deal with the pesky kid from Michigan.

York went to the coaches meeting, stood up and made his case for choosing him to forerun the course. They couldn't argue with his logic. So York Smith became the first kid from region three of the central division to forerun the slalom event at the Junior Olympics.

...keeping voters informed

The subject of the meeting was public school construction in Charlevoix and the speakers were Dr. Roberta Jackson, Superintendent, and Bob Tambellini, Executive Director of the Charlevoix Community Foundation. The audience were League of Women Voters members and some interested citizens. Dr. Jackson and Mr. Tambellini gave facts and figures resulting from many months-indeed, years-of study, done by many people, some expert and some only concerned. Dr. Jackson and Mr. Tambellini have no tangible stake in whether or not new schools are built in Charlevoix. Their goal is to present to the citizens the best information available, to help the community make the best decision.

There will be more meetings, editorials, letters to the editor, and conversation on the subject of what's best for Charlevoix Public Schools in the months ahead. Everyone who has children and grandchildren, everyone who pays taxes, everyone who gives a hoot about the community, will need to arrive at a decision.

The League of Women Voters of the Charlevoix Area urges each of you to get the facts. For the sake of the future, for the sake of the children, learn everything you can about all sides of the situation. And when the time comes, vote with intelligence and perspective. It matters.

Yours Truly,
Mona Bergeon, President

Son of a sailor helps watershed

People who care about the extraordinary water resources of northern Michigan have something to sing about. The Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council has been awarded a $10,000 grant from the Singing for Change (SFC) Charitable Foundation, Inc., newly created by singer-songwriter-author Jimmy Buffet.

One dollar from each ticket sold during Buffet's 1995 concert tour was put into the foundation. This money is now being returned to the areas where tickets were purchased in the form of grants to non-profit organizations. SFC primarily funds grassroots projects that serve children, families, disenfranchised groups and the environment.

SFC Director of Altruism, Judith Ranger, explains the selection of Tip of the Mitt Watershed council for a grant, "We are impressed by the crucial work your group is doing in your community and extend congratulations and thanks to you and your volunteers for making these fine programs a reality." The Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council will use this grant to fund projects and programs aimed at the protection and enhancement of water resources in northern Michigan. The SFC Charitable Foundation will be awarding $500,000 this year to support a variety of worthy causes in communities across the country.

Garden Club member honored

Rebecca Haney, district director for the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan, Inc. recently announced that Inge Ledahl has been awarded Life Membership in the state club by the Charlevoix Area Garden Club in honor of her dedicated service. "The Charlevoix Area Garden Club is fortunate to have such a devoted member and to show their appreciation they are giving you this Life Membership in the Federation," said Haney.

"Inge joined the Charlevoix club in 1985 and she's been active in the club's Smoky Bear Contest, chair of the annual Plant and Flower Garage Sale, and she has been elected and served as club president four times," said Nan VandenBerg, current president of the club.

Ledahl has shown an avid interest in gardening. She attended Landscape School and is a member of the Landscape Critics Council. She is also a certified Master Gardener, completing her course in the fall of 1993. She has also helped with the club's Middle School Planting Project, served as first vice president and corresponding secretary.

Home brews were a part of early settlers' lives

by NANCY RITSEMA
Norwood Area Historical Society

Old Jim Runyan had a "blind pig" in the woods back of his place in Norwood's earlier days, and he made his own moonshine. Some knew exactly where the distillery was hidden, but everybody knew Old Jim made moonshine. The fact is, lots of good people concocted their own beer, wine or other form of home brew and a sip of homemade elderberry wine was anticipated with pleasure.

Norwood never had a saloon, even when its population topped 400 back in 1890. But the men of the community frequented saloons on the lake steamers that regularly stopped at Norwood's dock to pick up passengers and to take on propeller wood for fuel.

The late Ernest Harris, who grew up in the 1860s and 1870s in Norwood, remembered the big steamers at Norwood and his family's "Spring Tonic."

"The first time I was ever in a saloon my Father took be on board a big passenger boat at Norwood, Michigan. All the big lake boats in those days had a saloon and sold intoxicating liquors. Here I saw my father and other of men of Norwood "take a drink."

"In the spring I used to gather sasaparila, dandelion and other roots, and our Mother brewed a "Spring Tonic." It was boiled, settled and strained, and then sugar and yeast were added. It has alcoholic properties, but was not intoxicating. It was exhilarating to say the least."

At the same time that Norwood's early citizens were enjoying their home brews and lake steamer saloons, Michigan was enacting and repealing laws prohibiting the sale and use of intoxicating liquor.

In 1855 a state prohibition law against intoxicating liquor was adopted in Michigan, but was never completely effective. In 1875 the Michigan prohibition act was repealed. A long battle followed between temperance groups and intoxicating liquor, "John Barleycorn."

In 1877, at the age of 16, Ernest Harris joined Norwood's earliest temperance organization, the Independent Order of Good Templars. Membership in the lodge included taking a solemn oath to never drink intoxicating liquors.

Harris became disillusioned with the Templars when he observed Templar members taking a drink on the sly or drinking the "hoss" medicine to get the "kick." The Lodge at Norwood finally disbanded when one prominent citizen was caught with a pint of whiskey in his pocket at a Lodge meeting.

The battle against "John Barleycorn" continued in Norwood. The most effective local temperance group turned out to be the Women's Christian Temperance Union. The W.C.T.U. was a state-wide organization to fight against the distribution of alcohol formed at Grand Rapids in 1875.

The W.C.T.U. was more than just a campaign against intoxicating liquor. It also became an effective local women's movement long before women got the unconditional right to vote in 1920. Women, working through local churches, carried on campaigns against the sale of alcohol.

They campaigned through lecture series, printed material and symbolic white ribbons. They were organized, they were vocal, and they were effective.

Through the Women's Christian Temperance Union, local schools and churches taught the ill effects of alcohol. And women became champions of other women and their children who were victims of alcohol abuse in the home.

Norwood's Methodist Church, the hub of the Methodist Circuit which included Barnard, Atwood, Eastport, Antrim City and Bay View, soon became a regular meeting place for W.C.T.U. lectures. Meetings were interesting and popular.

In May of 1906 the area W.C.T.U. convention was held at Norwood and in October of that same year Norwood women delegates traveled to the convention at Petoskey, staying overnight in the homes of local delegates.

The early grass-roots movements of the temperance groups in Norwood flourished and eventually died. But today they remain an interesting part of Northern Michigan history.

Norwood's Methodist Church, built in 1884, was the center for an early women's movement.

Ordinance faces opposition

by L. Scott Swanson

Attorneys for property owners along the north shore of Round Lake voiced objections to a proposed zoning amendment at Monday evening's city council meeting.

The zoning amendment, which was proposed by the city planning commission, seeks to regulate the height and volume of buildings on the north shore of Round Lake. Attorneys Mike Corcoran and Joe Fisher, representing six of 11 property owners directly affected, told the council the proposed ordinance is unconstitutional and violates Michigan zoning law.

> "You've got a little small pocket on Round Lake that's being governed by this amendment,"
> Attorney Mike Corcoran, objecting to a proposed zoning ordinance.

"I don't see how this ordinance complies even remotely with the stated purpose of the legislation that gives you the right to pass zoning ordinances," Fisher told council members.

Corcoran, who gave the council a petition of objection from four property owners prior to speaking, said the proposed ordinance is arbitrary and unreasonable, creating a separate standard for structures in the R-1 zoning district.

"You've got a little small pocket on Round Lake that's being governed by this amendment," he said.

Corcoran said that in order for an ordinance to be reasonable it must serve the interest of public health, safety, morals, or the general welfare of the community. He argued that the ordinance proposed does none of those things.

"What you really have is an ordinance that is trying to advance aesthetics," Corcoran said, noting that legally that is not a legitimate governmental interest.

Mayor Josh Barnes said he didn't

Sirens turn out to be false alarm

Contrary to what one and possibly two sirens indicated, there was no nuclear emergency this past Thursday. Although two sirens between Charlevoix and Petoskey sounded briefly, there were no problems at Consumers Power's Big Rock Point nuclear plant.

At approximately 11 a.m. Thursday, March 28 the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department received a phone call informing them that an emergency siren was sounding near Old 31 and Maple Grove Road. The sheriff's department notified the power plant. The plant is currently shut down for scheduled maintenance and an investigation quickly revealed the siren to be a false alarm.

According to Big Rock Point public relations officer Tim Petrosky the siren was triggered by workmen doing routine quarterly maintenance on another siren near Burgess Road. As part of the maintenance process, workmen disconnect the siren's loudspeakers and hook up a small speaker which they then activate to make sure the system is functional. When workmen activated the siren they were working on, not only did it go off, one, and possibly two, other sirens in the area sounded. Petrosky said the siren activation equipment is being sent back to the manufacturer to see why it triggered the other sirens.

Thursday's incident is the first time the sirens have been accidentally set off.

Ordinance faces opposition

by L. Scott Swanson

Attorneys for property owners along the north shore of Round Lake voiced objections to a proposed zoning amendment at Monday evening's city council meeting.

The zoning amendment, which was proposed by the city planning commission, seeks to regulate the height and volume of buildings on the north shore of Round Lake. Attorneys Mike Corcoran and Joe Fisher, representing six of 11 property owners directly affected, told the council the proposed ordinance is unconstitutional and violates Michigan zoning law.

> Attorney Mike Corcoran, objecting to a proposed zoning ordinance.

"I don't see how this ordinance complies even remotely with the stated purpose of the legislation that gives you the right to pass zoning ordinances," Fisher told council members.

Corcoran, who gave the council a petition of objection from four property owners prior to speaking, said the proposed ordinance is arbitrary and unreasonable, creating a separate standard for structures in the R-1 zoning district.

"You've got a little small pocket on Round Lake that's being governed by this amendment," he said.

Corcoran said that in order for an ordinance to be reasonable it must serve the interest of public health, safety, morals, or the general welfare of the community. He argued that the ordinance proposed does none of those things.

"What you really have is an ordinance that is trying to advance aesthetics," Corcoran said, noting that legally that is not a legitimate governmental interest.

Mayor Josh Barnes said he didn't

Sirens turn out to be false alarm

Contrary to what one and possibly two sirens indicated, there was no nuclear emergency this past Thursday. Although two sirens between Charlevoix and Petoskey sounded briefly, there were no problems at Consumers Power's Big Rock Point nuclear plant.

At approximately 11 a.m. Thursday, March 28 the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department received a phone call informing them that an emergency siren was sounding near Old 31 and Maple Grove Road. The sheriff's department notified the power plant. The plant is currently shut down for scheduled maintenance and an investigation quickly revealed the siren to be a false alarm.

According to Big Rock Point public relations officer Tim Petrosky the siren was triggered by workmen doing routine quarterly maintenance on another siren near Burgess Road. As part of the maintenance process, workmen disconnect the siren's loudspeakers and hook up a small speaker which they then activate to make sure the system is functional. When workmen activated the siren they were working on, not only did it go off, one, and possibly two, other sirens in the area sounded. Petrosky said the siren activation equipment is being sent back to the manufacturer to see why it triggered the other sirens.

Thursday's incident is the first time the sirens have been accidentally set off.

Rescuers honored by Coast Guard

Four U.S. Coast Guard members for the Charlevoix Life Station received awards for the Feb. 10 rescue of Corey Richardson from the ice of Lake Charlevoix. The award ceremony took place at the station this past Thursday.

In the early evening hours of Feb. 10 Richardson and his brother Casey were crossing Lake Charlevoix on snowmobiles. A heavy mixture of rain and sleet caused the Richardsons to become disoriented and get too close to the channel. Both snowmobilers went through the ice and into the water. Casey Richardson was unable to get out of the water and remains missing. Corey Richardson pulled himself onto the ice, but was unable to get to shore.

Stranded on the ice, Richardson called for help. In an amazing stroke of good fortune, after about 40 minutes a man from the Chicago Club who stepped outside for a moment to get something from his car heard Richardson's voice. The Coast Guard Station was contacted and Boatswain's Mate Second Class Jeff Kihlmire responded. Kihlmire has specialized training in on-ice rescue.

> "Harnessed to a tending line, Petty Officer Kihlmire crawled 100 feet over continuously breaking ice, finally falling into the water, and reached the victim who was unable to move or speak."
> From the award, describing Petty Officer Jeff Kihlmire's rescue of snowmobiler Corey Richardson.

The award Kihlmire received Thursday describes the events of the rescue as follows:

"Within three minutes Petty Office Kihlmire recalled back-ups, notified civil authorities, donned a rescue suit, and set out onto the ice in darkness with one other crewmember to attempt a tether rescue. The ice, not more than two inches thick, was reduced to slush by recent warm weather and heavy rain, winds gusted at 15-20 knots, and blowing snow severely hampered visibility. Surface conditions deteriorated as the team moved offshore, their feet going through the ice frequently, and several times they broke through into chest deep water. About 100 yards out, the team spotted one person on an ice shelf surrounded by slush and extremely rotten ice. Harnessed to a tending line, Petty Officer Kihlmire crawled 100 feet over continuously breaking ice, finally falling into the water, and reached the victim who was unable to move or speak. Petty officer Kihlmire clipped the victim onto the tending line and positioned himself underneath to protect the victim as they were pulled onto firmer ice by the line tender and two other crewmembers who had arrived on scene with a rescue sled. He then supervised loading the victim onto the sled and the team's slow and treacherous return and transfer of the victim to an ambulance waiting on shore."

The award concluded, "Petty Officer Kihlmire's swift, decisive, and courageous actions under extremely adverse conditions are particularly noteworthy considering the hospital determined the survivor's core temperature as 86 degrees and that he was literally minutes from perishing. Petty Officer Kihlmire's dedication, judgement, and devotion to duty are most heartily commended and are in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Coast Guard."

During the ceremony, Richardson's father, Rod Richardson, personally thanked Kihlmire and the other rescuers.

feel it would be appropriate for the council to debate legal issues with two attorneys. He suggested, and the council approved, tabling the matter and having Fisher and Corcoran meet with city attorney Jim Young. After the attorneys meet, the matter will come back before the council.

District Judge wants to retain position

Richard May announces candidacy

Richard W. May has announced his candidacy to retain his post as judge of the 9th District Court. May was appointed to the judge's position by Gov. John Engler in July of 1995 to fill out the term of the late Judge Harvey C. Varnum.

Prior to being appointed district court judge, May served as Charlevoix County Prosecutor since his election in 1992. Prior to that he spent 14 years in private practice in Boyne City after working as an assistant prosecutor for five years in Ingham County.

In announcing his candidacy, May said, "I feel I am uniquely qualified to continue serving our community as the District Judge because I emphasize protecting victim's rights, insuring that everyone in my courtroom is treated with dignity and respect, receives a prompt and fair hearing, and by making offenders accountable to the community and the victim for their crimes. I bring a balanced point of view to the court resulting from my 23 years of experience in both criminal and civil law. I have served the past eight months as District Judge, eight years as a Prosecutor and Assistant Prosecutor, and 14 years in private practice representing hundreds of individuals, townships and school districts. I have been responsible for the handling of over 30,000 criminal cases and 5,000 civil cases. I have personally conducted over 120 criminal jury trials. I have the administrative experience necessary to manage a court in two counties processing over 12,000 cases a year. I have managed over 65 employees and budgets of over $1 million."

As of yet, no other candidates have filed. If more than two candidates file, there will be a primary election Aug. 6. If not, the position will be decided at the Nov. 5 general election. District Court judges are elected for a six-year term.

Letters to the editor

You think your taxes are high

Editor,

The community of Charlevoix should be thankful for residents who own condominiums, summer homes, and commercial property. What a great tax base, especially for the school district. Most of these people do not have children enrolled in Charlevoix schools, but they pay the brunt of the taxes. For example, Ms. Miller would only have to pay $6,180 over a 20 year period for her two "calves" if the latest $26 million proposal passes. While the 0% homestead exempt get socked with the full 18 mills and when the latest assessment is factored in my cost approaches a whopping $34,000 — just for school millage!

MOO-ercefully Yours,
Pam Holmes

Thanks for help with Extravaganza

Editor,

I want to take this opportunity to thank the community for their wonderful support of the annual Charlevoix Middle School Extravaganza. We had over 100 personal and business contributions that made this year the best yet! Half the money raised will be used to purchase "luxury" items that are not normally put in the school budget. The other half of the money is divided among the 6th, 7th, and 8th grade classes at CMS.

I would like to personally thank Sandy Meredith and Kathy Reid and a special thank you to Marj Romig for their organizational help. They were extremely efficient and worked long, hard hours to make this a very successful event. It was a pleasure to have their help.

I hope to continue this tremendous response from the community for next year's Extravaganza. Thanks again to all who contributed to the CMS Extravaganza.

Sincerely,
Lynn Crowley
Chair, CMS Extravaganza

Letters from sixth grade students

Editor's note: The following letters were submitted by students from teacher Kathy Gowell's sixth grade English class:

Editor,

I think someone should start a clothing store for children and teens in Charlevoix because there isn't one that stays open all year except K-Mart and their selection isn't very good. Also there are so many teens that don't have a car so they can't go shopping out of town without their parents.

Another reason is that Buy Low is empty so another building isn't necessary. If a clothing store was at Buy Low kids could walk, ride bikes, or their parents could just drop them off. If one was started I don't think they'd have to worry about not having customers.

Children in Charlevoix need a place to shop for a variety of clothing.

Sincerely,
Anna Hochhalter

Editor,

I think we should have an indoor ice skating rink because we don't have to wear as much clothing and also kids won't get as cold. Parents can watch their kids without getting as cold. There would also be protective walls.

Sincerely yours,
Matt Shepard and Nate Holmes

Editor,

I am a Sixth Grade student at the Charlevoix Middle School.

I think that there should be a real hockey rink in Charlevoix because it would be fun to play in. Also, the ice is too bumpy at the ice skating rink at the high school.

We could have a hockey league. Also, we could have a person that would teach people how to skate and figure skate.

I think people would rather have a real hockey rink instead of a pool.

Sincerely,
Josh Chamberlain

Editor,

I have a really big complaint about what kids and young adults watch on TV and on movies. I think that parents should control what their children watch on television and on videos. For instance, violent things are okay to do, when they really aren't. It teaches kids to do those kinds of things, and that is why we have all of the young murderers that we have. Another thing is sex, which shows kids that sex is an okay thing to do when you are young. But hey, the movie makers still make sexual shows and that could be one of the most common reasons why young girls get pregnant. A third one is foul language. There is way too much foul language on TV shows and videos, which kids than say, hey that's a cool word, maybe I should start to use it. That's one of the reasons how foul language starts. My family and I think that there needs to be more educational shows and less violent, sexual, and foul language shows. I think kids need to do more educational thing like playing on the computer, playing outside, playing games, playing your instru-

Perhaps there is a way to keep post office downtown

L. Scott Swanson

An interesting suggestion was phoned into the Courier last week regarding where the new Charlevoix Post Office should be located. The caller suggested the post office be placed at the current middle school site. It's a proposal with some merit and should be seriously considered by postal, school and city officials.

As the situation currently stands, the Postal Service is looking for a site to build a new and larger Charlevoix Post Office. The school is looking at replacing the middle school. The city wants the post office to remain downtown.

Postal officials have said they have no objection to remaining downtown. However, they need at least a two-acre site to build a new 12,000 square foot building and they don't know of any such sites available downtown.

Tearing down the old middle school, and if necessary two adjacent houses owned by the school would provide at least two acres. The site is located adjacent to the business district in an area which is already primarily commercial and governmental offices.

City officials have said they want the post office to remain downtown. Having it downtown is a drawing card for the downtown business district and is also extremely convenient for the community.

Granted there would be challenges in working things out so the post office can be placed at the middle school site. To begin with, the school board will have to act expeditiously to come up with a realistic facility proposal. The Postal Service would have to be willing to consider the site. The city must be willing to assist the process.

Postal, school and city officials should meet and discuss the matter. If the proposal proves to be workable, it could be beneficial to all three agencies and to the people of Charlevoix.

ment, studying, reading, and many other things, other than watching television.

Yours truly,
Heather Probert

Editor,

I am a sixth grader at Charlevoix Middle School. I think our city needs a new snow plow. People are late for work because their drive ways are snowed in. It is the same with the children who go to school. This mostly happens with the people in the country. The plows that do come around plow people in. The reason for this letter is to get a snow plow for the country on Boyne City Road. That is where most people live. I live in Charlevoix Estates. They used to plow us in but my dad had a talk with the plow man. All I am saying is that you, the snow plow men, need to be a little more careful, but we respect your work. We still need a new plow.

Sincerely,
Ana Soullier

Editor,

I would like to suggest that the County of Charlevoix create more activities for its residents. The activities like Venetian and the Apple Fest would bring lots of money. The money could be used for town improvements, such as new roads could be put in, more pathways. Another one that would help out is donating money to special organizations, like Youth Groups or Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts. Also it would probably keep kids off the streets.

Thank you for looking over my idea. I hope this will be one step towards a better and improved community.

Respectfully yours,
Jayme Murray

Editor,

The City of Charlevoix is in desperate need of an activity center like a roller skating rink. In Petoskey there is a roller rink and it gets a lot of business. It will get kids out of trouble. and a lot of people just like to roller skate. It will give people in Charlevoix a chance to go roller skating without going to Petoskey.

Sincerely,
Ashley Riech

Editor,

I would like to suggest that Charlevoix invest in a zoo. It's just what Charlevoix needs and would be great for the community of Charlevoix. I would bet it would also bring in extra income to the City of Charlevoix, especially from kids. I hope you have enjoyed reading this letter. Your consideration of my idea would be greatly appreciated.

Respectfully yours,
Tegan Lawson

Editor,

I feel that Charlevoix needs an indoor ice skating rink. Now hockey players have to travel to Cheboygan for ice time or a game. From my own knowledge, it is not easy to play hockey in three inches of snow. You can't see the puck. Also sometimes it gets warm and the ice melts. Then it is destroyed for a day or two.

If Charlevoix gets an indoor ice skating rink, it might help keep kids off the streets and out of trouble.

I know the best place to put an indoor rink if Charlevoix gets one. You could put in in the Buy-Low building.

Sincerely,
Zack Bajos

Editor,

The Charlevoix Middle School needs grass on the fields. I am a sixth grader. When playing outside kids get hurt on the gravel and cement. To stop this we can simply plant grass before school starts. This makes it safer when people fall. It would also help for football players because they wouldn't have to go to the high school to practice. Even kids would enjoy playing football or soccer without getting hurt.

Sincerely,
Dennis Avery

Editor,

I am a sixth grade student at Charlevoix Middle School. I think it would be good to have a Civic Center in Charlevoix so we can play sports when they're not in season. It would be a place where kids can hang out and gossip, and a place where families can go and do activities together.

Also the Civic Center would be a place where homeless families could go and get warm. This facility would keep tourist busy in the summer.

That's why I think we should have a Civic Center in Charlevoix.

Sincerely,
Ben Speigl

Editor,

I just moved into this area a few weeks ago. I have many questions about moving up here in Charlevoix. One of them is why do we have propane gas instead of natural gas?

My parents were talking about how much our gas bill cost for the last three weeks. When I asked them about it, they told me that the gas cost twice as much in the last three weeks than a whole month at our other house and that house was much bigger. This surprises me because my dad makes less money and the gas bills cost more. It seems that natural gas would be better up here because people don't make as much money. It seems like it would be safer because people don't have those propane tanks in their backyards. It, also, isn't safe because one day when those trucks drive around there could be a hole in the tank or an accident and gas will shoot out everywhere.

In my opinion, it's costing thousands of people not to do extra activities as a family. They can be doing family activities together such as going to the movies, skiing, dinner out, etc. instead with that same money they're paying for their heating bill. If everybody in Charlevoix pitched in a couple hundred dollars, they would have enough money to connect a gas line so all people could get natural gas and save on their gas bill.

Sincerely,
Billy Foster.

Earth Day celebration to include Mort Neff film

An Earth Day celebration will take place Saturday, April 20 in Ellsworth. The celebration will include a march for parks, a classic Mort Neff fishing film, tours of the St. Clair-Six Mile Lake Natural Area, soup and sandwiches.

The day will begin at 10:15 a.m. at Wooden Shoe Park. From the park, people may walk or ride a trolley to the natural area. At the natural area there will be tree plantings and other activities. At noon there will be lunch at Banks Township Hall. At 12:15 a Mort Neff fishing film from 1958 will be shown.

The film, titled "Fishing Fun in Michigan," shows footage from several area lakes and rivers including Torch, Crystal, Six Mile Lakes and footage in the upper and lower chain including fishing for pike in the new Malpass Preserve of the 147-acre St. Clair Lake - Six Mile Lake Natural Area.

All of the day's activities are free to the public. For more information, call 547-4820 or 588-6167.

Easter Egg hunt this Saturday

Eggs will be scattered across East Park to be scooped up by a swarm of children Saturday afternoon. The Retail Promotions Committee of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring their annual Easter egg hunt for children this coming Saturday. The hunt will take place at 2 p.m., Saturday, April 6. It is open to all community children younger than 10 years old. There is no charge. Children will be separated by age groups. Parents are asked to bring their children to the park between 1:30 and 2 p.m.

Char-Em looking for preschool students

The Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School district, East Jordan PROP Program, Project FREE and Northwest Michigan Human Services Head Start will host a joint preschool recruitment for the 1996/97 school year during the months of April and May. Joint recruitment insures that families are made aware of each of the free preschool programs available to them and to enroll as many eligible children as possible into a program. Parents of 3 through 5-year-old children can come to the recruitment and learn about preschool programs offered in their local school district. Parents are asked to bring: child's immunization records, child's birth certificate, proof of income, Medicaid card or private insurance number, Social Security number of each family member, food stamp card, if applicable and their child.

State bill to provide more money for courts

Michigan's court system will operate more efficiently under legislation passed recently by the state House, said an area lawmaker who supported the bill.

"This plan helps northern Michigan. It more than doubles the amount of money the courts in the 106th District get under the state funding formula," said state Rep. Beverly Bodem, R-Alpena. "It also streamlines the structure and funding of our judicial system. Attorneys, judges and other interested groups offered testimony last fall identifying problems and suggesting improvements. Many of their ideas were incorporated into this legislation."

Under House Bill 5158, the distribution of state money for local courts is shifted to increase funding for outstate courts, in many cases by a substantial amount. The percentage of the state court fund allocated for outstate courts is increased to 52 percent.

"This shift is necessary to keep court funding fair in Michigan, "Bodem said. "Many outstate courts with heavy caseloads are currently receiving less money than they need to operate efficiently."

Ilasenko receives Coast Guard honor

Mandy Ilasenko of the Charlevoix Coast Guard Flotilla received a merit award at the Coast Guard auxiliary's annual conference on March 23.

The award resulted from her serving more than 300 hours as crew on auxiliary patrols in 1994 and 400 hours in 1995. In addition, she helped with saving the life of a boater overcome by carbon monoxide.

The merit award is a special honor received by very few auxiliarists.

In addition, for the second year in a row, Division XVI was awarded two plaques for capturing first place in operations (patrolling local waters and responding to distress calls), and for member resources and retention. Division XVI encompasses flotillas from Alpena to Traverse City and north to the Soo.

In the operational category, the Charlevoix Flotilla accounted for more of the patrol hours than any other group. Roger Tyrrell had 513 hours as coxswain; Mandy Ilasenko 405 hours as crew; John Ilasenko crewed for 244 hours; Tom Hallock has 244 coxswain hours; and Judy Hallock, 242 hours crewing.

Other major contributors to the award were Jack and Eleanor Zahn of Cheboygan, Louis Leveille of St. Ignace, and Jim Dow of Traverse City. All served more than 100 hours during the 1995 boating season.

The Member Resources and Retention award reflects growth in the auxiliary. Division XVI grew 56 percent in 1995. Cheboygan, Alpena, and Traverse City accounted for most of that increase, while most of the other flotillas showed modest gains.

Planned Parenthood receives grant

Contributors to Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood (NMPP) this year will be able to have their gifts doubled, thanks to a challenge grant from the Frey Foundation.

The Frey Foundation recently awarded a $10,000 challenge grant to NMPP which will help the agency attract new and lapsed members and encourage renewing members to increase their contributions. Donations from new and lapsed members will be matched in full, and the amount of donations from renewing members that are increased over 1995 levels will be also matched on a one-to-one basis by the Foundation.

"We are very excited about the opportunity which this grant presents to boost our membership fundraising," says NMPP Development Chair Robin Smillie. "Because we are confident that we will reach the $10,000 challenge level by mid-year, we hope to find a second local foundation which will match this grant and encourage even more membership giving to NMPP this year."

obituaries

Virginia A. McQuay

Virginia A. McQuay, 87, of Charlevoix, died March 31, 1996, at Boulder Park Terrace Nursing Home in Charlevoix.

A Funeral Mass was celebrated Tuesday, April 2, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Thomas Neis officiated. Burial will take place in Holy Sepulcher Cemetery in Detroit.

She was born June 18, 1908, in Amhestburg, Ontario, Canada. She graduated from high school in Canada.

She was a legal secretary for private law firms in the Detroit area for 44 years, retiring in 1978.

She was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix.

Survivors include her cousin, Thomas Lawler and his wife, Edna, of Charlevoix.

There will be no visitation.

Memorial contributions are suggested to Boulder Park Terrace Nursing Home. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix, where arrangements were made.

Charlevoix community Good Friday service

Charlevoix's Community Good Friday Services will take place April 5, at 1 p.m. at the First Congregational UCC Church on the corner of Park and State Streets. The annual cross processional will begin at Oleson's Food Store at 12:30 p.m. and proceed down State Street to the church.

This years' service is entitled "The Day the Sun Refused to Shine" based on the Seven Last Words of our Lord. The purpose of this service is to have each person in the pew reexamine his own spiritual life. As he reflects upon the suffering and crucifixion of Jesus, he must ask himself if he is crucifying his Savior anew. Thus, the brief meditations are built around the significant questions as they relate to the words spoken from the cross.

The service will involve pastors, lay persons, and musicians from the community. The Service will begin at 1 p.m., Friday, April 5 at the First Congregational UCC Church. The community is welcome.

East Jordan Community Good Friday service

The churches of East Jordan will host a Community Good Friday Worship Service at 1 p.m. Friday, April 5 at the First Presbyterian Church, 207 Williams St. in East Jordan. The public is invited. The Rev. Merlin Delo, Pastor of the United Methodist Church of East Jordan will read scripture and give a Good Friday sermon entitled, "Forsaken." Also leading in worship will be the Rev. David R. Downton, Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Elder Nancy Olson of the Reformed Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints, the Rev. Carl Heidel, Interim Pastor at the Evangelical Lutheran Church and the Rev. Peter Elliott, Pastor of the East Jordan Missionary Church. The service will include special music by Laura Kenny and Debbie Shaw. Offering plates will be made available at the doors and money given will replenish the East Jordan Ministerial Association Fund which is used for emergency relief.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

by BRUCE HAMILTON
Charlevoix Community Church of God

Most of you know that the summer Olympic games are to be held in Atlanta, Georgia this year. It kind of tickled me recently to see that Delta Airlines was offering special "get out of town" fares for all native residents of Atlanta for the month of the games and after hearing how at least some of the Olympic officials were handling ticket sales, they might need to get out of town.

A gentleman from New Mexico called the ticket sales office to place an order. When he gave his address, the agent on the phone said, "I'm sorry, sir, but we can't sell tickets to anyone from outside the country." Try as he might, the potential customer could not convince the clerk he was talking with that New Mexico was part of the United States. So he asked to speak with a supervisor.

The supervisor came on the line and heard the customer's tale. "You know, New Mexico, the state that is under Colorado and next door to Arizona." The supervisor replied, "Sir, New Mexico or Old Mexico, it doesn't make any difference. You'll have to buy your tickets from the Olympic Committee in your own country." And she hung up on him. She heard him all right, but she most definitely wasn't listening.

Isn't it in the psalms somewhere that "I will praise thee for I am fearfully and wonderfully made, marvelous are thy works and that my soul knoweth right well?" Well have you thought about how we are made? How many things did God give us to talk with? Just one as far as I know. How many do we have to listen with? Last time I looked, there were two. It ought to tell us the importance of not just hearing, but really listening to what is going on in the world around us.

Yes, I know it's still cold. But even nature is beginning to yield and listen to the voice of its Creator. The days are getting longer. If you listen, you can even hear the voices of songbirds occasionally. Take a close look at the trees. There are signs of new life awakening in them. All around you, the world is indeed responding to the call of spring.

What about you? Are you listening, really listening to what God might be saying to you? You cannot rely on geographical excuses if your heart is even slightly in tune with the Lord. You know that not only has He done great and marvelous things in the world around you but He stands prepared to keep some great and precious promises within you.

Take time to listen to the Lord this week, really listen. When you pray, don't just tick off your "wish and want list." Be still and know that He is God. Give Him time to share a few things with you in return. It makes a difference when you don't just hear what others say the Lord is doing. It makes a difference when you listen to Him and learn for yourself.

New book describes history of East Jordan

Pre-publication sales have begun for the first major published work on the history of East Jordan. "East Jordan Remembers: A Collection of Stories about East Jordan's Past" is being published by the Portside Arts and Historical Museum Society with support from the East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce. It is dedicated to longtime East Jordan resident and local historian George Secord who died in 1995. Some of Secord's writings are included in the book.

The 96-page book contains 65 stories by 49 authors and scores of historic photos from the Elm Point Historical Museum and other local collections. Stories for the book were solicited at large; contributors include East Jordan natives, long time residents, people with family ties to the community and new residents.

A team of three editors, Jody Malpass Clark, Joan Sheridan Hoover and Dave Knight, has worked for over a year to collect, write and edit stories for the book. Its release is planned to coincide with the 20th anniversary of the Portside Arts and Historical Museum Society this summer.

The emphasis in the stories is on unique aspects of East Jordan's heritage, such as memorable events, people, landmarks and businesses. The book is not a definitive, chronological history of the community, but rather a "patchwork" of stories that, taken together, form an interesting picture of East Jordan's past.

The Historical Society and Chamber of Commerce have targeted several potential markets for the book, including East Jordan area residents interested in local history, visitors to the area, former residents or family members who have moved away and school students studying local history.

Those interested in obtaining copies of "East Jordan Remembers" are encouraged to reserve their copies soon as a limited number are being printed. The book will be available in a gift-quality hard-bound edition for $40 each and in a soft cover edition for $15. Orders for the books are being sold at both locations of FMB Bank in East Jordan.

Orders are also being taken by mail. Checks made out to "Historical Society Book" can be sent to P.O. 419, East Jordan, MI 49727. Be sure to include name, address and phone number and indicate how many of each edition, hard-bound or soft cover, are desired.

Retired Senior Volunteers to host open house

The Retired and Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) of Charlevoix and Emmet Counties will host an open house, Tuesday, April 9, from 1:30-3:30 p.m. at the Charlevoix Senior Center.

"The Open House will give the RSVP staff a chance to informally thank volunteers and agencies for the fine work they do. It will also provide an opportunity for RSVP to introduce itself to the public, prospective volunteers and agencies." said Carla Bufe, Director.

All local RSVP volunteers, agencies and interested persons are encouraged to attend. It will be an opportunity for the community to learn more about this organization (volunteers aged 55 or older serving non-profit and public organizations which in turn are themselves serving the public).

RSVP is sponsored by the Friendship Centers of Emmet County and funded by the Offices of Services to the Aging and the Char-Em United Way.

Srigley named director of area trails council

The Top of Michigan Trails Council recently hired Petoskey resident Jennifer Srigley as its first Executive Director. The Trails Council is a non-profit organization working to create a network of multiple-use recreational trails in Northern Michigan.

Top of Michigan Trails Council was established in 1995 and has since set a plan into motion for a network of more than 120 miles through Charlevoix, Emmet and Cheboygan counties. The council is also working to expand the network into Presque Isle and Otsego counties. Council board members are meeting with area political representatives and state agencies to facilitate the use of abandoned railroad corridors for recreational purposes. The Top of Michigan Trails Council plans, with the help of its new executive director, to help provide safe recreational and alternative transportation routes throughout Northern Michigan for all residents and visitors.

Srigley was raised in Northern Michigan and attended Petoskey High School. She then studied political science and communications at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. After graduating from U of M, she returned to Petoskey to work as a staff reporter for the Petoskey News-Review.

Srigley recently returned from a year of graduate school overseas. She studied communications in Melbourne, Australia through a Rotary Ambassadorial Scholarship.

As Top of Michigan Trails Council executive director, Srigley will be working with various recreational and governmental groups in Northern Michigan and Lansing to plan the acquisition and development of recreational trails.

Top of Michigan Trails Council board members are Bill Brown, president; Neal McCue, vice president; Fred Fettis, secretary/treasurer; Tom Bailey, H.J. Huffman, Seberon Litzenburger, Carlin Smith, Jeff Bodzick, Wes Hovey, Roy Kuczwara, Neal Kretchman, Bob Valeau and Gerry Denin.

For more information about the council and its activities call (616) 348-8280. The Top of Michigan Trails Council office is located at 316 1/2 E. Mitchell, Petoskey.

Oh Boix

A collection of praises, awards and accomplishments involving Charlevoix area people.

Mike Himebauch of Charlevoix found his name bantered about in the March edition of Shorelines, an Upper Peninsula news magazine. Himebauch recently became engaged to Taya Reynolds, daughter of Shorelines columnist Keith Reynolds. According to the columnist, Himebauch has pretty much all of the credentials he was looking for in a son-in-law. He has a good job, comes from a fine family, even though he prefers Detroit sports teams he doesn't speak ill of the Packers, likes to hunt and fish and on a recent fishing trip was gracious enough to let his future father in-law catch more walleyes than he caught himself. Himebauch is the son of Gordon and Marcia Himebauch of Charlevoix.

John H. Heck of Charlevoix was among the students named to the Northwood University winter term dean's list. To be named to the list, a student must have a grade point average of 3.0 or better on a 4-point grading scale. Heck is the son of Dennis and Eileen Heck.

The Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council has two new staff members, Kristina Clark is the new Membership and Communications Coordinator for the Watershed Council. In this position she will initiate strategies to broaden the membership base and expand fundraising efforts. Clark moved to northern Michigan from New York City where she worked in marketing and promotions for the international edition of USA Today. Her professional experience also includes marketing work in book publishing, community arts education, and in-flight radio. Her new job at Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council fulfills her goal of working for an environmental organization in an area of abundant natural beauty.

Scott McEwen joins the staff as one of four Water Resource Program Directors. This position expands the staff of the Watershed Council to fill the growing needs of the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council more than ten years of experience in water resource management, public outreach and non-profit administration and has worked on such diverse river system as those found in Scotland, Maine, Vermont, and southeast Michigan. Prior to coming to the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council, he was Executive Director of the Environmental Fund for Michigan.

Christian LeButt, son of Susan LeButt of Charlevoix recently received class honors at the University of Michigan Honors Convocation in Ann Arbor. LeButt, a freshman at the university's College of Literature, Science and the Arts, and last years Charlevoix High School class Valedictorian, earned an overall grade point average of 3.725. To receive class honors a student must have a GPA of at least 3.5.

Sheriff's department investigating vandalism

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department is investigating the destruction of four mailboxes and damaging of six new Dodge trucks. The incident occurred sometime between the afternoon of Saturday, March 23 and the morning of Monday, March 25.

Six new Dodge conversion trucks at Pat McKeown's Dodge City on US 31 south of Charlevoix suffered a total of $6,500 to $7,000 in damage. Vandals smashed tail lights, dented fenders and pulled off trim on the trucks. McKeown is offering a $500 reward for information leading to the apprehension and conviction of the vandals. The trucks were parked near the highway in a well-lit area.

In addition to damaging the trucks, vandals smashed four mailboxes in the same area.

The incident occurred during the same week that an incident involving young people in California driving around hitting people and property and shooting paintballs received widespread national media attention.

Vandals did between $6,500 and $7,000 in damage to six new Dodge trucks on the Pat McKeown Dodge City lot sometime between the afternoon of March 23 and the morning of March 25. A reward is being offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the vandals. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

Karry Seibert receives Medusa scholarship

Karry B. Seibert, a Charlevoix High School senior, has been awarded a Medusa Corporation college scholarship.

Each year the Medusa Corporation awards scholarships to graduating high school seniors who are children of its employees and retirees. Scholarships are awarded on a competitive basis by a committee of three non-employees of Medusa Corporation. This years committee consisted of a professor from John Carroll University, a director from Case Western Reserve University, and a former high school principal of Fairview High School, located in one of Cleveland's suburbs. The scholarship is for $2,000 for the student's freshman year of college, with annual renewals for the normal four-year college program, providing the student maintains high academic proficiency, a full schedule of classes and remains otherwise in good standing at the college or university of their choice.

Karry Seibert

Seibert is the daughter of Richard and Judy Seibert. Her father is a control room operator at Medusa's Charlevoix plant. She plans to study communications at either Central Michigan University or Ferris State University.

Names in Business

A collection of awards, accomplishments and milestones in the careers of Charlevoix area business people.

Michelle LeButt, from Charlevoix, recently attended the 1996 Michigan Farm Bureau (MFB) Young Farmers Leaders' Conference. The conference, held March 7-9 in Lansing, helped participants to learn more about future trends in agriculture and build leadership skills through educational workshops and interacting with over 175 young farmers from all over Michigan.

Workshops for this year's program included: legislative issues impacting agriculture; ag education; congressional insight; farm management; commodity marketing; and communication in the farm family.

Highlighting the conference, which had representation from 65 of 69 county Farm Bureaus, were motivational humorist Sheri Wholfert; University of Nebraska's Dr. Ron Hanson; Doyle Cunningham, from Kentucky Farm Bureau; and MFB President Jack Laurie.

The Michigan Farm Bureau Young Farmer program is designed to introduce young Farm Bureau members, ages 18-35, to leadership and educational opportunities. For more information about Charlevoix County Farm Bureau's Young Farmer program, call the county office at 547-2043.

Sales Associates from Real Estate One - Charlevoix were honored for their achievements during the Real Estate One Franchise Group's annual awards dinner held recently in Mt. Pleasant.

Company owner, Bob Kern, and Sales Associates, Lori Uhurick, were each recognized for "Distinguished Sales Achievement" for their efforts during 1995.

Mat Masters freestyle wrestlers bring home 14 medals

The Charlevoix Mat Masters freestyle wrestling team traveled to Lowell this past Saturday and brought back 14 medals. The 17 Mat Masters wrestlers took three first places, four seconds, five thirds and two fourths.

Taking firsts for Charlevoix were Josh Christ, Ron Haggard and Bruce Reinhart. Taking seconds were Corey Gothall, Jeff Golovich, Matt Golovich and Troy Drebenstedt. Taking thirds were Nathan Golovich, Nick Golovich, Luke Whitley, Terry Terpstra and Brad Jacobson. Taking fourths were Chris Loper and Jesse Bacon.

This Saturday the high school wrestlers will travel to Middleville to compete in a national qualifying meet. Reinhart and Haggard are hoping to place in the top two to qualify for Team Michigan. Team Michigan is made up of some of the state's best wrestlers and competes against teams from other states. The middle school wrestlers will be traveling to Rogers City to compete in an invitational tournament.

Editor,
I am a sixth grader at Charlevoix Middle School. If anyone is going to smoke, they should smoke only cigars because they don't get a lot of smoke in their lungs, while cigarettes do. Cigarettes will make people sick or kill them. If anyone smokes a cigarette, they should be rushed to a hospital because the doctor could help them to not get sick or die.
Sincerely,
Andy Gels

Editor,
I strongly suggest that Charlevoix gets a new middle school and here are some reasons why.

First of all, the tall ceilings make a simple noise sound like a blaring trumpet. Next, if you scrape your chair or desk against the floor when you are standing up, the classroom under gets interrupted. This school doesn't have an auditorium so our assemblies are held in the gym. This causes the kids to have to sit on the floor. Finally, many of the heaters and P.A. speakers aren't working.

I appreciate your taking the time to read my suggestions.
Respectfully yours,
Kathryn Ricks

Editor,
I think we need a new school. The Middle School is a very old building. In the Middle School there are many problems. People have to walk through the gym to get to classes which is a distraction to physical education students. There are leaks in the ceilings and bumps in the floors. Also, we don't have an auditorium so plays and assemblies are difficult to have. The floors are not carpeted so sound echoes, and it's either too hot or too cold in the classrooms. In addition, handicapped students are unable to use the building because of stairs.

All the schools in other communities around us have better Middle School facilities than we do. It would be a tremendous aid to our education if we built a new school.
Sincerely,
Patrick Gowell

Editor,
The people of Charlevoix should continue to donate money for the pool. We have been waiting for several years.

It would be a fantastic place to go after any winter sports to warm up.

It's something for kids to do after school besides watching TV.

I'm sure many people in Charlevoix don't know how to swim. We could learn to be better, safer swimmers with lessons.

With a pool, we could get exercise even when it's raining in winter, or too cold to go to the lake in the summer.

Thank you for listening.
Sincerely,
Amy Kurtz

Editor,
We need an indoor hockey rink. One of the reasons why we need an indoor hockey rink is because it's too cold for outdoor skating. Another reason is that it's very good exercise. Also people want a league. Regular people use it to. If we don't get one a lot of people will get mad.
Respectfully yours,
Chris Loper

Editor,
I think that the Charlevoix community should have an indoor ice skating and hockey rink. We need an indoor skating rink because there are lots of people who like to play hockey and skate.

Also, the weather conditions are bad in the winter. When the ice is good, the weather is too cold. When the weather is nice out, the ice usually melts.

Another reason is that it could be used all year long so that people would have something to do when the weather is really hot.

I think that it is a good idea to have an indoor ice skating and hockey rink.
Sincerely,
Adrienne Winchester

Editor,
We need a skateboarding park in Charlevoix because we can't skate anywhere. It is either because the police won't let us skate on the sidewalks downtown, or it is too bumpy on the roads. It is very dangerous to skate on the streets because of all the rocks. If you hit a rock you would fall and skin your knees, or hit your head. I really do not think that all those kids would want to hit their heads because of a rock.
Respectfully yours,
Cody Schofield

Editor,
There are lots of various reasons why we should have a community pool for Charlevoix. Its a great way to keep kids off the streets. It's very good for your body, such as your heart and muscles. Kids could have parties there and they would get really good exercise. Most important the Charlevoix community would be happy.
Sincerely yours,
Taryn Drost

SCRAPBOOK

Judging by the number of turkeys seen feeding in the fields this spring, hunters should have good odds during the coming turkey hunts. Turkeys can be seen both north and south of Charlevoix. Currently, their traveling in large flocks. They should break up into smaller groups once the weather, if ever the weather, warms up.

Law enforcement scholarship available

Sheriff George T. Lasater has announced that his professional organization, the Michigan Sheriffs' Association (MSA), is calling for nominations for the 1996 Bernard Grysen Memorial Criminal Justice Scholarship. The scholarship is sponsored by the educational arm of the MSA, the Michigan Sheriffs Association Education Services, Inc. The $1,000 scholarships will be awarded to Michigan high school seniors pursuing a career in law enforcement. Two scholarships will be awarded in each of the MSA's five districts.

Nomination for the scholarship program must be made by a member of the Michigan Sheriffs' Association (the nominee need not be a member, however), and the completed nomination forms must be turned in to the local Sheriff's office no later than Friday, April 12.

Charlevoix grows winter weary

by L. Scott Swanson

Last week, when two-thirds of the town turned tail and fled south toward the sun for spring break, the few, the strong, the brave stayed in Charlevoix and cursed the cold, broke the drifts, tip-toed the icy walks and vowed to put a bullet into any fool who publically maintained there's any validity to the theory of global warming.

Like big chunks of ice clinging to handrails on the pier, winter maintains a grip on this Lake Michigan village. Even hardened Charlevoixians, a group who, as any anthropologist worth his salt will tell you, might not be the brightest folks in the world, but are known far and wide as a hardy breed - even hardened Charlevoixians are getting sick of winter.

Monday, April 1 at the city council meeting, the council was discussing trimming and replacement of the trees which line Charlevoix's streets. Someone in the audience asked if the city has trees available to plant in place of the dead trees removed. Bern Cannan from the Shade Tree Commission replied that the city has trees ready to be planted, "if ever we get spring."

Wednesday, April 3 as the evening progressed the weather changed from cold to colder. The wind picked up. Snow began to fall. By Thursday morning enough snow had accumulated so that the front walks of many a Charlevoix home really probably should have been shoveled. But were they shoveled? In many instances, no. All of the novelty and enjoyment in shoveling snow had long ago worn thin. The people of Charlevoix had shoveled enough for one winter and they would shovel no more. Nature had put that snow on those walks. Nature would have to remove it. In Montana, a group of people calling themselves the "Freemen" have taken up arms and are now in a standoff with the Federal government. Here in Charlevoix, we have thrown down our shovels and are going toe to toe with the forces of nature. Every part of the country has its own peculiar forms of fanatacism.

Friday, Good Friday, came and still there was snow on the ground. People carrying the cross in the cross processional waded through slush. At the community church service, how many people do you think somewhere near the end of their prayers, despite misgivings about the propriety of coming before the Lord with such things, with all due reverence and respect, put in a brief mention of the weather? Not so much for themselves, mind you. That would be selfish. But for an elderly neighbor who could get out and around so much easier, yes so much easier, if only spring would come and all of this snow would go away.

Saturday afternoon the Chamber of Commerce's Retail Merchants Committee hosted their annual Easter Egg Hunt in East Park. Two thousand brightly colored plastic eggs stood out against the white snow which blanketed the park. Fifteen minutes before it was time to start, hundreds of children lined the park perimeter. Like little sprinters in starting blocks they were poised, coiled energy ready to explode in an Easter egg snatching frenzy. Pat Henige, who had a megaphone in her hand and was running the operation, mistakenly touched a button on the megaphone and it made a Crime pays - it pays a steeper toll in 90th District Court

by L. Scott Swanson

In 1995, people committing offenses handled by the 90th District Court of Charlevoix and Emmet Counties ended up paying a total of more than $1.1 million. That was approximately $200,000 more than the District Court collected in 1994. And some folks say crime doesn't pay.

District Court Judge Richard May is proud of the increase and attributes it to a combination of factors.

One of the things May has done since becoming judge approximately eight months ago is set stricter deadlines for people to pay fines and costs. In the past, people could pay fines and costs any time during their probation. Now, with the majority of cases May sets a deadline ranging between immediately and 90 days.

"It works well. My staff in both counties (Charlevoix and Emmet) say the payment rate has increased," May noted. He added that there instances where he considers extensions and that he looks at situations on a case by case basis.

May said the court staff has also done an excellent job of monitoring delinquent payment cases.

During the past year the amount of fines and costs for offenses has also been raised. May said the Michigan Supreme Court sets guidelines with a range of fines and costs for various offenses. Fines levied by the 90th District Court generally fall somewhere near the squealing sound. Some of the children mistook the squeal for a signal to start and rushed the eggs. But given the snow covering the slopes of the park, several children found themselves egg hunting too fast for prevailing conditions. Despite losing their footing, they retained their sense of mission. They skidded down the slope on their keisters, gathering eggs as they went. Sure, it wasn't the easiest way to gather eggs, but a kid's gotta do what a kid's gotta do.

Sunday morning was Easter Morning. It said so on the calendar. Not only was there snow on the ground for Easter, it was cold, less than 20 degrees. According to some women, it is a fashion faux pas to wear white shoes before Easter. There is a similar, but lesser known fashion rule applying to northern Michigan men. No wearing long underwear after Easter. It doesn't make a difference in the way you look, but it's unmanly.

Back on Nov. 3, 1995 when two inches of snow fell and this winter started, the people of Charlevoix were young and innocent. Now, an eternity of snowfall and cold winds later, in the second week of April the people of Charlevoix are older, frost-hardened and cynical. They have had enough of winter and are ready for it to end.

Legion Auxiliary to host spring salad dinner

American Legion Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226 and its Auxiliary will host their annual spring salad and casserole dinner Tuesday, April 16, at the American Legion Hall. The all-you-can-eat meal will be served 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. Cost is $5 for adults and $3 for children age 10 and under. The dinner is open to the public.

The dinner will feature chicken, Polish sausage and sauerkraut, vegetable casseroles, varieties of potatoes, beans, gelatin salads and all types of other vegetables, salads, relishes and desserts. All Post and Auxiliary members will be contacted for their donations of food for the dinner. Proceeds from the annual dinner will assist with necessary repairs and remodeling of the Legion Hall.

Auxiliary president Katie Curtis and Vice-President Rosalyn Goldstick are in charge of the dinner. Nancy Wood is in charge of the dining room.

Stay off the ice

The Sheriff's office reports that ice conditions on the lakes in Charlevoix County are very poor at this time and unsafe for snowmobile travel.

Last week another snowmobile went through the ice in Lake Charlevoix in eight feet of water. The operator was able to remove himself from the ice without incident.

Warning

Three file for two school board seats

Three candidates have filed for two available seats on the Charlevoix School Board. Jerry Owens is challenging incumbents Steve Czerkes and Larry Levengood.

The filing deadline for candidates was Monday at 4 p.m. The election will take place June 10. There are two four-year terms available. The two candidates receiving the most votes will be elected.

The Courier will have additional information regarding the candidates prior to the election.

middle of that range.

One area where offenders are going to see a sharp increase is in costs for people convicted of operating under the influence of liquor. May has instituted a program which will require people convicted of drunk driving to pay an additional cost of prosecution fee to the arresting agency. That cost of prosecution will be another $80 to $130 on top of other fines and costs.

In a March 18 press release, May said, "Drunk driving poses the greatest risk to the motoring public and is the crime which is the most expensive for local law enforcement agencies to enforce." Michigan's drunk driving statute allows judges to require a defendant to pay for costs of prosecution. "Defendants must be held accountable to pay for the expenses that their crime causes the community," May said.

Drunk driving wasn't cheap even without the additional costs of prosecution. It varies on a case by case basis, but depending on circumstances, when lawyer fees are included a defendant could easily end up spending a total of $1,000, at least a night in jail and two to six days dealing with court proceedings.

Another significant reason for an increase in court revenues is an increased court case load, primarily in traffic cases. During 1995 the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department had additional officers on patrol and the Charlevoix City Police received a grant which allowed them to increase traffic enforcement.

The critical question in terms of the increased caseload and increased fine revenue is, what effect does this ultimately have on traffic violations and other offenses? Do you reach a point where you get fewer offenses and consequently declining revenue?

May said that's difficult to judge, particularly when he's only eight months into office. While he hopes that increased enforcement and punishment has a deterrent effect both on the individuals who go to court and upon those they associate with, there are a lot of variables. It's difficult to track the deterrent effect in a resort community with a growing population and a lot of nonresidents. Despite that, May said it will be possible to track the effect as it relates to repeat offenses among local residents.

May said that according to people he talks with who work with area teenagers, word is out on the streets that District Court is now dealing more harshly with teens for drugs and other crimes. Asked if that's an impression he's comfortable with area teens having, May smiled and said, "Yeah."

In 1995, District Court revenues in Charlevoix County were $425,569. The District Court budget was $256,000. The Court took in $169,569 more than it spent. Court revenue was distributed in 1995 as follows: $249,250 was paid to the two counties; $84,191 was paid to libraries; $6,233 was paid to cities; $85,895 was paid to the state.

While district courts generate more than enough revenue to offset costs, that isn't the case with circuit and probate courts. There has been talk by state legislators of changing the way courts operate and intermingling the types of cases handled by the courts. Asked how that would affect court revenues, May said it's difficult to say, because what state legislators may do is all up in the air right now.

CPR instructor class offered

Woman's fond memories of Charlevoix prompt $25,000 bequest to hospital

by EDITH GILBERT

Joanne Cummings

Our Charlevoix network is functioning as well as ever! A friend from California sent us a newspaper article from the Palm Beach Daily News, Florida, about one of our former Charlevoix summer residents, the late Joanne Cummings.

It seems that all her worldly possessions, and they are considerable, will be auctioned by Christie's in New York this month for the benefit of 20 charities, including the Charlevoix Area Hospital! In her will, Cummings left $25,000 in honor of Julius Gilbert, a former hospital board member and avid fund-raiser, (who, incidentally, died 12 years ago today). This bequest came as a complete and welcome surprise to the hospital board for it has been over 25 years since Cummings summered in this area.

Those who knew her well maintain that Cummings' Charlevoix summers were the happiest times in her life. For this the good people of our town can take full credit. She was as delighted as a two-year-old with her first squeaky toy on the night she observed her first Venetian Parade from the bow of our boat. She also enjoyed bringing her guests, the Henry Fords, to the Waterfront Art Fair in the park. She loved to entertain with a flair, and once hired the local firemen's band, who arrived at the Anchorage on Lake Charlevoix in their fire truck, with sirens ringing and dressed in full firemen's regalia, to the complete astonishment of her guests. She looked forward to taking tennis lessons in the summer and ski lessons in the winter. She loved to shop on Bridge Street, and occasionally would drop in at the library. She looked forward to attending the lively, singing cocktail parties given by year-round residents, the Bridges, Hawleys and Saltonstalls. In short, she was very much a part of the community, and long after the Anchorage was sold, she still called to inquire about the many people she had known here.

The Christie sale, for those who'd like to know, almost rivals the much-touted Jacqueline Kennedy auction. For example, the centerpiece of Cummings' jewelry collection is a diamond necklace by Harry Winston estimated at between $600,000 and $800,000, not to mention the matching drop earrings. Her art collection of impressionist and modern paintings, drawings and sculpture, was one of note and included Gauguin's Nature Morte A L'esperence, which alone is estimated at between $7 and $10 million. The Giacometti sculptures were at home in the gardens of the Anchorage on the shore of Lake Charlevoix, and some of the masterpieces were frequently shown at the Charlevoix Art Fair. Cummings also strongly believed in art education and she once invited a fourth grade class of Charlevoix schoolchildren on a private art tour on the property.

Finally, her outstanding European furniture collection will be offered at a single-owner sale on May 21. This includes a Louis XV commode that is estimated at $1 million to $1.5 million. My wish is that it will be bought by someone who will donate it to the now almost empty palace of Versailles. The palace is gradually trying to accumulate furniture and accessories that were sold over two hundred years ago to finance France's flattened war chest.

In all, the Christie sale will benefit 20 educational, scientific and cultural organizations in New York and Chicago, with the bulk going to Connecticut College - Cummings' alma mater. Even though she had never been a patient in the Charlevoix Area Hospital, she remembered the friendly summer resort in her will. The Charlevoix Area Hospital is indeed fortunate to be included in her list of favorite beneficiaries.

Retail Merchants Committee is doing a fine job

The Retail Merchants Committee of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce has in a quiet and efficient way been one of the more functional organizations in the community in recent years.

This past Saturday the committee sponsored its annual Easter egg hunt in East Park. Hundreds of children and their parents turned out for the event. The event has grown in recent years. In past years, 1,000 plastic eggs with small toys inside were scattered on the East Park grass. This year 2,000 plastic eggs were placed in the snow. Community children love the event. They swarm over the park snatching up the eggs and stashing them in buckets, bags and baskets. Even this year's cold weather didn't chill the enthusiasm for the event. If anything, it might have heightened it. This year's strain of cabin fever has been particularly virulent and the Easter egg hunt was a prime excuse to get out of the house and come downtown.

Earlier this winter the Retail Merchants Committee sponsored a Cabin Fever sale. Local merchants had special sales geared to get people out of the house to do a little midwinter shopping in Charlevoix.

The Retail Merchants Committee's biggest annual event is the annual Community Christmas Tree Lighting and Christmas promotion. As with the other events, these events aren't particularly complicated, but they're something people in the community look forward to and they help business.

Having a community's retail business environment remain strong and vital doesn't just happen. It's something which takes some work and nurturing. Charlevoix's Retail Merchants Committee is one among many groups in this community that has taken the time and made the effort to ensure that Charlevoix's retail climate remains friendly and strong.

Voisin - Jensen

Wendy & Steven Jensen

Wendy Suzanne Voisin and Steven Robert Jensen were married Jan. 20, 1996, at St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church in Houston, Texas. Arrangements of roses, lilies and ivy flanked the altar and the aisle was lined with candelabra pillars which were wrapped with ivy and tulle. Monsignor James A. Jamail performed the double ring rites for the 7:30 p.m. nuptial mass which was witnessed by 275 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Voisin of Charlevoix. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Jensen of Houston, Texas.

Escorted to the alter by her father, the bride wore a raw silk A-line gown featuring a square neckline, short sleeves, empire waist, open back, and chapel length train. The sleeves and bodice were adorned with lace and pearls. Her two-tier veil was secured to a headpiece of lace and pearls that matched the bodice of her dress and a detachable chapel length veil was worn during the ceremony. The bride carried a cascading bouquet of white bridal roses, white lilies, and stephanotis, accented with ivy.

Organist for the ceremony was Darryl Nance. The bride's Uncle and Aunt, Matthew and Diane Graves of Rockford, Michigan, offered the prayers and scripture readings.

Christine E. Parrizeau of Bloomfield Hills, Michigan served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were C. Heidi Perrotta and Julia M. Hacker, both of Houston, Texas; Nancy J. Ferrell, sister of the groom, of Fairfax Station, Virginia; and Janice J. Yong, sister of the groom, of Wheaton, Illinois. Junior bridesmaid was Claire V. Graves, cousin of the bride, of Rockford, Michigan. The bridal attendants wore black crepe A-line dresses featuring square necklines, short sleeves, empire waists, and open backs accented by black satin bows. They carried cascading bouquets of deep pink sonia roses and ivy.

The groom's niece and nephew, Jennifer Yong and Brian Yong of Wheaton, Illinois, served as flower girl and ring bearer. Jennifer wore an ivory satin dress with sheer short sleeves and an empire waist accented with a bow in the back. She carried an ivory basket of sonia roses and ivy.

The groom's brother, Robert M. Jensen, of Austin, Texas, served as best man. Groomsmen were the bride's brother, Vincent M. Voisin, of East Lansing, Michigan, as well as Thomas Reder, Daniel S. Evans and Clifford N. Houk, Jr.; all of Houston, Texas. Ushers for the ceremony were R. Kemp Kasling, Austin, Texas; R. Scot Moore, Bullard, Texas; and Scott C. Rote, San Antonio, Texas.

A reception, hosted by the bride's parents immediately followed at the Plaza Club located at the top of the Shell Building in downtown Houston with music provided by the band Luther and the Healers.

The groom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner at Bistro Vino the evening before the wedding, as well as a brunch for the wedding party and out of town guests at their home the day following the ceremony.

A second reception for Wendy and Steve was hosted by the bride's parents at the Charlevoix Country Club, March 9.

The couple spent their honeymoon traveling through the Canadian Rockies visiting Banff, Lake Louise, and Calgary in Alberta, Canada. They are residing in Houston, Texas, where Steve is a Vice President for NationsBank N.A. of Texas and Wendy is a sales manager for the Doubletree Guest Suites - Houston.

obituaries

Donelda M. Miller

Donelda M. Miller, 80, of Charlevoix, died April 7, 1996, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral will be 2 p.m. Wednesday, April 10, at Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix with the Rev. Francis Partridge officiating. Burial will take place in Roselawn Cemetery, Saginaw.

Mrs. Miller was born April 15, 1915, in Bay City, the daughter of Charles and Delia (Martin) LeTourneau. She grew up and attended school in Bay City.

In 1951, she married Staff Sgt. William P. Miller in Saginaw. During their marriage, the couple lived in New York, California, Michigan, Japan and England.

Mrs. Miller retired from Vollmers Realty in Whitehall in 1975.

Following her husband's death in 1961, she returned to Saginaw. She moved to the Whitehall area in 1969, then to Charlevoix in 1993.

Survivors include one son, William Patrick Miller II, of Whitehall; one daughter, Melanie Ann Kerkstra and her husband, Hessell, of Charlevoix; grandchildren, Rhiannon Kerkstra and William Kerkstra, both of Charlevoix, Maryann Kerkstra of Battle Creek, and Jodi Kerkstra of Muskegon; two sisters, Ethel Harkins of Saginaw and Florida, and Sister Bernadette LeTourneau of Grand Rapids; three brothers, Charles LeTourneau and his wife, Ann, of Etzatlan, Mexico, Leon LeTourneau and his wife, Betty, of Bay City, and Jim LeTourneau and his wife, Cecilia, of Massachusetts; and by many cousins, nieces and nephews.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Miller was preceded in death by three sisters, Cordelia Stevens, Evelyn Bray and Jeanette VanParys; and by three brothers, Joseph, Martin and Clement LeTourneau.

Memorial contributions may be made to Charlevoix Area Hospital. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Lillian Dressler

Lillian Dressler, 89, of Charlevoix, died April 6, 1996, at Penfold Adult Foster Care in Charlevoix.

Her funeral was. Tuesday, April 9, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Francis Partridge officiated. Burial will take place in the spring at St. Mary's Cemetery, Charlevoix.

She was born Dec. 4, 1906, in Chicago, Ill., the daughter of Valentine and Kathryn (Myslewis) Dressler.

She retired after 40 years as a machine operator at Display Factory in Chicago.

She was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church and Altar Society.

She had moved to Charlevoix five years ago.

Survivors include one brother, Thomas Dressler, of Chicago; one niece, Geraldine Drewa, of Charlevoix; two nephews, Ron Serna of Charlevoix, and Thomas G. Dressler of Cedar Rapids, Iowa; and by several great- and great-great- nieces and nephews. She was preceded in death by her parents, and by John Dressler, Edmund Dressler, Thomas Dressler, Anthony Dressler and Agnes Serna.

Memorial contributions may be directed to the family.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON
Charlevoix Community Church of God

Did you hear the one about the priest, the rabbi, and the engineer who were condemned to death by guillotine? The priest is asked if he wants to lie face up or face down when the blade falls. He says he wants to go face up, looking toward heaven. The lever is thrown, the blade falls and stops abruptly six inches from his neck. This is taken as a sign of divine intervention and they let him go free.

The rabbi is next. He also chooses to go face up. The lever is thrown, the blade falls and stops dead six inches from his neck. He too is released.

Nobody's fool, the engineer insists on lying on his back too. Just as they are about to pull the lever, he says, "Wait-a-minute, wait a minute, I think I see what the problem is ..."

Hopefully you remember that Jesus' disciples all came from different backgrounds and trades. After hearing that story, I find myself wondering if the one most people refer to as "Doubting Thomas" wasn't the engineer, the practical, analyzing one of the bunch. It did not impress him when the other disciples came to him and said, "Guess what! Guess what! We've seen the Lord!"

Thomas could only think in logical terms and patterns. He didn't care what anybody said. As far as he was concerned when Jesus was crucified that was a one-way ticket and there was no way any normal person was going to get up and walk away from that.

Now I am grateful for the analytical souls in my life. Everyone needs at least one or two that will help you keep your feet on the ground and make sure you think in practical and realistic terms. But then again friends, you also need to realize this resurrection faith we celebrate was always meant to loom larger than life in our hearts. We have been guilty of selling God short for too long. We have been guilty of not exercising full confidence in the words of the Christ like we should.

What happened with Thomas? He said unless he could see the marks on Jesus' hands, put his fingers where the nails were, and put his hand into the Lord's side, he would not believe. What thrills me down to my toes is what the Lord did with Thomas' words and what He stands prepared to do with ours. He came face to face with Thomas and repeated everything Thomas had declared to the others word for word.

Don't ever sell God's ability to listen, hear, or be involved in your life short. Do you remember what happened? Jesus sought Thomas out and used his very own words to confront his doubts. But what gets to me is what the Lord says ultimately to him, "Stop doubting and believe."

Those are the words that need to reach you today, "Stop douhting and believe." For if you are really open to the power of words, then never forget that God has always stood ready to meet you where you are and take you where you need to be. He can do great and powerful things through any life that is prepared to stop doubting and believe.

Church begins aerobics class

Man jailed after pulling gun on deputy

A Charlevoix County man is charged with two felonies and a high misdemeanor after pulling a gun on a sheriff's deputy who had come to his home to serve two bench warrants on him.

At approximately 2 p.m. Sunday, April 7 Deputy Sherry Sproul went to the Evangeline Township residence of Thomas Joe Habasco, 37, to serve two bench warrants for non payment of child support. When Sproul put Habasco under arrest, he ran from her into a small room at the home where he grabbed a Smith & Wesson .44 magnum and pointed it at her chest. Sproul backed up to the door of the home, but Habasco grabbed her right arm and pointed the gun at her head. Sproul then broke away from Habasco and ran to her patrol car and radioed for back-up units.

While Sproul was calling for assistance, Habasco ran off into the woods. Additional deputies and officers from the Boyne City Police Department, Department of Natural Resources and Charlevoix County Sheriff's Auxiliary arrived and cordoned off the area. Habasco was tracked by the Charlevoix County Canine Unit and found about one hour later hiding in an evergreen tree about one-quarter mile from his residence. He was arrested without further incident.

Monday, Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney Mary Beth Kur charged Habasco with one count of assault with a dangerous weapon, a felony carrying up to four years in prison and/or a $2,000 fine, one count of Felony Firearm use, a felony carrying up to two years imprisonment consecutive and preceding any term of prison for the underlying felony, and one count of resisting and obstructing an officer serving process, a two-year high court misdemeanor with up to a $1,000 fine.

In 1994, Habasco was convicted of two counts of attempted resisting and obstructing a police officer.

Habasco was arraigned Monday in District Court before Judge Richard May. A preliminary examination was set for April 22 at 3:45 p.m. Bond was set at $20,000 cash or surety with no contact direct or indirect with Deputy Sproul and no possession of any firearm. As of Tuesday morning, Habasco remained in the Charlevoix County jail.

More than 100 children made short work of collecting 2,000 eggs scattered on the ground in East Park Saturday.

Saturday's Easter Egg Hunt in East Park didn't take long, but while it was in progress, the parked turned into a churning mass of humanity.

Children collecting eggs were incredibly focused during the hunt. They didn't have time to stop and chat while there were eggs to be had.

Kaitlyn Flora proudly displays the eggs she captured in Saturday's Easter Egg Hunt.

Math isn't always cut and dry

Elementary students ponder and conspire to come up with the answer to a difficult math problem.

Mathematics that today's students will need to be mathematically literate in the 21st century is different from that which many of their parents learned. The mathematics education of students' parents focused on arithmetic or the four basic operations. Chicago Mat of K-12 program developed by the University of Chicago, and currently in use in kindergarten through ninth grade in Charlevoix, and The Applied Math courses at Charlevoix High School, reflect the changes.

Charlevoix's math curriculums build mathematical skills that enhance problem solving and critical thinking. Elementary students learn to become problem solvers through their experiences in developing strategies. They understand, rather than simply follow rules. Students are taught that many times there is no single "correct" answer, that there may be several different appropriate and reasonable answers to the same question. In the Middle School, students experience Transition Math, a course that weaves three themes: Applied arithmetic; pre-algebra; and pre-geometry. Students become independent learners, completing projects requiring the use of outside resources to connect their math with real life experiences. High school courses offer hands-on activities that integrate arithmetic, algebra, geometry and trigonometry. With the recent addition of classroom sets of graphing calculators and classroom computers, students use technology to visualize, explore, and compare concrete and abstract concepts.

Jess Wood and Laura Nortley measure their heights and the distance from the floor to their navels to see if their growth has been proportionate.

Local investment club featured in magazine

The Charlevoix Women's Investment Club was recognized in the April edition of "Better Investing" magazine. The Charlevoix club recently celebrated its tenth anniversary.

The purpose of the club is to teach members how to invest. Each month, club members invest in $20 increments. At monthly meetings, club members decide which stocks are good investment choices. Those $20 monthly increments add up. Currently the club has a portfolio valued at close to $30,000. Among the stocks the club currently holds are Merck, Coca-Cola and Wal-Mart.

Current club members are: Lani Ochs, Sue Coen, Katherine Francis, Marilyn Wilmot, Marty Strawbridge, Marge Dinwiddie, Pam Pennington, Alicia Mosher, Glenda Conlan, Terri Rowe, Kathy Tillen, Bette Coen, Jean Sayers and Jean Rakoczy.

Big Rock plant goes back on line

Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point nuclear power plant is again generating electricity.

The plant was synchronized with the utility's state-wide electrical grid April 6 at 9:01 a.m. after a scheduled refueling and maintenance outage that lasted 92 days. The outage began Jan. 5.

Major work completed during the outage included the loading of 22 new fuel bundles, ultrasonic inspection of the reactor, turbine and pump repairs. A total of 1,600 work activities were completed during the shutdown.

The next refueling and maintenance outage at Big Rock Point is scheduled for April 1997.

Big Rock Point was the world's first high power-density boiling water reactor and an important research site for the nuclear power industry. The plant has generated electricity since 1962 and was named a Nuclear Historic Landmark by the American Nuclear Society.

Owned and operated by Consumers Power Company, Big Rock Point is capable of producing 67 megawatts of electricity, enough to serve a community of 38,000 people.

Bodem to visit

State Representative Bev Bodem will be in Charlevoix Thursday, April 18 for a meeting with the Charlevoix League of Women Voters. The public is invited to attend the meeting which will begin at 7:30 p.m at the Congregational Church on the corner of Park and State. The meeting will be informal and provide people an opportunity to voice concerns, ask questions and find out what's going on in Lansing.

Wrestlers compete in two tournaments

Charlevoix's Matmasters wrestling club divided into two groups this past Saturday, participating in tournaments in Middleville and Coopersville.

The Middleville tournament was a freestyle and Greco-Roman tournament for high school age wrestlers. It was also a qualifying tournament for the Team Michigan team which will compete against wrestlers from other states. Charlevoix heavyweight Bruce Reinhart placed second in both the freestyle and Greco divisions and qualified for Team Michigan. Ron Haggard also wrestled in the tournament, but didn't qualify for Team Michigan.

At Coopersville, a tournament for younger wrestlers, Charlevoix wrestlers brought home six medals. Tyson Potter and Jeff Golovich took first place in their divisions. Corey Golovich and Nathan Golovich placed third in their divisions. Matt Golovich took a fourth and Brett Probert took a fifth.

ORDER TO ANSWER

On March 22, 1996, an action was filed by the above named Plaintiff, against the above named Defendants, in the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, to quiet title to real property situated in the Township of Eveline, County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, more specifically identified as follows:

Commencing at a 1 inch iron pipe at the South quarter corner of Section 33, T33N, R6W; thence along the South line of said section South 89°49'10" West 2630.36 feet to a 3/4 inch pipe at the Southwest corner of said section; thence along the West line of said section North 00°18'24" West 2747.87 feet; thence South 58°38'40" East (recorded as South 58°50' East) 400.02 feet to a T-iron stake in concrete, being the point of beginning of this description; thence North 31°10'00" East 85.35 feet to the shore of Lake Charlevoix; thence along said shore South 48°59'39" East 25.38 feet; thence leaving said shore South 31°10'00" West 81.10 feet to a concrete monument at the Northwesterly corner of the John P. & Lynn Jandasek property as described in Liber 333, Page 842, Charlevoix County Records; thence North 58°38'40" West (recorded as North 58°50' West) 25.00 feet to the point of beginning; being a part of Government Lot 1, Section 33, T33N, R6W. The above described property includes all land to the water's edge of Lake Charlevoix Northeasterly of the courses described as being along said shore.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Defendant JENNIE L. COPP as above named, and any heirs, successors, executors, assigns, or others claiming thereunder, and any other parties claiming interest, shall answer or take such other action as may be permitted by law on or before:

May 23, 1996

Failure to comply with this order will result in a judgment by default against said Defendant for the relief demanded in the complaint.

PLEASE NOTE that a hearing will be held on:

May 24, 1996 at 2:15 p.m.

in the Circuit Courtroom of the Charlevoix County Building in Charlevoix, Michigan, in connection with this matter.

Navy Petty Officer 1st Class Larry J. Whitley, son of Stanley and Patricia Whitley of Charlevoix, is in the Western Pacific Ocean near the island of Taiwan aboard the guided missile destroyer USS Callaghan.

Whitley is one of 344 Sailors aboard the destroyer providing a naval presence in international waters. Whitley's ship is monitoring the military exercises and missile firings that the People's Republic of China has been conducting in the waters around Taiwan.

Whitley traveled more than 4,000 miles from the Persian Gulf, where he had been working in support of the ongoing maritime interception operations designed to prevent ships from smuggling prohibited materials to and from Iraq.

Since leaving San Diego in late December, Whitley has traveled more than 20,000 miles. While in the Persian Gulf, Whitley's ship rendered assistance to a fishing boat and its crew adrift at sea without food and water. Whitley's ship, along with the USS Pelcliu Amphibious Ready Group, provided the vessel with food, water and fuel.

Carol L. Sneathen of Charlevoix recently earned an award for logging 250 hours in the American Quarter Horse Association Horseback Riding Program. The program provides AQHA members recognition for time spent riding or driving American Quarter Horses.

A unique aspect of the program is its simplicity. Current AQHA members complete a program application and pay a one-time $25 enrollment fee. Each enrollee receives an official AQHA log sheet to record their hours driving or riding their American Quarter Horse.

City approves two agreements

At Monday evening's city council meeting two actions were taken affecting Round Lake harbor.

In the first, the council approved an agreement with Ward Brothers Boats which will expand and improve fueling and pump-out service to boats. In the second action, the council agreed to purchase the former Parkside building for $460,350.

The agreement with Ward Brothers Boats will allow Ward Brothers to extend a dock at an angle 60 feet out into Round Lake to create an additional fueling and pump-out area. Currently, Ward Brothers has a fueling area at a shoreline dock. There will be fuel pumps on both sides of the extended dock, thus providing three fueling locations for boats.

There will be pump-out facilities at both the extended dock and the shoreline dock. The city, which has in the past operated a pump-out facility, will no longer operate one.

Don Ward said the new arrangement should take some of the pressure off the existing fueling facility so that boaters don't have to wait to get to the fuel dock. The extended dock will also have 21 feet of draft for larger sail boats. Ward said the business hopes to have the new fuel site up and running by June 1.

The council went into closed session to discuss the purchase of the Parkside property, then came back into open session and approved the purchase.

A federal transportation grant will pay 80 percent of the purchase price while the city will pay the remaining 20 percent. Following the purchase, the Parkside building will be torn down to create a better view of the harbor from Bridge Street. The grant came from a program designed to create better views from public highways. The city purchased the building from Terry Left and Steve Ager.

Late season ice still keeping ferries off lakes

Beaver Island anxiously waiting for its ship to come in

by Laurie Lounsbury

Water, water everywhere... no, that's not quite right. Ice, ice everywhere more accurately describes the frozen fields of water surrounding Charlevoix. Thick ice still covers most of Lake Charlevoix and parts of Lake Michigan. Historically, the ice is nothing but a frosty memory by the first week of April. That was not the case this year.

Beaver Islanders are particularly suffering from the icebound waterways. Without the Beaver Island ferry boat bringing them supplies, the cupboards are getting bare. "We're so low on groceries, it's getting so the mice are packing up and moving out," said Billy McDonough, owner of McDonough's Market on Beaver Island.

Islanders are making do with the bare necessities and improvising when they can't get exactly what they want. Flying supplies to the island costs five times as much as ferrying them over by water. "We're out of tons and tons of stuff," McDonough said.

The Beaver Island Boat Company is doing everything they can to restore ferry service to the island. They've asked the Coast Guard cutter Acacia to swing by after a buoy run to break up the ice in St. James Harbor. They've made temporary docking arrangements in Round Lake at Ward Brothers Marina. The Beaver Islander was using the Ferry Beach dock for temporary quarters, but the ice on Lake Charlevoix hasn't given up its hold at Ferry Beach.

"This is the latest in my memory that we haven't been able to start making runs. The islanders are getting a little anxious," said Lynn DeGrow, president of the Beaver Island Boat Company. Last year, after a mild winter, the Beaver Islander started making trips between the mainland and the island on March 28. The boat usually starts ferry service during the first week of April. This year, the boat was scheduled to make its first run on April 12. "It didn't run," DeGrow said, resigned to the whims of nature.

Another ferry boat unable to cut a swath through the ice is the Ironton Ferry. The four car ferry almost always starts making trips across the south arm on April 15. Right now, it's in dry dock. Dave Wilson, owner of the Landing Restaurant at Ironton, reported that the ice is still two feet thick in places. "If the ferry starts running before the end of April, I'll be surprised," Wilson said. Ice fishermen are still perched in shanties and seated on overturned buckets in the Ironton cove area, with lines dangling through fishing holes. Even with the stubbornly slow thaw, local fishermen say that the ice is getting a couple of inches thinner each day. "It's still thick, but people ought to be cautious. Things can change fast, cracks can develop," Wilson said.

Tape captures music of Beaver Island

Ed Palmer plays old time party tunes

You'll probably never be able to party on the mainland quite like it's done on Beaver Island, but at least now you can have Beaver Island party music.

Ed Palmer, a Beaver Islander who's been playing Island party music for three decades, has put together a tape called Ed Palmer's Party Tunes From Beaver Island. It's a lively combination of piano, harmonica, rhythm and bass guitars that'll set you looking for a wooden floor so you can shuffle your feet, do a little jig, and later in the evening maybe even work your way up to some Beaver Island Stompin'.

As Palmer will tell you, it ain't fancy music. It's just old fashioned Island party music, the kind of music that's been played at the Circle M and the Shamrock and the Holy Cross Hall for many a year.

Palmer originally recorded the music at Michigan State University. Some people from Michigan State came to the island and heard Palmer play and they asked him to come down and play at a heritage festival. While at Michigan State, Palmer recorded music at the university studio. Later, he had Play Town Sound in Petoskey mix the music and produce the tape.

Palmer has been selling the tapes since last year and has sold more than 500 copies. He says he's not out to make any financial killing with the tape. His goal is "just to get my music on my tape for my kids and anybody who would enjoy it."

Elderly people have been particularly fond of the tape. Songs such as Alley Cat, Buffalo Girls, Golden Slippers and Turkey in the Straw bring back fond memories.

Palmer plays the piano, harmonica and rhythm guitar on the tape. His friend Richie Scripps plays bass guitar.

"It's music I've been playing since I was a boy," Palmer says.

Some of the music is original to Beaver Island. Palmer wrote "Hail to the Beavers" and his father-in-law, the late Jewell Gillespie wrote "On the Beach" back in 1936. Palmer said that song was kind of a theme song that he played at every island dance for years.

Palmer is working on a second tape which will include more vocals than the first. Charlevoix people interested in purchasing party tunes can give Palmer a call at 448-2304. He was going to have the things on sale at Harmony House in Charlevoix, but they're going out of business so he's looking for a new Charlevoix outlet.

Island students present play

Fifth and sixth graders at Beaver Island Community School will present a play called "Krazy Kamp" May 8 at the Holy Cross Parish Hall. The play will begin at 7 p.m. Tickets cost $2 per person or $7 per family. Proceeds from the production will help fund a fifth and sixth grade trip to Camp Hay-O-Went-Ha on Torch Lake in May.

Earth Day celebration this Saturday

An Earth Day celebration will take place Saturday, April 20 in Ellsworth. The celebration will include a march for parks, a classic Mort Neff fishing film, tours of the St. Clair-Six Mile Lake Natural Area, soup and sandwiches.

The day will begin at 10:15 a.m. at Wooden Shoe Park. From the park, people may walk or ride a trolley to the natural area. At the natural area there will be tree plantings and other activities. At noon there will be lunch at Banks Township Hall. At 12:15 a Mort Neff fishing film from 1958 will be shown.

The film, titled "Fishing Fun in Michigan," shows footage from several area lakes and rivers including Torch, Crystal, Six Mile Lakes and footage in the upper and lower chain including fishing for pike in the new Malpass Preserve of the 147-acre St. Clair Lake - Six Mile Lake Natural Area.

All of the day's activities are free to the public. For more information, call 547-4820 or 588-6167.

Second trip court is far more pleasant than the first trip

Last Friday, Tory Werth appeared in Charlevoix County Probate Court - and not for the first time.

Earlier in life, Werth, now 19, had been in probate court charged with breaking and entering and larceny. As probation officer Mary Hickman noted Friday, when he initially entered the court system Werth was "hanging with the wrong crowd, making poor decisions for himself and was addicted to marijuana."

Since that time, things have changed dramatically. Friday, Werth again appeared before Seventh Probate Court Judge Frederick Mulhauser. But this time, instead of receiving a sentence, Werth received an award. Werth recently won the the Juvenile Justice Association of Michigan's Youth Achievement Award for Region 2. To be nominated for the award a youth must have demonstrated that they have not only made significant progress in their own life, but also have been of service to the community.

As Hickman described the situation, in Werth's case he initially followed his probation rules and stayed off drugs and alcohol to keep his mother happy and the court off his back. Later, he realized that in order to keep his life in order he had keep his act together for himself rather than for other people. He began to regularly attend AA meetings and learn from the experiences of other people who been recovering from their problems for years.

Werth also realized that he wasn't the only young person in the area who has fought a drug and alcohol problem. He initiated several area Young People's AA Meetings, including one which meets Monday evenings at 7 p.m. at Harbor Hall in Petoskey and another which meets Tuesday evenings at 6 p.m. at the Alano Club in Charlevoix. He has also started AA meetings at one of the court's non-secure detention homes in Boyne City. Beyond organizing the meetings, he also offers rides to young people who need a way to get to the meetings.

Werth currently is living in Boyne City and working for a landscaping business.

School board still pondering facility plans

by Laurie Lounsbury

The Charlevoix Board of Education is moving ahead with their plans to educate the community about the proposed, $26 million new buildings project. Two town meetings are scheduled for April 29 and May 7. The town meetings will include a tour of the high school, a report on the present buildings, with the principals giving a slide presentation on each building, and a question and answer period.

The proposed agenda for the town meetings included a board of education recommendation on the facilities, but board member Allen Telgenhof asked to have that item removed from the agenda. "There is no board of education recommendation right now," Telgenhof said.

In an effort to clarify what has occurred so far with the new buildings project, Bob Tambellini, spokesperson for the task force committee, gave a brief summary to the board. "The purpose of this citizens' group was to build on the information from all the previous groups," Tambellini said. "We were not asked to examine the political ramifications...not asked to consider the cost factors. We were only asked to bring a recommendation to the board." The recommendation for two new buildings, an auditorium, and a bus garage was a solution that ideally suited the schools' present needs, as viewed by the task force committee.

Tambellini also said that the task force recommendation was based on the concept of acquiring a large tract of land and building all of the facilities on the same property, with a common campus.

Tambellini said that task force members questioned how the single campus would work, with fifth grade students through high school students sharing facilities. The task force didn't address those issues. "That was not our charge. That's the charge of the staff and the superintendent," Tambellini explained.

In related business, the board selected the Beta Design group as the architect for the project at their March 25 meeting. The Beta Design Group has asked the board to select the construction manager for the project. The school steering committee will do the initial screening for a construction manager, with final approval to be made by the board.

In other business, the board approved changes to the high school graduation requirements and course offerings at the last school board meeting.

Although it had been discussed, the board decided not to require four years of english for high school students. The english requirements remain the same, with students needing three years of english to graduate.

A semester of gym class is now required, in order to accommodate a unit of health. Students playing sports used to be able to waive the gym class requirement.

Taxpayers should reject intermediate school district tax increase

L. Scott Swanson

If you don't want to end up where an escalator goes, don't get on it.

On June 10, Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District voters will vote on a .75 mill proposal to increase funding for vocational education. Voters should turn down the proposal.

When Michigan changed educational financing two years ago, taxpayers essentially made a trade, lower property taxes in exchange for higher sales taxes. Millage rates on property taxes were lowered (At least they were lowered on people's primary homes. For second homes and businesses, millage rates in Charlevoix increased.) while sales taxes were increased from four cents on the dollar to six cents on the dollar.

One of the primary dangers in that trade off is that over time property taxes, through increased millage rates, will creep back up to their former levels. Then, taxpayers will find themselves stuck with the same old high property taxes plus higher sales taxes to boot.

The only way for taxpayers to avoid this situation is to take the time, go to the polls and very firmly say no.

In addition to avoiding the property tax escalator, voters should say no to the Char-Em proposal because it's not needed.

Nobody makes an argument that vocational education isn't important. Obviously training students to make them employable once they graduate is very important. And that's more than likely why Char-Em has chosen to run their tax increase under the banner of vocational education.

But the key question voters need to ask isn't whether or not vocational education is important. The key questions are: Can local school districts provide suitable vocational education with current funds? And does vocational education need to be regionalized through the intermediate school district system?

In recent years the Charlevoix school district has made tremendous strides forward in vocational education without additional millage either locally or through Char-Em. With financial resources already available, Charlevoix's vocational education program has used new people, new ideas, added creativity and motivation to come up with a better product. In the 1990s, that's the way things operate in the business world for which vocational education is supposed to be preparing students.

The Char-Em vocational education proposal points out one of the main problems intermediate school districts and the regionalizing of the educational system. What it proposes to do is have local districts pay money to an intermediate school district which will then redistribute the funds back to the local school districts. It adds an unnecessary layer of bureaucracy to the process. And that unnecessary layer of bureaucracy takes a cut of the funds for unnecessary administrative work. Granted, there are certain educational programs which are required by such a limited number of students in each district that it makes sense to consolidate the programs regionally to enjoy some economies of scale. But vocational education is certainly not one of those programs.

Charlevoix and Emmet County voters should mark June 10 down on their calendars as a day to make sure to take the time to vote no on the Char-Em proposal.

Letters to the editor

A busy weekend ahead for students

Editor,

I am writing to let others know about the wonderful programs and competitions that are taking place during this week, April 14-20, 1996, as a result of the hard work and efforts of one hundred of our Charlevoix Middle School students (plus five elementary students).

On Wednesday and Thursday night over fifty students will be presenting "Alice in Wonderland" in the Middle School Gym. Curtain time is 7 p.m. Director Jane Garver and the cast invite the community to come.

On Saturday, April 20, twelve students will be participating in the regional Michigan Council of Teachers of Mathematics Competition in Traverse City, against some of the best middle school math students of Northern Michigan. Teachers Steve Hopkins, Tori Fisher, and Kay Fiedorek have been preparing these students for this throughout the year.

Also on Saturday, April 20, five Future Problem Solving Teams will travel to Ann Arbor, to compete in the State of Michigan FPS Competition. Since September, these twenty rounds of top quality blue book solutions. Teachers Tom Sothard and Ann Shindorf have successfully served as coaches for this program over the years.

A third group of students are heading for Mount Pleasant, and the Odyssey of the Mind State Competition. This after-school creative problem solving activity encourages divergent thinking that requires teams to present their solutions in the form of short performances. Four separate teams qualified at the regional level and have been coached by Dianne Dreyer, Tori Fisher, Audrey Roloff, Dean Spencely, and Ginnie Schairbaum.

A final group of eight Middle School students will head for Kalkaska, on April 20, for Band Solo and Ensemble Competition. Charlevoix Band director, Raphael Rittenhouse, has helped students select and prepare appropriate compositions for their skill level and instrument.

Support and encouragement by parents, teachers, and the community make these opportunities available for our youth. Please join me in wishing them Good Luck! as they represent our school and our community!

Virginia Schairbaum

Crooked Tree art classes begin

A variety of music, dance and art classes will be offered April 15 through May 22 at the Virginia M. McCune Community Arts Center at 461 East Mitchell Street in Petoskey. The Community School of the Arts is a program of the Crooked Tree Arts Council. CTAC brings the arts and music to all residents of Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

New to the schedule is a Sculpting Class with local artist Richard Wolf. Working in alabaster and limestone, Wolf has been sculpting since the early 1970s. Adult students will use simple stone carving tools to create their own masterpieces in the six week class, to be held on Mondays.

Another news instructor is potter Mike Hope. New to the area, Hope has been working at Sturgeon River Pottery, just west of Petoskey. The Wednesday night class is open to adults interested in learning the fine arc of pottery.

Eileen Heck from Charlevoix will continue to teach children's art for kids in first through fifth grades on Monday afternoons.

USCF Certified Chess Coach Franklin Helle will teach all levels of chess players on Thursday afternoons. The chess classes have been a welcome addition to the Community School of the Arts and proved to be quite popular with all ages and levels of play.

Ballet instructor Debbie Keys will again offer ballet classes to ages four through ten on Saturdays. Creative Dance is open to age three through twelfth grade on Tuesdays with teacher Becca Buchalter.

Children's Music teacher Marti Kruseil will offer her classes for very young children. She also offers private voice and piano lessons. Maggie Poxson continues her violin and string classes, as well as private violin classes. Private lessons are arranged at times convenient to both the student and instructor.

Burns Clinic provides scholarship funding for up to 75 percent of tuition costs of Community School of the Arts classes for students through high school age. To apply for a scholarship, you must visit the Arts Center and complete an application. The deadline for this term is April 11 at 5 p.m.

To register for a class or lesson for any Community School of the Arts Spring Session class, and for more information, call the Arts Center at 616/347-4337.

Out of the Blue

It's Friday deadline time again,
But the winter's worn me out,
I can't think of a single thing
To write to you about.

Planned Parenthood offers prom packet

With high school proms coming up soon, Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood is promoting responsible decision-making, by again offering free pre-prom information kits. The packets include brochures such as "50 Ways to Express Love and Affection Without Having Sex" and "Many Teens are Saying No" which includes response lines to help kids resist pressure to be sexually active. Information on drinking and driving and drug use is also included.

"We first offered the pre-prom kits in 1994," said NMPP Associate Director Martha Lancaster. "We are well aware that, for many young people, there is the expectation that they will have sex on prom night. For many teens, prom night is their first sexual experience, and this decision may be influenced by the use of alcohol and other drugs."

Planned Parenthood wants to encourage teens to make healthy, responsible decisions. The prom kits can give them the information they need to resist pressure and to develop other, fun ways of celebrating this special night. For those teens who decide to be sexually active, there are also brochures on birth control, sexually transmitted disease, and condom use. The kits do not contain condoms.

For more information call 347-9692 or 929-1844.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

There was a herd of cattle all standing on a hill when an earthquake struck. All of the cows fell down, but the bull remained standing. The farmer noticing this went out and asked the bull, "Why didn't you fall down like the rest of the herd?"

The bull replied, "We bulls wobble, but we don't fall down."

If that little tale happened to slip by you, ask a parent who has a young child! Hopefully, they can tell you about some little toys that kids play with that will pull it all together for you.

Speaking of kids, there's been a lot of talk about children chasing their dreams and the role of parents in their following their dreams. Whenever I hear an emotional debate like that, I find myself saying has anyone looked at what the Lord says on the subject?

Why should it surprise us that there are some young ones who do have bold dreams and ideas at an early age? Didn't Jesus Himself say that "a little child shall lead them?" When we were young, we were told there were no limits, that if we believed, anything was within our grasp. Why should that have to change when we become adults? Why can't we do everything we can to encourage our young ones to explore the options and horizons that are there? Why don't WE continue to explore those options ourselves?

The Old Testament prophet Joel spoke of our sons and daughters prophesying, of old men dreaming dreams, and young men seeing visions. When the spirit of God has His proper place in our hearts we are supposed to expand our horizons. We are supposed to look beyond traditional boundaries and limitations. There really is nothing impossible when we trust in God.

When you pursue a dream, the road is not always easy. There are ups and downs in every part of life. You have to expect it. There may even be some who fail when they reach out for their goals. But for every tragedy, there are triumphs as well. For every doorway that may be closed, there are other doors that will open.

God has always called us to reach beyond our human limitations and trust Him. He's said time and again that if we were willing to believe, special things could and would happen. I do not fault parents who believe in their children and encourage them to dream. I wish more grown ups would realize that they too should take their visions seriously and follow through. There may be times all of us may wobble, but we don't have to fall down.

Cornelia A. "Connie" Raymer

Cornelia E. "Connie" Raymer, 90, of Charlevoix, died April 10, 1996, at Boulder Park Terrace Nursing Home in Charlevoix.

Her funeral was Saturday, April 13, at the Belltower Reformed Church south of Atwood. The Rev. Tom Welscott officiated.

Mrs. Raymer was born June 30, 1905, in Atwood, the daughter of James and Jessie (Wassenaar) Elzinga. She graduated from Ellsworth High School in 1923, and completed her County Normal training and permanent teaching certificate at Ferris State College and Eastern Michigan University. She taught elementary school in Belding and Ellsworth for 15 years.

On Jan. 13, 1928, she married Roy L. Raymer Sr., in Ellsworth. After raising their family in Belding, they returned to Norwood while Mr. Raymer was co-owner and manager of Will-Flow Inc. He preceded her in death on Nov. 1, 1966.

Mrs. Raymer was an active member of the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix for many years, and a member of the Belltower Reformed Church at the time of her death. She was also a member of the Charlevoix Garden Club and the Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild.

Survivors include her children, Roy L. Raymer Jr. and his wife, Lorraine, of Sarasota, Fla.; Donna L. Brown of Milwaukee, Wis.; and Nancy L. Ritsema and her husband, Ronald, of Norwood. She is also survived by 11 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren; three brothers, Henry Elzinga of Lansing, Arthur Elzinga and his wife, Lola, of Belding, and Herbert Elzinga of Lowell; and by one sister, Maxine Elzinga, of Traverse City. Mrs. Raymer was also preceded in death by one brother, Marvin Elzinga.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the Belltower Reformed Church or to Boulder Park Terrace.

Arrangements were handled by the Hastings Funeral Home in Ellsworth.

Richard "Dick" L. Halstead

Richard "Dick" L. Halstead, 78, died April 6, 1996, at Perrysburg Manor in Perrysburg, Ohio.

His funeral was Friday, April 12, at the funeral home in Ohio, with the Rev. James Bacik officiating. Burial will take place at a later date in Maplelawn Cemetery, Boyne City.

Mr. Halstead lived at Perrysburg Commons and was formerly of Boyne City.

He was born July 24, 1917, in Wellston, the son of Clarence and Isabel (Lindsey) Halstead.

In 1938, he married Virginia H. Garbula in Detroit. She preceded him in death on Jan. 13, 1985.

Mr. Halstead graduated in 1938 from Wayne State University, formerly the Detroit Institute of Technology, with a bachelor's degree in chemical engineering.

He was employed by the Ohio Rubber Co. in Willoughby, Ohio, for 30 years as a sales engineer, retiring in 1982.

Mr. Halstead was a member of St. Matthew's Catholic Church and Rotary International of Boyne City. He was also a member of the American Chemical Society, Knights of Columbus, Civilian Conservation Corps and the Lake County Farmers Conservation Club.

Survivors include his son, Richard T. Halstead and his wife, Tricia, of Perrysburg, Ohio; and two brothers, Maurice Halstead of Rotonda West, Fla., and Lindsey Halstead of Naples, Fla.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the Lake County Farmers Conservation Club, 6711 Auburn Road, Painesville, Ohio 44077; or to the National Wildlife Federation, 1400 16th St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

Grief recovery program offered by Hospice

A series of five weekly sessions for those coping with a loss will be held from Wednesday, April 24 to may 22, from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in East Jordan. The Grief Recovery program is sponsored by Charlevoix County Hospice, Charlevoix Area Hospital, Community Mental Health and District Health Department #3, to provide help for anyone who is recovering from a loss.

Rev. Buzz Walls, Charlevoix County Hospice cleric spiritual advisor, will conduct the Grief Recovery sessions. Please call the Hospice office at 536-2842 to indicate your desire to participate in the free program.

Christian Fife and Drum corps forming

A group called "The Northern Michigan Christian Fife and Drum Corps" is being organized in Petoskey. The group has two goals: playing eighteenth century fife and drum music with emphasis on Christian selections; and Christian fellowship. The group will also sing early American hymns and psalms accompanied by period instruments.

If you play the fife, flute or drum and would like to be part of the music group or the color guard and carry a flag or period rifle, contact David Kraus at 347-0408 between 6 p.m. and 9 p.m.

Students solving problems at state competition

By Laurie Lounsbury

Teams of sixth, seventh, and eighth graders have already tackled the problems of gun control, mental health issues, and the 21st century marketplace. And they must have come up with good solutions to those problems, because five Charlevoix Future Problem Solver teams have qualified for the state finals, to be held April 20 in Ann Arbor. "It's the most number of teams we've ever sent to the state championships," said Tom Sothard, coach for the FPS middle school teams.

The Future Problem Solvers will be expected to solve a problem concerning cybernetics at the state finals.

What newspaper ? ? ?

1. Goes into more Charlevoix homes than any other newspaper?
2. Supports the community editorially?
3. Provides a forum for citizens to express their views?
4. Documents the history of the community?
5. Provides glimpses into our community's past each week?
6. Is the only newspaper devoted to the interests of the Charlevoix community?
7. Provides in-depth reporting of local issues?
8. Has served the community for over 110 years?

If you answered "Charlevoix Courier" to all eight questions you scored 100%. The Charlevoix Courier does all of these and is proud of its tradition of service to the community. We, at the Courier, know the importance of a community having its own newspaper and we will continue to serve the area.

Bodem receives legislator of the year award

The Michigan Hotel, Motel & Resort Association has honored state Rep. Beverly Bodem, R-Alpena, and Rep. Pat Gagliardi, D-Drummond Island with 1996 Legislator of the Year awards.

The two northern Michigan lawmakers were recognized at the group's 1996 convention and trade show in Novi.

Bodem chairs the House Tourism and Recreation Committee. Last fall, she served as a delegate to the White House Conference on Travel and Tourism. The 106th District lawmaker sponsored the 1993 revision of Michigan's Tourism Policy Act and helped to create the Genevieve Gillette State Parks Endowment Fund a year later.

"I am thrilled to receive this honor from the Michigan Hotel, Motel and Resort Association,"Bodem said. "These hard-working individuals are essential to the state's economy. Thanks to their efforts, Michigan will remain a leading destination for travelers in the 21st century."

Bodem and Gagliardi both helped to coordinate last fall's Northern Michigan Legislative Conference on Tourism. The pair is also sponsoring a bipartisan bill in the state House requiring the school year not begin until the Tuesday following Labor Day. The association estimates Michigan's tourism industry could gain $40 million per year with the later start date.

"The Hotel, Motel and Resort Association has worked hard to make Michigan's tourism industry one of the best in the country," Gagliardi said. "It is a pleasure to work with this dedicated organization and an extreme honor to receive their 1996 Legislator of the Year award. I am proud to be part of this bipartisan team on tourism."

The association began in 1914 as the statewide representative for the hospitality industry. The group provides support and information to over 700 members representing more than 31,000 rooms. It is affiliated with the American Hotel and Motel Association in Washington, D.C.

Grange plans several events for Grange Week

Barnard Grange has planned several special events for the week of April 21-27. The week has been designated as Grange Week in the state of Michigan.

The events will begin with a hymn sing at 7 p.m., Monday, April 22 at the Grange Hall on Barnard Road. Following the hymn-sing the Grange's annual Community Service award will be presented to a non-Grange member.

From 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. Friday, April 26 the Junior Grange will host a pancake supper at the Grange Hall. The cost is $3 for adults, $2 for senior citizens and children between the ages of five and 14, and $10 for a family of four or more. Children younger than age five are admitted free. Proceeds will help run the Junior Grange and sponsor field trips.

Grange Week will conclude with a card party and light potluck at the Grange Hall beginning at 7:30 p.m., Saturday April 22 at the Grange Hall.

BUSINESS

State law changes for seasonal employers

Effective July 1, 1996, employers who operate their businesses in Michigan, 26 weeks or less (excluding the construction industry) may request to be determined a "seasonal" employer.

This seasonality provision was part of Public Act 25 (Senate Bill 3220, signed by the Governor on April 25, 1995. Public Act 25 reformed unemployment insurance laws in the State of Michigan. The seasonality provision, along with other reforms, will help make Michigan a more competitive place in which to do business.

To be considered a seasonal employer under the MES Act, the employer must apply to the MESC at least twenty days prior to the start of the employer's regular business season. Employers who take advantage of the new seasonality provision will see a dramatic reduction in their MESC Tax Rates. The largest drop in the rate will occur in the sixth consecutive year that the employer elects to be classified a seasonal employer. The rate reduction in the sixth year can be as much as 60 present less than their current rate.

To find out more about seasonal determination or how much your seasonal business can save, contact Marlene Jobe, Executive Director, at the Employers' Unemployment Compensation Council (EUCC), (810) 354-7916, or Tom Mahar, Chairman, EUCC, (517) 686-0161.

Touch Tone boat registration working

Secretary of State Candice S. Miller said recently that 99 percent of the watercraft owners who have renewed boat registrations using a Touch-Tone telephone would use the system again.

"Traditionally, people renew boat registrations in April and May and I am encouraging those who must renew this year to do so by Touch-tone telephone," Secretary Miller said today. "This is a convenient and easy way to renew and will help us evaluate whether this service can and should be expanded to automobile owners renewing license plates.

"Renewing by telephone has the potential to revolutionize how people do business with the Secretary of State's office," Secretary Miller added.

Secretary Miller provided a status report on the program as a way of encouraging watercraft owners who need to renew, but who have not yet done so, to renew by Touch-Tone telephone. Among the findings she reported:

- 5,500 watercraft registrations have been renewed by telephone to date.
- Ninety-nine percent of those surveyed would renew by telephone again.
- Ninety-eight percent found renewing by telephone easy.
- Customers renewing by telephone are completing their business in about four minutes.

Challenger makes its way to dock

The Medusa Challenger needed some help from a tug boat to get into the dock at Medusa last week. Ice on Lake Michigan was blocking the way.

Names in business

A collection of awards, accomplishments and milestones in the careers of Charlevoix area business people.

James MacKenzie, M.D., recently joined the consulting staff at Charlevoix Area Hospital. He is a physical medicine specialist and received his medical degree from Wayne State University School of Medicine. He served his internship and residency at William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak, Michigan. He is board certified by the American Board of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation and the American Board of Electrodiagnostic Medicine.

Denise A. Sinke, M.D., has joined the consulting staff at Charlevoix Area Hospital. She is a neurologist and has been on the staff at Northern Michigan Hospital since 1988. She received her medical degree from Michigan State University and served an internship in internal medicine at Blodgett and St. Mary's Hospitals in Grand Rapids. Her residency in neurology was at the Medical College of Wisconsin. She is board certified by the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology.

Laurence M. Rubens, M.D., has joined the courtesy staff at Charlevoix Area Hospital. He will be conducting orthopedic surgery at the hospital. He received his medical degree from the University of Michigan Medical School in 1974. His internship was served at the University of California in San Diego and his orthopedic surgery residency was at Henry Ford Hospital from 1977-81. He is board certified by the American Board of Orthopedic Surgery.

Dennis Kusina, Charlevoix agent for Farm Bureau Insurance, has been named one of the company's top agents of the year for his record of sales and service.

Kusina earned the 1995 All American Award, recognizing his as one of the top agents in Michigan.

The award indicates that Kusina is a leader in sales and client service, according to Larry Thomas, executive vice president of Farm Bureau Insurance.

"He is the kind of agent who does an outstanding job of servicing the community," Thomas said.

Kusina also received the pacesetter Award for being one of the top four new agents in the company in 1995.

Josh Christ (left) of the Charlevoix Matmasters took first place at the Cedar Springs freestyle tournament this past weekend.

Wrestling team collects medals

The Charlevoix Matmasters freestyle wrestling team traveled to Cedar Springs Saturday and brought home six medals.

Josh Christ placed first at 165 pounds, going undefeated.

Jeff Golovich placed fourth at 72 pounds. Matt Golovich placed third at 37 pounds. Jake Edson placed fourth at 120 pounds. Troy Drebenstedt finished fourth at 95 pounds. Brett Probert placed third at 80 pounds.

The Matmasters will be wrestling in the Wyoming Park tournament this coming weekend.

This summer Charlevoix will be hosting a week-long wrestling camp with instruction by world-class wrestler Dan Severen.

Softball team wins twice

Charlevoix's varsity softball team got off to a strong start Thursday, traveling to Central Lake and pounding the Trojans 14-4 and 15-2. Both games were called after five innings due to the mercy rule.

Jenny Eveleigh threw a three-hitter in the opener and combined with Lyndsay Blechel to throw a no hitter in game two.

In the opening game Eveleigh struck out three and walked one while aiding her own cause with two singles.

In the second game Eveleigh pitched three innings striking out four and walking two. Blechel threw the final two innings, striking out two and walking two.

Jenni Swenor had three hits in the game, including a triple. Christie Kaczynski tripled and singled while Aprille Pischner doubled and singled. Liz Coen and Eveleigh also had two hits in the game.

The Rayders host Ellsworth, Thursday, April 18.

Baseball team opens at 2-0

Charlevoix's varsity baseball team opened its season by thumping Central Lake in a double header this past Thursday. The Rayders took game one 14-0 and game two 13-7.

Jason Terryberry set the tone for the day, tossing a no hitter in the five inning opening game which was shortened because of the mercy rule. Terryberry walked three and struck out nine.

Gary Leitner and Steve Speigl led the Rayder offense. Leitner had a two-run home run and a single while Speigle had three singles. Steve Carland singled and doubled while Mark Boss also had two hits. The Rayders had 14 hits in the game.

Boss pitched in game two, allowing two hits while walking eight and striking out seven. He had more hits than he gave up as he had a home run a triple and a double. Rory McKeown and Leitner each had a single and a double in the second game.

Charlevoix has its home opener Friday, April 19 with Harbor Light Christian.

Track teams win 13 medals

Charlevoix track teams took two firsts and a total of 13 medals at the Clare Invitational track meet Friday.

In the girls' meet, Charlevoix's Chelsea Gorkiewicz won the 3200 meter run with a time of 13:36. The Rayder girls also won the 1600 meter freshman-sophomore relay. Liza Gorkiewicz, Emily Martinus, Sarah Dominic and Tricia Hodge combined for a time of 4:55.

Candice Vandergriff, Martinus, Liz Kelly and Chelsea Gorkiewicz placed second in the 3200 meter relay. Monica Browe, Tricia Kelly, Liz Andreae and Liz Kelly placed second in the 1600 meter relay.

Martinus tied for third in the 300 hurdles. Vandergriff placed third in the 800 and Hodge placed fourth in the 1600.

For the Charlevoix boys team, Josh Skeel placed second in the shot put while Brian Martinus, Nate Martin, Dave Manker and Seth Kilander placed second in the 3200 meter relay.

Manker, Kilander, Nick Kessler and Martin placed third in the 1600 relay. Steve Felter placed third in the long jump. Mike Rautio placed fourth in the shot put and E.J. Ranville took fifth in the discus.

Charlevoix's next meet will be April 18 at East Jordan.

Parrish named to state all-tournament team

Lisa Parrish

Lisa Parrish of Charlevoix was named to the All Michigan Tournament Team this past weekend at the AAU State Tournament in Grand Rapids for girls age 15 and under. Parrish played for the Northern Exposure team with players from Cadillac, Roscommon, Leland, Manton, Marion, Manistee and McBain.

The team was the only northern Michigan team to qualify for the 16 team tournament. The Northern Exposure team finished fifth, losing their final game by four points. The top four Michigan teams qualified for the national tournament.

In five tournament games, Parrish averaged 16 points and 12 rebounds. She was one of ten players in the state selected to the All Tournament Team. Parrish, a sophomore at Charlevoix High School, is the daughter of Jim and Faye Parrish.

Youth Basketball board to meet April 22

The Charlevoix Youth Basketball Association board held its first meeting Sunday, April 14 and will meet again Monday, April 22 at 7 p.m. in the Charlevoix Middle School Library. The purpose of the organization is to foster and promote youth basketball programs in Charlevoix. Anyone interested in seeing Charlevoix's youth basketball programs expanded or improved is welcome to attend the April 22 meeting.

Youth basketball board officers are: Barb Vogel, president; Dan Ulrich, vice president; Bill Silberhorn, treasurer; Judy Skippergosh, secretary; Larry Skippergosh, Gary Spencley, Melody Barrett, Bob Rowe and Joe Horon, trustees.

Soccer team splits games in Grand Rapids

Charlevoix's girls soccer team opened its season at Grand Rapids this past weekend. Friday evening the Rayders were beaten 1-0 by Grand Rapids Catholic Central. Saturday, the Rayders defeated Grand Rapids West Catholic 4-2 in overtime.

Charlevoix outshot Catholic Central 13-3, but just couldn't get the ball past the goalie. The game was played in a storm and delayed twice by lightning.

Saturday, Kami Boyer and Heidi Miller scored in overtime off assists from Emily Murray and Jodi Bingham. The Rayders got their first goal of the season on a 25-yard direct free kick from Theresa Johnson. Katy Conlan got the Rayders' second goal from 18 yards out off a centering pass from Boyer.

Johnson, Melissa Darrah, Carrie Beemon and Lauren Simmons led the Rayder defense. Freshman goalie Kelly Kusina had seven saves.

A collection of praises, awards and accomplishments involving Charlevoix area people.

Several Charlevoix County people were among the fall semester graduates at Central Michigan University. They were:

Patrick LaBlance, Erica Chamberlain, Benjamin Heath, and Jackson Laucher of Charlevoix; Michelle Felton, Stacy MacFarlane, and Patricia Wright of Boyne City; Hollie Johnston of Boyne Falls; and Christie Galvin of East Jordan.

Former Charlevoix resident Bill Cross recently retired as captain of the DNR research vessel "Chinook" based in Alpena. Cross started on the Chinook in 1969, shortly after coho salmon were introduced to the Great Lakes. Cross came from a long line of commercial fishermen. He, his father and grandfather fished both Lakes Michigan and Huron. His experience made him ideally suited for work on a DNR fisheries research vessel. Upon Cross' retirement, the duties of Chinook captain will be assumed on an interim basis by his cousin and longtime assistant, Clarence (Tuffy) Cross.

Jeffrey S. Burke, formerly of Charlevoix, will be among the spring 1996 graduates of the University of South Florida. Burke will receive a bachelor of science degree in geology.

Miranda Babbit of Charlevoix will be among the graduates at the April 20 commencement ceremony at Alma College. Babbitt will receive a Bachelor of Arts degree in communication.

Navy Chief Petty Officer Douglas M. Pidek, son of John R. and Phyllis J. Pidek of Charlevoix, is in the Western Pacific Ocean near the island of Taiwan aboard the guided missile frigate USS Ford.

Pidek is one of more than 200 Sailors aboard the frigate providing a naval presence in international waters. Pidek's ship is monitoring the military exercises and missile firings that the People's Republic of China has been conducting in the waters around Taiwan.

Pidek's ship traveled more than 4,000 miles from the Persian Gulf, where it has been working in support of the ongoing maritime interception operations designed to prevent ships from smuggling prohibited materials to and from Iraq.

The 445-foot-long-ship is equipped with high-tech radar, sonar and weapons systems and can combat aircraft, ships and submarines. Since leaving Everett, Wash., in late December, Pidek has traveled more than 20,000 miles.

The 1980 graduate of Charlevoix High School joined the Navy in September 1981.

Local runners among 40,000 in marathon

by L. Scott Swanson

Four Charlevoix runners joined 39,996 other people in running the 100th annual Boston Marathon April 15. Vicki Voisin, Christie Vogelheim, Bud Boss and Mel Vance trained throughout the long, cold winter and were rewarded with a beautiful race day.

Although the race had more than four times the usual number of participants, Charlevoix runners said the Boston Athletic Club did a wonderful job of handling all of the people.

Vogelheim said 40,000 runners gathered in Hopkington, Massachussets, a town smaller than Charlevoix for the start of the race. The local high

Keeping watch at the bridge

by Laurie Lounsbury

If you've got any reckless ideas about peeling off your clothes and performing a swan dive off the channel bridge, you'd better be prepared to smile for the camera. Veterans Memorial Bridge is now equipped with a panoramic surveillance camera, mounted on the west side of the bridge. The camera can be trained in any direction, and can zoom in and out on any suspicious activities.

"It will alleviate the blind spot on that side of the bridge," said Charles Bergmann, bridge superintendent. But exactly what has the bridge operator been missing because of that blind spot? There hasn't been any bridge vandalism in the quarter of a century that Bergmann's been raising and lowering the bridge. But Bergmann supposes that the surveillance camera was intended to discourage future vandalism. The camera could also alert bridge operators to potential problems with boats drifting too close to the bridge. "It's like going from a stick shift to an automatic. Once we get used to it, (the camera) we'll probably use it and like it," Bergmann said.

The surveillance camera is just one of the new improvements being made to the bridge. Indirect lighting has been installed underneath the bridge, illuminating the lower bridge walkway. New gates were installed along with new brakes to stop the bridge's motion. The bridge tender's station has all new electrical work and a new control panel. "It's been 50 school served as a staging area for the race. While the 1996 marathoners were preparing for the race, past marathon winners gave pep talks. The race started at noon, but people started gravitating toward the starting line at 10:30 a.m.

Voisin and Vogelheim said that during the race it quickly became apparent that having a good time was going to be a more realistic goal than finishing with a good time. Voisin said that after lining up in the crowd of 40,000, it took her and Vogelheim 17 minutes just to reach the starting line.

"You just kind of had to settle in and go with the flow," Vogelheim said.

Voisin noted that even without the crowd, given the time of year it's difficult for a northern Michigan runner to train properly and get a good time. "The problem with that race particularly is training for it here. You have to train from January to April."

Despite the constraints, Voisin and Vogelheim both said they had a good time. Vogelheim said the spectators who lined the course from start to finish were great, shouting encouragement to all of the runners. Voisin said that rather than fun, the word she would use to describe this year's race would be "interesting." She said it was impressive to see the organizational aspects of dealing with that many people in a race.

"It was just a great experience," Voisin said.

Vogelheim also said that overall, she enjoyed the race and was glad she went. She also intends to run the Boston Marathon again. "I'd like to go back when there aren't quite so many people," she said.

U.S. Senate candidate hopes to shrink federal government

When something needs to be done, the problem with letting government do it, is that when government does it, it just doesn't get done that well. Republican U.S. Senate candidate Rona Romney voiced this view while visiting Charlevoix last Wednesday.

Romney, a conservative talk radio host who has been active in the Michigan Republican party for years, hopes to win the Republican nomination and unseat Democratic incumbent Carl Levin. According to Romney, voters like Levin personally, but don't want to re-elect him because his ideas haven't worked. Romney says Levin believes in big government and taxing people's wages in order to bring that money to Washington to be redistributed as he and other big government advocates see fit. Romney says that's the wrong approach and that the right approach is to cut government, give working people their money back and let them decide how to spend it.

Romney says her view of the importance of a limited federal government is very much in harmony with the U.S. Constitution.

"Our founding fathers wrote the Constitution to protect us from the tyranny of large government," she maintains. However, she believes the federal government began to go in the wrong direction in the 1960s and now needs to be downsized.

Romney says the federal government's war on poverty programs and war in Vietnam put the federal government on a course of massive deficit spending and changed American society by embedding one sentence into people's minds, "Let government do it." The problem with that, Romney says, is "Government hasn't done well. In fact it has caused more problems than it solved."

Many federal government programs and departments should either be reduced, eliminated or given to the states Romney says. For example, Romney would get rid of the Federal Department of Education because she feels it doesn't do any good. "They provide six percent of the funding and they just get in the way."

> "Our founding fathers wrote the Constitution to protect us from the tyranny of large government."
> Republican U.S. Senate candidate Rona Romney

"Nothing should be sacrosanct," Romney argues. "If the programs don't make sense, they should be eliminated."

Romney notes that she doesn't favor simply cutting all federal programs by a certain percentage across the board. She feels that would just be a way of dodging the work of picking and choosing which programs are valuable and which are not.

Among the specific issues and positions addressed by Romney in an interview with the Courier were the following:

Medicare - Should be brought back to the states.

Social Security - Romney says the system is going bankrupt. She says various models for change need to be looked at. One she thinks has some potential is a Chilean model in which people invest their own money in the private sector. She says there will be a transitional period and there needs to be smaller government so the economy will grow at a faster rate.

Flag burning - Romney diverges from many Republicans on this issue in that she opposes a Constitutional amendment to ban flag burning. She cites her belief in the Constitution as it's currently written and her background in talk radio where government has tried to institute what was labeled the "Fairness Doctrine" to limit dialogue. Romney said one of the first orders of totalitarian regimes is limiting freedom of speech. "You must be able to criticize your government," she said.

Abortion - She's adamently opposed to abortion.

Tax reform - Romney says taxes need to be lower and the tax system flatter and fairer. She calls the current federal tax code "9,000 pages of loopholes for special interests."

School to give tours of high school building

As part of the effort to upgrade Charlevoix school facilities, the school will host two walk throughs of the high school in coming weeks. Monday, April 29 and Tuesday, May 7 there will be tours of the high school at 6:15 p.m. followed by meetings at 7 p.m. The public is welcome to attend.

A community survey will be conducted in mid May with the school board to receive results of the survey by June 3. The board is scheduled to make a final decision by June 17 as to what type of proposal to put before school district voters.

years since any electrical work's been done," Bergmann said.

Electrical problems were often the culprit when the bridge got stuck in the open position.

The new electrical work won't change the one thing that concerns most bridge crossers. The bridge won't open and close any faster in the summer time.

Take the time to catch a few spring sporting events

L. Scott Swanson

If you get some time on a warm afternoon this spring, stop in at the track, tennis courts or one of the ball parks and take in one of the high school spring sports events.

The atmosphere at spring sports differs from fall and winter sporting events. Although the sports are competitive, for some reason the atmosphere seems to be slower and more laid back.

Attending a track meet on a warm day is kind of like going to the beach. There are a bunch of people there soaking up sun. You can wander around from one event to the next, chatting, finding out what's going on at the meet, what's going on in town. Track athletes are an interesting breed. The sprinters and people who jump over bars in high places tend to be a bit wired, while the distance runners and folks who throw heavy objects are generally more easual.

Girls soccer is a relatively new addition to Charlevoix's high school spring sports menu. We're still a far cry from the crazed crowds of Europe and South America. In Charlevoix, soccer hasn't advanced to the point where unruly mobs riot, beat and crush people and generally cause mayhem. In Charlevoix, a few parents come to the game and watch their daughters run around on the field. The Rayder team, in only its second season, is improving rapidly under the direction of coaches Tom Conlan and Hagen Manker. It's been a matter of girls with good athletic ability figuring out how to effectively utilize it.

In baseball, softball and tennis the athletes are armed with clubs and either hit or throw objects at high rates of speed. Consequently, almost like criminals the players are placed inside of fences away from the general populace. Even so, there are breaks in the action where the players come out of the cages and mingle among the coaches and parents. At both the softball and baseball games, it's not uncommon to see parents cooking hot dogs on grills.

From a competitive aspect, this year's version of Charlevoix High School spring sports also looks promising. Coach Hal Evans always does a nice job with the boys' track team, particularly in the relays. Ken Plude has his core of cross country runners doing the distance events in girls' track. Both track teams also look to be somewhat stronger than usual in the field events this year.

The baseball team is off to an excellent start. The pitching staff is as deep as it's been in years with exceptional balance between right handers and left handers. The defense looks solid as does the hitting.

The soccer and softball teams are particularly interesting in that they are programs which are improving.

The softball team opened the season ranked eighth in the state. Don't be surprised if the things Rick Grunch and the rest of the high school softball coaching staff are doing combined with improvements planned by Ike Boss and the City Recreation Department end up making Charlevoix a real softball hot spot within the next few years.

Charlevoix's high school girls' soccer program is only in its second year, but has already made large strides forward. Coaches Tom Conlan and Hagen Manker have taken a long-range view to build a program which is solid year after year, rather than going up one year and down the next.

If you're driving around in the next few weeks and notice a sports event going on at one of the fields, pull the car in and watch for a while. Spring sports in this town are worth watching.

EDITH GILBERT

by EDITH GILBERT

The nine page, full color spread in this spring's edition of "Country Homes/Country Gardens is of double interest to all Charlevoixans. Featured in the attractive issue are not only the remarkable rustic Stonehedge Gardens of retired emergency room physician, Dr. Don Trimper, but the article was scouted by none other than our own Suzy Farbman! In case you didn't know, the Farbmans have a place here in town as well as a farm in the country. They spend every available moment "up north." But more details about Suzy's writing later —

In the magazine, Suzy quotes Don, "I try to capture a total atmosphere of old buildings and flowers that look as though they just happened and have been here for years." Those of us who have visited Stonehedge Gardens know how well he's succeeded with this ambitious goal. Artists, photographers and landscape designers revel among the cedar porches, rustic trellises, and pergolas, all built by Don, who awakes with the roosters and "works as hard mending fences as he once did mending injuries."

"At first, Don created his gardens simply for himself and his wife, Marcia, to enjoy," writes Suzy. "Then four years ago, Marcia opened an antiques shop in a pole barn overlooking the gardens." Visitors now are torn between experiencing the euphoria of Don's garden or browsing through the tantalizing antiques in Marcia's shop.

Don's gardens are planted with 75 varieties of hardy perennials. One border focuses only on flowers that specifically attract butterflies, such as heliotrope, coreopsis, phlox, geranium, peony, lavender, primrose, cosmos, etc.

Last July, "Country Homes/Country Gardens" sent a special garden photographer, Pete Krumhardt, from Iowa, (Home of the Meredith Corporation), to photograph Stonehedge Gardens. When he arrived, he told Suzy how delighted he was to film such an exceptional garden. He began photographing early in the morning and then again after three o'clock "until the light or my film runs out."

Suzy Farbman's job as design editor and photographic stylist for "Better Homes and Gardens," as well as contributor to other publications of the Meredith Corporation, is to find suitable homes to photograph for these slick magazines, and then write about them. So far she is featuring several unusual sites in our area. In the spring issue of "Traditional Homes Renovation Style" you will find the Harbor Springs home of Marlec Brown Musser. She has converted an old, native American church into a wonderful studio/guesthouse. The cover of the next winter issue of "Better Homes and Gardens and Bath Ideas" will show the interior of Jana and Charlie Wynn's kitchen with some amazing hardware and light fixture designs by contractor, Andy Poignou. You may have missed Sandy Moers' Charlevoix cottage pictured in April of '95 BHG, and the lovely home and garden of Dr. and Mrs. Sitner, which was featured on the cover in August '95, but it is not too late to look for the upstairs apartment of Brenda Teague, proprietor of the Maison & Jardin on Bridge Street in the forthcoming issue of "Better Homes & Garden Decorating." Her sophisticated antiques will be shown in a clean and brightly lit atmosphere. Finally, watch too, for Interior Designer, Linda Mason's cottage on Park Avenue in a forthcoming issue of "Better Homes and Gardens Remodeling Ideas."

Suzy's credentials for scouting outstanding homes and gardens are impressive. She was Design Editor

Letters to the editor

Schools shouldn't have stairs

Editor,

There seems to be a question of whether a new Middle School should be built and if it should be a one or two story building.

Last Friday, my daughter fell down the stairs at the Middle school while going to her band class. This was during the usual change of classes. After a trip to the Emergency Room, except for a few bumps and bruises, she is fine. Maybe next time, someone won't be as lucky.

Also a special thank you to Mr. Evans, Mr. Stargardt, Jackie Towsley, the other teachers and students who helped her. Your kindness was greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,
Denise Riley

Thank you to Rainbow volunteers

Editor,

To all the volunteers at the Rainbow Shoppe of Charlevoix, our most sincere thanks for your dedication. In as much as this is National Volunteers Week, we indeed wanted to express our appreciation to you loyal people.

Thirteen years ago, we managed to gather together eight ladies to "man" the cash counter at the Rainbow Shoppe. Since then, that number has grown to 189 volunteers!

They are a very dedicated group of people, both men and women. Yes, we really do appreciate every one of these generous volunteers, giving of their time, talent, and energy to the Rainbow Shoppe of Charlevoix. Hats off to all of them!

Rita Orlowski, Vice President
Rainbow Shoppe Board of Directors

Thanks to volunteers ... it's working

Editor,

During this week of volunteer recognition, the Char/Em United Way would like to express our most sincere thanks to all those who share their time and resources in our community. Thousands of hours are "donated" each year in many local agencies, hospitals, churches, and community centers. So many times we take these precious gifts for granted. I urge everyone to take a moment and thank a volunteer - we all know them. And volunteers - please know that we appreciate your efforts to make our lives better. Thank you for your time, wisdom, strength and support!

Most sincerely,
Lisa Ashley
Executive Director
CharEm United Way

Many have helped local Salvation Army

Editor,

National Volunteers Week is April 21-27. It is a time to honor and say thanks to all who help us in our endeavors. You who make life just a little brighter for the people in the Petoskey area. Our volunteers come from many livelihoods, from the homeless to the wealthy. All our volunteers give from their heart, time, possessions, can goods, or the money from their pocket.

We feel that every one of our volunteers gives everything they can and more. We have volunteers who go out into the freezing cold to ring bells for Christmas. Many break their backs moving and hauling furniture. Many give up their lunch hour to feed the cold, hungry and needy every day. They deserve the spiritual guidance, social, material, and community services that they all give.

We want to say, "Thanks" to every child who carried a can of food to school, gave a penny, painted a picture or just smiled at a needy person. We want to say, "bless you" to every person that rode, worked an hour or went out of his or her way to help someone have a better day.

Most of all we want to let the world know the gratitude we feel. There are people who come to the Salvation Army day after day, month after month, year after year, never expecting anything. A pat on the back or word of thanks is the only appreciation received for what they do. We want to commend these people and thank them for all the love and effort they adorn us with through the year.

Yours in Christ,
Douglas and Linda Yeck, Captains and Associates of the Petoskey Corps, Salvation Army

Discovering Stonehedge Gardens was a real coup for Suzy. She writes about the once abandoned Michigan farm on the road to Ironton, "Don's attitude is all part of the healing process, as is his extensive soil and plant preparation. Yesterday, he healed people's bodies. Today, he nurtures peaceful, soothing gardens that help heal people's souls."

County prosecutor to seek re-election

Charlevoix County Prosecutor Mary Beth Kur has announced she will run this summer for the post she has held since her appointment last year. In July, 1995 Kur was named Prosecutor by 33rd Circuit Judge Richard M. Pajtas to fill the vacancy created when Richard W. May was appointed District Judge. Prior to her appointment, she served as Charlevoix County's Chief Assistant Prosecutor for two and a-half years. Kur is running as a Republican.

In announcing her candidacy, Kur said she will continue to be an aggressive advocate for crime victims and for the citizens of Charlevoix County. As both a Chief Assistant and a Prosecutor Kur has handled a wide range of cases from civil infraction tickets such as speeding violations to felony rape and murder cases. She has taken a tough stand against adult drunk driving defendants, violent criminals, drug dealers and those who commit crimes against children.

As Prosecutor, Kur has worked with area schools to promote drug and alcohol awareness programs, and is a member of the Charlevoix County Multi-Disciplinary Team, the Northwest Michigan Council for the Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect and the Boyne City Communities that Care Project.

Her professional memberships include the Michigan Bar Association, the Charlevoix/Emmet Bar Association, the Prosecuting Attorneys Association of Michigan, the National District Attorneys Association, Charlevoix County Domestic Violence and Child Abuse Task Forces, the Human Services Coordinating Body of Emmet and Charlevoix Counties and the Charlevoix Lions Club.

Kur, 32, lives in the City of Charlevoix with her husband, Stephen and their two children. She is a graduate of the University of Detroit School of Law and earned her bachelors degree from the University of Michigan. Prior to moving to Charlevoix County, she served as an assistant prosecutor in Genesee County, and worked in private practice.

Wrapping up fund-raising for Edwards tribute

Charlevoix Boy Scout Troop 11, in cooperation with the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club and the Charlevoix Historical Society, is looking to raise $800 to wrap up a fund-raising drive. The drive will fund a memorial plaque for the late Louie Edwards. Prior to his death, Edwards spent decades as Charlevoix's Scoutmaster and also served as president of the Charlevoix Historical Society.

People who wish to donate toward the plaque may contact current Charlevoix Scoutmaster Tim May at 547-0979. May said plans are to have a dedication ceremony unveiling the plaque in June.

Julius Abramson

Julius Abramson, 70, of Charlevoix, died April 12, while on a cruise in the Mediterranean. Born Nov. 30, 1925 in Windsor, Canada, to Aaron and Clara (Linenberg) Abramson, Abramson was the seventh of eight children to survive infancy. Abramson moved to Detroit at the age of five. He attended Cass Tech High School and completed two years of college. He served during World War II in Texas as a training officer and married Janet Arfa in 1948. He owned J. Abramson Company, a general contracting corporation. He was a member of the Masons, the Coast Guard Auxiliary, and Congregation Beth Shalom of Oak Park. He was a volunteer fireman for the city of Franklin where he lived with his family from 1962 until 1988 when the family's residence moved to Charlevoix. An avid tennis player, boater and bridge player, Abramson was an active contributor to many causes, including the Israel Tennis Centers. He is survived by his wife, Janet, brother, David, three sons and their wives, Jeffrey, Jay, James, Joanna, and Debra, and eight grandchildren, Lindsey, Ashley, Zachary, Joshua, Karley, Jacob, Jonathan and Cody. His funeral was Friday, April 19.

Norma L. Metzger

Norma L. Metzger, 74, of Charlevoix, died April 21, 1996, at Bortz Health Care of Petoskey.

Funeral will be 1 p.m. Wednesday, April 24, at the First Baptist Church of Charlevoix. The Rev. Michael Dennis will officiate. Interment will be in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mrs. Metzger was born Jan. 12, 1922, in Manitowoc, Wis., the daughter of Spencer and Emma L. (Lensing) Hansen. She was raised in Manitowoc and graduated from Lincoln High School in 1940. She graduated from Manitowoc Normal in 1942 with a teaching certificate.

On July 12, 1945, she married Ruhl W. Metzger in Manitowoc, and he survives. From 1948 to 1952 the couple resided in Milwaukee, Wis., then returned to Manitowoc where they lived until moving to Charlevoix in 1967.

Mrs. Metzger worked at Charlevoix Area Hospital for several years.

She was a member of the First Baptist Church of Charlevoix and Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 1153 Auxiliary in Charlevoix, and the Charlevoix Senior Center.

Survivors include her husband, Ruhl; two daughters, Judith Vlasak and her husband, John, of Kiel, Wis., and Candith Jaquith of Petoskey; two sons, Richard Metzger and his wife, Virginia, of Durham, N.C., and Charles Metzger and his wife, Dorothy, of Charlevoix; 11 grandchildren, and a sister, Bernice Marken, of Manitowoc, Wis.

Memorial contributions may be made to the First Baptist Church of Charlevoix. Envelopes will be available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

BEACONS OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON
Charlevoix Community Church of "God

Charles Swindoll tells the story of a typical American family driving home from church one Sunday. Dad was fussing about the sermon being too long and sort of boring. Mom said she thought the organist played too loudly during the second hymn they sang. Sis, who was a music major in college, said she thought the soloist sang about a half note off key during most of her song. Grandma said she couldn't hear very well - since they were sitting toward the back. As they pulled in the driveway, little Willie, who had listened to all of this, started to fuss about the woman who sat in front of him with the big hat. Then he paused, nudged his dad, and said, "But Dad, you gotta admit it was a pretty good show for a nickel."

I hope that little tale made you smile, but I've got to tell you that to me it hurts. It hurts to see how some folks go out of their way to take shots at God's church. It makes me wonder if they really know what they are missing. The church is a piece of heaven on earth. The fellowship, the encouragement, the songs of joy, the chances to help each other grow, every thing that it does is geared toward making a difference, a lasting difference in others' lives and friend, if you don't like what you see down here, you're going to be in big trouble when we get up there!

A pastor friend of mine related an encounter he had on the street. "Preacher, I'll tell you the reason I don't go to church ... It's full of hypocrites!" My friend, not always known for his diplomacy, countered, "They might be hypocrites, but they're a whole lot closer to heaven than you are!"

Like an awful lot of things in life, you only will get out of it what you are willing to put into it. I saw the pins going in the Charlevoix Golf Course this week. Once the word gets around, die hard duffers will be at it for the duration. Try finding an open bowling lane on a weekend to take your family to. You can't. Avid keglers band together in leagues that fill every available leisure hour. You name the activity. From running to flying, even stock investing clubs, there are groups of people who avidly devote their time to their favorite obsession.

But the only thing that should dominate our hearts has always seemed to have to struggle to get its rightful place. What makes it so sad is that it is the one thing that will endure beyond this earthly walk of ours. It's our relationship with God. And there is no better place to learn about, understand, and put into practice those eternal values than God's church. Oh, it's not perfect by any means. That's because its members are still learning, changing, and growing themselves. That's the way an alive, vibrant, Bible believing church is supposed to be. And all in all, though I personally happen to think it's worth a lot more, you have to admit that it's a wonderful show for a nickel (grin!)!

Church to host music workshop

The First Congregational Church of Charlevoix will host a music workshop for youth and adults, Saturday April 27. The day will conclude with a youth concert at 7 p.m. The church is located at the corner of Park Avenue and State Street.

Bryan Sirchio, an ordained minister in the United Church of Christ, will lead the workshops. He is a preacher, teacher, singer, songwriter and a recording artist.

From 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Sirchio will lead a session geared toward adults who work with children. From 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., he will lead a session geared toward youth.

A concert by Sirchio from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. will conclude the day.

For additional information, contact the church office at 547-9122.

Choral Society to present spring concert

Members of the Little Traverse Choral Society have been busy preparing for their 5th annual "Pops! At the Perry" Spring dinner concerts.

Two evenings of dinner and song are planned for 6 p.m. Sunday and Monday, May 12-13 in the Rose Room of Stafford's Perry Hotel in Petoskey.

"Pops! At the Perry" marks the end of the Little Traverse Choral Society's 1995-96 concert season, which has been primarily classical in style. The May dinner concerts give the opportunity to show the "flip side" of its personality with musical selections from Broadway, as well as vocal jazz, old standards, tunes form the 1960s and a few "blasts from the past."

Katharine Trumble, musical director of the Petoskey-based Little Traverse Choral Society, explains that a change in the format from previous years will have the 40-voice ensemble serenading the diners between courses.

Tickets for "Pops! At the Perry" including tax and gratuity, are $25 for adults and $15 for children age 12 and under. Tickets are available at Stafford's Perry Hotel in Petoskey or may be reserved by calling the hotel at 347-4000. Diners with special menu needs may make arrangements with the hotel.

Ellen Welke from Island Airways called to point out that a figure quoted in a story last week pertaining to Beaver Island was not accurate. She said it is not five times more costly to ship freight via air as opposed to ferry

K-5 carnival will take place May 3

The annual elementary school spring carnival will take place from 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., Friday, May 3. The event, sponsored by the Charlevoix Elementary PTA will be in the elementary school gym.

Among the games scheduled are bean bag toss, putt putt golf, alley oops, sucker tree, obstacle course, a cookie and cake walk, hat toss, mystery coin and gold mine. Other activities will be helium balloon sales, face painting, the Burger King Whopper Hopper, teacher dunk tank and the U.S. Coast Guard jail. Tickets for the games are 25 cents with most games taking two tickets and some requiring three.

There will also be plenty of food and a raffle with lots of prizes. Raffle tickets are $1 for one and six for $5. They will be available at the carnival.

An Unmistakable Sense of Style and Elegance.

A Charlevoix softball team once won the state title

Editor's note: Charlevoix's 1996 varsity softball team began the season ranked eighth in the state. But this isn't the first time a Charlevoix women's softball team has been among the best in the state. The following story was written by Lyla Arvilla and submitted to the Courier. The story tells of another Charlevoix women's softball team that did pretty well for itself.

Twenty-five years ago an important contest occurred that received little notice except by the late Bob Clock, when he was writing for the Petoskey News Review. It was an important event to remember, because it was the first state title ever won by any Charlevoix team.

In 1960, a group of nine, ten and eleven year old girls formed a softball team. They loved to play ball, they had limitless enthusiasm, and they wanted to win. Originally they were sponsored by Charlevoix Dairy Queen. By 1967 they were still together, managed by Dave Smith, and had won their first Charlevoix league championship. In the several years following, this team, sponsored by Charlevoix County State Bank and still coached by Dave Smith, won district tournaments in Petoskey but never won a regional tournament until the summer of 1971. In that year Charlevoix County State Bank girl's team not only won the regionals, but went down to Coldwater to win the state championship in softball.

To win this title, the team played the end of one game in a downpour, and endured 100 degree temperatures throughout another game. Players sustained injuries which required legs, knees, fingers, and hands to be treated for sprains, abrasions, and contusions. One player broke her hand when hit by the first pitched ball of the weekend. She played the entire tournament with her broken hand, batted a thousand in the final game, and initiated a two out play by catching a long fly in center field and throwing home in time for the catcher to tag the runner coming in from third base. A few friends and family members cheered loyally, loudly and lustily from the sidelines.

Emotionally and physically exhausted after winning four straight games in state play, the team returned home at midnight. A handful of parents in three cars met them at the city limits and escorted them in, blowing their horns. No band played, the fire whistle didn't blow, no bells rang, and no police car sirens led them in or followed them. No sign has ever been placed at our city limits to acknowledge that this is the home of Charlevoix's first state championship team.

On September 15, 1971, Bob Clock wote in his column the following: "Of all the athletic teams the city of Charlevoix has sent forth to do battle over the years, it took a girl's softball team to bring home Charlevoix's first state title... It's not every day Charlevoix wins a state title. Or every year. Or every decade. Or every century, for that matter."

Grass fires are the wrong way to set the world on fire

The Department of Natural Resources is urging outdoor enthusiasts to be careful when using fire. Early spring is the most dangerous time of year for wildfires, when fires can spread rapidly through dry grasses and leaves.

A burning permit is required for any outdoor burning of household and yard wastes. Permits are available from the DNR or USDA Forest Service in the Upper Peninsula and northern Lower Peninsula, or from your local fire department in the southern Lower Peninsula. No burn permits will be issued during May 1-15, when the danger of wildfires is usually the worst.

When building a campfire, clear away surrounding vegetation first. Keep campfires small, and never leave them unattended — not even for a moment. Be sure the fire is completely extinguished with plenty of water before leaving it. Drown everything with water, including the undersides of unburned pieces. Stir and continue to set everything until cold. Covering the fire with soil alone will not extinguish it — water must be used. Extinguish charcoal briquettes by soaking them in water before disposal. You are responsible for any fire you cause, so please do your part to prevent wildfires.

"Those found responsible for causing wildfires will be required to reimburse the state of Michigan for the cost of putting the fire out," said Gerald Thiede, State Forester. "All of our fire officers are trained fire investigators and can usually determine where and how a fire started. It's expensive to put out a fire, whether it was started by arson or by carelessness, and those who start fires will be held responsible. We want to encourage people to be extremely careful with fire."

Wildfires that have been deliberately set are a serious problem in many parts of the state. As one example, a joint investigation by Otsego County Conservation Officer Steven Birk and Atlanta-based DNR Fire Officer Randy McKenzie led to the recent conviction of two northern Michigan men for intentionally setting forest fires last spring. More than 500 acres was burned in the six incidents included in the investigation. The two arsonists each received sentences of 12 months in jail and were assessed $9,829.21 restitution to the state of Michigan for damages, charged for court costs, and required to pay $2,110 in attorney fees. The two men will be placed on probation after their release from jail.

If you have any information about any suspicious fire, please call the Michigan Arson Hotline at 1-800-44-ARSON. Your name will be kept confidential and, if the information leads to an arrest, you may receive a reward.

For more information on current fire hazard conditions and fire safety, please contact your local DNR office or USDA Forest Service Office.

Local Scout troop to host open house

Charlevoix Boy Scout Troop 11 will celebrate its 55th anniversary with an open house from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., Saturday, April 27 at the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club. The club is located off of US 31, north of Charlevoix.

The public is invited, particularly boys age 10 to 13 who might be interested in Scouting, and their parents.

Rod and Gun Club members will provide some shooting and archery exhibitions while past and present Scouts will demonstrate a variety of Scouting activities. The Scouts will also have canoes, snowshoes and other Scouting equipment on display.

Conference to focus on tourism

The Second Annual Spring CONFAB for Tourism and Economic Development will take place Friday, May 10 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at The Argonne in Charlevoix. The purpose of the program is to encourage area entrepreneurship. Throughout the day, various round table discussions will focus on how to provide jobs and utilize job resources in northern Michigan.

Consumers Power makes several grants

The Consumers Power Foundation and the Big Rock Point nuclear power plant have approved grants totaling $2,650 to assist six area organizations.

The Big Rock Point Community Partnership Team approved the following grants:

- Raven Hill Discovery Center received a contribution of $1,300. The grant will be used to finance the construction of one of two laboratory units. Once constructed, the units will store $8,000 worth of equipment that will be used by area students studying applied physics, and for teacher training workshops sponsored by the Char/Em Intermediate School District.

- The Charlevoix Junior Golf Program received a grant of $250. The program was created last year with the assistance of several Big Rock Point employees. More than 125 area youths received personal instruction from local golf professionals and golfing privileges at four area courses. The grant will be used to purchase equipment, administer the program and to sponsor week-long student scholarships.

- A grant of $200 was approved for the Petoskey Senior Graduation Party. The contribution will be used to help sponsor the 11th annual drug- and alcohol-free Petoskey High School graduation party.

The Consumers Power Foundation recognized the outstanding efforts of three Big Rock Point employees who donate their time and talents to local non-profit organizations with Volunteer Investment Program (VIP) grants.

- The Crisis Pregnancy Center of Char/Em will receive $350 in the name of administrative assistant Paula Thomas. The money will be used to support the "Who's in Charge" education program that local teenagers present in northern Michigan schools. Thomas volunteers more than 60 hours a year to the organization by securing volunteers, assisting in fund-raising events and serving as secretary.

- The Charlevoix Community Lunch Program will use a $300 grant made in the name of human resources director Ellen Zienert to purchase food and supplies. The program provides free lunches three days a week at the Charlevoix United Methodist Church to those in need. Zienert contributes more than 60 hours a year coordinating lunches and volunteers.

- Chemistry technician Charles Barsy earned a $250 grant for the Boyne Area 4-H Hockey Association. The grant will assist in ice rink improvements and equipment maintenance. Barsy donates more than 70 hours a year as a board member, coach and assisting in the maintenance of the rink.

Consumers Power Foundation, the philanthropic arm of Consumers Power Company, provides funding to areas including education, the environment, Michigan growth and enhancement, culture and the arts, social services and emerging issues. In 1996, the Foundation will make approximately $1.5 million in charitable investments throughout Michigan.

Gary Janz, owner of South Point Collision, takes pride in sending customers home in older cars that look like new.

Body shop under new ownership

by Laurie Lounsbury

After 25 years in the new car business, Gary Janz is now in the business of making old cars look like new. Janz owns South Point Collision, an auto body shop on U.S. 31 south.

Janz took over the auto body shop five months ago from Chuck Center and Kirby Dipert, owners of South Point Auto.

Janz is no stranger to the automotive service industry. He was in charge of the service operations at Fochtman's dealership. "I've dealt with a variety of people for a lot of years, people who were new car customers. So everything that goes out of here, I want it to look like a new car," Janz said.

Working for Janz are two certified auto body technicians, Tom Berry and Jerry Thayer. "The guys working for me are more important than I am," Janz said. Both Berry and Thayer received degrees in auto body repair from Alpena Community College.

South Point Collision offers computerized estimates and a computerized paint mixing and matching system. "As far as I'm concerned, we can match paint better than anybody around," Janz said.

Janz is a bit of a perfectionist, striving for perfection with every job. "I don't want people to have to come back. I want it right the first time," Janz said.

South Point Auto is moving to a new location, but South Point Collision will remain where it is, in between Stover Rd. and U.S. 31 South. The entrance to South Point Collision is at the rear of the building, facing Stover Rd. For more information, call 547-1293.

Soccer team beats Harbor Springs 1-0

Charlevoix proved to be just a shade better than Harbor Springs in a 1-0 home soccer victory April 18. Nikki Sheldon came off the bench late in the first half and chipped a soft shot just over the Harbor Springs goal keeper's head. Strong second half play by Charlevoix goalie Kelly Kusina made the goal hold up.

Charlevoix played well in the first half, maintaining pressure in the Harbor Springs end of the field. Kami Boyer and Emily Murray had success on the right side while Heidi Miller and Jodi Bingham worked the left half of the field.

Sheldon came off the bench late in the first half and gave the Rayders a little extra burst of speed. Sheldon was working about 15 to 20 yards from the goal with Murray between herself and the goal keeper when she popped into the air a soft shot which cleared the keeper and rolled into the goal. The Harbor Springs keeper, who was solid for the rest of the game, didn't react quickly to the shot. She appeared to either have been screened by Murray or may have mistaken the shot for a pass. No matter. Goals that trickle in count just the same as rockets.

In the second half, Harbor Springs applied more offensive pressure, but Kusina stood tall in goal. Well, actually she stands kind of short in goal. But she's mobile and anticipates shots well so she tends to stand in the right places to block shots. She also has good hands and was catching shots cleanly rather than just knocking them down. Consequently, Harbor Springs didn't get opportunities to kick in rebounds. Kusina had nine saves on the game.

In addition to the offensive play of Murray, Boyer, Bingham and Sheldon, Charlevoix got a strong midfield game from Meg Spang and Katy Conlan. Sara Schofield, Carrie Beemon and Theresa Johnson played a strong defensive game.

Charlevoix 4-H Soccer Club has donated a set of goals to the Charlevoix Elementary School to provide the students some targets during recess. The goals, which cost $850, will be placed on the school's north field. Registration for the Fall K-6 soccer season will be between 5:30 p.m. and 8 p.m., Thursday, May 2 at the elementary school. No late registrations will be accepted after the end of the school year, June 5. There is a fee of $20 per player due at the time of registration. At the May 2 sign-up, information will be available for the Major League Soccer Camp, June 24-28 and the Far Post Soccer Camp, July 29-Aug. 2.

Scholarships offered for Ferris golf camp

Five youngsters who participated in the Charlevoix County Junior Golf Association initial 1995 summer program will be awarded scholarships to attend golf camp at Ferris State University this summer.

Dean Davenport, director of the program, has announced that Board Members have approved five scholarships and established criteria for selecting the recipients. Plans are to select a winner from the 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16-17 age brackets. Davenport, who retired three years ago as Director of Athletics at Ferris said, "Ferris was the first and one of only three universities that offer a professional Golf Management curriculum to undergraduates. It's a great golf school, and because of the curriculum, will have a fine student-teacher ratio. I've watched the program for years and it's excellent. It will be a great experience for our young golfers."

There are two sessions; June 9-14 and July 21-26. Any youngster who is at least 12 years of age, and attended at least three sessions at last year's program will be eligible to apply for the scholarships. "Our staff will judge the winners based on criterion that include: golf skills and potential, citizenship, enthusiasm for golf, and attitude and maturity," Davenport noted.

Applications will be available at the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course, and the City Recreation Department. The filing deadline is May 17.

Baseball team off to a strong start

In the opening game of a double-header against Harbor Light Friday, Jason Terryberry threw a four-hitter for the Rayder varsity baseball team. Apparently, Terryberry's teammate Mark Boss either wasn't all that impressed or was watching closely to see what worked against the Harbor Light hitters. In game two, Boss threw a one-hitter.

Charlevoix took the first game 6-3 and the second game 11-1 to run their season record to 4-0.

Terryberry went the distance in game one, striking out eight and walking two. Joe Grundman led the Rayder hitting attack with a double and a single.

Boss struck out eight and walked three in the late game. Gary Leitner had three hits for the Rayders.

Softball team splits with Ellsworth

Charlevoix's varsity softball team split a pair of games at Ellsworth April 18. Ellsworth won the first game 7-6 behind a six-hitter from Jenny Drenth while Charlevoix took the second game 15-5.

In the opening game Drenth struck out three and walked four. Trina VanderArk led the Lancer offense with a single and a double.

Jenny Eveleigh took the pitching loss for Charlevoix despite allowing only five hits. She also walked seven and struck out seven. Lindsey Blechel homered and singled for the Rayders while Liz Coen had a double.

Blechel got the pitching win in game two, allowing six hits while striking out three and walking four. Christie Kaczynski led the Rayder hitters with a home run, a double and a single. Coen doubled and tripled while Eveleigh singled and tripled. Angie Potter and Lisa Wheat each had two hits.

Tennis team opens at Harbor Invitational

Charlevoix's varsity tennis team opened its season at the Harbor Springs Invitational Tennis Tournament this past Saturday. Traverse City's junior varsity team won the tournament with 15 points. Harbor Springs was second with 12 points, Leelanau third with nine points and Charlevoix fourth with seven points.

For Charlevoix: Shay Arnold was 1-2 in number one singles; Amy Freidinger was 0-3 in number two singles; Cam Carr was 1-2 in number three singles; Lilly Pair was 1-2 in number four singles.

In doubles play: Brad Parsel and Kevin Balch were 0-3 in number one doubles; Maro LaBlance and Erik Halverson were 1-2 at number two doubles; Wally Pair and George LaBlance were 1-2 in number three doubles; Beth Norton and Scott Zukausky were 2-1 at number four doubles.

"We've got a ways to go. We do," said Rayder coach Erik Lundteigen. "But we're going to keep working hard and we're going to get there."

Corey Gotshall placed second in the 50 pound weight class at the Sparta Freestyle Wrestling Tournament.

MacArthur wins senior Mid-Atlantic tennis title

Bruce MacArthur of Charlevoix recently won the Mid-Atlantic Tennis Tournament's age 75 and over division. In the semi finals, MacArthur upset Doyle Royal the former University of Maryland tennis coach who was the tournament's top seed. In a three-hour marathon match MacArthur prevailed 6-7, (6-8), 6-3, 6-4. In the finals MacArthur defeated Bernard Baumgardner 6-0, 6-2.

MacArthur has been invited to play in the Southern Senior Cup, May 30-June 2 at the Cooper Creek Tennis Center in South Carolina.

Martial arts club competes

Charlevoix's Kuk Sool Won martial arts club recently competed in the Lansing Capital City Classics Tournament and brought home six awards.

Chris Purdy, competing in the men's advanced division, took a second in forms and a second in sparring. Debbie Janisse, competing in women's advanced, took a second in forms. Dan Souiller, competing in men's advanced, took a fourth in forms and a fourth in sparring. Christine Adamson, competing in women's novice, placed third in sparring. Other Charlevoix people competing in the tournament were Rich Wojan, Jessica Souiller, Anna Souiller and David Hamilton.

Wrestlers take eight medals

The Charlevoix Matmasters wrestling team traveled to the freestyle wrestling tournament in Sparta this past Saturday and won eight medals.

Matt Golovich took first place in the 38 pound weight class while Josh Christ placed first at 165 pounds.

Jeff Golovich placed second at 72 pounds while Corey Gotshall placed second at 50 pounds.

Ryan Paquette took third at 120 pounds. Nicke Gotshall took fifth at 49 pounds. Brett Probert took fifth at 80 pounds and Tyson Potter took fifth at 165 pounds.

The Charlevoix team will travel to Shelby this coming Saturday to participate in the freestyle district tournament.

Matt Golovich of Charlevoix won the 38 pound division at the Sparta Freestyle Wrestling Tournament this past Saturday.

Junior Achievement raising funds

Charlevoix's Junior Achievement program will be making phone solicitations on the morning of April 29 to raise funds for next year's Junior Achievement program.

Junior Achievement is a program designed to educate and inspire young people to value free enterprise, understand economics and become workforce ready. This year, eight Charlevoix elementary and middle school classes are participating in the program. The exercises are led by volunteers from the business community.

In Charlevoix, the program is coordinated by Jim Connaughton, Assistant Vice President of FMB Northwestern Bank.

Connaughton said, "This partnership between business and education represents an investment in our young people which will result in better prepared consumers, workers and managers. I am optimistic that our community will increase its support during this year's phonathon so that we may add to the number of students benefitting from this program next year."

Hospital Guild to host bake sale

Charlevoix girl to cheer for MSU

When you're watching a Michigan State University sports game on TV next year and the camera pans the sidelines, don't be surprised to see a familiar face.

Jennifer Miner of Charlevoix will be a freshman on the Michigan State University cheerleading squad next year. Miner, currently a Charlevoix High School senior, tried out earlier this month and recently received word that she's made the squad. Currently Miner is a senior at Charlevoix High School. This is the first year Michigan State allowed high school seniors to try out for the cheerleading squad and Miner will be Michigan State's first freshman cheerleader.

Miner moved to Charlevoix from New Mexico prior to her senior year and was a Charlevoix High School cheerleader this past fall. Rayder fans may remember her doing backflip after backflip. In New Mexico, Miner had been involved in cheerleading and gymnastics since eighth grade. Her high school cheerleading team in New Mexico participated in national competition.

Miner contacted the Michigan State cheerleading coach last month and found out that try-outs for next year's team were already in progress. The coach told Miner to make a videotape and send it by overnight mail. Miner sent in the tape, made the first cut and was told to come to East Lansing April 3 for a one-day try-out.

Miner arrived early April 3 and before her appointment with the cheerleading coach ran into a girl who already knew the routine the coach would want her to perform. Miner learned the routine in an hour when her appointment time came was able to skip learning the routine and simply perform.

After making the second round of cuts, she returned to East Lansing April 8-14 for the final trials. Shortly after returning home, she received a phone call from Michigan State notifying her that she had made the team. Sixty-one girls began try-outs and 14 ended up making the team.

According to what she's been told so far, the cheerleading team divides up into two units to do different games during the season. The MSU squad is going to national competition next year and this summer Miner will be going to MSU for practices and help instruct camps for high school teams.

Asked how she felt when she made the team she said, "I was very, very excited, but at the same time I was really tired and exhausted."

Jennifer Miner

Oh Boix

A collection of praises, awards and accomplishments involving Charlevoix area people.

Matthew Robinson of Charlevoix is among the students named to the winter quarter dean's list at Michigan Tech University. Robinson is a senior majoring in electrical engineering. To be named to the dean's list a student must have a grade point average of 3.5 or better on a 4-point grading scale.

Geoffrey D. Reynolds, son of Douglas and Betsy Reynolds of Charlevoix, has been appointed the Grants Process Leader for the Development/Membership Department at Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village located in Dearborn. Reynolds will be responsible for fund raising concerning new and current special exhibits and programs.

Carolyn Campbell, a senior at the Holderness School in Plymouth, New Hampshire, has been named to the Boston Globe's All-Scholastic New England skiing team.

A co-captain of the school's Eastern alpine ski team, Campbell posted a 3rd in the slalom and a 10th in the giant slalom at the New England prep school championships to help Holderness to its 30th New England combined skiing title.

Campbell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Campbell of Charlevoix.

School outlines facility problems

by Laurie Lounsbury

A picture appeared on the projection screen, showing a gleaming high school foyer with overhead skylights and richly carpeted hallways.

Then, click:

Another picture popped up, showing the awkward, Charlevoix middle school stairwell, dimly lit and dingy by comparison.

It was a jarring display of the best money can buy and the worst that can be found in the Charlevoix schools.

The slide show was one segment of the town meeting, hosted by superintendent Roberta Jackson and the school board to demonstrate the need for a $26 million school facility project.

The town meeting began with a tour of the high school, conducted by Mike Pearsall, school buildings and grounds manager.

Pearsall pointed upwards now and then to show where probing, teen-aged fingers have poked through the plaster and asbestos ceilings. He waved a hand out towards cracks in the gymnasium walls. He led a group of curious people into cramped storage rooms.

By all appearances, the high school built in 1959 is falling apart.

But an engineer's report done by Kingscott and Associates in 1992 stated that the building could be repaired, asbestos ceilings could be removed, and storage space could be added.

A new engineer's report was performed by Beta Design Group, the architectural firm hired by the school board to design the proposed new school buildings. Beta Design's report showed damage at the high school, classroom sizes and electrical wiring to be a bigger problem than originally outlined in Drug charges dropped when witness fails to show

by Laurie Lounsbury

After 87 days in the county jail, Henry "Hank" Stubbs is a free man. Stubbs, who was accused of dealing cocaine, was released after charges against him were dismissed without prejudice. The dismissal without prejudice means that Stubbs may be re-arrested and tried at a later date.

The case against Stubbs disintegrated when the key witness, a confidential informant, failed to show up at the bench trial. The prosecution mailed a subpoena to the informant, and did not learn until the day before the trial that the informant had been missing for at least three weeks. "We had no reason to believe he wouldn't show up. He was subpoenaed by mail twice before and showed up both times," said Mary Beth Kur, county prosecutor.

S.A.N.E. (Straits Area Narcotics Enforcement) Prosecutor Maria Barton told Judge Pajtas Tuesday morning that the confidential informant had been beaten and threatened if he testified against Stubbs at the trial. Barton said the prosecutor's office was pursuing obstruction of justice charges against the people who threatened the informant. "The obstruction charges

When you're watching a Michigan State University sports game on TV next year and the camera pans the sidelines, don't be surprised to see a familiar face.

Jennifer Miner of Charlevoix will be a freshman on the Michigan State University cheerleading squad next year. Miner, currently a Charlevoix High School senior, tried out earlier this month and recently received word that she's made the squad. Currently Miner is a senior at Charlevoix High School. This is the first year Michigan State allowed high school seniors to try out for the cheerleading squad and Miner will be Michigan State's first freshman cheerleader.

Miner moved to Charlevoix from New Mexico prior to her senior year and was a Charlevoix High School cheerleader this past fall. Rayder fans may remember her doing backflip after backflip. In New Mexico, Miner had been involved in cheerleading and gymnastics since eighth grade. Her high school cheerleading team in New Mexico participated in national competition.

Miner contacted the Michigan State cheerleading coach last month and found out that try-outs for next year's team were already in progress. The coach told Miner to make a videotape and send it by overnight mail. Miner sent in the tape, made the first cut and was told to come to East Lansing April 3 for a one-day try-out.

Miner arrived early April 3 and before her appointment with the cheerleading coach ran into a girl who already knew the routine the coach would want her to perform. Miner learned the routine in an hour when her appointment time came was able to skip learning the routine and simply perform.

After making the second round of cuts, she returned to East Lansing April 8-14 for the final trials. Shortly after returning home, she received a phone call from Michigan State notifying her that she had made the team. Sixty-one girls began try-outs and 14 ended up making the team.

According to what she's been told so far, the cheerleading team divides up into two units to do different games during the season. The MSU squad is going to national competition next year and this summer Miner will be going to MSU for practices and help instruct camps for high school teams.

Asked how she felt when she made the team she said, "I was very, very excited, but at the same time I was really tired and exhausted."

A collection of praises, awards and accomplishments involving Charlevoix area people.

Matthew Robinson of Charlevoix is among the students named to the winter quarter dean's list at Michigan Tech University. Robinson is a senior majoring in electrical engineering. To be named to the dean's list a student must have a grade point average of 3.5 or better on a 4-point grading scale.

Geoffrey D. Reynolds, son of Douglas and Betsy Reynolds of Charlevoix, has been appointed the Grants Process Leader for the Development/Membership Department at Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village located in Dearborn. Reynolds will be responsible for fund raising concerning new and current special exhibits and programs.

Carolyn Campbell, a senior at the Holderness School in Plymouth, New Hampshire, has been named to the Boston Globe's All-Scholastic New England skiing team.

A co-captain of the school's Eastern alpine ski team, Campbell posted a 3rd in the slalom and a 10th in the giant slalom at the New England prep school championships to help Holderness to its 30th New England combined skiing title.

Campbell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Campbell of Charlevoix.

School outlines facility problems

by Laurie Lounsbury

A picture appeared on the projection screen, showing a gleaming high school foyer with overhead skylights and richly carpeted hallways.

Then, click:

Another picture popped up, showing the awkward, Charlevoix middle school stairwell, dimly lit and dingy by comparison.

It was a jarring display of the best money can buy and the worst that can be found in the Charlevoix schools.

The slide show was one segment of the town meeting, hosted by superintendent Roberta Jackson and the school board to demonstrate the need for a $26 million school facility project.

The town meeting began with a tour of the high school, conducted by Mike Pearsall, school buildings and grounds manager.

Pearsall pointed upwards now and then to show where probing, teen-aged fingers have poked through the plaster and asbestos ceilings. He waved a hand out towards cracks in the gymnasium walls. He led a group of curious people into cramped storage rooms.

By all appearances, the high school built in 1959 is falling apart.

may have influenced the confidential informant," Barton told the judge.

According to Barton, a police detective made several unsuccessful attempts to locate the witness, starting April 3. The informant is an area man who reportedly moved downstate sometime after the preliminary hearing, which took place on February 27.

The case began Dec. 29 when the confidential informant allegedly purchased cocaine from Stubbs at his home on Lincoln Street. The informant said he made another drug "buy" Jan. 29. The State Police crime lab tested the substances purchased by the confidential informant. Testing showed that the first "buy" contain cocaine, but the second "buy" contained an imitation substance of cocaine.

Stubbs was arrested January 29, then charged with one count of delivery of less than 50 grams of cocaine, and one count of distribution of an imitation controlled substance.

Mark Muniak, the court appointed attorney for Stubbs, told the judge that the prosecution had not diligently attempted to locate or subpoena the informant witness. "There was not sufficient effort made to procure this witness. Using first class mail is not a sufficient way to issue a subpoena," Muniak said.

Muniak also questioned the plausibility of the informant's statement that he was threatened and beaten. "Any beating he's had may not have anything to do with this case. The man lives a very turbulent lifestyle," Muniak said.

Muniak wanted the judge to dismiss the case with prejudice, which would mean that charges against Stubbs can never be re-issued. Instead, the judge granted the prosecutor's motion, which will allow them to re-arrest Stubbs if the informant is found. The judge did say that if time passes before the informant is found, the defense could argue that the delay caused prejudice and ask for a dismissal.

Kur is aggressively trying to locate the confidential informant. She met with city police chief Dennis Halverson and a S.A.N.E. lieutenant to discuss the case and devise a plan to find the informant. "It's my hope everyone will cooperate and make an effort to locate him so we can re-issue the case against Stubbs," Kur said.

ribs, and they come for my food. They say, 'Hank's cookin' ribs today,' and they all come up for my food."

Stubbs said he likes hanging around with teenagers because he relates to them. "I taught them how to play dominos. I'm a kid at heart. They come to me with their problems," Stubbs said.

Stubbs currently does not work. He collects about $500 a month in disability payments from the government. He receives the disability payments because he was shot in the head during a robbery downstate. "I wasn't an honest man all the time," Stubbs said.

Stubbs has nowhere to call home for the time being. His former residence on Lincoln Street was rented to another tenant after Stubbs was arrested. He said he'll be living with friends in Charlevoix until he finds a place to stay. Originally a preacher's son from Wayne County, Stubbs said he won't go back there. "I know they don't like me in this town, number one, because I'm black, and number two, because I'm my own man. But I'm not gonna get run out of town. I like it here," Stubbs said.

Tom and Ardeth Wieland were named the Barnard Grange Citizens of the Year for 1996 and received a plaque April 22. They were nominated for the honor by Josephine Stutzman. The Wielands own a farm south of Charlevoix. In making the nomination, Stutzman said Tom has always been "ready to plow out a snowed in neighbor, do some tilling, cutting hay or harvesting for a farmer in need of help" and Ardeth "is there to lend a hand whereever help is needed." In addition to running the farm, Tom has been active in several agricultural groups and county planning while Ardeth, a former teacher, is a long-time member of the Charlevoix School Board. Nominating petitions due

For city and county seats

If you're thinking about running for a seat on the Charlevoix City Council or the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, the deadline for filing nominating petitions is fast approaching. The deadline is 4 p.m., May 14.

Nominating petitions for city council may be picked up and returned to the clerk's office at City Hall. In order to be listed on the Aug. 6 primary ballot, a candidate must collect the signatures of not less than 24 and not more than 40 registered voters. The seats up for election this year are currently held by: Don Meggison, first ward; Gabe Campbell, second ward; Jackie Cross, third ward; and Josh Barnes, mayor. All seats are two-year terms.

All of the county commission seats are up for election this year. They are currently held by Phil Johnson, Richie Gillespie, Don Smith, Carl Price, Jim Behling and Howard Hosler. Nominating petitions may be picked up and returned to the county clerk's office. The number of signatures needed to complete the petitions varies depending on the county district and political party of the candidate. The number of signatures ranges between five and 48.

Charlevoix building a better softball complex

by Laurie Lounsbury

It used to be that on a good summer evening, with a brisk wind blowing across the backstop, a strong batter could step up to the plate at Charlevoix's main ballfield and pop one over the fence. The ball would fly over the right centerfield fence with the potential to bean some poor spectator right in the noggin at the nearby Little League field.

That won't happen anymore.

The Charlevoix Ball Park is undergoing massive renovations and improvements. One of those improvements is to raise the outfield fence behind right center field. The Little League bleachers just beyond that fence are also being removed. It was just too hazardous, even for the most devoted parent, to sit there and risk getting hit by either a softball from a grown-up game or a foul ball from the little leaguers.

For city recreation director Ike Boss, the ball park renovations are a dream come true. "This has been my dream since I've been recreation director," Boss said at the season's first softball meeting.

When the dust settles and the last construction truck rolls down Carpenter Street, Charlevoix will have a ball park facility that Boss calls "a real show piece."

Boss has waited a long time for the city ball park's renovation project to become a reality. Now he's going to have to wait a little longer. The early snow and late thaw this year delayed work on the project. "I'm an optimist and a realist. Optimistically, we could be out there playing ball on the first of June. Realistically, well..." Boss let his sentence drift away on the icy spring wind.

The completed ball park will have two lighted ball fields, new dugouts, new public bathrooms, paved parking lots, paved sidewalks along Carpenter Street, underground sprinklers in the infield and outfield of the main ball field, and electrical outlets in the grassy field beyond the outfields.

That's just the big stuff. Boss reported that the infield on the main playing field was scraped flat where a ridge developed over the years, pushing the infield well beyond standard size. "I think we had the biggest infield in the country," Boss said. Sod will be planted along the proper infield line, returning the infield to regulation size.

The next door Little League field will be losing their bleachers on the third base line, and getting new bleachers on the first base line. No one will have to squint into the sun to watch a little league game anymore.

The tee ball field will be getting dugouts for the young players. It will make it easier for tee ball coaches to keep the kids corralled in one place. The tee ball field will also be getting a scorer's booth.

Paved sidewalks will connect the ballfields and run down Carpenter Street to State Street.

The only sad news is for those right centerfield hitters on the main field. The right centerfield fence is being extended by about 20 feet, so popping one over the fence will be that much more challenging.

Cement blocks remain stacked up by the concession stand, waiting to be turned into the new restrooms at the ball park. The parking lot is still a mass of mud and icy water. The old dugouts have been removed, but new ones have yet to be built. Underground sprinklers have been installed in the infield and outfields. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

Modified and fastpitch leagues to be added

Build it, and they will come. That is recreation director Ike Boss's hope for the new Charlevoix ballpark. With two lighted fields and shiny new facilities, Boss is trying to resurrect fast pitch leagues for both men and women. "I'm really pushing women's fast pitch," Boss said. "The women play fast pitch as kids, in high school and college. Then they come back to Charlevoix and have to play slow pitch. I want to give them a venue in Charlevoix where they can continue to play fast pitch."

So far, two women's teams have signed up to play fast pitch in Charlevoix. If Boss gets four teams to sign up, he'll make a league for them. "We have to creep before we can run," Boss said.

Men are able to start a fast pitch or modified fast pitch league if they can get four teams together. No men's fast pitch teams have signed up to play in Charlevoix yet.

The men's and women's slow pitch teams will continue to play on the big field. The second field will be used for any fast pitch leagues and kids' leagues. The third field will still host the tee ball league.

Boss told ball players at the first organizational meeting that players' fees in Charlevoix will be kept well below the amount charged by Petoskey. "We won't have a view of the lake, like Petoskey, but I promise you one thing. What we'll have here is going to be nicer," Boss said.

The next organizational softball meeting will be held May 9 at 7 p.m. in the city hall council meeting room. Anyone interested in organizing a team or signing up a team is welcome to attend.

OPINIONS

Editorial

Coping with society's fringe elements is a necessary nuisance

A press release arrived at the Courier office the other day from the office of State Rep. Bev Bodem. Apparently, the state legislature's going to pass a law making it illegal to harass fishermen.

According to Bodem's press release, "House Bill 5775 makes it a crime to obstruct or interfere with the taking of aquatic species."

L. Scott Swanson

The press release doesn't explain it in detail, but this is how the law should work. You're a guy and you're headed out the back door Saturday morning to do some fishing. Your wife cuts you off and starts handing you some big line about "...a lot of work to be done around the house...blah, blah, blah...more important things to do...blah, blah,blah...and I asked you to fix...blah, blah, blah... and you should spend more time....blah, blah, blah." Soon, fishermen will be spared such heinous behavior. When a wife starts in, all a guy will have to do is reach in the pocket of his waders, whip out a copy of the law and say, "Step aside woman. I'm on my way to take some aquatic species. Attempt to interfere and I'll call the cops and have you busted."

Indeed, this is a wonderful law.

But to be a bit more serious. Not too serious, just a bit more serious. You have to ask yourself, why is it necessary to pass laws like this? Asking that question is not meant as a criticism of Bodem or any of the other state legislators supporting this law. In the final analysis, the law is worthwhile and Bodem and the other legislators should be commended for protecting fishermen. Still, the question needs to be asked, why is it necessary to pass laws like this?

According to the press release, "The legislation is in response to an effort by People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals, a national animal rights group. Leaders of the organization claim that protesters will disrupt fishing events this summer during a campaign to ban recreational fishing."

This situation has all the markings of a handful of screwballs trying to create a big fuss about something the vast majority of society is either comfortable with or not the least bit concerned about. There-in lies the most interesting aspect of this piece of legislation. How much time? How much money? How much energy does our society take away from more important things to keep misguided fringe elements from doing things which are annoying, disruptive or in some cases even downright dangerous?

Harassing fishermen is more of nuisance matter, but other things are more dangerous. Look at these Freemen people holed up in Montana. For more than seven weeks now, FBI agents have been camped at the property line. It's a siege situation. Who knows how much time and money is being wasted? And why? Because a small group of people took it upon themselves to start doing some odd financial transactions, declaring certain federal laws invalid and pondered their own version of armed warfare against some public officials they don't like.

Fortunately, most people, if they started traveling down the Freemen path, way before they got to the hunting public officials part of the program would conclude, "Hey, this isn't right. It ain't gonna fly. Society won't let you do that."

Unfortunately, a few people are slow to grasp the obvious. Consequently, the rest of society has to take the time, spend the money, divert the resources from countless other more worthy endeavors to keep the quirks from becoming too burdensome. It's a pain, but it's one of the prices you pay for living in a free society.

Other factors play role in Island grocery prices

Editor,

I read with interest your (April 17) article on ice conditions and the Beaver Island Ferry's late start having an effect on Grocery costs and shortages.

The major factor in food costs here is not how the groceries get here, but where the consumer purchases them.

It is much cheaper to purchase them regularly in Charlevoix and have them flown over than to buy them here.

Our grocery and the store in Charlevoix are both in the spartan system, however sales and specials are rarely offered here.

The late ferry start will have no effect on the growing number of us who are having supplies flown over.

Proposed law would make it illegal to harass fishermen

Legislation recently introduced in the Michigan House makes it illegal to interfere with anyone who is lawfully fishing, said an area lawmaker co-sponsoring the bill.

State Rep. Beverly A. Bodem, R-Alpena, said the proposal is similar to a 1988 law protecting hunters from harassment. House Bill 5775 makes it a crime to obstruct or interfere with the taking of aquatic species.

"The fishing industry generates nearly $2 billion for Michigan's economy," said Bodem, chair of the House Tourism and Recreation Committee. "About 2 million residents and 334,000 tourists fish in our state annually, and buy $18 million worth of licenses. This fun and profitable activity must be protected from the threats of extremists."

The legislation is a response to an effort by People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals, a national animal rights group. Leaders of the organization claim that protesters will disrupt fishing events this summer during a campaign to ban recreational fishing.

"Such actions cannot be tolerated. Michigan sportsmen seeking quality outdoor recreation should be free from interference," Bodem said.

The 106th District lawmaker also is sponsoring legislation that allows fishermen to obtain a license for a 24-hour period rather than a day.

"There is an important distinction," Bodem said. "Consider the tourist who travels a long distance for a fishing weekend in northern Michigan. If that person wants to fish on Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning, two licenses are needed. By switching to a 24-hour designation, one license gets the job done."

HB 5804 has been sent to the House Committee on Conservation, Environment and Great Lakes for consideration.

Pool receives $25,000 grant

A major gift of $25,000 for the Charlevoix Community Pool project was received last week from the Alden and Vada Dow Family Foundations of Midland by the Charlevoix Friends of the Pool.

A spokesman for the philanthropy said the foundations were pleased to offer support for the "Friends" building program. "We greatly appreciate your efforts to increase the quality of life in the Charlevoix area."

The purpose of the Foundation is to benefit the community of Midland and the State of Michigan. With this grant Charlevoix Friends of the Pool now only needs $460,000 to achieve the estimated construction cost of $950,000.

Pledges and donations may be sent to Charlevoix Friends of the Pool, P.O. Box One, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

obituaries

Milo K. Chew

Milo K. Chew, 88, of Burton and formerly of Charlevoix died April 19 at his residence. Funeral services were held April 22 at Brown Funeral Home with Rev. David Anderson officiating. Burial followed at Flint Memorial Park.

Mr. Chew was born January 9, 1908, the son of Morris and Mary (Hulme) Chew in Charlevoix. He married Ruth A. Paul August 9, 1930 in Imlay City.

He moved to Flint in 1927 and worked at the Fisher Body plant until his retirement in 1968. He was a member of UAW Local #581, the Flint Rock and Gem Club, and Burton Senior Citizens.

Surviving are: his wife, Ruth; three daughters, Carmen Satterly of Flint, Eunice Webster of Burton, and Janet and husband Charles of Whitmore Lake; 11 grandchildren; 12 great-grandchildren; two sisters, Alice Chew of Spring Arbor, and Iola Boss of Charlevoix; several nieces, nephews, cousins and friends. He was preceded in death by a brother, two sisters and a granddaughter.

Juanna Wallace

Juanna Wallace, 77, formerly of Charlevoix died Feb. 7 in Paradise, AZ.

Mrs. Wallace was born July 19, 1918 in Greencastle, Indiana. She married Robert C. Wallace on Oct. 11, 1942 in St. Louis, MO and he survives. Mrs. Wallace lived in Charlevoix for many years working at Hess Furniture.

In addition to her husband, survivors include: her mother, Monta Linestrom of Joliet, IL; and a daughter and son-in-law, Marcee and Newt White of Santa Fe, NM.

Memorials may be directed to Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Fred M. Hodgkin

Fred M. Hodgkin, 74, of Charlevoix, died April 24, 1996, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

His funeral was Friday, April 26, at the Stackus Funeral Home in Boyne City. The Rev. David Hugger of Northern Lights Christian Fellowship in Vanderbilt officiated. Burial will take place in Boyne Valley Township Cemetery.

Mr. Hodgkin was born April 15, 1922, in Boyne Falls, the son of Fred and Sarah (Peck) Hodgkin. He attended Boyne Falls High School.

Prior to his retirement in 1983, Mr. Hodgkin was a member of Iron Workers Union Local 340.

He played the guitar, loved music and was the leader of the "Country Sunshine Band."

He and his wife, the former Lucinda Moore, were married for more than 42 years.

Survivors include his wife, Lucinda, of Charlevoix; two sons and daughters-in-law, Faron and Beckie Schroeder, and Kenneth and Janice Schroeder, all of Boyne City; and three daughters and their spouses, Paygie and Boomer Lloyd of Flint, Sharon Watts of Grass Lake, and Wanda and Fred Horrocks of Marquette.

Mr. Hodgkin was preceded in death by two sons, Charles F. "Bud" Schroeder and Fred Hodgkin; four daughters, Marsha Hodgkin, Sandra Hodgkin, Maurine Snay and Linda Ketola; and by several brothers and sisters.

Bishop to administer confirmation

Sunday, May 5, Bishop Patrick R. Clooney, Bishop of the Diocese of Gaylord, will administer the Sacrament of Confirmation during the 10 a.m. Liturgy at St. Mary's Church.

Parishoners prepared to receive the Holy Spirit in Confirmation are: Ryan Borths, Staci Borths, Katherine Boyer, Amanda Eaton, Catherine Golski, Erik Halverson, Rebecea Hosler, Patricia Kelly, Nicole Moore, Timothy Tebeau, Anne Marie Terryberry, Rachel Thorp and Sara Thorp.

Bethany changes worship schedule

On May 5 Bethany Lutheran Church will resume the summer worship schedule. The early service will begin at 8:15 a.m. followed by Christian education hour at 9:30 a.m. The second worship service will begin at 10:45 a.m.

During the Christian education hour, three different Bible study groups are offered. One is led by Jim Klomp and covers the purpose of the congregation which is Harvesting, Nourishing and Replanting.

The second group, led by Pastor Merle Wellhousen is an in-depth study of the Ten Commandments.

The third group, led by Sandy Marquardt and Lynette Stewart details the study of how to become a more caring congregation through the study of the Bible.

At the present time there are two classes for exercising. One is a step Aerobics/Body Sculpting on Thursdays at 6:30 p.m. The second class is a "Fitness Forever" for the 60 and older age group which meets on Sunday afternoons at 3 p.m.

On Thursday mornings at 9:30 a.m. a group called MOLDERS (Mothers of Little Darlings Enjoy Relationships sometimes) meets. This class, led by Laura Wellhousen, is an opportunity for women to get closer to Him and share in fellowship with others. Child care is provided. For more information, call 546-1062.

Local Christians gather for National Prayer Day

The 45th annual observance of the National Day of Prayer will be May 2. Believers in Charlevoix will gather from noon to 12:30 p.m. in the council room at City Hall to join in giving America a breath of fresh prayer.

The theme of this year's National Day of Prayer is "Honor God." Prayer will be offered on behalf of elected and appointed officials in the community and nation. Law enforcement personnel, school administration, staff students and all spiritual leaders will be prayed for.

Circuit Court Judge Pajtas to seek re-election

Judge Richard M. Pajtas has announced his candidacy for re-election to the 33rd Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix. In 1984, he was elected in a four way contest to the circuit court which served both Emmet and Charlevoix counties. He was unopposed for a second six year term in 1990. Since Jan. 1995, after the split of the circuit and the addition of another judge by the legislature, Judge Pajtas presides over the Charlevoix County circuit.

In announcing his candidacy, Judge Pajtas stated he is anxious to continue his efforts of bringing improvements to the judicial system. Changes he has presided over and initiated include many victim rights programs such as victim impact statements in all criminal sentencings, the local victims restitution fund that reimburses crime victims for their losses and procedural changes to ease the burden on children testifying in court. The judge has initiated court automation and modern caseflow management, mediation of civil cases, divorce education classes and video recording of court proceedings. He has initiated programs to enhance the collection of child support and fees and fines in criminal cases. "Not only have these programs cost little or nothing to the taxpayer, some have actually saved substantial amounts of money and brought many improvements for the users of the system," Pajtas said.

In 1994, Pajtas was one of eleven judges selected by then Chief Justice Michael Cavanaugh of the Michigan Supreme Court to serve on the Michigan Justice Project Committee. After an exhaustive assessment of the judicial system and more than six months of study the committee developed model judicial systems for consideration by the high court. The Supreme Court is now using this study to implement judicial reform relating to court structure, administration and funding.

Recently, Chief Justice James Brickley appointed Judge Pajtas to a Jury Management Workgroup to study the jury system and make recommendations to the Supreme Court as a part of the Court's plan to reform the judicial branch of government.

Judge Pajtas attended Illinois Benedictine College, Michigan State University and the Detroit College of Law. He was admitted to the State Bar of Michigan in 1970. He practiced law in Owosso for five years and in Charlevoix for nine years. He has served two terms as an elected member of the State Bar Representative Assembly, the policy making body of the State Bar. He has served several times on the Michigan Court of Appeals by assignment. Pajtas is a member of the Michigan Judges Association and has served on its executive committee. He also belongs to many professional associations.

Pajtas is currently on the board of directors of the Charlevoix Education Foundation and a member of the Domestic Violence Task Force. He is a lector in his church and a member of the Knights of Columbus. He has served as president of local units of the United Way, American Cancer Society and the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce. He resides in Charlevoix with his wife, Dana. They have two grown children, Jason and Zachary.

Hospice seeking volunteers

The Charlevoix County Hospice is looking for a few very special caring, compassionate individuals who would like to join our family of hospice volunteers. These volunteers provide respite care to the terminally ill and their families - they are truly the cement of the hospice program.

Starting Monday, May 13, 1996, the hospice will begin their Hospice Volunteer Training Program. The training sessions will run for five weeks, meeting on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 7 - 9 p.m. The first session will be a hospice orientation and the role of the volunteer. Each class will deal with a different aspect of training - Grief and Bereavement, Death and Dying, Communication Skills, Spiritual Care of the Family, Understanding the Family, Pain Management, Care of the Patient's Mouth, Legal Aspects, Nutrition, and Basic Patient Care.

Charlevoix County Hospice serves patients and families in Charlevoix County and northern Antrim County.

Please call the Hospice office (536-2842) if you are interested in becoming a trained hospice volunteer. You must be at least 18 years of age.

Girl Scouts host mother-daughter tea

Junior Girl Scout Troop 253 and Cadette Girl Scout Troop 267 will host a Mother-Daughter Tea, Sunday May 5 from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. at the Argonne Supper Club. Hors d'oeuvres, desserts and assorted beverages will be served while those attending view a fashion show. There will also be a silent auction and door prizes.

Tickets are being sold in advance and cost $15 for a mother and daughter or $7.50 per person. Proceeds will help fund a Scout group trip to historic Savannah, Georgia in June, 1997. To purchase tickets or for more information, phone Lisa Winchester at 547-6143 or Mel Morrison at 547-2191.

1996 Crop Walk planning session May 16

Johanna Balzer, Associate Director of Michigan CWS/CROP programs will be meeting with Charlevoix County CROP Walk coordinators and church chairpersons to plan for the 1996 annual fall event.

The planning session will be Wednesday, May 16, 1 p.m. at the Charlevoix United Methodist Church.

Food Pantries in Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan have each received $1,129.94 to help with local hunger needs as the result of the 1995 CROP Walk which raised $13,560.

BUSINESS

March of Dimes walk will be May 18

WalkAmerica is here! The Charlevoix Walk will take place Saturday, May 18. Registration is at 8 a.m., the Walk begins at 9 a.m. The six mile route which begins at Alexander's Restaurant takes walkers up Mercer, along Mt. McSauba Rd., down Michigan Avenue, to Park Avenue and Lakeshore Drive, and finally back to Alexander's. Checkpoints along the way provide water, light snacks, and a resting point to all walkers. Participants will enjoy Hoopla Entertainment before the official countdown.

WalkAmerica is the oldest, largest, and most successful walking event in the nation. In 1995, more than one million walkers and volunteers in more than 1,500 communities raised over $65 million for the March of Dimes Campaign for Healthier Babies.

For more information on how you, your business or group can become a part of this fun and worthwhile event, either as a team or a sponsor, please contact the March of Dimes office at (616) 947-2488 or fax us at (616) 947-1590.

The March of Dimes is a national voluntary health agency whose mission is to improve the health of babies by preventing birth defects and infant mortality.

Freeway, Northern Michigan's leading Internet provider, marked a special occasion recently when it propelled its 1,000th subscriber, Richard Brachel of Charlevoix, into cyberspace.

"This marks a milestone for Freeway, and a goal that we achieved much quicker than anticipated," says Freeway president, Charles Scott. The company opened its on-ramp to the world when it signed up its first rider on the information superhighway just a year ago.

Memorial Fund to benefit Beaver Island

Helen Hoffman Collar spent most of her 94 summers on Beaver Island, a place she loved and whose history she researched and helped preserve through her published articles. Although Collar died earlier this year, a special fund will help the Beaver Island Historical Society continue her work.

The Helen Hoffman Collar Memorial Fund has been established by Ann Collar Broder to honor her mother and support programs, projects, and operations of the Island's historical group. The fund is set up under the stewardship of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, and the Historical Society will assist in grantmaking decisions.

Collar first came to Beaver Island as a teenager in 1915, when her father built a cottage on the north beach. She continued to make the Island her summer haven with her own husband and children and, later, with grandchildren. A 1924 graduate of the University of Chicago, she was a geologist by profession — and an avid world traveler, artist, weaver, writer, and historian. In the early 1970s, she began compiling a history of the Irish settlement of Beaver Island, portions of which were published in the University of Michigan History Bulletin. Today, her portraits of first generation Irish immigrants are a highlight of the Island's Print Shop Museum.

In establishing the memorial fund, Ann Broder said, "My mother's love of the Island and Islanders is well-known — as her respect for its rich history. She was eager to learn all she could about early Irish settlers and their traditions, and delighted in passing on their stories, as well as early recollections of her own summers there. This is a perfect way to honor her."

Contributions to the Helen Hoffman Collar Memorial Fund can be made c/o the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, P.O. Box 718, East Jordan, Michigan, 49727.

Soccer team beats Fowlerville 2-1

Charlevoix's girls' soccer team traveled to Fowlerville Saturday and picked up a 2-1 win. The Rayders peppered the Fowlerville goalie with 20 shots while giving up only three.

Jodi Bingham and Theresa Johnson scored for the Rayders in the first half with Johnson and Heidi Miller picking up assists. Fowlerville scored on a break away late in the game.

Aimee Bergmann and Emily Murray played well defensively for the Rayders as did Kadie Bogart and Mandi Webb. Kate Lord got the win in goal.

Charlevoix's next game will be at Alpena, Thursday, May 2.

Skeel and Vandergriff lead track team

Charlevoix took an incomplete track team to the Traverse City Invitational Saturday and the boys scored only 14 points and the girls only nine.

Although the Rayders didn't do well as a team, Josh Skeel and Candice Vandergriff turned in strong performances in individual events. Skeel won the shot put with a toss of 47-3 1/2. Vandergriff won the 3200 meter run with a time of 12:58.

Charlevoix will host Harbor Springs, Wednesday, May 1.

Several members of the Charlevoix Kuk Sool Won martial arts club recently competed in the Lansing Capital Cities Classic Tournament and brought home six awards. Competing were: (front from left) Jessica Souiller, Christine Adamson, Anna Souiller, (back row) Rich Wojan, Chris Purdy, Dan Souiller and Dave Hamilton.

Local girls basketball team just misses qualifying for national tournament

The Northern Lakers, a Charlevoix Girls team, competed in the Youth Basketball of America state tournament held in Perry, Michigan recently, posting a 2-2 record and narrowly missing qualifying for the national YBOA tournament.

On Friday night, a travel weary Northern Lakers team lost to Knutson's Travel Port, a Lansing area all-star team, 51-37. Amanda Eaton led the Lakers with 12 points while Julie Gregory added 9 and Lyndsay Blechel had 8.

The loss dropped the Lakers into the losers' bracket and put them on the brink of elimination from the tournament. The team responded with an exciting 56-47 win over the Detroit Running Rebels on Saturday afternoon. The physical game was marred by two technical fouls against the Rebels, one for an intentional flagrant foul. Julie Gregory and Angie Potter each scored 11 and teamed to dominate the boards, keying the victory. Eaton added 10 while Ann Marie Terryberry had 9.

The best game of the tournament took place Saturday night as the Northern Lakers nipped Perry 46-44 on their home court. The game was nip and tuck throughout and was ultimately decided at the free throw line where Eaton canned 10 of 12 shots in the second half, including four straight at the end with the game on the line. Eaton's final two free throws were followed by a Perry desperation three-pointer at the buzzer which connected, narrowing the margin of victory for the Lakers.

With the win over Perry, the Northern Lakers put themselves within one victory of qualifying for the national tournament. To get there, however, the team would have to beat Knutson's Travel Port, the team that had originally sent them to the losers'' bracket. Again the game was tight all of the way until a late 7-0 Knutson run led to a 48-42 win. Eaton scored a team high 15 points while Potter had 10.

Tennis team beats Grayling 6-1

Charlevoix's varsity tennis team beat Grayling 6-1 in a rain and hail shortened match on the Charlevoix courts Monday.

Results were as follows:

Number one singles: Shay Arnold won 6-0, 6-0.

Number two singles: Amy Freidinger won 6-0, 6-0.

Number three singles: Lilly Pair won 6-1, 3-1.

Number four singles: Jess Wood lost 6-4, 1-0.

Number one doubles: Brad Parscl and Kevin Balch won 6-1, 6-1.

Number two doubles: Maro LaBlance and Bret Vanderheide won 6-1, 6-3.

Number three doubles: George LaBlance and Wally Pair won 6-0, 6-0.

In exhibition doubles, Jennifer Ricks and Jamie Whitley won 6-4.

Baseball team beats the rain for win

Gary Leitner singled in the bottom of the fifth inning to drive in Mark Boss and give the Rayders a 3-2 lead over Traverse City St. Francis Monday. Then the rain came and made the lead hold up as the game was declared over.

With the score tied 2-2, Boss led off with a single, went to second on a wild pitch and scored on Leitner's single. Earlier in the game, Boss gave the Rayders the lead on a two-run home run.

Jason Terryberry continued to have a stellar season pitching for the Rayders. Against St. Francis, Terryberry struck out eight and walked two.

With the win, Charlevoix remains undefeated on the season at 7-0. The Rayders travel to Gaylord, Thursday, May 2.

Softball team loses 8-6

Four walks, an error and two wild pitches in the sixth inning cost Charlevoix's softball team an 8-6 loss to Traverse City St. Francis Monday.

Jenny Eveleigh took the loss for Charlevoix, striking out six, walking 11 and allowing only one earned run. The Rayders mustered only two hits in the game.

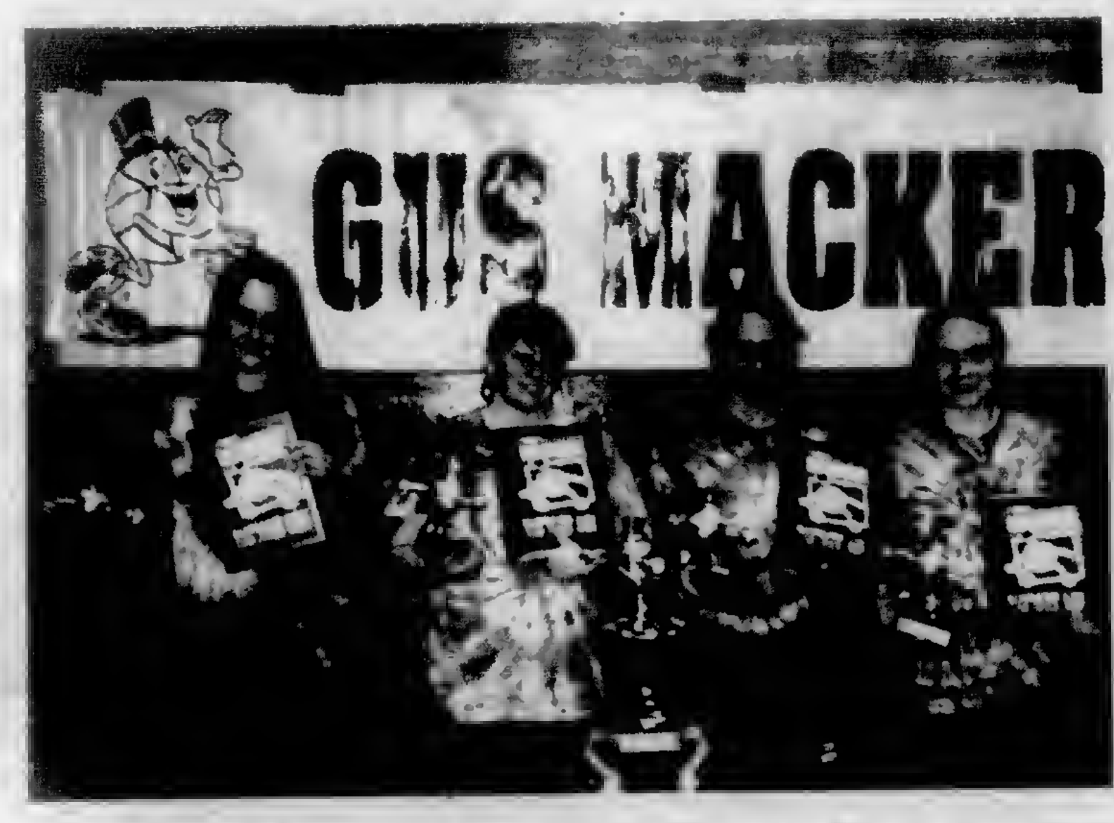
The loss dropped Charlevoix's season record to 5-4 overall and 2-1 in league play. The second game against St. Francis was called due to bad weather.

Charlevoix will play Gaylord, Thursday, May 2.

Ski Academy to host dinner

The Northern Michigan Ski Academy will be having a fundraising dinner at Teddy Griffin's Roadhouse on Sunday, May 5th, from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Proceeds from the dinner will go to the ski academy.



This Charlevoix team placed first and received the sportsmanship award at the Traverse City Gus Macker basketball tournament April 13-14. Playing for the team were (from left) Julie Gregory, Lyndsay Blechel, Ann Marie Terryberry and Amanda Eaton.

George LaBlance reaches to return a shot during Charlevoix's 6-1 tennis win over Grayling Monday afternoon.

Volunteers study area lakes

The Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council has released results from its 1995 Volunteer Lake Monitoring Program. Under the supervision of Water Resource Program Director Ann Baughmann, 44 volunteers collected data from 23 lakes in the watersheds of Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, and Emmet Counties. Two parameters are measured in the program. Water clarity is measured using a Secchi disc, and algae abundance is measured through chlorophyll-a analysis of water quality, builds a strong baseline database, and allows the Watershed Council to familiarize the public with our lakes.

The Watershed Council's program is part of a nationwide water quality protection trend. Last July Watershed Council lake monitors joined volunteers across the nation in the Great American Secchi Dip-in. One thousand nine hundred volunteers in 37 states, including Watershed Council volunteer lake monitors, sent their Secchi Disc readings to the Dip-In headquarters. Data collected for the program will be used to assess regional patterns of water clarity, including the development of maps showing regional averages of lake water clarity in the nation. Plans for future Dip-Ins include monitoring the presence of exotic species such as zebra mussels or the Eurasian water milfoil (an aquatic plant) to document the spread of these species.

If you need information on the Volunteer Monitoring Program or would like to receive a copy of the Volunteer Lake Monitoring summary and/or a detailed report of the lake you live on or near, please contact the Watershed Council by mail at P.O. Box 300, Conway, MI 49722. Fax 616-347-5928. Phone 616-347-1181.
